Faith is the strength and power of religion; it is an inward trust in God and the redeeming power of Christ; it is a trust in things unseen, yet known to exist through the witnessing of the spirit of God; it gives power to overcome all evil and gains the full confidence and blessings of God in this world and a sure promise of the life hereafter. And oh, what a glorious prospect, for the weary and patient heart will have found its long-sought rest. True faith is of God and through His grace, for without God without grace, and without grace without saving faith.

The Beatitudes.

If you read the beatitudes you will think the treasures of the kingdom of Heaven are such as have never been found in princes' coffers, nor in rich men's possession. Blessings in sorrow, in poverty, in persecution—these are the pearls, and if you read the writings of the men that had caught the spirit of Christ, you will see that all of them have this strange apparent contradiction, the self-denial and burdensomeness of a Christian life, its joyfulness and triumph. If either of them had been kept separate we might not marvel: as some men do not marvel, for they say that joy is to be hereafter, and the pain here, and that every impulse of nature is to be suppressed, and the blossom and the fruit plucked from every vine of experience, and that we are to wait for joy in the other life, which will be in propertion to our sufferings in this life. But this is no testimony of the word of God. It is a fruit of a perverse philosophy. For Christ himself was said to have endured the cross and despised the shame for the joy that was set before Him. It was a present joy, though derived from anticipated causes. And all the way through the Apostles rejoice, and Saul especially in his infirmities, which is the strangest joy that ever befell this world until the full advent of Cerist Jesus.

The Christian Life.

The Christian life, therefore, as it is represented in the New Testament, is an enducation. It gives the wrestle, the struggle, the defeats, the victories, the modifications of the inward life, its conflicts with animal passions, with external influence, its sorrows, its final triumph into peace and joy. That is the New Testament. Men think it is a doctrine of God. So it is. Incidentally, it unfolds a great and moral government of God, they say. Yes, incidentally, it does. But the real philosophy of the New Testament is, first, that it is the account, from the experimental standpoint of men, of the development of the human soul from its lowest animal condition up through social, civic, intellectual elements to the thoroughly spiritual elements, and to the highest form of those. It is the evolution of the human soul, and in that regard it is a regular sequence. It is like nature itself. You cannot find a science of botany, but you can find plants everywhere and make your own science. You cannot find any truths of geology, but materials and the human reason collects and arranges them, and it becomes science. So with astonomy and other sciences. And the New Testament is just like that. It gives the unfolding sequences of men, women and others, and the biologians collect them and form a science. Theology is the science of God and moral government, and it depends in each age upon how much the men in that age know about morality, spiritual government and, above all, human nature.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Three Keys.

Bible study is always a good thing; but it is not always as good a thing as it might be. Wherever the study of the Bible is entered upon in a proud, rebellious, or uncharitable spirit, the mind of the reader is encased as if in triple steel against the truth. Most men's difficulties with the Bible are difficulties within themselves; and what is wanted for their removal is not an expurgated Bible, but an expurgated reader. One of the great religious spirits of the present century touches this truth in a sermon on The Inward Witness to the Truth of the Gospel. "When I see," he said, "a person hasty and violent, harsh and high-minded, careless of what others feel, and disdainful of what they think; when I see such a one proceeding to inquire into religious subjects, I am sure beforehand he cannot go right—he will not be led into all the truth—it is contrary to the nature of things, and the experience of the world, that he should find what he is seeking. I shall say the same were he seeking to find out what to believe or do in any other matter not religious; but especially in such a solemn and important inquiry; for the fear of the Lord (humbleness, teachableness, reverence toward Him) is the very beginning of wisdom; it leads us to think over things moderately and honestly, to examine patiently, to bear doubt and uncertainty, to wait perseveringly, for an increase of light, to be slow to speak, and to be deliberate in deciding." This is certainly the true spirit in which to approach the study of the Bible; and where that spirit is, there need be no fear of Scripture difficulties. Humility, reverence, patience are the three keys to which the Scripture opens; where these are lacking, the deepest knowledge of the Bible must also be lacking. The true spirit in which to come to the study of the Bible is that of the little child waiting to be taught, knowing that there is much to learn, and, by God's grace, determined to learn it, if God will. No native brightness of intellect, acquired power of critical insight, no wealth of knowledge, can take the place of that humility and teachableness which alone will reveal, through the blessing of God's Spirit, the hidden treasures of the Word of God. Only in that spirit of docility and in that spirit of reverent humility will the study of the Scriptures become the best which it may become.—S. S. Times.

Effect of Mr. Moody's Visit.

On Monday last a letter was received through the post office, post-stamped Toronto, adressed to H. R. Corson. On being opened all that it contained was, "Private. An old debt with interest," and nine dollars in bills. Moody has evidently done some good in arousing sleeping consciences. We would prefer to know whom to credit with the amount. However, we are thankful for the method of acknowledging a debt, and would gladly accept several hundreds of dollars from parties whose claims are outlawed.—Markham Economist.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

In Memoriam.

A sermon in memory of the late Rev. W. J. Butcher will be delivered to-morrow evening by the Rev. I. Tobell, in the George Street Methodist Church.

The Saved Army.

There was a large attendance at the Saved Army meeting last night, and Captain Munt was present. Gen. Lindsay and Capt. Munt will attend the meeting to-night and to-morrow, and Capt. Piper, the "Hallelujah Sea Captain," of Lucknow, and formerly of Goderich, is also expected to be present.

Remember the Social.

A social consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations and refreshments, will be given in St. John's Church school house on Tuesday, Dec. 16th. The Fire Brigade Band Orchestra will be present and the programme for the evening will be most interesting. The entertainment will commence at 8.30 p. m. Remember the date, next Tuesday.

It is now an acknowledged fact that we have the finest Stock of Xmas Cards in town. Come and see for yourselves. A. L, DAVIS & CO.

Entertainment.

An entertainment will be held at the opening of St. Paul's Sabbath school rooms on Wednesday, 17th, at 8 o'clock. The programme will consist of music and recitations. In the afternoon, from 3 o'clock, there will be a sale of fancy and useful articles, which will continue during the evening. Refreshments both afternoon and evening. Admission, afternoon, 10 cents; evening, 15.

Fine Building Sites.

As good building sites in the town are being rapidly taken up, a good opportunity to obtain one will be given at the sale of part of the estate of the late G. C. Rogers on Tuesday the 16th inst., at C. A Weller's office at 2 p.m., when lots 23 and 24, north of London and west of George streets, will be sold. At the same time valuable farm lands will be sold, part of the same estate.

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy's Lecture.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances Mr. Chiniquy is unable to visit Peterborough on Monday evening. The lecture advertised for Monday, Dec. 15th, will be postponed to Tuesday, the 16th, in the George Street Methodist Church, at 8 p.m. Members of the Orange Society and True Blues are requested to meet at the Orange Hall at 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

A Splendid Show.

The Tavernier Company will give performances in the Opera House next week, commencing on Monday evening. The Lindsay Warder says of them:—

"The Tavernier Company have been playing in the opera house since Friday and will play this Friday evening and to-morrow. A new play is put on every evening, and the show is splendid in every way. The leading star is, of course, Miss Ida Van Cortland, but she is admirably sustained by every member of the troupe. No better troupe than the Tavernier Company has visited Lindsay this year, and this is saying a good deal."

The Movement in Dressed Hogs.

The movement in dressed hogs has been unusually large during this season. On every day in the week more or less arrives on the market, but on market days the whole south side of the market building is filled with these adipose animals stark and stiff. This morning the various buyers were kept very busy attending to their purchases, and the market authorities in weighing the porkers. We may safely say that there was no less than twenty-five thousand pounds of pork piled on the southern side of the market building at half past ten o'clock to-day. It sells at from $5.00 to $5.75 per hundred.

The Market.

The market was fairly well attended to-day. Almost everything usually to be found on a first-class market was to be had. The supply of fresh meats was unusually large, consisting chiefly of beef, pork and mutton. The following is a list of the various commodities, with prices annexed:—Butter, 21c. per pound; eggs, 22c. per doz.; turkeys, from 60c. to $1 each; geese, from 50c. to 70c.; chickens, 35c. to 50c. per pair; ducks, 60c. per pair; apples, 50c. to 90c. per bag; potatoes, 40c. per bag, beef, $5 to $6 per cwt.; pork, 6c. to 7c. per lb.; mutton, 5½c. to 6½c. per lb.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

SATURDAY, Dec. 13.—Patrick Kelly, a boy of about 15 years of age, was charged by John McManus with having assaulted his son, a lad aged about 18 years, at the school house of school section No. 5, in the township of Douro, on December the 4th. Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared for the defendant and in his behalf pleaded not guilty. Evidence was taken and the defendant was fined $2 and costs, to be paid within ten days.

Mr. W. H. Moore appeared for the complainant.

Make Yourself Comfortable.

Just received at A. CLEGG's a lot of those Woven Wire Spring Beds. Price only $4.50. Try one. If not satisfactory you can return it after a reasonable trial.

Conundrum.

Why do Morrison & Wilson do the largest accident business in town? Because they have first-class companies, lower rates, and pay claims at once. Come in. MORRISON & WILSON, Sailsbury's.

Canadian Almanac.

Sailsbury Bros. have just received their stock of Canadian Almanacs for the year 1885. This almanac contains full and authentic information on a large number of public matters. Everyone should purchase a copy.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate winds between north-west and north-east; fair to cloudy continued cold weather.

Not for the Premier.

Mr. H. LeBrun shipped on Friday afternoon, per Dominion Express, a suit of clothes addressed to Mr. John A. Macdonald. The suit was not, however, made for our Premier, although, we may say, for a good fit he might do worse than to patronize the City Clothing Store, but for a gentleman of the same name, lacking the titles of honor, residing in Tweed.

Unclaimed Freight.

A sale of the unclaimed freight which has been collecting at the Grand Trunk freight sheds for the last year, was held on the market square to-day. The appearance and description of the articles were varied, ranging all the way from a new sulky hay rake to a tightly locked and ominous looking trunk. Some really good bargains were given and a large quantity of goods were disposed of. Mr. C. Stapleton, assisted by Mr. Harry Stapleton, conducted the sale.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent, reduction on Winter Underclothing. Andrew McNeil.

Cow Killed.

On Friday afternoon a cow belonging to Mr. H. Calcutt was walking leisurely across the track of the Grank Trunk Railway (Grand Junction branch), but before she had completely crossed a freight train came down the track, struck the cow and broke one of her legs. The cow being in a disabled condition could not remove herself from the track, and another freight train coming along a few minutes later inflicted wounds which caused her death. The cow was a valuable one, of the Ayrshire breed, and worth $50.

Personal.

Mr. Henry Lye, Inspector of the National Assurance Company of Ireland, is registered at the Oriental Hotel.

Mr. A. McKee, for many years a teacher in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, has secured the position of Head Master of the Uxbridge Public Schools. With the departure of Mr. Mckee, Peterborough loses an efficient and practical teacher. During his course of teaching in this town he has always commanded the love and respect of his pupils, and the Uxbridge Board of Education, on securing his services, has procured an energetic and efficient Head Master.

A Merry Christmas to All.

This is the season for greetings of a friendly nature; a time when well wishes are exchanged among fellow beings; when hearts that have perhaps been shrouded with an icy coldness during the year now fast drawing to a close throw off their cold burden and put on instead the broad mantle of charity and forgiveness, and "peace on earth, good will toward men" is for a time, at least, observed. This is, too, a time when reformation in many forms is steadily going on among men; some who have in the past indulged, more or less, in the various temptations that are daily strewn in the path of every-day life, are making resolutions of amendment for the future, and moral reformation is progressing. This is as it should be, and many, who have in the past indulged in the silly, and, what is more, expensive habit of buying cheap and trashy clothing, are now leaving their orders as Habiliment Hall, where the quality of the goods is undoubted and the workmanship guaranteed. A. MCNEIL, George street.

Chit Chat.

—Still cold.

—Bracing weather.

—A few feathery flakes are flying.

—The bazaar will close to-night.

—Mr. John Lynch is commencing to build on his Hunter street property.

—The clicking of the stone-cutters' hammers is still heard in the neighborhood of St. Peter's Cathedral.

—Internal improvements are steadily going on.

—The roofs of the handsome residence at the western part of Hunter street, built by Mr. Geo. A. Cox, are being slated.

—The lecture by the Rev. Mr. Chiniquy, which was to have been delivered in the George Street Methodist Church on Monday night, has, on account of unforeseen circumstances, been postponed until Tuesday night.

—This morning at an early hour a long, lank, lean, melancholy member of that itinerant fraternity commonly known as "tramps" was observed to slowly emerge from the depths of a hogshead on the north side of the market square, filled with straw and other refuse. He had evidently crawled into this rather cool abode for a night's rest.

A Dream not all a Dream.

I dreamed a dream the other night
When everything was quiet,
I dreamed our Peterborough folk
Were making quite a riot;
For Sailsbury had lots of goods
And expected millions more,
And the people were all rushing
To his magnificent bookstore.

Next morning bright and early
As to work I made my way,
I thought the people in all the town
Were taking a holiday;
And my dream was not quite all a dream,
But a fact, and something more,
For the people still were rushing
To Sailsbury's fine bookstore.

Attorney—Exactly. Husband her as soon as possible.—Philadelphia Call.

Sage as an Owl.

"I wish I was an owl," said the young lawyer, as he gently felt the dimensions of her alligator belt.

"Why?" she asked.

"Because then I could stay up all night, you know, dear," he replied.

"What would you want to do such a ridiculous thing as that for?" she tittered.

"To-wit: To woo!"—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for Wm. Gillesby, Hamilton and Grimsby: "I was for many years afflicted with Costiveness, Billiousness and untimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by John McKee.

These are Solid Facts.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Billiousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulate will always find Electric Bitters the best and certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guranteed to give entire satisfaction or money returned. Sold at 50cts a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshell Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

A marvellous cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth, and Headache. With each bottle there is an ingenious nasal Injector for the more successful treatment of these complaints without extra charge. Price 50 cts. Sold by J. D. Tully, wholesale and retail agent.

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1884.

A CANADIAN MURDERED.

A Former Resident of Peterborough County Murdered in Minnesota.

The following communication from Mr. John Ownes, President of the Minnesota Iron Co., Tower, Minn., is published in the Mail:—

"At the request of a number of citizens of Tower I write to ask that you publish in your paper the following notice:—'One Jaseph Farley was murdered in the vicinity of Tower, Minnesota, on the 2nd day of November last. His body was placed in an old railway camp near the D. and O. railway, and burned to a crisp. We are unable to find anyone who knows anything about his relatives or friends. The only clue we have is that he came from near Peterborough, Ont. He was about thirty-two years of age, and about 5 feet 5 in. in height, and would weigh about 140 pounds. He leaves property of considerable value in the village, and I understand he leaves some elswhere. He was unmarried. Any information cheerfully given.'"

The murdered man has relatives living in the township of Douro, who have received intelligence direct from Tower of the sad death of Joseph Farley. Mrs. Robinson, widow of Mr. Robinson, formerly a foreman on the drives for Mr. Ludgate, and who lives in Ashburnham, is a sister of the murdered man. A brother of deceased has gone to Minnesota.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

MONDAY, Dec. 15.—Further evidence was taken this morning the McMannus vs. Kelly (both of the township of Douro) assault case. the Magistrate did not change his former decision, that of a fine of $10 and $2 and costs on the defendant.

THE BUILDING BY-DAW.

Several cases of infringement on the Building By-law were finally disposed of.

That of W. G. Ferguson (Peterborough Skating Rink Co.) was settled by a fine of $10 and $2.35 costs being placed on the defendant. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for the town and Mr. E. H. D. Hall for the defendant.

Wm. Cluxton, charged with building a wooden shed, was allowed two weeks to construct a brick wall as a support in place of a wooden fence. Mr. E. B. Edwards for the town and Mr. R. E. Wood for the defendant.

The case of Charles Stapleton was dismissed, as it was allowable to repair a building with the same material formerly used.

R. Z. Rogers, charged will building a wooden building on Hunter street, was fined $10 and costs $2.35.

The Case of Geo. Kingdon, charged with repairing a wooden building, was dismissed on account of the shed not having been repaired to more than two-thirds its value.

Wm. Aldridge, a trustee of the Baptist Church, was fined $10 and costs $2.35, for having constructed a shed on the church premises on Murray street.

Thos. Bradburn, charged with having built an inflammable structure in the rear of China Hall, in the shape of a stationary awning, was fined $10 and costs $2.35.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

THE CITY OF LONDON STARTLED AND MYSTIFIED BY A LOUD REPORT.

A Strange Occurrence at London Bridge—The Whole Affair Shrouded in Mystery—Intense Excitement in the City.

LONDON, Dec. 13, 6.30 p. m.—A terrific explosion has just occurred in this city. The report was similar to that caused by an explosion of dynamite. One report is that the explosion was of gas in the railway arches in Tooley street, another that a bridge over the Thames has been exploded.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Beyond the undoubted fact that an attempt was made to blow up London bridge the police have absolutely no information of the affair. It is now supposed that dynamite was dropped over the bridge and alighted on the buttress. The damage done consists chiefly of broken windows in the houses in the vicinity of the bridge. An eye-witness, a boot black, says he was cleaning a gentleman's boots, when suddenly he felt the earth shake about him, and immediately afterwards there was a terrific explosion and he was stunned. When he recovered consciousness the gentleman had disappeared. The buttress on which the explosive alighted is only slightly damaged. Persons who were crossing the bridge at the time were thrown down. Many gas jets in the vicinity were extinguished by the concussion.

The explosion was heard ten miles outside of London. The arsenal gates were shaken at Woolwich.

A careful inspection of London bridge was made to-day, and it was found that no structural injury whatever was done. Nothing could be found about the bridge to indicate that an explosion had taken place. The police have discovered nothing as to the origin of the explosion. The heads of the detective departments were conferring with the Home Office during the entire day. The absence of any clue is paralyzing the action of the police, who are even unable to tell the nature of explosive used. It appear the explosion occured nearer the Surrey end of the bridge than was first supposed, and yet most the houses damaged were on the Middlesex side, where the windows were smashed as far as Billingsgate market. Several panes of glass were broken in the Fishmongers' hall, but otherwise the buildings received no damage. Several squares of lofty glass screen in Cannon street depot fell to the platform with a crash, greatly terrifying the passengers in the building, but nobody was hurt. River traffic was suspended at the time of the explosion owing to the darkness. The explosion forms the one topic of conversation. Thousands of persons visited the scene to-day. The policeman who was standing on the steps leading to the steamboat pier on the Surrey side, with his back to the river, says he saw a blinding glare like sheet lightning, which wes immediately followed by a terrific report. He was almost stunned, and his helmet was blown some yards away by the concussion. He ran to the police station, gave the alarm, and soon afterward the river police were making as minute an examination as possible of the buttresses of the bridge and the wharves on each bank of the river. The search, however, was fruitless. Daylight showed that not a sigle stone had been displaced by the shock. The experts are unanimously of the opinion that the explosive used was thrown over the bridge and exploded in air or on striking the water. Towards noon a wharfer informed the police that a few minutes before the explosion, he saw a boat containing three men under the arch on the Surrey side. He took no particular notice of them, thinking they were river police and did not see the boat afterwards. The police this afternoon learned that a piece of charrred sacking, about a foot and a half square, has been found in one of the buttresses, and they are now of opinion that the explosive was placed there. They attribute the smallness of the damage to the extraordinary air currents beneath the span. No arrests have been made.

Corean Revolution.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Secretary of the Navy has received a cablegram this morning from Rear-Admiral Davis at Nagasaki, announcing a revolution in Corea, and stating that the United States vessels Trenton and Ossippee would go there immediately.

Leap Year Breach of Promise.

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—Maria Raddin, aged 31, of Saugus, is suing Orrin S. Currier, a well-to-do bashelor, of Boston, for breach of promise of marriage, estimating damages at $10,000. Currier is fifty years old, and superintendent of a Sunday school. He alleges Miss Raddin proposed to him, and that he rejected her offer.

Salvationists in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—The Salvation Army opened their campaign in this city to-day. An open air meeting was held at Victoria Sqare at 10 o'clock, when thousands of people assembled. The proceedings were very disorderly, the Salvationists being pelted with snowballs and chunks of ice. The police arrested the revivalists, and lodged them in the police station, and several prominent citizens bailed them out. This evening a service was held in Weber Hall, which was filled to the doors with a disorderly crowd, who shouted and howled the Salvationists down. The seats were broken, and considerable damage done to the hall. The Army retired to their quarters escorted by a mob of roughs shouting, hooting and throwing snow and ice over Captain Madden and his followers.

What Cleveland Said

It is true enough that there is great complaint of short employment and reduced wages in the United States at present. But to speak of these as being "the fruits of protection" is utter nonsence. Not protection, but the fear that protection may be too much meddled with and have the strength taken out of it, is what causes the present lack of confidence. There is strong proof of this in fact that the president-elect, when giving reasons why people should be hopeful of the future, took special pains to impress it upon his hearers that under his administration here would be not tarriff changes of a revolutionary character—nothing to cause alarm to establish industries. Now, had he believed that protection was what was making the trouble, and that people generally believed this—the right thing for him to have said would have been somewhat as follows: "Follows-citizens, fear not but just wait a little longer. Soon a democratic congress will give you a tariff for revenue only, and I as a democratic president, will be only to happy to sign the bill. Then, under a system as near to free trade as revenue requirements will permit, the country will start on such a glorious commercial career as she has never known before. Our prosperity will then advance by leaps and bounds." But he said nothing of the kind. All his effort was to do what he could towards restoring confidence by assuring the country that its protected industries were in no danger whatever from his accession to power. This fact alone speaks volumes, but no explanation of what it means can be got from the free trade papers.—Toronto World (Ind. Ref.)

SOUTH AFRICAN INTERESTS.

BERLIN, Dec. 12.—The White Book just issued shows that Germany assumed protection over Luderitze Territory on the coast of Africa after England had refused to protect it, and that the German ambassador at London was instructed with reference to Germany's refusal to recognize annexation by Cape Colony of land as far as Walfish Bay, and to pursue such policy as would prevent the impression that Germany would sacrifice her vital interests to her desire to remain on amicable terms with England. In the latest despatches it is stated that England hails Germany as a neighbour in south-west Africa, that she claims sovereignty only over Walfish Bay and adjacent islands, and accepts the proposal for the appointment of a commission to settle the claims of disputed territory.

WHAT IRELAND NEEDS.

EDINBURGH, Dec. 13.—Mr. Henry Campbell Bannermann, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in a speech at Stirling last night, expressed his regret that the policy of the Government towards Ireland should be one of benevolent condescension. He said the Irish were a proud and sensitive people, and naturally resent such an attitude. He asserted that if the Government would give to Ireland the laws and institutions which her needs required, and to which the country was peculiarly adapted, the result would follow that Ireland would be as loyal as Scotland.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1884.

THE WEST INDIES.

We have recently had a most striking evidence of the inconsistency of the Reformers, and of their readiness to place any obstacle in the way of the progress of the country, if thereby they can embarrass the Conservative statesmen who have been entrusted by the people of Canada with the administration of her affairs.

A short time ago it pleased the Reformers to assume that Sir John Macdonald was proposing to annex the British West Indian Islands, because he did not insultingly repel a suggestion to that effect after the bearish and discourteous manner of some of the Reform leaders. Acting on this assumption, the Reform journals laboured hard to prove that the trade of the West Indies would be worth nothing to Canada, and that Sir John and his colleagues would render no benefit to this country by securing it.

Now the same Reform journals are assuming, with as little foundation, that Sir John Macdonald has neglected the interests of Canada by allowing the United States to make a favourable treaty as to the trade of the Spanish West Indian Islands, without making an effort to secure the same advantages for Canada. And now the same dishonest and untruthful critics are turning their backs upon their former contention, and are labouring as hard to maintain that the West Indian trade is very valuable, so that its loss or the neglect to extend it would be a great injury to Canada.

There cannot be a clearer proof that these Reform journalists care nothing for truth or consistency or the welfare of the country, in comparison with their desire to attack rightly or wrongly their political opponents, who have been entrusted with power by the people of Canada.

PRAIRIE RANGERS.

The Noble Buffalo, Elk and Moose Nearly Extinct.

Where are now the mammoths of the prairie, the countless herds of bison, moose and elk that once shook the earth with thundering tread? Are they extinct? No, not yet. They are, however, sufficiently rare to make the dead body of one of them an object of the deepest interest. Last Friday Mr. D. McLean brought in an enormous moose that had been shot in the spruce woods south of Carberry. All day long the body was surrounded by wondering crowds, and truly it was an object worthy of more than a passing notice. There lay the last but one of a herd of fifteen that two years ago found an asylum in that locality. By certain marks old hunters estimated his age at 12 years, and the greatest wonder is that he escaped the meshes of the net that civilization has yearly been drawing more closely around him. It is not improbable that his mate, a solitary exile where once her kindred reigned supreme, will, ere the prairie again assumes its flowery mantle, be also with the dead. We do not mean to say that but one specimen of this gigantic quadruped survives in the west. Several may yet be found, but their members are being yearly decimated. The elk, too, like the mammoth of Siberia, will at the beginning of another century be known only as relics, of which civilization will suddenly become as parsimonious as it was once prodigal. It is, however, the destruction of the buffalo herds that the Manitoban will most deplore, inasmuch as it is to them he is indebted for the robe and coat which protect him from the severe frosts and penetrating winds of the prairie. We are safe in saying that one out of every four now wears a buffalo coat. In 1890 the only ones worn will be faded and bald. In 1881 the wholesale merchants of St. Paul turned over 10,000 robes. During the present year but four robes have passed through their hands. In fact the traffic for buffalo pelts is over for ever. Walk where you will over the pairie when the grass is short and the bleached bones of buffalo can be seen on every hand. On certain portions of the Big Plain we have even been able to distinctly trace paths grooved out by these brutes in passing two and from water ponds. In those states of the union where half a century ago the trampling of passing thousands could be heard at night for miles there now exists not a single herd. The only specimens yet extant are found in and around the Wood mountains in the Canadian North-West.—Brandon (Man.) Mail.

Lord Dunmore's Plucky Act.

A correspondent of the Northern Chronicle (Scotland) records the following story of a plucky adventure of the Earl of Dunmore, who is so well known in Montreal:—On 5th November Lord Dunmore was seal hunting with some friends in the Sound of Harris, and after a long stalk he succeeded in getting within shooting distance of five seals, one of them of the largest Greenland species. The seals were all lying on a rock. He aimed at the big one and wounded it. The seal splashed about a good deal in the water, and the whaleboat with the harpoon should have been brought up at once on the shot being heard, but owing to a mishap on the rock she could not move. The moment was critical. The seal, to all appearance, was to be lost to the sportsman, but Lord Dunmore, seeing the whaleboat could not come, threw off his coat, vest and sea boots, and plunged into the sea, and with a piece of tangle in his mouth swam out to the seal and grappled with him. The seal pulled him under water. After a great struggle his lordship saw the seal was dying, and being himself considerably exhausted, he let the animal go, and, taking the piece of tangle out of his mouth, placed it as a buoy upon the place where the seal had sunk. Lord Dunmore then swam back to the shore, got the boat off the rock, and, pulling straight to the spot which he had buoyed with the piece of tangle, he at once launched the harpoon into the deep water, and brought the seal to the surface. It was then towed ashore. Considering the time of year—snow being on the ground—when this feat was accomplished, and the distance from shore he had to swim, and that fourteen miles of sea had to be covered before he could get a change of clothes, I think all will agree in considering this rather a plucky performance.

VANCOUVER.

The Future City at the Western Terminus of the C. P. R. Named.

British Columbia papers just received contain articles expressing the general satisfaction which prevails over the selection of Coal Harbor, on Burrard Inlet, as the western terminus of the C. P. R. Mr. W. C. Van Horne has decided that Vancouver will be the name of the future commercial city. He attaches great importance to that name; in consequence of the world-wide reputation of the island for an unrivalled climate and other advantages, and whenever the name of Vancouver is mentioned, its location will be known everywhere. Mr. Van Horne adheres to the belief that the new city will be one of great importance, second only to San Francisco on the Pacific coast. Mr. Henry Beatty, who has left for Coal Harbour to organize the proposed mercantile fleet to run to Japan, will shortly be followed by Mr. L. A. Hamilton, deputy land commissioner and surveyor.—Montreal Star.

FEARFUL LOSS OF LIFE.

Twenty-Seven Virginia Oystermen Sacrificed in a Furious Storm.

Bamtimore, Dec. 12.—The officers of the steamer M. L. Weems, which arrived this morning from Rappahannock River, Va., report fearful loss of life among coloured oystermen on that river in the storm of Tuesday last. About 25 colored men were out in boats tongueing for oysters when the storm arose. The gale capsized almost all of them, and those which escaped were unable to reach the shore in safety. Men were thrown into the rough water and were unable to swim to shore. Many clung to the boats for a time, but were finally washed away and drowned. Very few escaped. Eleven bodies have been recovered already, and as many more are said to be missing. It is scarcely possible that they might have escaped.

Additional particulars state that fifteen canoes started to go to a schooner to sell their oysters when the storm struck them. There were three or four white men among the party. The whole number drowned was twenty-seven. Two more bodies have been recovered, making thirteen in all.

THE ST. STEPHEN'S LOTTERY.

The Dominion Government Breaks It Up by Arresting the Chief Swindler.

The Government has taken steps toward suppressing the lottery swindle at St. Stephen, N. B. For many months past the Department of Justice, acting in concert with the Postmaster-General, has been paying close attention to the workings of the lottery at St. Stephen, and in their efforts have received the most cordial support of the United States authorities. Proof positive of evil doings sufficient to implicate the leading spirits of the lottery was secured some time ago, but the great difficulty was to catch the parties in question, who appeared to be pretty well advised of the movements of the Dominion authorities, and so kept themselves out of harm's way, on the other side of the St. Croix River. Finally, a change of tactics was resorted to and all outward signs of activity were suspended; indeed, it was understood in some quarters in St. Stephen that the Government had abandoned its efforts to break up the lottery. This ruse, it would appear, has worked like a charm, and Nathan S. Reid, the head of the swindle, has been lured to Canadian soil. A day or so ago he was arrested on a warrant issued by the Minister of Justice on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. The arrest of Reid is but the first step, and it will doubtless be followed by action against McKay, Lowe and some others who are known to be connected with this swindle. St. Stephen is greatly excited over this sudden raid on the lottery thieves, and the friends and accomplices of the swindlers are vowing dire vengeance against the Government for their action.—Montreal Star.

DEADLY DYNAMITE.

A Premature Explosion with its Awful Results—Deprived of Eyesight.

Mr. Angus Macdonald, contractor on the Collander Extension, arrived in this city on Friday with his brother Joseph, who had been deprived of his eyesight through a premature explosion of dynamite on the line about 11 miles north of Bracebridge. Mr. Macdonald was taken to the Eye and Ear Infirmary in connection with the Toronto General Hospital, where he was placed under the care of Dr. Reeve. The doctor thinks he will be able to recover his sight with care, as he is now able to see light. A Globe reporter on Friday met Mr. Angus Macdonald, who gave him the details of the dreadful accident. It appears that about 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon the men were putting in a dynamite cartridge, which was too large for the hole which had been drilled. One of the men attempted to tamp in the cartridge when the explosion occurred. Messrs. Allan Macdonald, foreman, Thos. McCarthy, Patrick Farrel and Joseph Macdonald, the latter Mr. Angus Macdonald's brother, were standing over the blast. Allan Macdonald's face was just over the cartridge when it suddenly exploded. The contractor himself was standing but four feet off with his back to the blast where the men were working. He was stunned for a moment, and upon turning around was horrified to see his brother and his employees lying about. Their clothes had been torn from them. Allan Macdonald, who came from Halifax, was the worst injured. One of his eyes, which was blown out of its socket, lay hanging on his cheek, suspended by the muscles. Pieces of rock about the size of hens' eggs were blown into his flesh, where they lodged till taken out by Dr. Shaw, who was summoned from Bracebridge. The doctor arrived on the scene about two hours after the accident. Patrick Farrel and Thos. McCarthy are also hurt about the face and eyes. All the men are unmarried. On Friday evening Mr. Angus Macdonald telegraphed to Bracebridge to enquire how the other injured men were, and received the reply that they were doing well.—Toronto Globe.

Elections under the Temperance Act will take place in Brome, Quebec, on the 15th of January and in Carleton, Ontario, on the 29th of January.

The Land of the "Free."

Washington, Dec. 12.—The House Committee on public lands unanimously agreed to report favorably on the bill providing that no alien, foreigner or persons other than citizens of the United States shall acquire, title or own lands within the United States. Foreign born persons that have legally declared their intention to become citizens are eligible to acquire homesteads.

A Story of Grover Cleveland.

"Gath" relates the following regarding the President elect:—I am led by this reference to tell a story of Governor Cleveland, which may now be regarded as characteristic of the man. He had written to John Kelly, the famous personal comfort letter regarding Senator Grady, and turning to his private secretary, Daniel S. Lamont, he is said to have asked him, "Lamont, would you, as a good politician, write that letter?" "No, governor," said Mr. Lamont, after reading it, "I would not." "Then I can't be a good politician," responded Cleveland, "for I am going to forward it just as it is." And he did.

The Erie Canal.

New York, Dec. 13.—The Times Washington correspondent says that Representative Hiscock does not regard the day of usefulness of the Erie canal as passed. It has come to be so much more useful as an interstate highway than as a regulator of local freight rates that if it is to be maintained it would appear to be just that all states sharing its privileges should contribute to its maintenance. He believes, to a certain extent, the canals still restrain railroad managers from making exorbitant rates, and that in the matter of non-perishable goods, or goods not demanding immediate and rapid transportation, they exercise a restraining influence upon the railroads. Mr. Hiscock does not entertain the idea that the capacity of the canals can be greatly increased, or that the Erie canal will be made a highway for ships.

MARMORA.

Deloro Mines.—People of the vicinity are not generally aware of the work that is being done at the gold mines at Deloro. As the result of one week's work, two large bricks of the precious metal, amounting in value to about $2,300, were sent to the city a short time ago. This is good, and should encourage the company to put forth even greater efforts towards perfecting their methods of work.—Stirling News-Argus.

Serious Accident.—On Thursday morning as Mr. Edmund Milson, lot 4, 4th concession, Hope, was attending a sick horse, the animal being sharp shod, kicked him in the face, making a fearful wound. He came to town and had his injuries attended to by Dr. Hamilton. He will carry the mark to the grave.—Guide.

ORILLIA.

Rebuilding a Vessel.—It has been decided by the owners of the Queen of the Isles to rebuild her this winter. The vessel will be widened, and a powerful engine placed in her to insure great speed and towing power.

Waterworks and Insurance.—In consequence of the defeat of the waterworks by-law, thirty of the best insurance companies doing business in Canada have advanced their rates in Orillia one-fourth. This means a much heavier additional "tax" than the most expensive system of waterworks our town would require, even if the revenue should not, as expected, fully cover the outlay.

It's an Ill Wind, etc.—From a business point of view one hint in Dr. Elliott's report to the Board of Health is well worth heeding. Whether cholera reaches this continent next season or not—and there is little doubt it will—many people will be leaving the coast and the large cities for healthful resorts inland, and if Orillia be put in perfect sanitary condition many are certain to come here.—Packet.

Naval Officer's Suicide.

Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 1.—Commander S. Dana Green, equipment officer of the Navy Yard Committee, suicided yesterday by shooting. Anxiety over the literary matter he was preparing for publication in relation to the fight between the Monitor and Merrimac is supposed to be the cause. He leaves a wife and three children.

The Scott Act.

Brantford, Dec. 11.—The Scott Act was voted on to-day for the city as well as for the county. Great interest was taken in the fight, and a large vote polled. Everything passed off quietly. In the city the Act was defeated by 165 majority. The streets were very lively with carriages bringing voters to the polls. In the county the act was carried by a vote of more than two to one.

FARM GLEANINGS.

In-Calf cows should be allowed a chance to exercise more or less daily, they should not, however, be unduly exposed during inclement weather, nor should they be allowed to be out nights in the fall, winter and spring months.

On the farm, and especially in the dairy, ice soon gets to be regarded as a necessity, when it has once been used. It costs but little to build a good ice house, and any farmer handy with a saw and a hammer can easily build one for himself.

Akron steel knife machines for the manufacture of cut oatmeal, which like Roller Flour has been in great demand of late. This machine consists of a combination of steel knives which cuts the oat after being shelled into any size or grade that the trade may require, instead of by the old system of grinding with the stones.

The large amount of ammonia given off from horse urine when fermenting is very injurious to the eyes. More horses go blind from this cause than from any other. The escape of ammonia may and should be prevented by free use of absorbents, but this will not obviate the need of ventilation so as to keep horses in good health in every respect.

If a farmer has reasonable luck—that is, if he has as good luck as generally comes from intelligent care—he can make 1,000 pounds of turkey meat for $100 easily, and sell the same for $200, or putting it better: A flock of 100 turkeys will not cost him in grain fed out over $65, if they are killed before Thanksgiving, and they ought to average twelve pounds each, which makes 1,209 pounds in all, and to sell for ten cents a pound, or $120.

Since the introduction of the movable comb hive, about twenty years ago, the bee-keeping industry has largely developed. The United States and Canada produce the bulk of the honey consumed in the world, and the cultivation in this country has attained the rank of a science. The total amount of honey produced annually is estimated at 120,000,000 lbs., which, at an average of 15c. per lb., places the value of the product in first hands at $18,000,000.

Onions cannot be kept well in a damp cellar. The secret of keeping onions is to have them thoroughly dry when they are put into the cellar, and keep them so. Also keep them cool. Onions that are not wanted until late winter or early spring may be stored in a dry loft and covered with a foot or more of hay or straw. In this position, if the weather is tolerably even, they will remain frozen all winter, and may be used as desired. They should not be thawed out until wanted.

The hog pen should be always liberally bedded with straw, and not only where the pigs sleep, but the yard outside, where they run. Unless this yard is well bedded, much of the liquid manure will be lost. As fall rains come on, fresh supplies of straw will be needed almost daily. The droppings of pigs are so rich that the whole mass will be made into manure before spring. It wil be still better if the horse stables are well be bedded, and the whole bedding, after once using, be brought to the pig yard to be worked over.

Annapolis advices indicate that the area of apple culture is considerably larger this year than formerly. Hundreds of acres of new apple trees are under cultivation. The farmers are devoting more attention than ever to the management of orchards, and the fruit industry in that fertile valley promises in a few years to attain an importance that now can scarcely be realized, potatoes being abandoned by the farmers and all available capital invested in trees. This is accounted for by the large surplus stock of tubers which remained unsold last year; by the total failure of the crop this year, and by the sure profits which the apple industry affords.—St. John Telegraph.

WINTER FOOD FOR MILK COWS.

Many are trying for the first time the plan of winter dairying, and will probably find before spring that dry feed, even when supplemented with "messing," does not produce such a flow of milk as is to be desired. A writer in a recent number of the Country Gentleman suggests that Hubbard squashes, to be pulped by some sort of a machine, as worth experimenting with. Their present market value is $20 per ton, while this writer claims to have grown at a cost of less than $4 per ton, at the rate of nine tons per acre.

Undoubtedly ensilage is the cheapest and best method of supplying milch cows with a milk-producing food in winter, but such is the conservatism of farmers that the writer expects to be old and decrepit before the silo comes into popular use. Of other green foods I mention in order of their value, mangel wurzels, Swede turnips, cabbage, pumpkins, sweet apples, fall turnips and potatoes. I see in a table, where the feeding value in corn is placed at 50 cents per 100 lbs., that potatoes are rated at 10 cents, or one-fifth. There is difference of opinion in reference to the value of pumpkins, but they certainly can be raised very cheaply. In connection with corn it does not cost, in a favourable season, more than 75 cents per ton to grow and gather them. Fully ripe ones, carefully picked with the stems on, and kept in a cool, dry cellar, will often keep until February.

Fall turnips and cabbages have to be fed very sparingly, owing to the flavor they impart to the milk. Fed immediately after milking, the flavor imparted is reduced to a minimum, but I doubt whether it would do to feed them constantly for any length of time.

The comfort of stock has much to do with their thrift, and undoubtedly the dairymen who pays most attention to this will have the fattest pocketbook next spring. The cow that is fed dry feed and about ten o'clock is turned out to drink ice water and shiver in the lea of a barn or straw stack for five hours, while her owner goes to town, will not be very reciprocal when the milk can is passed for her contribution. I like to hear my friend H. G. Tryon wax wroth over the wrongs to which cows are subjected. There is a good deal of solid truth in what he says, too.

A regulation stable is made with manure gutter just so many inches from the manger, and the long and the short cows are alike subject to the inconveniences resulting from the measurements designed for the average cow. Confined by stanchions, the droppings of the short cow fall upon the floor and freeze into a solid mass for her to lie upon, while the long cow is compelled to lie with part of her body across the sharp edge of the manure ditch.

The sufferings endured by an animal so confined that it cannot get its head around to its body must be considerable, and I have often wished that the strenuous advocates of the stanchion abomination could be inoculated with the itch and then tied up so they couldn't scratch. I believe Mr. Tryon maintains that the confining of cattle by stanchions should be a crime punishable with a fine.—Exchange.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A German botanist has given instances of the modification of plants by insects so as to produce new varieties.

A motor driven by small charges of gun-cotton is an English novelty. It is said to be applicable wherever small powers are required.

Successful experiments in distributing the electric light to great distances have been made in connection with the Turin Electrical Exhibition. A Siemens machine of 30 horse-power generated a current which was simultaneously used by several electric light systems spread over a circuit of about 25 miles.

Wind Work.—A gale at East St. Louis in 1871, according to Mr. C. Shaler Smith, overturned a locomotive, exerting a force of no less than 93 pounds per square foot. At St. Charles a jail was destroyed in 1877, the pressure required being 84 pounds per square foot. At Marshfield, in 1880, a brick mansion was leveled, the force necessary being 58 pounds per square foot. Below these extraordinary pressures, Mr. Smith has instanced numerous cases of trains blown off the rails, and bridges, etc., blown down by gales of 24 to 31 pounds per square foot.

The Theory of Vaccination.—Prof. Tyndall suggests that just as the soil may be so effectually robbed of some essential ingredient by one abundant crop as to be incapable of producing another, so in the human system a parasitic disease may so completely exhaust the blood of some ingredient necessary to the growth and propagation of the parasite that the production of a second crop in fatal or considerable quantity may be impossible. It would thus appear that protective vaccination or inoculation is simply the introduction into the blood of weakened and comparatively harmless disease germs to consume the material which might become food for similar germs in a more vigorous and dangerous condition.

WIT AND WISDOM.

"Why do you not hold up your head as I do?" inquired an aristocratic lawyer of a labouring farmer. "Squire," replied the farmer, "look at that field of grain; all the valuable heads hang down like mine, while those that have nothing in them stand upright like yours."

"Now, darling, will you grant me one favor before I go?" "Yes, George, I will," she said, drooping her lashes and getting her lips in shape. "What is the favor I can grant you?" "Only a little song at the piano, love; I am afraid there is a dog outside waiting for me, and I want to frighten him away."

A worthy son of Adam once entered a public in Kirkcaldy and called for "Ane o' the real peatreek." It was furnished. "Hae," said the landlord, offering a tumbler of water, "that 'ill pit the taste awa'." "Pit the taste awa'?" echoed the man in a tone of horror; "pit the taste awa'. Gude faith! I'm owre glad to get the taste there."

"How often do you present your bill to that young fellow?" said a gentleman to a cigar-store man whom a dude told to charge him with a package of cigarettes. "Quarterly, sir." "What! You don't mean to say you trust him for three months?" "Oh, no, of course not. Quarterly in this case means every time the bill amounts to a quarter."

A haberdasher one day, standing, as was his wont, at his door, under the sign of the Golden Lamb, was accosted by a townsman and a neighbor. "Good morning, Andrew," said the passing townsman, "what be you thinking off?" "I was thinking," said the haberdasher, glancing up at his sign, "as how the lamb is a picture of innocence." "Yes, friend Andrew; but that one of yours is a picture of gilt."

The story goes that towards the close of the disastrous battle of Flodden a Scot, fresh from the field of carnage, ran through an adjoining village with a spear received in the fight still sticking in his back. A woman, standing at her door as the wounded warrior passed, cried—"Hey, man, there's a spear stickin' in yer back." The man, without pausing in his flight, turned a reproachful look at the woman, and simply said as he hurried on—"Div ye think I dinna ken?"

A son of the Emerald Isle, once riding to market with a sack of potatoes before him, discovered that the horse was getting tired, whereupon he dismounted, put the potatoes on his shoulders, and again mounted, saying "it is better that he should carry the praties, as he was fresher than the poor baste."

"Did you write up this local for Snooks, the grocer?" asked the city editor of a contemporary of his assistant. "Yes, sir." "Well, do you consider it just the thing to announce that his fresh eggs can't be beat, his cheese goes off of its own accord, and his butter occupies a strong place in the regard to the public?"

A pastor of a small congregation of Dissenters in the West of Scotland, who, in prayer, often employed terms of familiarity towards the great Being whom he invoked, was addressing his petition in the season of an apparently doubtful harvest, that He would grant such weather as was necessary for ripening and gathering in the fruits of the ground, when, pausing suddenly, he added, "But what need I talk? When I was up at the Shotts the other day everything was as green as leeks."

The Egremont Grave Mystery Exploded.

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 12.—The Egremont mystery was exploded to-day by the opening of Este la Newman's grave and finding her body undisturbed. A large number of persons were present, including the town officers, and much relief was expressed that the sensation was ended.

Fish and Fowl at One Shot.

I send you a peculiar incident that happened to me while going around the shore of a pond near Kalamazoo, Mich., in search of crippled ducks. The morning's flight being over I fired at a duck in the bushes, and upon wading out to get it, I noticed considerable commotion among the bushes just beyond the duck, and surmised, of course, that I had killed another duck. You can imagine my astonishment when, instead of a duck, I found that a two pound black bass, with a Number 4 shot in its head, was making the disturbance. I have seen a pigeon and a squirrel killed with the same charge, but when you get fish and fowl at the same time, it simply beats the record.—Forest and Stream.

Pride in His Wife.

"Yes," said old Farmer Jones to a traveller who was stopping with him over night, "I've got as good a wife as any man in these parts, if I do say it."

"I am not married myself," returned the traveller, "but nevertheless I can appreciate the pride which a husband may take in a good wife."

"Why, stranger," went on the good old farmer earnestly, "I've known that woman to git up at four o'clock in the morning, milk sixteen cows, and git breakfast for twenty men, and have the hull thing done afore sunrise."

"You don't say so," exclaimed the stranger.

"Yes, sir, and not onct only, but week in and week out, an' you kin see as well as I kin that she ain't a strong woman, nuther."—New York Sun.

Selling Goods by Sample.

Mr. Joseph Mulhattan, ex-Presidential candidate, is a Louisville hardware drummer. Recently he was engaged in selling a bill of goods to an old Dutchman in the South.

"You sharge seven dollar und a half a dozen for dot knife?" asked the Dutchman, in some surprise.

"Yes, $7.50 a dozen. Razor steel, crocus ground, brass lined, stag handle, Sheffield make—"

"But a Zinzinnati drummer only last week offered me dot same goods already for six dollars."

"See here my friend," said Mr. Mulhattan, "you sell your goods at just double what they cost, don't you?"

"Ya; if I buys a thing for one dollar I sell him for two dollar; dot's choost one per cent."

"Yes. Well, that Cincinnati drummer charges you $6 for these goods, and you sell them at $12, and make a profit of $6. I offer them at $7.50, and you get $15, or a profit of $7.50. Just a dollar and a half more, isn't it?"

"Vell, yes," said the old Dutchman, scratching his head, "I guess maybe dot vas so."

"All right. You just take my advice, then, and don't buy anything of a Cincinnati drummer, if you don't want to get swindled.'

And yet Mulhattan was hopelessly defeated. —New York Sun.

The Numbers on a Watch-Face.

A group of travelling men were gathered about a stove in a hotel office the other evening when one of them startled his fellows by saying, "I don't believe that one of you can tell what kind of numerals are on the face of your watch, and if you can I will bet the cigars for the party that not a man here can write them down as they are on his watch."

"I'll take the bet," said one who prided himself on his qualities of observation. "I look at my watch at least ten times a day, and I know I can do it."

"All right—begin," remarked he who made the proposition.

"Do you want them in a circle?"

"No! Along a line will do."

"Well, here goes," and he began putting down I, II, III, until he got to four, where he hesitated. First he put down IV, and then glancing at the clock in the room, changed it to IIII, and proceeding wrote V, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X, XI, XII.

"There!" he said exultingly, "I think I have won the cigars for the crowd."

"I will just bet you the drinks you haven't," replied the other.

"Well, show me VI on your watch and I will settle for everything," remarked he who made the proposition.

All crowded around and gave the smart man the laugh, and he then and there resolved never to bet on a man's own game.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Yes; I shall break the engagement," said she, folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks as if he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he balks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

HARPER'S BAZAR

ILLUSTRATED.

Harper's Bazar is the only paper in the world that combines the choicest literature and the finest art illustrations with the latest fashions and methods of household adornment. Its weekly illustrations and descriptions of the newest Paris and New York styles, with its useful pattern-sheet supplements and cut patterns, by enabling ladies to be their own dress-makers, save many times the cost of subscription. Its papers on cooking, the management of servants, and house keeping in its various details are eminently practical. Much attention is given to the interesting topic of social etiquette, ann its illustrations of art needle-work are acknowledged to be unequalled. Its literary merit is of the highest excellence, and the unique character of its humurous pictures has won for it the name of the American Punch.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

We are pleased to see that Dr. Harvey, who has for the past four months been a resident of the North West, has returned to town. The Dr. is looking well after his extended visit to the Prairie Province.

Young Men's Bible Class.

The Rev. Mr. Munro's Bible Class in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms will be held to-night, instead of Tuesday evening. This evening the class will take up the first of a series of lessons on the Acts of the Apostles. The class last week was the largest held for some time.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Obeervatory, are as follows:—Winds increasing from south-east to south, cloudy weather with rain, followed to-night and to-morrow by gales from the north-west with snow flurries and colder weather.

A False Report.

For the past day or two rumours have been rife to the effect that a man had met with his death in the point St. Charles saw mill. One report went that he had been wound around a shaft, another version had it that the unfortunate man had been fooling with a buzz saw, but the facts of the case are as follows:—Mr. John McDonald, on Saturday afternoon, was driving a team homeward. When just across the Ontario and Quebec railway track the horses became frightened and ran for some distance before the driver was able to bring them to a standstill. He was not hurt in the least, nor was anyone in the mills.

Closing of the Bazaar.

The closing of the bazaar which was conducted all last week in the interest of the building fund of St. Peter's Cathedral was held on Saturday night. When the drawing took place the hall was crowded with an eager and anxious assemblage, on the tiptoe of expectation. As the name of each lucky winner was read the news was received with more or less applause. The drawing was conducted by Mr. J. E. Belcher and Doctor Kincaid, while the Rev. Father Conway announced the names of those who had been successful in winning. When the drawing was completed short addresses were given by the Rev. Father Conway, Mr. J. E. Belcher and Dr. Kincaid. The hall was soon cleared of all its gaudy trimmings and now wears its old prosaic appearance.

Dr. Barnardo's Home.

A social in aid of the funds of the Home will be held at Hazelbrae on Friday, the 19th inst. Admission, 25 cents. The following programme of vocal and instrumental music cannot fail to prove an attraction:—

PART I.

1. Pianoforte Duet
2. Quartet....Lo! the Early Beams of Morning! Miss Banemann, Miss Wells, Mr. Butcher and Mr. Geale.
3. Recitation.....Mr. Cooper.
4. Solo.....Mr. A. D. Browne.
5. Duet.....Miss Banemann and Mr. A. Lech.
6. Song.....Mr. Geale
7. Quartet and chorus....Robert, toi que j'aime.

PART II.

1. Pianoforte Solo.....
2. Song.....Miss Banemann
3. Reading.....Dr. Clarke.
4. Trio.....Blow, Gentle Gales, Miss Ellsworth, Miss Rush and Mr. Duff.
5. Duet.....Mr. Geale and Mr. Duff.
6. National Anthem.

Refreshments will be provided. Contributions towards this fund are earnestly solicited. An omnibus will be engaged by which, for a small sum, parties can be conveyed to and from the Home. It will leave the Post-office about seven o'clock. The proceedings will commence at 7.30.

This Evening and this Week.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company commence this evening an engagement lasting some days in the Opera House. They created a favorable impression on the occasion of their previous visits, and they appear to be still worthy of patronage, according to the following from the Lindsay Post:—

"The Tavernier Dramatic Company opened in the Opera House on Friday night of last week and played to a full house. The Company has kept the boards during each evening of this week and have been well patronized, as they deserve to be. They have always been favorites with Lindsay people and while always giving great satisfaction have excelled themselves during this visit. A repertoire of plays has been drawn on to place before the audience on each evening some of the best and most popular dramatic productions of the day, including "The Mighty Dollar," "The Danites" and other plays. Their performance in the first was exceedingly satisfactory. The personnel of the Company is of a very superior character, and an excellent support is given to Miss Ida Van Cortland, Mr. A. Tavernier and Mr. Wilson Day, who sustain the leading roles. Theatre-goers, who have seen from time to time the best Companies playing in the cities, tell us that the Tavernier Dramatic Company are quite the equal and in many respects the superior of any organizations which assume to be first class in every respect. From Lindsay the Company go to Peterborough, where they will be equally well received."

THE LATE REV. W. J. BUTCHER.

A Funeral Sermon Preached by the Rev. I. Tovell in the George Street Church.

The funeral sermon of the late Rev. W. J. Butcher was preached on Sunday evening in the George Street Methodist Church by the Rev. I. Tovell. Before proceeding with the sermon he gave a summarized biography of the deceased brother as follows:—He was born in St. James, Suffolk, England, in the year 1821. When a boy he came to Prince Edward Island and settled in Charlottetown. At the age of 17 he was converted to God and joined the Wesleyan Church. Four years after a great revival took place under the ministry of the late Rev. F. Metheral, the first Bible Christian missionary sent to Prince Edward Island. Hundreds of souls were converted. Amidst the gracious work, brother Butcher received a call to enter the ministry. In 1843 he was accepted as a candidate by the Bible Christian Conference. His life work was datermined. After 24 years of toil in Prince Edward Island, he was sent to this town (Peterborough), thence to Mitchell, Ingersoll, Exeter and Crediton. An earnest preacher, an affectionate pastor, a kind father, a thoughtful husband and a consecrated Christian; these were marked features in his character. As a winner of souls he was most successful. Two years ago he retired from active work, owing to failing healty. But Ashburnham needed a workman, and to work he went. There he laboured till the union of the Methodist bodies. He loved the united church, but lived only a short time to enjoy it. In the 64th year of his age and the 41st year of his ministry, he fell asleep in Jesus. We shall not forget his pleasant face, his kindly spirit, his fervent prayer. God, be gracious, and bless his sorrowing widow and family. Amen.

He took his text from Ephesians, iii., 15, "Of whom the whole family in Heaven and earth is named."

The tone of the sermon throughout was that of gladness and hopefulness, not of sadness and sorrow. The preacher took the stand that is suggested in the text, that God's family, whether in Heaven or in earth, are all one. By means of numerous similes and metaphors he fully and clearly explained his views. The Atlantic ocean might separate father from son, sister from brother, but still they were the same family. He denounced spiritualism as it is taught, as a damnable doctrine; but still there was a beautiful lesson to be drawn. He did not believe that his grandmother or greatgrandmother or his uncle or his aunt might be brought into his immediate presence, but he did believe that the departed dear ones exercised a mighty influence upon a Christian people. As a kite string is wound about a stick and the kite at a giddy height, so high that it cannot be seen, so the golden cords of the influence of the departed one are wound about the heart, and although the dear ones cannot be seen, yet they are continually drawing at the strings and keep our thoughts fixed on immortality.

The discourse was indeed interesting, instructive, impressive and pathetic, and at the close many a handkerchief wiped away a silent tear.

The service was closed by the congregation standing and singing three verses of "The Sweet By and Bye," and the pronouncing of the benediction by the pastor.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing. Andrew McNeil.

Personal.

At a recent meeting of the Committee or Appointments of the Board of Education Mr. Wm. Beatty, a teacher of considerable experance coming highly recommended, was appointed to fill the position to be vocated by Miss Fair

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy's Lecture.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances Mr. Chiniquy is unable to visit Peterborough on Monday evening. The lecture advertised for Monday, Dec. 15th, will be postponed to Tuesday, the 16th, in the George Street Methodist Church, at 8 p.m. Members of the Orange Society and True Blues are requested to meet at the Orange Hall at 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

Fine Building Sites.

As good building sites in the town are being rapidly taken up, a good opportunity to obtain one will be given at the sale of part of the estate of the late G. C. Rogers on Tuesday the 16th inst., at C. A Weller's office at 2 p.m., when lots 23 and 24, north of London and west of George streets, will be sold. At the same time valuable farm lands will be sold, part of the same estate.

In Luck.

At the sale of unclaimed freight by the Grand Trunk Railway Company, on Saturday, at the market, a young man purchased a trunk for the sum of $1.50. On opening the trunk he found, among other articles two pairs of pants. In one of the pockets of one pair was the sum of $15, and in the other pocket of the same pair 75 cents. Besides this he became on purchasing the trunk, the proprietor of a new hat. He felt so good on his good luck that, we are informed, he gave $5 for charitaele purposes.

The Saved Army.

There was a large attendance at the Saved Army meeting in the Opera House on Sunday evening, the hall being packed. There was also a number of officers on the platform, including Gen. Lindsay, Capt. Munt, Capt. Piper, Capt. Effie Mason, cadet Hartley, delegates Sproule and Weir and others. Gen. Lindsay announced that Capt. Munt and Capt. Piper would remain in Peterborough for at least 10 days or two weeks.

A Merry Christmas to All.

This is the season for greetings of a friendly nature; a time when well wishes are exchanged among fellow beings; when hearts that have perhaps been shrouded with an icy coldness during the year now fast drawing to a close throw off their cold burden and put on instead the broad mantle of charity and forgiveness, and "peace on earth, good will toward men" is for a time, at least, observed. This is, too, a time when reformation in many forms is steadily going on among men; some who have in the past indulged, more or less, in the various temptations that are daily strewn in the path of every-day life, are making resolutions of amendment for the future, and moral reformation is progressing. This is as it should be, and many who have in the past indulged in the silly, and, what is more, expensive habit of buying cheap and trashy clothing, are now leaving their orders as Habiliment Hall, where the quality of the goods is undoubted and the workmanship guaranteed. A. McNEIL, George street.

SATCHELS.

By express on Saturday we received a lot at $1,35, $1,75, and $2.25, bought for cash. If you want splendid value, see these goods, also the Purses at 35 and 50c, A. L. DAVIS & CO.

A Pointer to Business Men.

Dinner will be served to business men from 12.30 to 2.30 every day at FAUCHER'S Restaurant and Bodega.

Tom Darcy's Oysters

Are still the "favourites" by long odds. It's the size of them and the way he gets them up that takes. Try a stew or a plate of raws.

Bodega.

Spanish Wines, Portes and Sherries drawn from the wood, at the Parlour Restaurant of W. H. Chamberlain.

A fine assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING, Socks, Scarfs and Ties, Kid Gloves and Mitts, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. J. ERSKINE.

The Trouble Ended.

PORT ROWAN, Dec. 12.—No more trouble is anticipated from the Italian navvies. One hundred and twenty-five have left town for Buffalo via Simcoe. One camp of 25 men are still here, and may remain all winter, but no fears are entertained, as they have shown good behavior ever since they came in our midst.

"Keep warm! Keep warm! Keep warm!" Twenty per cent. reductionon all Winter Underclothing at A. McNeil's.

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for Wm. Gillesby, Hamilton and Grimsby; "I was for many years afflicted with Costiveness, Billiousness and untimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by John McKee.

These are Solid Facts.

The best blood purifier and system regulator ever placed within the reach of suffering humanity, truly is Electric Bitters. Inactivity of the Liver, Billiousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Weak Kidneys, or any disease of the urinary organs, or whoever requires an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulate will always find Electric Bitters the best and certain cure known. They act surely and quickly, every bottle guranteed to give entire satisfaction or money returned. Sold at 50cts a bottle by Taylor & McDonald.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co., of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D Tully.

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. Headquarters for

DOLLS!

I HAVE NOT BOUGHT ANY of the inferior grade of DOLLS this year, finding that they were stuffed with straw and other coarse material, made from poor wax, and very unnatural faces, as I found the trade was being overstocked with them.

Most of my Large Stock consists of a VERY SUPERIOR CLASS of DOLLS, being decidedly pretty and serviceable, and possessing bright, life-like faces, made of good wax or china. They are about as Cheap as the coarse Dolls. Please call and examine.

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

A True Incident.

A few days ago a lady paid a visit to C. B. Routley's Fancy Goods Store and enquired the price of a certain line of Christmas Cards which were displayed on a table.

"Ten cents each," was the reply.

The lady drew a quick breath and looked surprised.

"What is the matter; are the Cards too dear?" spoke up Mr. Routley.

"Oh, no; not at all!" the lady quickly replied. I was surprised at the cheapness. I was asked twenty-five cents for the same style of card a few minutes ago in a stationery store up street."

MORAL:—Look through Routley's cards before you buy.

Who loves not Christmas, who joins not in the heartiness, cordiality, mirth, and good cheer of this consecrated festival, can scarce be human.

BY VIRTUE OF AN ORDER OF THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE, Chancery Division, made in the matter of Margaret Elizabeth Rogers and others, infants,

TENDERS WILL BE RECEIVED

till Three o'clock P. M., on THURSDAY, the 15th DAY OF JANUARY, 1885, for the purchase of the property situate in the Village of Ashburnham, and the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, Ontario, known as the OTONABEE MILLS PROPERTY, and owned by the late George Charles Rogers, and comprising the following buildings and privileges :

A Flouring Mill and Oatmeal Mill. The Flouring Mill is a stone building, 40x60 ft., four stories high, covered with iron. It is furnished with a system of stones and rolls and has all necessary machinery. Has a storage capacity of 15,000 bushels, and is fitted with elevators for receiving and discharging grain. Has a capacity of about 160 barrels per diem. The Oatmeal Mill is a stone and wooden building, 60x20 ft., three stories in height and furnished with proper machinery. Brick Kiln for drying Oats adjoining. Capacity about 30 barrels per diem. The Mills are situate in the Village of Ashburnham, at foot of a raceway, about 1,000 ft. in length, by which water is brought from a point on the Otonabee River, where a dam across the river is constructed—nine feet head. Along this race are powers utilized in driving a Planing Mill, Carding Mill, and Furniture Factory, Agricultural Implement Factory and Saw Mill. The Saw Mill is furnished with proper machinery and has a capacity of about 20,000 feet per diem. The buildings, dams and other parts of the property are in fair order and condition. The land sold with the property comprises in all about 9½ acres, affording piling ground for Saw Mill and for other purposes. A small storey and a half frame dwelling on the and, leased to tenant. There are threestorey houses and two offices in connection with Flouring and Saw Mills. There is also a large Ice House, with storage capacity of about 12,000 blocks.

A switch from the Grand Junction Branch of the Midland Railway runs through the grounds to the mills. These mills are well situated for business and do a fair share of the local trade, and a large gristing business. The Flouring and Oatmeal Mills are now operated by the estate, and the business and good will will be transferred to the purchaser. Horses, Waggons, &c., and Office Furniture will be sold with the property.

Ashburnham adjoins the Town of Peterborough and is separated therefrom by the River Otonabee. The population of both places is from 9,000 to 10,000, and they are well supplied with railway facilties by the Grand Trunk and Canada Pacific Railways. Full particulars of the property to be sold, leases, diagrams, etc., of the property, can be had on application to John Burnham, Solicitor, Peterborough. Tenders must be addressed to Charles Alexander Waller, Master at Peterborough, and will be binding upon the person tendering for the period of two weeks after the 15th day of January next, within which time the party whose tender is accepted will receive notice thereof. No tender necessarily accepted.

TERMS :

Ten per cent. on acceptance of tender, and the balance within one month thereafter without interest. $20,000 may remain on mortgage at 6 per cent. if the purchaser desires. Other conditions to be the standing conditions of the said Court.

Dated 10th Dec'r., 1884.

AN IMPORTANT CONVENTION.

An Agreement Between the United States and Nicaragua Regarding a Canal.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—A convention has been concluded between the United States and Nicaragua. The United States undertakes to construct in accordance with surveys and plans made under the direction of Mr. A. G. Menocal, of the United States Navy, a ship canal suitable for all demands and requirements of commerce, to begin at the port of San Juan de Nicaragua or Greytown, and to intersect the San Juan River above Rio Colorada and thence by the River San Juan to Lake Nicaragua and across that lake to the mouth of the River Delamadio and thence to the Pacific Ocean at the Harbor of Brito. In consideration of this undertaking on the part of the United States, the Republic of Nicaragua is to cede, grant and convey to the United States of America the right of way through her territory, along and across the water highways thereof, and in addition thereto in perpetuity a strip of land three miles wide on each side of the said canal, together with the ports and harbours of San Juan de Nicaragua, or Greytown and Brito, respectively on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The absolute ownership, control or management of the canal is to be in and exercised by the United States. The Republic of Nicaragua is to have one-half the tolls levied and collected on the commerce of the canal land granted to the United States to become its property and part of its domain. The Republic of Nicaragua, however, retains certain rights of police regulation to prevent, if necessary, smuggling or illegal interpretation into her own territory. C. W. Tolls will be regulated by the United States and collected by its officers. The United States has power to make whatever provisions she may deem necessary for the protection and defence of the canal, but she undertakes not to employ or to use any of her armed force against Central American states friendly to Nicaragua except for a protection of her own property. There shall be no discrimination against Nicaragua in canal tolls. The only benefit which Nicaragua obtains in return for these concessions is the development of her natural resources and her share of the canal tolls. There is also to be reciprocity in trade between the two countries, and in all respects the commerce of the two nations is to be on equal footing. Nicaragua is at all times to assist in maintaining the security of the canal. This treaty is the most important and far reaching our Government has ever engaged in. Its provisions all contravene those of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty made with Great Britain in 1750.

ELECTRICITY IN MATS.

A New Invention that will Render Every House Burglar Proof.

Among the latest uses to which electricity is applied with remarkable success is in burglar alarms, through means of an invisible matting. Every opening in a large building can have an invisible mat, which upon the least touch will start a bell ringing that will not stop until the occupant awakes and turns it off. If desired the gas can be turned on simultaneously with the alarm, thus fully exposing the burglar. This matting is placed under the carpet, and by means of a wire attached sends off the alarm. The very servants in the house do not know where the mats are situated, and cannot cut the connecting wires. Any sized mat can be made to fit any opening, or they can be placed near a safe or any place where valuables are kept. Placed under the table or desk an almost imperceptible pressure of the foot calls the servant or attendant, the waiter in the kitchen, the butler and coachman, respectively, from the pantry and stable. No sneak thief can enter a building or dwelling without starting an alarm immediately. A man coming home late at night steps on the mat ; the gas is lit instantly downstairs and upstairs. He goes to his bedroom, presses the mat there, and the gas downstairs goes out, leaving that in his room lit. The surface of the carpet is not made uneven, nor does it wear the carpet in the least. The system has met with wonderful success, and many large dwellings on Fifth Avenue supplied with it are as difficult to enter undetected as blowing up a safe when the cashier is present. At the dinner table the lady of the house calls a servant by a pressure of the foot, without sounding a gong.

A GRAND array of choice new goods at the "Golden Lion." Every department replete and attractive. Fair, VanEvery & Co. extend you happy greetings, and an inspection of their immense stock well worth your attention.

Fire in a Church.

HAMILTON, Dec. 15.—This morning at ten o'clock smoke was seen issuing from the Reformed Episcopal church, corner of Hunter and Park streets. The brigade was summoned, and on their arrival found the woodwork in the rear end of the the church and immediately under the pulpit on fire. The fire had started in the floor under the furnace, ran along the floor to the wall and up between the plaster and brickwork. It was soon extinguished, however. The loss will not exceed $250, covered by insurance in the Hartford Company. The building has been burned three times, the cause being the same as in the present case, over-heating of the furnace.

Jumped the Track.

DENVER, Dec. 15.—Last night as a freight train on the Denver and Rio Grande railway was coming down the mountains near Marshall pass the air brakes failed. After gaining a speed of fifty miles an hour the engine jumped the track, followed by twenty cars, all of which were wrecked. The engineer and fireman jumped and were badly bruised. The brakesman was buried under the wreck. The conductor and rear brakesman succeeded in detaching and stopping one car.

Death of a Veteran Minister.

The Rev. Dr. Carroll, who was seized with a paralytic attack while attending to his ministrial duties at Norway three days ago, died about ten o'clock Saturday morning, at his residence, Kingston road, aged 73 years. The rev. gentleman has been connected with the Methodist Church of Canada for many years, and was greatly esteemed for his literary attainments as well as for his distinguished personal piety and devotion to duty.—Toronto Mail.

Fatal Collapse of a Bridge.

ST. HYACINTHE, Dec. 15.—A serious accident occurred about 2 o'clock to-day at the Barsalow bridge, now in course of construction. A span 100 feet long was blown over. Twenty men were working at the time. One of them, Allard, died at 4 p.m.; another, St. Germain, is not expected to live. Another man, whose name is unknown, is also dying. The others are very badly though less severely injured. Damage about $1,000.

Smallpox in Kingston.

KINGSTON, Dec. 15.—Considerable excitement was caused in the city to-day on account of a case of smallpox appearing yesterday. Minnie Scully, a nurse girl in Sir Richard Cartwright's house, was found to be suffering with the disease, and immediately she was removed to the hospital, which is well equipped and ready for patients. It is not known where she caught the disease.

The Smallpox in Hastings.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 15.—Another member of the Lindsay family in Elzevir, namely, Mrs. Lindsay, has died from the smallpox. Six others of the family are suffering from the same disease, and all these but one are certain to recover. The disease in Elzevir has been confined to this family.

RIOTOUS WORKINGMEN.

TURIN, Dec. 15.—The municipal authorities yesterday refused to receive a deputation of unemployed workmen. The refusal exasperated the men and a riot ensued. The windows of the Mayor's apartments were smasked, and 25 arrests were made.

THE SPANISH TREATY.

MADRID, Dec. 15.—The press is uneasy over the prospect of the rejection by the American Congress of the new treaty. The proposed treaty with Holland is also in danger of falling through, the Netherlands Government insisting upon as favorable terms as obtained by America.

WOLSELEY'S MOVEMENTS.

CAIRO, Dec. 15.—Lord Wolseley inspected Debbeh to-day, and started for Korti.

NEWS FROM GORDON.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A Korte despatch says a messenger who has arrived from Khartoum in eleven days reports that Gen. Gordon was well, and recently severely defeated the rebels, killing a large number and blowing up the forts at Omdermann.

THE THUNDERER'S VIEW.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Times arrives at the conclusion that the explosion must be traced in some way to America. It says the moment has come to ask whether the American law might not be altered so that impurity could no longer be accorded to men who make no secret of their intentions. The knowledge that the dastardly promoters of outrages are loathed and execrated by a vast majority of Americans encourages the hope that if the bridge outrage shall be eventually traced to transatlantic agency America will not be content with a mere expression of horror, but will be roused to take such action as is to be expected from a civilized community in dealing with the object of scoundrels.

APPEALING FOR HELP.

CAIRO, Dec. 15.—It is reported the Mahdi has written to Osman Digma appealing for reinforcements, and that Osman has replied it is impossible to comply, as he himself expects an attack from the enemy. The Nile expedition has gone into encampment at Korti.

BISMARCK'S DEFEAT.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A Berlin despatch to the London Times states that the refusal of the Reichstag to grant a paltry thousand marks sorely needed for Prince Bismarck's assistant is Opposition revenge, because the Government refuses daily pay to the deputies. Such factiousness and shabbiness was never before exhibited by any body calling itself a Parliament.

BANK TREASURER PUNISHED.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—Blanchett, treasurer of the bank at Annecy, France, who embezzled $100,000 has been sentenced to six years' imprisonment.

STEAMER FOUNDERED.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The steamship Caranza from Rotterdam for Lisbon, foundered off the Isle of Wight. Eleven persons were drowned and eighteen saved.

THE COLLIERY DISASTER.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Distressing accounts of the explosion in the colliery at Oruna continue to arrive. Miners from other collieries, wishing to descend to attempt to rescue, were forcibly prevented by their wives and children, while the relatives of the victims in the burning mine were kneeling and imploring the rescuers to descend. The company will provide pensions for the families of the victims.

THE BRIDGE EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The Irish Times, referring to the London explosion, says it will greatly aggravate the public mind that the dynamiters have struck a blow at the heart of commerce in London, and it will be strange indeed if the wealth and ingenuity of London merchants fail to lay bare the secret of the dynamiters' organization.

ALLEGED CRUELTIES.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The News agency publishes a letter from a private soldier stating that Negrier in defeating 10,000 Chinese regulars handed over two hundred prisoners to the best French riflemen for targets in ball practice, and that all of them were killed. The newspapers in Paris demand a prompt and categorical denial of the statement.

ANOTHER DEFEAT.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day abolished the grant for the Catholic Theological Colleges. The grant was supported by the Government.

CHARGE NOT PROVEN.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—The grand jury has thrown out the bill against the Dean of Hereford, arrested some days ago, charged with violating public decency in Hyde Park.

He Became Interested.

"Husband," said Mrs. Smith the other night, fixing her eyes significantly upon the seven-year-old pride of the family, "I am afraid you will have to correct Johnny ; he has been a bad boy this afternoon."

Husband, glancing over his paper,—"What has he been doing?"

"He took his Shawlneck rooster over to Mrs. Jones', and Tom Jones got out his Black Spanish, and they let the poor creatures fight for more than an hour."

Husband, straightening up,—"Which whipped?"—Macon Telegraph.

Two Persons Drowned.

OSHAWA, Dec. 13.—This afternoon while two brothers named Riordan and a boy named Fletcher were skating on the Cedardale Pond the ice gave way, all three going down. The bodies were recovered shortly afterwards and the elder Riordan was resuscitated.

Jenny Lind.

Mme. Jenny Lind-Goldsmith is more than a mere honorary member of the faculty of the London college of music, and goes every day to Albert Hall to teach the class, often staying an hour or more longer than the the rules require.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1884.

FOR THEIR COUNTRY.

The Hon. John Carling, the very efficient Postmaster-General, in an able speech delivered by him recently at London, gave, among other valuable information, statistics showing the great advance that has been made by Canada in industrial pursuits. He gave good reason for supposing that the progress in this respect has been accelerated since the last census, but from the convenience of using the figures of the official returns he especially compared the industrial statistics of 1881 with those for 1871, as showing a marked increase.

The Reform press is endeavoring to break the force of this satisfactory statement by putting an erroneous interpretation upon the facts. They assert that of the ten years between 1871 and 1881 the Mackenzie Administration was in office for five years, and therefore should be credited with at least half of the increase. This claim is utterly unfounded. Everyone who is acquainted with the industrial pursuits of Canada knows well that manufacturing made little, if any, progress while Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Blake, Sir Richard Cartwright, and their colleagues were at the head of affairs. In many localities and in many industries there was a retrogression instead of an advance. Closed factories were a very common experience of those days, while others barely succeeded in keeping open, in the hope of a better policy.

Another statement of the Reform critics is that the National Policy was only in force for two years out of the ten, and that therefore the greater portion of the admitted progress was due to a low tariff and not to protection. This is no more justifiable than their previous contention. In the first place a very large portion of the increase in our manufactures is attributable to the last two years of the decade—far more than a proportionate annual amount. And as to the first three years, their contention is only another instance of the obstinacy with which the free traders cling to a fallacy. The advocates of the National Policy attach no importance to any particular figure for customs duties. They maintain that the tariff should be so fixed as to afford the necessary protection for home industries, and that it is only too low when it does not do this—the requirements for revenue being, of course, also considered. During the time of our neighbours' civil war, and long afterwards, the state of affairs in the United States was such that our tariff, though lower than at present, was sufficiently protective, as was proved by the fact that it did protect—that our manufactures increased instead of being overwhelmed by slaughtered goods and by unfair competition from south of the international line. This undue pressure was just beginning to be felt before Sir John's first Dominion Administration went out of power, and consequently an increase or rather a readjustment of the duties was contemplated to meet the altered circumstances. But unfortunately the Reform administration came in and the progress of the country and its industries was checked for five years. It was because Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Blake, Sir Richard Cartwright and their colleagues were too obstinate to listen to the complaints of the manufacturers and operatives—because they were too much wedded to mistaken theories to adapt their policy to the situation and the times—that they failed to satisfy the country and were rejected by the people.

Prince Hohenlohe's Visit

Prince Hohenlohe, who last year made a tour of Canada, especially interesting himself in the North-West, expresses eminently favourable opinions of the Dominion as a field for German emigrants. In a letter just published he says there is no State in the New World where every settler feels the security of good laws as in Canada. He claims that nowhere in America, except where Germany now possesses colonies of her own, will the German emigrant feel as comfortable as here, and he expresses the hope that it will soon be possible to convince the people of Germany that a settlement in Canada is far more promising than in the United States. Prince Hohenlohe's confidence in this country will doubtless be the means of sending us many valuable emigrants.—Globe.

Gas Explosion.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—A gas explosion occurred in the residence of Mr. L. David, Sherbrooke street, this morning. The house has been completely wrecked. Every pane of glass and ornament was smashed, the porch and hall doors were blown into the street, and three of the servants hurt. Riley, the geoom, was severely burned and bruised; Margaret Hart, cook, burned about the face; Lizzie Townsend, housemaid, suffers from inhaling the gas. All have been removed to the hospital. The cause of the explosion was carelessness in entering the room when it was known there was an escape of gas.

An Adventurous Journey.

Mr. Joseph Doupe has just returned to Winnipeg from an arduous trip to the Rocky Mountain House, on the North Saskatchewan. Amongst his party was Messers W. E. Fudger, of Montreal, and Geo. Routleff, Toronto. In a raft accident, the latter was swept away by the current and drowned. After this the rest of the party were stopped by ice forming, and had to walk to Edmonton, carrying their kits a distance of one hundred miles.

A Tiger Loose.

A Large Bengal tiger, which escaped from S. H. Barrett's circus, near Dayton, Ohio, the other day, played much havoc with cattle and hogs before it was killed. Fortunately no human being came within the man-eaters clutches before he was dispatched.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

RECIPROCITY.

We have managed to get along in the past without reciprocity, and we will probably be able to exist without it in the future. That it would be advantageous to both countries is plain, but Canadians will applaud Sir John's statement that in view of the fact that her advances in this direction have been spurned on previous occasions, Canada will take no action in the matter until the Americans show a desire to wipe out the commercial Chinese wall between the two countries. — Montreal Star (Indep.)

AND EVERY YEAR.

Those who defend the duty on coal try to make the public believe that the producer pays the duty. We have always denied that such was the case, but we are now prepared to admit that this year perhaps they do.—Brockville Recorder (Ref.).

AS WEAK AS EVER.

The Mowat demonstrations have not strengthened the Reform party to any great extent.—Montreal Herald (Ref.).

IS IT TRUE?

There is more sympathy in the Ontario Government with the idea of Canadian independence than there is now or ever has been in the Dominion Government.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

THE TRUTH WILL OUT.

Canada is making a lively effort for a reciprocity treaty with us. We don't believe she can reciprocate. She hasn't half enough criminals to make the swap anything like even.—Chicago News.

THEY BLUNDERED.

Canadian reciprocity would be be worth more to the United States than all the other reciprocities which we can hope to arrange for on this continent. It was a mistake to suspend the old arrangement. It was a blunder not to make a new one.—Philadelphia Record.

CONSEQUENCE OF CRIME.

The most important function of government is not the making of law, but the execution of law. The great fundamental rules of conduct underlie all society and antedate all legislation. Legislatures may decree them; they cannot create them. They are necessary and imperative truths, quite as immutable as the cardinal principles of physical science. Any enactment in violation of them is essentially inoperative; and any attempt to ignore them or to defeat their application is inevitably disastrous. When the law is broken either society or the criminal must suffer, for it is fixed in the eternal order of things that the law will be executed either on the one or the other. Those are the alternatives and upon every autonomic community devolves the responsibility of making the choice between them.—New Orleans Picayune.

THE EGYPTIAN DIFFICULTY.

Europe will not listen to the proposal that we shall stay in Egypt, refuse strong government, and charge the bondholders with the expense. It only remains now to take the course which equity and statesmanship dictated from the first—to divide equitably the losses incident to confusion in Egypt, to guarantee good government and the due payment of whatever it is agreed that the country can afford, and to secure the protection of the interests which alone warranted our original interference.—London (Eng.) Times.

A CHRONIC DISEASE.

The Mail is apparantly about to compile a Globe concordance. It has begun the task by tabulating some three dozen different opprobrious epithets used by that journal, together with the number of times the more frequently occurring of them have been met with. It is a good idea. The paper upon which this honor is conferred, when it is hard up for opprobrious epithets—a very chronic state—will be saved the annoyances of repeating itself too often by referring to the Mail's tables.—Toronto World (Ind. Ref.)

MARK TWAIN IN BUFFALO.

He Recalls a Pleasant Remembrance of His Honeymoon.

In opening his entertainment in Buffalo the other evening, Mark Twain said:—"I notice many changes since I was a citizen of Buffalo fourteen or fifteen years ago. I miss the faces of many of my old friends. They have gone to the tomb—to the gallows—to the White House. Thus far the rest of us have escaped; but be sure our own turn is coming. Over us, with awful certainty, hangs one or another of these fates. Therefore, that we be secure against error, the wise among us will prepare for them all. This word of admonition may be sufficient; let us pass to cheerfuller things.

"I remember one circumstanse of bygone times with great vividness. I arrived here after dark on a February evening in 1870 with my wife and a large company of friends, when I had been a husband 24 hours, and they put us two in a covered sleigh and drove us up and down and every which way, through all the back streets in Buffalo; until I got ashamed and said, 'I asked Mr. Slee to get me a cheap boarding house. But I didn't mean that he should stretch economy to the going outside the state to find it.' The fact was there was a practical joke to the fore which I din't know anything about, and all this fooling around was to give it time to mature. My father-in-law, the late Jarvis Langdon, whom many of you will remember, had been clandestinely spending a fair fortune upon a house and furniture in Delaware avenue for us, and had kept his secret so well that I was the only person this side of Niagara that hadn't found it out. We reached the house at last, about ten o'clock, and were introduced to a Mrs. Johnson, the ostensible landlady. I took a glance around and then my opinion of Mr. Slee's judgment as a provider of cheap boarding houses for men who had to work for their living dropped to zero. I told Mrs. Johnson there had been an unfortunate mistake. Mr. Slee had evidently supposed I had money, whereas I only had talent, and so, by her leave, we would abide with her a week, and then she could keep my trunk and we would seek another place. Then the battallion of ambushed friends and relatives burst in on us, out of closets, and behind curtains; the property was delivered over to us, and the joke revealed, accompanied with much hilarity. Such jokes as these are all too scarce in a person's life. That was a really admirable joke, for that house was so completely equipped in every detail—even to house servants and coachman—that there was nothing to do but just sit down and live in it. Well, the house isn't ours now but we've got the coachman yet. All these fifteen years he has been a living and constant reminder of that pleasant jest. He was a spruce young stripling then with his future all before him. He showed himself worthy of high good fortune, and it has fallen richly to his lot, beyond his most distempered dreams; he's got a wife and nine children now. I would not discriminate. I would not show partiality; I wish you all the same luck."

A Daring Smuggler.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The customs officers at Victoria, British Columbia, have at last succeeded in capturing the American schooner Fleetwing, one of the most daring smugglers on the Pacific coast. She had just landed her cargo of Chinamen, which was run in near Foulbay during the night, and when daylight appeared the vessel lay off one of the islands becalmed and was easily taken. She has been employed during the summer in smuggling Chinamen into the United States from British Columbia, and on her return trip would smuggle the cargo into Canadian territory.

A Shower of Beef.

A farmer in East Sandwich named Dennis Rousseau, while blowing out stumps with dynamite on Thursday, rammed a cartridge into the ground in such a way that the fuse hung fire. The stump caught fire at noon. Two cows strayed near, and when the cartridge exploded there was a shower of beef for ten acres around.—Chatham Planet.

WONDERS OF NATURE.

Recent Phenomena in Quebec—Fall of an Aerolite Five Feet in Circumference.

Quebec, Dec. 15.—About 3 o'clock on Saturday morning a strange cloud appeared in the sky over this city, which gave forth two distinct flashes of light accompanied by a loud noise. At first it was thought to have been lightning, but the phenomena was not solved till this afternoon, when news reached the city from Chateau Richer, fifteen miles below Quebec, that the same noise was heard there, with a flash of lightning of great brilliancy, which is said to have been caused by the fall of an aerolite upon the farm of Mr. Lefrancois at that place, and which buried itself in the earth to a depth of five or six feet. It has since been dug up, and found to measure about five feet in circumference.

There was also another phenemenon last week, which was at first discredited, but has now been verified. It appears that an army of fish were observed in the river opposite the city, and so great were they in number as to stop a canoe which was being pulled over the river. Half of the fish were dead. It is thought that they were leaving the upper waters of the gulf, and were driven back by the recent heavy storms and killed.

A Lunatic Asylum Tragedy.

Jefferson City, Mo., Dec. 14.—A bloody tragedy occurred shortly after midnight last night, at the insane hospital in the State penitentiary. John Mason, a convict who has been considered harmlessly insane, arose and securing a heavy iron poker went into adjoining room where four fellow patients were sleeping, and approaching them, dealt one, Charles Signor, three terrible blows over the head, breaking his skull over each eye. He then struck Louis Hoelschan five times, fracturing his skull. Passing quickly to the adjoining ward he attacked Andrew Allison, colored, another sleeper, cutting his head and face and severing an artery in his head. At this juncture a patient grappled with the maniac, the guard's attention was attracted and Mason was overpowered and disarmed. Signor and Hoelschen cannot recover. Allison's injures are not fatal.

Stieglitz's Roubles.

The late Baron Stieglitz, whose fortune was said to exceed 300,000,000 roubles, was well known for his hospitality and generosity. His magnificent palace on the English quay at St. Petersburg was noted for the splendor of its entertainments, and was a never-failing resource of the poor. The baron, though he did not like to be reminded of the fact, was of German origin, his father having emigrated from Hildesheimer, in Hanover, at an early age. He and his son amassed their immense wealth in various ways, chiefly by speculation and by their cotton mills. In 1854 and 1855 they lent the Russian Government 100,000,000 roubles, and even down to the last the Baron continued to exercise great influence over the financial department of the Czar.

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for Wm. Gillesby, Hamilton and Grimsby: "I was for many years afflicted with Costiveness, Billiousness and untimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by John McKee.

THE REASON WHY

Our Shoe Store is always Crowded

With Customers is very apparent to those that have visited it and seen our immense Stock and compared our prices with those asked elsewhere for the same goods. Never have we had such Bargains in Boots and Shoes as now. Never have we sold as many as now, and the more we sell the

GREATER BARGAINS

we have, as we are able to buy in larger quantities and at corresponding low prices. We retail as many Boots and Shoes as most jobbers sell at wholesale, consequently manufacturers make no difference in price to us than wholesale trade, while smaller dealers are obliged to pay which is about the same as our regular retail price for the same quality of goods. It must be very evident to any thinking person that there must be a reason for our immense Shoe Business, and that our low prices, complete stock, and attention shown to our customers can be the only attraction powerful enough to draw such crowds to our store, and place us, with but two years' growth, as one of the largest retail Shoe Houses in Eastern Ontario.

JOBBERS' PRICES,

Remember our system of business is square with all. Goods marked in plain figures and no second or third prices made.

A MURDERER CAPTURED.

Arrest of the Man who Killed Gaoler Leach, of Sandwich.

DETROIT, Dec. 13.—A special from St. Louis, Mo., says:—After nine months of liberty Wm. O'Callaghan, alias Joseph Rice, alias James, alias Moran, the murderer of Gaoler Leach, of Sandwich, Ont., is once more behind the bars, and the prospects of his return to Canada are excellent. He was arrested as a common burglar by the police of Hannibal. His identification soon followed, and thence came his own admission. Between one and two o'clock on Thursday morning W. J. Patterson, a wealthy banker at Barry, Ill., across the river from Hannibal, was awakened in his room by two masked men who were standing over him with cocked revolvers. A fine pistol, a gold watch, and $8 in money were found, but not being satisfied with this, the burglars threatened the banker with instant death unless he revealed where his money was to be found. The man holding the revolver worked the trigger up and down, at the same time pushing the muzzle under the banker's ear, uttering all the while the most horrible imprecations. Becoming satisfied that their victim was not deceiving them the pair left, first warning Patterson that if he moved for an hour he would be shot dead. They bound and gagged him, and retreated to the river, which they crossed in a small boat, arriving in Hannibal about daylight. News of the burglary spread rapidly, and the arrival of two strangers in the town did not pass without comment. Observing they were noticed the pair endeavoured to leave town, but were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the Barry burglary. They gave their names as Joseph Rice and John Carr. While searching them the police found Rice had torn the lining entirely away from his hat, but Carr neglected this precaution, and when his headgear was elevated the lining fell over his face, transforming him into his true character of a masked burglar. Mr. Patterson, banker, identified them, and they both acknowledged they were the burglars. An application was made to Springfield for a requisition, and pending its issue the most sensational sequel was developed. A few month ago the Hannibal chief of police received a circular, signed W. J. Murray, chief of provincial detectives, Toronto, giving a minute description of Wm. O'Callaghan, who had escaped from Sandwich gaol, after killing Gaoler Leach, and offering a reward for the murderer's capture. Soon after Rice's arrest, the officer discovered he answered the description of the fugitive murderer exactly. Marshal Kirkland then telegraphed to Toronto, and received additional telegraphic descriptions which placed his identity beyond doubt. The Canadian authorities were notified to come for the man, and an answer was received that an officer with papers would be here as soon as possible.

Your correspondent had an interview with O'Callaghan to-day, and notified him to the effect that he was going back to Sandwich. He at first denied his identity, but after a while gave up and said he was the man. He said, "My real name is James, and I have a mother and sister living in Detroit. There were three of us got away from Sandwich, and I was told afterwards that Leach had recovered. I shook the others right away with the intention of getting into the States alone. I crossed at Amherstburg, made my way to Pennsylvania, and tried to work in the coal mines, but could not make it go. Then I came east. I was in Cincinnati for some time, then in Indianapolis, and Decatur, Ill. I went to Chicago and there got acquainted with Carr." We started south, with the intention of taking in the New Orleans exposition. I felt this would come, and wanted to get over in Barry." He has served in Columbus, and is now wanted for burglary and murder. Carr will be taken to Illinois.

A MOTHER'S TEARS.

A Man who was Completely Lured From the Gold Fields by a Photograph.

In the crowd at the Lake Shore Depot last night was abig fellow wearing a fur overcoat and a broad-brimmed hat. He walked up and down the great platform with his hands in his pockets smoking and singing, apparently iff the best of humor. One of those inquisitive men always to be found near a railway train, who had been watching him for some time, finally ventured to address him.

"From the west?"

The individual in fur removed his cigar and replied: "You bet."

"Going east?"

"You bet."

The inquisitive man became interested. He was going east, too. It was eleven years since he had been east of Lake Michigan, and he was doing down to see the old folks in Pennsylvania.

"That ain't a marker to me," said the Westerner, with great vehemence. "I went west in '49 and this is my first appearance this side of the Rocky Mountains since. I live when I'm to home in Maine, and that's where I'm going now. When I left there I was a boy of twenty-two or thereabouts. Do you think they will know we now?" and he stroked his iron gray beard thoughtfully.

"They will if you've got rich in the meantime," said the inquisitive man, making an effort to appear as if he did not care whether the question implied by his remark was answered or not. He was equally surprised when his companion responded:

"That's just it, stranger. I've been on the coast these thirty-five years. Jerusalem! but think of it—a lifetime, almost. I've had mor'n a thousand prospects that were considered immense. I've been chasing something, nothing, all these years. Sleeping or waking, I've seen the glitter of gold. Did you ever get that way? No, of course you didn't. I have seen gold everywhere and could not find it. The mountains with their snowy peaks, the glistening ice, the sparkling frost have all lied me with wonder, avarice, greed. Everything that shone has tempted me. My eyes have been strained so long, my whole being has been so absorbed in this cursed search that it tires me to look anywhere or at anything. I like to smoke and close my eyes and think. And yet I do not like to think. A wasted life is not pleasant for reflection. The hard-ships that I have endured, the things that might have been, haunt me and disgust me with myself."

"Relatives down East?" inquired the man by his side, who was getting interested.

"Yes, sir, my mother, and that's what's taking me over the divide, stranger. A curious thing about that. Mighty curious. For thirty-five years I hardly gave the old lady a thought. She wrote frequently and I wrote when I had time, but not like I ought to have done. I was absorbed in gold hunting, when one day I received a letter from her containing her photograph. She's more'n seventy-five years old. It struck me like an avalanche. 'Poor old mother,' says I, and as I looked up I saw myself, wrinkled and gray, in a glass, and observed, 'Poor fool boy.' Well, sir, from that moment I lost interest in gold, quartz, and placers. When I looked at the snowy peaks I saw my mother. I dreamed of her at night. Her eyes were always before me swimming in tears as they were the day we parted. Finally I gave up, converted what little property I had into dust, and determined to go home. I don't care who knows it. Here's a '49er who has been lured from the gold country by a mother's tears. It will pay me richer dividends than the things that I have been chasing so long."—Chicago Herald.

Interesting to Masons.

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—A notable Masonic convention was held here during the past week to consider the advisibility of establishing a Union Sovereign sanctuary, embracing all the mysteries from the fourth degree of the ninety-sixth degree inclusive, to be known as Sovereign sanctuary of the Royal Masonic rite for the United States. Representatives from twenty-three States attended. The constitution and by-laws were adopted, and the body organized. A special meeting of the Sovereign sanctuary of the Egyptian Masonic rite of Memphis was convened, when it was voted to turn over to Sovereign sanctuary of the Royal Masonic rite all property, etc., belonging to the corporation, and authorize it to work all the degrees above the third, heretofore worked on and controlled by the Sovereign sanctuary. It was unanimously voted to dissolve the Sovereign sanctuary of the Egyptian Masonic rite of Memphis.

A TEXTILE CRITIC.

We find in an exchange an extract from the Warehouseman and Drapers' Journal, (an English trade publication), a short article deploring the fiscal errors of poor benighted Canadians who persist in thinking protection better for Canada than free trade would be. It goes without saying that every Englishman knows not only what policy is best for England, but what is best for every other country under the sun. He can point with complacency to the deplorable effects of protection in the United States, France and Germany, and to the beneficient results flowing from free trade in Turkey, Egypt and India. The journal named draws attention to the evils the National Policy is producing in Canada. Purchases of cottons in England by Canadian buyers have this year "been smaller than usual, particularly in prints. * * * The Canadians have now a print works of their own, and in low goods notably the English market cannot compete." The Canadians must be a thoughtful set of people to make prints so cheap that the English market cannot compete. Folks who do that sort of thing must be lost to the commonest sense of decency. The Journal continues:—"For revenue purposes, grey and white cottons have almost ceased to be a source of income to Canada. Possibly this will soon be the case with prints, and what good to Canada or to the Canadians?" We might put in the poor plea that within the last four years cottons have been reduced in price from 20 to 50 per cent. Factory cotton which sold for 5 cents a yard in 1880 now sells for 3½ cents; shirting which then commanded 12½ cents, now sells for 7 cents, and so on. Of course that sort of thing is no "good to Canada or the Canadians" if the cottons are not bought in the English market, because of inability to compete with the cheap Canadian cottons.

Still further on the Journal says:—

"The owners of cotton mills have got none. Most of the mills have changed hands at ruinous prices, and the Canadian papers give a deplorable account of their present condition while the revenue has been robbed of an amount equal to all the wages which have been paid to the workpeople, so that it would have been as cheap to treat these mill hands as paupers, and better for the mill owners."

Would our venerable and complaining textile contemporary be surprised to learn that the revenue has not been "robbed" of an amount equal to the wages of cotton operatives? Would it be surprised to learn that it has not been robbed at all? Would it be surprised to learn that duties on imported cottons realize more revenue now than before the change in the tariff? Well, such is the case. In 1878 the duties on cottons realized $1,203,340; last year they realized $2,251,881. There has since been some falling off, no doubt, but the sum paid into the Treasury is certainly larger than in 1877 or 1878.

But if such were not the case—if it were true that the revenue had suffered loss, we do not know that the people of Canada would wish to close their cotton mills and "treat these mill hands as paupers" in order to increase the revenue. They do not desire to treat their working people as paupers. They would rather provide work for all, so that all may earn their own living. We presume that a Canadian operative can make as many yards of cotton in a day as an English or New England operative. If they cannot make it so cheaply, it is because they command higher wages. But the fact is that they make it very nearly as cheaply as the foreigners can make it. There would be no gain in closing our mills, for the daughters of many people in poor or moderate circumstances would thereby be thrown out of work, and the people would not get their goods at any lower prices, while the quality would be very much poorer than it now is.

No; Ephraim is joined to his idol of protection. While it is too bad that British manufacturers should have cause to grieve over loss of Canadian trade, Canadians are foolish enough to think that a system which finds employment for some thousands of hands, which gives the people cheaper and better goods than they ever had before, and which does not cause any loss to the revenue, is not one which they are yet ready to abandon, even with the philanthropic purpose of supporting the operatives as paupers.—Hamilton Spectator.

A Warning to Shippers.

The United States Supreme Court has just decided a case in favour of the Pennsylvania road, where five horses were shipped in one car, the road's liability being limited to $200 for each horse. By some accident or negligence of the road or its employes, one of the horses was killed and the others lost. It then appeared that the horses were race horses, and the owner offered to show $25,000 damages, but the testimony was excluded, and he got a verdid for $1,200, which is now confirmed by the highest court. It is a good warning for shippers who imagine they can get valuable freight carried cheaply, by placing upon it an undervaluation, and get large damage if it gets injured or destroyed.—Exchange.

This Evening.

Don't fail to attend the social to be given this evening in St John's Church school house. A good programme has been prepared consisting of vocal and instrumental music and recitations. The Fire Brigade Band Orchestra will be present. Refreshments will be served. The doors will open at half past seven and the admittance will be only 25 cents.

Southward Ho!

The first two passengers bound for New Orleans to see the World's Exhibition, Mr. Mathew Green, of Ashburnham, and Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald, of Otonabee, left per Grand Trunk Railway on Monday evening. Some weeks ago Mr. John Fenton, of Otonabee, went southward with the idea of purchasing a hotel property. His friends may now find him settled and ready to receive his friends and customers at 201 Camp street, New Orleans. No doubt 201 will be the head-quarters of all who visit New Orleans from this vicinity.

"NOISY BOYS."
The "Noisy Boys" are coming out.

Personal.

The anniversary services of the Uxbridge Methodist Church were held on Sunday, Dec. 7th, when, the Guardian says, "The Rev. Thomas Manning, B.A., of the Charlotte Street Church, Peterborough, preached very instructive and deeply impressive sermons." In the notice of the tea meeting the Guardian has the following to say of the address delivered by the popular pastor of the Charlotte Street Church :—

"The Rev. Mr. Manning then addressed the meeting. The address was a thoughtful and earnest one on the 'Power of the Church of Christ,' dealing with the influence and work. Mr. Manning is evidently an original thinker, and with manly independence expresses strongly and clearly his convictions. He takes broad patriotic views of Christian life."

John Beach, who was so seriously injured by falling from a terrace on Rubidge street, is now recovering and will soon be able to be about.

We are informed on good authority that Mr. Alex. Elliott has been appointed to the ticket agency in Peterborough of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Elliott is an enterprising young man, and no doubt he will manage the business capably.

The Tavernier Co.

When a person purchases an article at a certain price and speaks of it as good, he generally means that it is good for the price paid. The same rule holds good in other things. If a man is said to have made a good speech, the meaning is, a good one for the occasion on which it is delivered. And when an entertainment is referred to in the usual way, a "good" one generally the meaning is, a good one considering the price of admission. These philosophical observations were suggested by the performance given by the Tavernier Dramatic Company in the Opera House on Monday evening, when the prices were very low—10 and 20 cents. It was a good performance, an entertaining play, "The Mighty Dollar," and well acted. But we do not call it a good performance in the usual sense, that is, considering the low figure at which the tickets were sold, for had the price been 25 cents, or 50 cents, it would still be a good entertainment, and no one would feel dissatisfied. There was a large attendance, and everyone appeared to have thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. Miss Ida Van Cortland has visited Peterborough several times, and she has become a favorite. On Monday night she deepened the favourable impression previously made. Mr Tavernier is a good comedian, and his drolleries not only kept the house in good humour, but caused an almost continuous roar of laughter. Mr. Walter Day also took his part with ability. The company is a large one and the other parts were acted creditably. The singing of little Miss Annie Bird was wonderful. She was twice r called. The company will present "The Danites" this evening.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Young Man is Caught in Machinery and is Buried into Eternity.

On Saturday Mr. Geo. Hunter, a son of the proprietor of the Hales' Bridge Mills, took his axe to the grindstone in the saw mill, with the intention of sharpening it. He took up the belt which drives the grindstone and was about to put it on the pulley.

By some means his hand was caught between the belt and pulley and he was immediately jerked over the shafting. He was thrown into some gearing and was ground up and torn to pieces.

His head was horribly mangled and almost every stitch of clothing was stripped from his body, even to his boots.

The deceased unfortunate was a vigorous young man of about 22 years of age. He was taken to Port Hope on Saturday for burial.

Death of the Rev. Dr. Rice.

The Rev. Dr. Rice, senior superintendent of the Methodist Church, died at Toronto on Monday afternoon after a protracted illness, at the advanced age of 69 years.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows :—Strong winds and moderate gales from south-west and north-west; cloudy to fair, colder weather, with snow flurries.

"NOISY BOYS."
The "Noisy Boys" are coming out.

Entertainment.

An entertainment will be held at the opening of St. Paul's Sabbath school rooms on Wednesday, 17th, at 8 o'clock. The programme will consist of music and recitations. In the afternoon, from 3 o'clock, there will be a sale of fancy and useful articles, which will continue during the evening. Refreshments both afternoon and evening. Admission, afternoon, 10 cents; evening, 15.

Sir John Macdonald.

Sir John Macdonald will pass through Peterborough on the Ontario and Quebec Railway at 6.43 o'clock this evening on his way to Toronto. Among those who will accompany the Premier are Sir Hector Langevin, the Hon. A. P. Caron, the Hon. J. H. Pope, the Hon. John Carling and the Hon. J. A. Chapleau. The party will be met at the station by some of their friends.

The Rink.

The work of "making" the ice is being actively pushed forward, and our readers may expect to hear of the opening of the rink in a day or two. The ice at the bottom has to be carefully built up by sprinkling and gradual flooding, so as to make it level and solid. This usually takes several days. In the meantime there is an active demand for curlers' and skaters' tickets, over 50 of the former having already been issued.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing. Andrew McNeil.

A Merry Christmas to All.

This is the season for greetings of a friendly nature; a time when well wishes are exchanged among fellow beings; when hearts that have perhaps been shrouded with an icy coldness during the year now fast drawing to a close throw off their cold burden and put on instead the broad mantle of charity and forgiveness, and "peace on earth, good will toward men" is for a time, at least, observed. This is, too, a time when reformation in many forms is steadily going on among men; some who have in the past indulged, more or less, in the various temptations that are daily strewn in the path of every-day life, are making resolutions of amendment for the future, and moral reformation is progressing. This is as it should be, and many who have in the past indulged in the silly, and, what is more, expensive habit of buying cheap and trashy clothing, are now leaving their orders as Habiliment Hall, where the quality of the goods is undoubted and the workmanship guaranteed. A. McNEIL, George street.

Dr. Barnardo's Home.

A social in aid of the funds of the Home will be held at Hazelbrae on Friday, the 19th inst. Admission, 25 cents. The following programme of vocal and instrumental music cannot fail to prove an attraction :—

PART I.

1. Pianoforte Duet.....
2. Quartet....Lo! the Early Beams of Morning! Miss Banemann, Miss Wells, Mr. Butcher and Mr. Geale,
3. Recitation.....Mr. Cooper.
4. Solo.....Mr. A. D. Browne.
5. Duet.....Miss Banemann and Mr. A. Lech.
6. Song.....Mr. Geale
7. Quartet and chorus.....Robert, toi que j'aime.

PART II.

1. Pianoforte Solo.....
2. Song.....Miss Banemann
3. Reading.....Dr. Clarke.
4. Trio.....Blow, Gentle Gales, Miss Ellsworth, Miss Rush and Mr. Duff.
5. Duet.....Mr. Geale and Mr. Duff.
6. National Anthem.

Refreshments will be provided. Contributions towards this fund are earnestly solicited. An omnibus will be engaged by which, for a small sum, parties can be conveyed to and from the Home. It will leave the Post-office about seven o'clock. The proceedings will commence at 7.30.

Chit Chat.

—Colder.

—Blustering breezes blow.

—More snow has fallen.

—The merry bells are again jingling.

—After all perhaps we will not have a "black" Christmas.

—Electric light poles have been erected on Hunter street, between George and Aylmer streets.

—The new block on Water street, belonging to Messrs. Stevenson and Dumble, is almost completed.

—A commercial traveller purchased a ticket at the bazaar on a handsome dressing gown and as fortune would have it he won. A well known practical joker borrowed it from him and took it to the store of a prominent George street merchant, whom he knew had a ticket on the same article. "Look here Mr. ——; see what you have won at the bazaar!" Of course the dressing gown was smilingly received and was taken up stairs to try on. It fitted well and some four or five friends enjoyed the hospitality of the soi disant winner in some of the best oysters procurable. The news of the joke was very gradually broken to the victim and the traveller now wears his prize and smokes his fragrant cigar.

SATCHELS.

By express on Saturday we received a lot at $1.35, $1.75, and $2.25, bought for cash. If you want splendid value, see these goods, also the Purses at 35 and 50c. A. L. DAVIS & CO.

POLICE COURT.

THREATENING LANGUAGE.

TUESDAY, Dec. 16.—Thos. Casey was charged by his wife, Mary Casey, with having used threatening language towards her. Evidence was taken and the defendant was bound over to keep the peace at bonds of $500 for himself and two surities at $250 each.

VAGRANCY.

Edward Connors was charged by Chief of Police Johnston with being a vagrant and having no visible means of support. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was sent to gaol for a term of four months at hard labor.

Headquarters for

DOLLS!

I HAVE NOT BOUGHT ANY of the inferior grade of DOLLS this year, finding that they were stuffed with straw and other coarse material, made from poor wax, and very unnatural faces, as I found the trade was being overstocked with them.

Most of my Large Stock consists of a VERY SUPERIOR CLASS of DOLLS, being decidedly pretty and serviceable, and possessing bright, life-like faces, made of good wax or china. They are about as Cheap as the coarse Dolls. Please call and examine.

C. B. ROUTLEY

Santa Claus' Headquarters.

A True Incident.

A few days ago a lady paid a visit to C. B. Routley's Fancy Goods Store and enquired the price of a certain line of Christmas Cards which were displayed on a table.

"Ten cents each," was the reply.

The lady drew a quick breath and looked surprised.

"What is the matter; are the Cards too dear?" spoke up Mr. Routley.

"Oh, no; not at all!" the lady quickly replied. I was surprised at the cheapness. I was asked twenty-five cents for the same style of card a few minutes ago in a stationery store up street."

MORAL :—Look through Routley's cards before you buy.

Who loves not Christmas, who joins not in the heartiness, cordiality, mirth, and good cheer of this consecrated festival, can scarce be human.

NEW ORLEANS EXPOSITION.

The Exposition Opened by the President With the Aid of Electricity.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 16.—The day of the inauguration ceremonies of the World's Exposition opened bright and cheerfully, and thousands of people made preparations early in the morning for the long expected event. Public and private buildings along the principal streets were decorated. Along the street car routes visitors from the north were astonished to find hundreds of orange trees bending beneath ripe fruit, and to see the bloom of roses and the rich verdure of kitchen and flower gardens. At eleven o'clock Gen. McEnery, of Louisiana, and Major-General Gilan, commander of the State militia, with his staff, the mayor of New Orleans, members of the State Legislature, the foreign consuls, and guests assembled at the St. Charles hotel, whence the procession, escorted by a battalion of the Washington artillery, the Continental Guards in the garb of a centuary ago, and the Crescent Rifles, was formed. The procession, headed by the celebrated Mexican band, passed through the crowded streets to the river, where a steamer was in waiting to convey the official guests and their escort to the grounds. The various complexions of the members of the Mexican band, ranging from almost colourless white to dusky Indian colour, and equally varied character of their oddly shaped instruments, attracted much attention, while their unique musical selections elicited repeated applause. The French man-of-war Bouvette, lying in mid-stream, saluted the steamer on her approach, and then, hoisting her anchor, steamed up the river in her company. As the boats approached the wharf at the exposition grounds the Washington artillery fired a salute of one hundred guns. The guests proceeded to the spacious building, where the inauguration ceremonies were carried out in the programme, the machinery being set in motion by the President, who was in Washington, by the aid of electricity.

A FEMALE BIGAMIST.

Found Guilty—She Believed her First Husband was Dead.

KINGSTON, Dec. 16.—The bigamy case in which Mrs. Griggor was charged with this crime came on to-day. Her first husband was here from Toronto. In the evidence for the prosecution it was shown that she was married to Griggor when 16 years of age and to Edward last summer.

Her counsel, Mr. McGuire, asked for a nonsuit on the ground that she was a minor when first married, and not having the consent of her parents the marriage was illegal, but the judge thought it was a case to go to the jury. In her defence it was claimed that she thought Griggor was dead two years ago, and it was shown that she went into mourning for him.

The judge, in charging the jury, pointed out that if she really thought that Griggor was dead she could not find her guilty. At the end of an hour and a half a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy, was brought in, and she was sentenced to three months in gaol. She was certain she would be acquitted, and when she heard the verdict she created a scene in court.

It is probable that her friends will prosecute young Edward for perjury, he being a minor, as it was his mother who prosecuted Mrs. Griggor. In her evidence Mrs. Edward said, "I would rather see my son in penitentiary than living with that woman." Griggor was willing to take the prisoner back, if she will behave herself, after being liberated.

A Railway Smash.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Dec. 16.—The Atlantic express bound south on the West Shore Road crashed into a slide of rocks half a mile north of Highland at 5 o'clock this morning. The train was composed of an engine, baggage car, smoker, two day coaches, and four sleepers. One sleeper and two day coaches and the baggage and smoking cars were burned. The fireman's—James Gorman—right leg was broken. Two passengers in the smoking car were badly injured, and taken to Kingston. All the rest escaped with slight bruises.

Hungarian Miners Mobbed.

TREMONT, Pa., Dec. 13.—The Reading Coal Company brought one hundred Hungarian miners here on Wednesday and housed them in a large building. During the night a mob demolished the structure and drove the Hungarians to the mountains. Many were severely hurt.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 15.—The British schooner Turtle was upset by a violent squall in Smith Sound on Saturday. A portion of the crew, who were in the cabin, were drowned.

Ashore on Lake Huron.

BAYFIELD, Dec. 16.—A terrible storm is raging here, in which a three-masted vessel came ashore. The crew were saved. The scene of the wreck is so far away that it is impossible to ascertain the name of the vessel to-night.

Lenox Election.

The election to the House of Commons for Lennox, to fill the vacancy caused by the Reform member, Mr Allison, being unseated for bribery, will take place on the 8th of January, the nomination being held on the 1st.

Another Railway.

The Detroit and Cleveland Railway and Steel Company give notice of application to Parliament for a charter to build a line from either Sandwich or Windsor on the Detroit River to Kingsville or Leamington on Lake Erie.

A Libel Suit.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 15.—Mr. A. J. Magurn has commenced a suit against the Daily Ontario newspaper for libel, the damages being placed at $5,000. Mr. Magurn has been promoting the formation of a company here for the establishment of a new paper, and he was, he claims, attacked with malicious and false statements by the Ontario.

New Orleans Oddities.

Early exhibition visitors to New Orleans are astonished, on disembarking from a steamer, to find that the sewers are open streams of water at the sides of the streets and running away from the river instead of toward it; to see wells built up from the ground, not dug into it, and to learn the cemeteries are veritable cities of the dead, the tombs being little houses with gables and roofs, and arranged in avenues and squares.

A Suspicious Death.

LYONS, N. Y., Dec. 15.—Miss Parnalia Marquet, a wealthy young lady, died suddenly at the residence of her sister, Mrs. George Bridges, in October. She was not on good terms with the Bridges family, and had made a will giving her property to a Mrs. Albert Thorn. It is suspected that Miss Marquet was poisoned. Her body has been exhumed and the abdominal viscera sent to Rochester for analysis.

What Became of It.

In an action to recover the insurance on a vessel which had been wrecked somewhere near the the Land's End, Sergeant (afterward Baron) Channell, who was for the plaintiff, called her "Ellen," but others called her the "Helen," and the Judge inquired which was correct. "My Lord," said Thesiger, "Helen" is the true name. But the 'h' has suffered the same calamity as the vessel itself. It has been lost in the chops of the Channell."

The Provincial Exhibition.

GUELPH, Dec. 16.—At the annual fall meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Arts Association held here to-day the question as to where the Provincial Exhibition is to be held in 1885 was taken into consideration. Applications for the show were made by London, Guelph, Stratford, Chatham, and Collingwood. After considerable discussion it was moved and carried unanimously that the Provincial Exhibition for 1885 be held in London.

Taking a Couple of Horns

Smith purchased a "muley" cow and drove her home yesterday evening. The animal was a curiosity to his children.

"Oh, what a tow!" exclaimed little three-years old; "it dot no horns."

"Pappa has 'em," said five-year-old.

"Why don't 'e put 'em on 'e tow?"

"I don't know. I heard him say he had swallowed a couple of horns afore breakfast, and I guess they are inside of him now. Mamma told him he would swallow the cow afore six weeks."
—Newman Independent.

Wanted to Know the Motive.

"Now, sir," said the prosecuting attorney pompously, "you are a railroad man, you say. Now, sir, let's see how much you know about your business, sir. What motive, sir, has your company for running its trains through the city faster than the ordinances decree?"

"What motive?"

"Yes, sir; what motive? Come sir!"

"Why, locomotive, I should say."

The witness was fined for contempt of court.
—Chicago News.

Blaine's Libel Suit.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 16.—Blaine's letter to his attorneys instructing them to dismiss his suit for libel against the Sentinel newspaper published. In it he charges that the libel was given undue prominence in the campaign, and the minds of Democrats were poisoned in regard to the question at issue. In consequence of this, and believing that it was impossible to secure a fair trial, he has decided that a prosecution of the case would be fruitless, and it was idle to go through the annoyance of a trial, choosing rather to dismiss the suit and leave with the public his written statement under oath.

Mitchell Arrested for Murder.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Jas. Mitchell, the well-Known pugilist, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of murder. It is alleged that a fight occurred between Mitchell and a man named Muldoon, near Yardleyville, a year ago, and that Muldoon died from the injuries. The prisoner professes ignorance of the alleged encounter. The district attorney of Buck's county, where the fight is alleged to have taken place, says he has no information regarding the affair. It is believed Mitchell will be released in the morning.

A Big Fire at New Brunswick.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Dec. 16.—A very heavy fire occurred here last night involving a loss of $50,000. The fire originated in McDougall's tailor shop, in the second flat of Hayden's wooden building, on the corner of Main and Connell streets. The building was completely destroyed. The fire ran up Main-street through Boyd's wooden building, thence through John McAffees and L. R. Baird's brick buildings, and thence into Wheaman's wooden building on Connell-street. The engine of the Water-Works did not work at first, and the fire got quite a headway in consequence before any water was thrown on it.

Did't Care to be too Premature.

A stranger walked up to the clerk's desk at the Mansion house one day last week and arranged for a commodious room. He registered his name "W. H. Durand and ——, Toronto," and laid down the pen. The clerk looked at the entry a moment and said politely: "Will you not register your lady also?" The man hesitated and then said: "I'll register in an hour." "All right, sir," said the clerk. The guest and his lady left the hotel. An hour later they came back, he went up to the registry and added one word—"wife." They had been married in the interval.—Boston Courier.

THE BRIDGE EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—A further examination of London bridge has been made and an irregular crack several inches long has been found at the lower part of the buttress of the bridge at the place where the upheaval of the water occurred. A boatman says about dusk on Saturday he lent a boat to two men, one of whom was carrying a greenish looking parcel. They drifted down the river under the Southwark bridge and neither boat nor men have returned. On enquiry the boatman stated there were three men in the boat. The man carrying the parcel sat in the stern and steered, while the others rowed. The boat keeper took but slight notice of the men's faces, and is unable to describe them. The boatkeeper states that for a month or two past a man, evidently a foreigner, has been accustomed to hiring boats, generally for one or two hours. On Saturday this stranger, who is described as a man about 35 years of age, and with a pale complexion, hired a boat about four o'clock. His companions were of about the same age, each having black whiskers and moustache. They had with them a parcel about nine inches square, which they handled carefully. An examination of the boat-yard resulted in the discovery of what is supposed to be a cartridge.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1884.

THE Belleville organ of the Reformers argues with considerable warmth that those who believe that Canada would be benefitted by independence should be allowed to express their views. Very well; express away. By doing so the Ontario would be following the same track as some of the leaders of its party, though others of them appear to favor annexation. But does it not strike the Ontario as strange that men who have sworn allegiance to Queen Victoria and the British throne, and through taking that oath have held seats in Parliament and in the Cabinets, should declare themselves in favor of severing our connection with the Empire, or speak in favor af annexation to a foreign power? There may, however, be little use in asking such a question of a paper that refers to England as "a foreign power."

DR. BARNARDO, who recently visited Canada with the object of arranging for sending a lot of English street arabs to this country, writes on his return a most glowing account of Canada. Of the gaols he says:—"The prisoners are treated as men and women, not as automata—guilty men and women, to be sure, deserving punishment, but having human sympathies, hopes and fears, through which they may be reached and benefitted. They are not treated like mere machines, as is too often the case with us. On Sunday there is a Sunday school at most of the prisons." That is real nice and pretty, but we have doubts about there being a Sunday school held at most of the prisons.—London Advertiser.

We do not remember whether Dr. Barnardo visited London, but if, as appears to be the case, the prisoners in the gaol in that city are not visited by religious people, it is perhaps as well that Dr. Barnardo did not find it out. But the doctor was in Peterborough for some time, and on several occasions, during his visit to Canada, and here he doubtless learned that the prisoners were regularly visited, advised, instructed and exhorted. From this he may have thought all Canadian prisons were visited in the same manner, not being aware of the extent to which this town was in advance of many places.

THE COE JOB.

MR. COE is very unfortunate in his advocates. To defend him from the imputation of having conspired with Mr. Pardee to obtain a portion of the property of the people of Ontario on too favourable terms, and on a false pretence, some of his friends endeavour to justify him by representing him as guilty of a fraud upon individuals. These blundering champions assert that no land was sold to Mr. Coe unless it was unfit for settlement. In the same breath they say that all Mr. Coe wants is the hardwood timber (though he is shipping the ore, not smelting it) and that he undertakes to assist persons to settle on this land to cut the timber for him. From this contradictory statement it is evident that Mr. Coe is either defrauding the people of Ontario by obtaining land fit for settlement under the pretence that it is not so adapted, or he is defrauding would be settlers by inducing them to take up land unfit for settlement.

Which is the truth? Is the land fit or unfit for settlement? Is Mr. Coe defrauding the whole of the people of Ontario, or is he defrauding certain individuals only?

It is no adequate defence to say that Mr. Coe is rendering a public service by giving employment to people in North Hastings. It may be so, but Mr. Coe is at the same time making a profit for himself, and there is no good reason why he should obtain the public lands in Ontario at a cheaper rate than other people. Nor, on the other supposition, is the employment given by him any excuse for his palming off worthless land on deluded settlers.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Why should not the Town Engineer be instructed to report on the cost of filling Spaulding's Bay, as recommended by the Council and Sanitary Board. S. A. Fleming's, C. E., plan of 1846 shows about 10.36-100 acres = 451,281,892 feet = 16,565 yds. per foot deep. There would be required about 800 feet of conduit sufficiently large to carry the water of the creek, through the bay. Let us have the estimated cost and then we will see who will vote for the expense.

When that is done some other means will probably be designed to obviate the objections to its present state at less cost than filling.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Peterborough, Dec. 17, '84.

The Conquest Lost.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 15.—The schooner Conquest, purchased by Ben. Bulter and Capt. Farr n August last and concerning which considerable excitement arose at the time, it being rumoured that she was to be used for piratical purposes, is now given up for lost with her crew, twelve men, mostly from the Lower Provinces. The schorner was fitted out and started for the Antarctic Ocean to endeavour to rescue a valuable cargo of oil and sealskins on the wrecked whaling vessle John Easmond. The captain of the Easmond was in command of the Conquest.

The London Bridge Explosion.

A special to the Mail states that the theory is advanced in London that the explosion at London bridge was the work of the river police, many of whom were discarged, because the dynamite scare, in consequence of which they were appointed, had died out, and they are anxious to be reinstated.

The reverend gentleman arrived in town on the Ontario & Quebec Railway. He was met by the members of the Orange body, and the Fire Brigade Band, a procession was formed and the Rev. Mr. Chiniquy was driven in the procession to the residence of Mr. J. B. McWilliams, P.G.L.E.O., and Master of Lodge No. 49.

Shortly afterwards he was conducted to the church, which was well filled, and he took his place on the platform. There were also on the platform the Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Bennett, Munro and St. Dalmas. Mr. J. B. McWilliams read a letter from the Rev. I. Tovell, stating that on account of the change of the date of the lecture he was unable to be present. He regretted very much that he could not attend, but wished the lecture success in every way. As Mr. Tovell was not present he (Mr. McWilliams) would occupy the chair.

The meeting was opened by the Rev. Mr. Munro leading in prayer. The choir sang appropriate music and Mr. McWilliams arose and briefly stated the objects of the lecture and to what the funds realized were to be applied, that of assisting the Protestant Home. He then introduced the lecturer, the Rev. Mr. Chiniquy.

The Rev. Mr. CHINIQUY said that before addressing the assemblage on so solemn a subject he had a request to present. He wished those present would hear him with all their soul, heart and mind, and to pray that God might speak through him to them. He was an old man now, 76 years had passed over his head, and before long he would be called to give account of his life's work. He did not come to ridicule the people of the Church of Rome, but the truth, the terrible truth, must be told, both for your sake and for the sake of some Roman Catholics. They are honest in their work and believe they are in the right. They are earnest and make great sacrifices, much more earnest and self-sacrificing than the Protestants, in furthering the interests of the church. The Protestants of Canada are behind the Roman Catholics in zeal. The Protestants are more busied in commercial and political affairs and they forget that they have a battle to fight.

They should fight that battle and gain it, or they would become slaves of the Pope. May God grant that I may speak to you to-night in such a way as will awaken your slumbering zeal for the glory of God.

There was a great danger ahead in Canada from the Church of Rome, and it was not seen, many people did not like to see it, many did not like to hear of it. They preferred remaining in ignorance of their duties. Some 400 or 500 years ago the countries of England and Scotland were covered with a great darkness. There was no light then because there was no open Bible for the people. The Pope ruled the nations of Europe with an iron sceptre. There was, in those days, no gospel to be read and your ancestors were going to the feet of the Virgin Mary to be saved, instead of to Jesus Christ. Jesus was looked upon as an angry God much the same as the ancients looked upon the awful Jupiter. The Pope had said that the avenging Jesus Christ was ready to strike down the nations and that the Virgin Mary was always ready to oppose him and intercede. The people looked upon Mary as the advocate of sinners, and it was only in trembling and fear that they looked up to Christ. It was not known that Jesus was the great and only friend of sinners, and instead of going to His feet they went to the feet of the priests to ask pardon for their sins; to these very priests who were destroying their wives and daughters by means of the corrupting confessional. Instead of to Christ they looked to the purgatorial fires for purification. Money was extorted from them by the priests to save them from the fierceness of the flames. Scotland and England were under the influence of the priests and almost all of the most beautiful land of Great Britain was in the possession of the priesthood. There was no light in those days, but there was darkness, desolation and ignorance. But God looked down in his mercy upon the people of those beautiful plains of England, and the magnificent hills of Scotland. A voice was heard to say, "Read my word, take my Bible, it is the only lamp to the soul, read the Bible." The voice was heard and the Bible was taken. Oh! what strange things were found in it, what strange, marvellous things! They found that Jesus saved the world, and that He was the sinner's friend. There was no need of auricular confessions, and Purgatory was a fable; that the Pope was a deceiver and a fraud. There was no need to pay money to the priests to open the doors of Heaven; eternal life was God's own free gift. The people accepted the gift and blessed the Lord and the name of Jesus Christ. But a voice was heard coming from Rome, a voice deep with blood. The Pope asked his Bishops why these Bibles were not taken away from these heretics, and ordered them to take them away and burn them. But the Bishops of England answered that the people of England had read the Bible and had found it so precious that they would not give it up on any consideration. The English and Scotch preferred to die rather than give it up. Then the Pope said, "Let them die, let them die." And there was tears and desolation there, and death without mercy. Ten million of men, women and children were slaughtered. In a single night in France, 75,000 Protestants were killed. But there were mighty men and strong hearts in England and Scotland. They resisted, and fought many battles against the Pope's army. At first their side was weak and the Pope's army was strong and well organized. They, however, at last prevailed, and won that great victory at the Boyne which gave to your ancestors their liberty of conscience.

But some people will say, why do you bring up these sad recollections? We want to live peaceably with our neighbors. Why come to break the peace? We know all these melancholy facts but we should try to forget them. Why forget them? The Church of Rome has not changed from that day to this. It has the same rules and precepts. If the bishops do not trample upon your rights to-day, it is because they are not powerful enough to do so. Do not be misled. If your houses are not burned and yourself destroyed it is not because they do not think it would be a good thing. This thought is in their hearts, and they only wait till the time arrives when they will be powerful enough to exercise authority again. In this book (St. Thomæ Acquinatis Ecclesiasticus) the priests are instructed to read that they may know their duties. I have studied it myself and here I challenge the bishops and priests to contradict what I say. This is a sacred book, and which few of your pastors can get, but I had it when a priest and have retained it. He read a section on the 90th page of volume 4, first in Latin and then translated it as follows:—"Though heritics must not be tolerated because they deserve it, yet we must bear with them till by a second admonition they may be brought back to the faith of the Church. But those who after a second admonition, remain obstinate in their error, must not only be excommunicated but they must be delivered over to the secular power to be exterminated."

I was told by my late superiors that this was the law of God, and I believed it, as the Bishops and priests here believe it. When I read of the slaughter of the heretics in England, France and Italy, on such a day, 1,000, on another, 500, at such a time, 1,500, and at such another time, 3,000, I thought it was just what these Protestants deserved.

You are putting the power into their hands again. You are divided into two camps, Conservative and Liberal. These two parties are composed of fools; there should be only one party. I was for 25 years a devoted slave of the Church of Rome, and fought her battles stubbornly.

The lecturer described how he had been converted; how the light came. Jesus Christ appeared unto him, and offered him eternal life as a free gift and he accepted. The next day he went to his church and told the holy news. The whole vast assemblage joined him in accepting the gift.

The very next day I had my condemnation to death. I knew the Pope, Bishops and people were determined to take away my life because I had given up my errors. I joined the army of Christ and my first station was Quebec. Here he related his many narrow escapes from death. One time fifty men came to his house, broke in the door, and one of the murderous gang actually dipped his dagger in the blood of the converted priest. But he did not flinch, and the dagger dropped from the man's hand. In Nova Scotia, in Quebec and in Montreal he had been stoned in all 22 times, but had miraculously escaped death, while many others had fallen by the missiles. Nor was it the unintelligent who led these gangs in every place; in Montreal it was the students of Laval University.

I did not come here to-night to stir your feelings against Roman Catholics; they are in ignorance and believe that their church is the Church of Christ and that you Protestants do not deserve to live. They believe that the day will come, when, on account of your divisions, they will again be all powerful. They will then take away your privileges and bring you to the feet of the Pope. And they will succeed if you continue to be divided. If they could have your houses burned or destroy you they would think it the most holy work of their lives. They do not this because they are wicked, but because they are like Paul, before he was converted, zealous in his cause. They do not express their views publicly because they would not be tolerated, but they express them privately. We must love and cherish the people, it is the Church of Rome that we must destroy. Their souls are dear to Christ, but we must break down the great barrier. We must not take up the sword against them nor insult them in any way, but we must win them to our side. I do not pretend to be a great orator, nor a learned man, but by God's help I have won over 30,000 of these people to the Protestant faith. When I was in distress my friend here (the Rev. Mr. Bennett) came to my assistance. I was friendless, I had no money, and I was weeping. "Come to our Christian Church," said he, "and we will help you." I did so, and to-day among these 30,000 converts are 26 priests. If every man would say, let us fight Rome, let us rise up as a man against Rome and destroy her, Rome would surely fall. Your efforts to convert the Indians, and your missionary work, is highly commendable, but the Roman Catholics should be converted first. I have fought Rome and her adherents have stoned me, but I am not dead yet. I have said nothing but the truth, and what is the consequence? In the space of six weeks 5,000 of the most devoted Roman Catholics of Montreal have deserted their church and have joined Protestantism. Just think, the work of six weeks.

Oh! this is a solemn question. Let us give them an example of a holy life. Let us accept the gift of God, and cling to Jesus Christ as a branch to a tree. Let us walk in the ways of righteousness. They do not come to us because we are not zealous, and they see so many scandals in our midst. Because the religion of the heart is not in many hearts. Let us say to to each other, "Blessed are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Israel."

Books and pamphlets relating to the life and work of the Rev. Mr. Chinaquy were distributed among the assemblage.

The Rev. Mr. Torrance moved, with words of eulogy, a vote of thanks for so appropriate an address. The motion was seconded by the Rev. Mr. St. Dalmas, of Smith.

The motion was unanimously carried, and the Rev. Mr. Chiniquy accepted the token of feeling in a few well chosen words.

The people stood up and sung "Hold the Fort," and the meeting was closed by the benediction being pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Bennet.

A TERRIFIC GALE.

The Fishermen's Houses on the Buffalo Island Levelled.

BUFFALO Dec. 15.—A great storm, the fury of which was expierenced most severly at what is known as the island, but which at 9 o'clock this morning and on along well till noon was no longer an island but a sanbar, over which the waves were rushing furiously, struck this vicinity to-day. At the foot of Michigan-street across the Buffalo creek and Blackwall Canal lies the island. It is a narrow strip of sand which stretches away on the right to the lighthouse, and on the left shore runs south-east in a graceful curve to the Tifft farm. Back from the beach is the seawall, a substantial barrier of stone our feet thick and from six to eight high, which in ordinary weather protects the row of little houses built under its lee with their kitchens fronting on the lake from the onslaught of the sea. The houses are occupied by fishermen, boatmen and others, who depend directly or indirectly, upon the water for a living. Between these houses and the Blackwell Canal, railroads and lumber yards occupy the space. No one would have recognized this scene, however, during the progress of to-day's gale. The entire island was covered with water to a depth of three or four feet. The waves were beating against the sea wall with a swash that sent the spray flying 100 feet in the air, effectually soaking everything. In places the beating of the sea had carried away lengths of the wall for a distance of 50 feet, and the huge stones of which it is built were thrown upon the railroad track. The line of frail houses was broken; here and there a house was uninjured, but most were twisted around by the mad rush, and the occupants were escaping in boats. Some were lifted off their foundations bodily, and some levelled flat, no two pieces remaining together. Joseph Mark's house was no more; William Connor's house had gone down; while Mrs. Swanson's house was scattered over an acre of space, and the wall behind it was gone also. In John Delaney's house all was confusion; the chimney was blown down and the house had taken fire, destroying the rear part. A house belonging to Fred Klokke had the rear part caved in, and Wm. Cavanaugh's was served the same fate. John Ford and Mrs. McNamara lived in a house which was not strong enough to stand the attack, and the rear part was wrecked, the stove, bedding, clothing and what other supplies could be hastily gathered, were thrown into the front room, which remained standing. Wm. Dusler and Michael Hollihan lost their kitchen in the same way, and the rear of Mat. Boardman's house was broken to kindling wood. Further on toward Louisina street the houses had suffered less, though all were all soaked with water. Furniture and utensils had been thrown out and were floating around in a large pond that had formed on the railroad tracks. It is the worst storm ever known on the island The lumber yards have suffered to the extent of many thousands of dollars, but the loss cannot now be estimated.

The Boy that watched the Pot.

In a certain village in Maryland a small boy kicked up a breeze in the parish church last Sunday. It seems that a certain good woman bought a calf's head and put it on to boil, leaving her little boy to mind it while she went to the church close by.

The minister had reached his fifthly, my brethern, when a small boy stuck his head in the door and whispered.

"Mamma ?"

The good woman recognized her son instantly, and began to make signs for him to leave the door.

"Mamma ?" again came the whisper. this time a little louder than before.

The mother shook her finger at the boy warningly, and indulged in familiar pantomine with which she was accustomed to awe her son. But it didn't work worth a cent. The boy was excited and in dead earnest, as the document will show. Raising his voice he shouted :

"Mamma, you needn,t wink and blink at me, but had better come right away, for the calf's head is buttin' all the dumplins out of the pot."

REV. DR. RICE.

A Sketch of the Career of the Late Superintendent of the Methodist Church.

The Toronto Globe publishes a sketch of the active career of the late Rev. Dr. Rice:—Rev. Samuel Dwight Rice, D. D., was born in 1817. He was a native of Maine, but he was a New Brunswicker by education, his father having removed to that Province while the future preacher was yet a child. His sympathies were strongly British. He always spoke of himself as a "Bluenose." The early days of his life were spent in the town of Woodstock. While at school he was distinguished by his natural aptness in study, but far more by his courage and his fondness for all manly sports. He received the ordinary education of the boys of that time and place, but when he grew too old for the schools at home he was sent to one of the academies of New England. He had no thought at that time of devoting himself to the ministry, and his studies were all intended to be of service to him in a mercantile career. But while in the United States his attention was directed to religious questions, and the reflection which he was there enabled to indulge in undoubtedly marked the turning point of his life. Returning to New Brunswick he secured a position in a mercantile house in Fredericton, the capital of the Province. He proved himself faithful and capable in his duties. But while not neglecting these he made himself famous even at that early age as a local preacher and exhorter, besides taking the part of an enthusiast in connection with the Sunday School. In 1837 he entered the regular ministry, being then only 20 years of age. His earliest ministerial work was in St. John, but after a short time he was sent to the Miramichi district. His enthusiasm, his physical strength, and his carriage, no less than his ability as a preacher, combined to make him successful in his work. Wonderful stories are related of his feats in fording rivers and making long journeys under great hardships in pursuit of his duty as itinerant preacher. Three years later he received another appointment in St. John, and at once adapting himself to city work, he became as successful there as he had been in the country. In 1847 came the re-union of the British and Canadian Conferences. Rev. Enoch Wood, Chairman for New Brunswick, was appointed to take charge of the missions of the British Conference in Canada West, but would consent to take the post only on condition that he should be allowed to take Mr. Rice with him. This was agreed to and Mr. Rice was set down for Toronto west, the first year as Dr. Evans' colleague, the second as Superintendent of the circuit. He spent a short time as Principal of the Manual Labour School for Indians at Mount Elgin, and afterwards went to Kingston, where he succeeded in building a large central church. Having taken an active part in relation to the newly projected scholarship scheme for Victoria College, he was made Treasurer, Steward and Moral Governor of the College. His work in connection with this institution will long be held in grateful remembrance. Three years' pastoral work in Hamilton and two years of comparative rest brought him to the beginning of a long term of usefulness as Moral Governor and President of the Hamilton Ladies' College. He resigned this position in 1878, when he went to engage in pastoral work in St. Mary's and afterwards to Winnipeg, where he acted as Chairman of the Manitoba missionary district. Dr. Rice had much to do with Methodist union. He was Chairman of the Conference in 1874, when the union with the New Connexion Church took place. He was President also of the Conference of 1882 at Hamilton, when the resolutions were passed, and again he presided at Belleville in the following year, when the union was ratified, and was appointed at that meeting Senior Superintendent of the United Methodist Church.

During the winter of 1883 he worked very hard attending anniversary and other church services in different parts of the country, and it is thought that in over-exerting himself in the pursuit of his duties he undermined his constitution. In the spring his health began to fail. For the past seven months he has not been able to do any work. During the summer he made a trip to Muskoka, which benne fitted him for a time, but since his return he has been gradually sinking.

As might be inferred from his long, arduous, and successful labours, Dr. Rice was a man of great energy and force of character. His manner seemed bruesque and magisterial, and strangers might be led to suppose that he was not easily approached. This, however, was not the case, as he was a man of quick sympathies. No man in the whole Methodist connexion commanded more fully the respect and love of all its members that did Dr. Rice.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you,

SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh,

CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "Hutto, Tex., Sept. 28, 1882. "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore.

SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

"Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Skating Rink.

Although the Skating Rink Company has gone to the expense of erecting the fine new building, the rates will remain the same as last year. The tickets can now be procured from the agents, Thos. Menzies, A. L. Davis, and Miss Jenkins, or from the Secretary, Mr. C. McGill.

Mr. F. A. Thomas.

Mr. F. A. Thomas, Master in dancing and calisthenics, will give on New Years night a grand assembly in the hall room of the Grand Central Hotel. He has been, during his stay in Peterborough, most successful in teaching the art and no doubt the assembly, under his management, will be equally successful.

Acknowledgment.

The ladies and gentlemen who conducted the Otonabee refreshment table at the St. Peter's Bazaar, Mrs. Jos. Redmond, Mrs J. Galvin, Mrs. Thorne, Miss Annie Redmond, Miss Mary Kenelly, Mr. Jas. Galvin, Mr. Patrick Lynch, Mr. Jas. Duffis (Treasurer), &c., desire us to return their cordial thanks to those, both from town and country, who so liberally patronized them on that occasion.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course.

The first lecture of the above course will be given to-morrow (Thursday) evening in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms at 8 o'clock. The lecturer of the evening will be Dr. Fife, and his subject is "Respiration and Circulation." Those who would like to learn something more of how "fearfully and wonderfully made" man is, would do well to attend this lecture. Tickets for the course of ten lectures are issued at fifty cents. Single lectures, 10 cents.

The Sawdust Nuisance.

In accordance with a request of Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, the Medical Health Officer of this town, Dr. Clarke, has prepared a full account of everything relating to the sawdust in the Little Lake and the river. The doctor has given his views as to both the present and future effect of this rotting sawdust upon the town. The Provincial Board of Health are procuring all the information possible on the sawdust question, and this important matter will, in all probability, come before the Ontario Legislature for consideration at its next session.

For the Christmas Display.

Mr. Harry Winch received yesterday a fine lot of cattle for his Christmas display. Among them were three fine beeves from Mr. Peter Drummond, two from Mr. Edward Bulmer, one from Mr. James Carter, one from Mr. James Wallis (Merino), and one from Mr. James Fife, all noted cattle breeders of the County of Peterborough. These fine animals, together with several others, will be dressed, ornamented, and hung up in Mr. Winch's stall for the Christmas market, which will open on Saturday. Mr. Winch informs us that his display this year will be just a little the best of all his efforts in that way. Don't fail to see it.

"The Danites."

The Tavernier Dramatic Company presented "The Danites" in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, and they were again greeted by a large audience. This play was of a more sensational character than the one presented on the previous evening, and it was, on the whole, better acted. The leading characters, represented by Miss Ida Van Cortland and Mr. Wilson Day, were ably impersonated, and Mr. Albert Tavernier was an excellent "Judge," while the other members of the company, having more to do than on the previous evening, showed up to better advantage. The audience was surprised and pleased. The price of admission was so low that some feared that the performance would also be a cheap one. But they were pleasantly surprised, and many remarked that they had paid 75 cents to see inferior performances. Miss Annie Bird, as on the previous evening, received hearty plaudits for her singing. This evening the company will appear in "The Banker's Daughter."

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

The Premier Passes Through Peterborough—Met at the Station.

Sir John A. Macdonald and party passed through Peterborough on Tuesday evening on their way to attend the convention and banquet at Toronto. They occupied a special car on the Ontario and Quebec express, which was due here at 6.43 o'clock p.m. The train, however, was late, and it did not draw up to the station until after seven o'clock.

As the train only stopped at the station a few minutes, there was no formal reception, but a large number of people had gathered to see the Dominion Premier. The station platform was crowded, and as those present pressed forward towards the car in which Sir John rode, the jam was great.

It was not easy to distinguish persons in the crowd, but among those present were noticed Messrs. John Carnegie, M.P.P., Jas. Stevenson, A. P. Poussette, Thos. Kelly, Andrew McNeil, John O'Meara, R. A. Morrow, John Garvey, Dr. Shaw (Keene), C. Stapleton, H. LeBrun, Wm. Croft, E. Phelan, Dr. Clarke, John McClelland, John Green, T. Giroux, Wm. English, Geo. Johnston, John Corkery, G. W. Hatton, H. Phelan, W. H. Wrighton, M. Giroux, Geo. W. Hall, J. O. Snider and others.

As soon as the train stopped several gentlemen entered the Premier's car and soon after Sir John Macdonald appeared on the platform, accompanied by Sir Hector Langevin. His appearance was hailed by three rousing cheers, and as order was restored a voice called for three cheers for the Queen, and the Premier led off the cheers for Her Majesty.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD, as soon as his voice could be heard, addressed a few words to the assemblage as follows:—What in the world has brought you all out this cold night? (Laughter.) Have you no business to attend to at home? Have you no wives or no sweethearts? (Laughter.) However, whatever has brought you out, I am exceedingly well pleased to see you. And I hope you are going up to Toronto. (A voice—Some of us are.) Yes, I see. You are sending an advance guard to Toronto, and the remainder will stay at home for fear the Grits should capture the place in your absence. (Laughter.) I believe you will hold the fort. You have done it in the past and you will do it again. (Cheers.) You will carry forward the banner, and I will come and see how you are getting along.

As the Premier ceased speaking loud cheers were given, and he had only time to re-enter the car when "all aboard" was called and the train moved away.

Entertainment.

An entertainment will be held at the opening of St. Paul's Sabbath school rooms on Wednesday, 17th, at 8 o'clock. The programme will consist of music and recitations. In the afternoon, from 3 o'clock, there will be a sale of fancy and useful articles, which will continue during the evening. Refreshments both afternoon and evening. Admission, afternoon, 10 cents; evening, 15.

"NOISY BOYS."
The "Noisy Boys" are coming out.

Personal.

Mr. Charles H. Clementi, who has been for some time engaged in the Post Office Department, Ottawa, has returned to Peterborough. He will assume a position in the Customs Office here and will become a permanent resident of Peterborough. We are pleased to learn that he has completely recovered from his recent severe illness.

His Lordship Bishop Jamot, and the Rev. Rev. Father Keilty, of Ennismore, the Rev. Father Connolly, of Douro, and the Rev. Father McEvoy, of Fenelon Falls, were present at the celebration of the fourth anniversary of Bishop Cleary's appointment to the pishopric at Kingston on Tuesday.

St. John's Social.

The social in St. John's school house on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Girls' Friendly Society and the Church of England Temperance Society, was a decided success. The school room, by means of curtains at the windows and archway, rugs on the floor, and piano, chairs and tables placed at intervals, had been made to assume the appearance of a spacious drawing-room, in which the numerous company sat or strolled about conversing sociably. At intervals there was vocal and instrumental music. There were songs by Miss Stephens (twice), Miss Dolly Lundy and Mr. J. E. Belcher. Mrs. Long and Miss Stevenson played solos, and Miss Wrighton and Miss Millie Beck a duet on the pianoforte. Mr. A. Young, violin, and Mr. Bertie Tate, pianoforte, played two duets. There was also a quartette by Miss Wrighton and Mr. B. Tate, pianoforte, Mr. A. Young, violin, and Mr. Butcher, piccolo. Mr. Coleman and Mr. Charles Brown gave comic readings. The Fire Brigade Band orchestra, Mr. F. W. Millar, cornet, Mr. Jas. Martin, violin, Mr. Butcher piccolo, and Mr. Schneider, pianoforte, played several selections during the evening. The refreshments were taken around by a number of young girls, Misses Millie Beck, Ada Sherwood, Mabel Barlee, Edith Pearse, Nellie Carnegie, Brooks Merrick and Gussie Mathias, who were prettily and appropriately dressed, and did their volunteered duties in a most efficient manner. Many hopes were expressed that there would be a repetition of similar socials.

The Ruling Motive.

When a man does a questionable act, or one that we think he should not have done, his motive for doing it is at once enquired into, for if he did not intend to do wrong, and if his motive was a good one, he is not so unsparingly condemned. It has been stated that shelfishness is the ruling motive in this world. It is an undoubted fact that it has a great deal to do with most of our acts. In small things it is plainly shown. Who does not want the best seat at a theatre or in a railway car? Who is not always looking about to see what will add most to his comfort? It is even said that when a man does a benevolent deed, and does it privately without letting it become known, he does it on account of the satisfaction he feels in doing it. Some would have us believe that love, of which poets have sung in such terms of high praise, is simply sublime selfishness, because, they say, a man desires a lady's company—her presence pleases him—and in his selfishness he loves her! Now, every one would not carry the theory of selfish motives that far. They would object that it would be lowering humanity, and argue that it was not true. But no one will deny that it is commendable selfishness for any one to desire to have good clothes and to purchase them at reasonable prices, and it is proper to enquire as to the best place to make such purchases. ANDREW MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street, has a large stock of gentlemen's furnishings at the lowest rates.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing, Andrew McNeil.

POLICE COURT.

VAGRANCY.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 17.—Two able-bodied vags adorned the prisoners' bench this morning. Their names are, John Collins and Robert Sinclair. They looked downcast and dejected, they both rose and pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy preferred against them by P. C. Adams, and they were both sent to gaol at hard labor for a month.

The MAGISTRATE said that if such able-bodied strong men as they were would only let whiskey alone they might earn good livings.

ASSAULT.

Wm. Beavis was charged by his wife with having committed an assault upon her. The case was adjourned till Monday next.

A Dream not all a Dream.

I dreamed a dream the other night
When everything was quiet,
I dreamed our Peterborough folk
Were making quite a riot;
For Salisbury had lots of goods
And expected millions more,
And the people were all rushing
To his magnificent bookstore.

Next morning bright and early
As to work I made my way,
I thought the people in all the town
Were taking a holiday;
And my dream was not quite all a dream,
But a fact, and something more,
For the people still were rushing
To Salisbury's fine bookstore.

Headquarters for

DOLLS!

I HAVE NOT BOUGHT ANY of the inferior grade of DOLLS this year, finding that they were stuffed with straw and other coarse material, made from poor wax, and very unnatural faces, as I found the trade was being overstocked with them.

Most of my Large Stock consists of a VERY SUPERIOR CLASS of DOLLS, being decidedly pretty and serviceable, and possessing bright, life-like faces, made of good wax or china. They are about as Cheap as the coarse Dolls. Please call and examine.

OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

THE "STAFF OF LIFE," AS MANUFACTURED IN THE FACTORY OF MR. G. W. HALL.

Hall's Biscuit and Candy Establishment—A Steady Upward Growth Since Its Start in Peterborough—The Reputation of the Goods Steadily Spreading—The Cigar Department.

In previous issues we have reviewed the manufacture of staple articles of clothing, namely, tweeds and flannels; in a later issue we gave an account of the mode of the making of one of the most extensively used articles of luxury, namely, cigars; we now come to one of our most widely consumed articles of diet, viz., biscuits, which, if in the strict acceptation of the term, are not the "staff of life," they are, at any rate, a substantial prop.

THE FACTORY

is situated on Simcoe street, and is convenient and complete in every department. The main building is of solid brick, two stories high, having a frontage of twenty-six feet, and a depth of one hundred and sixty feet. The office and showrooms are situated in the front part of the building, with the baking, packing, and storage departments in the rear. The candy department occupies the whole second flat.

THE BISCUIT BUSINESS

was established in this town in the year 1872 by two enterprising young citizens, Messrs. G. W. Hall and Geo. Ostrom, who entered into partnership for the manufacture of biscuits, under the title, Hall & Ostrom.

At first they worked on a small scale, in the cellar over which Morgan's Hotel now stands. Gradually, by dint of hard work and energetic application to business, they enlarged their premises, occupying the old post office building, which was afterwards burned. Subsequently large additions were made, and a new reel oven was set in place. The candy department was in full operation, and the firm did a large trade in the handling of all kinds of cigars.

On January 15th, 1881, Mr. Ostrom retired from the partnership, having been associated in the business for more than eight years, and Mr. Hall assumed the full control. Everything worked harmoniously, and during the succeeding year a large business was done.

On the 16th of September, 1882, a dire calamity happened. A fire broke out and before it could be brought under control the whole establishment was consumed. Nothing daunted, Mr. Hall set vigorously to work to re establish his business. He secured a very suitable building (the one now occupied) and additions to and alterations in the place were soon set on foot. An oven of the most improved style was put in and new machinery throughout was added.

Early the next spring the factory was in full working order. Business was again commenced, and from that time to the present it has continued to flourish. Mr. Hall's numerous delivery waggons traverse the whole Midland district; from Port Hope and Bowmanville on the south to Haliburton on the north; from Campbellford in the south-east to Lindsay in the north-west. His goods also find their way, by means of railway communication, to all the neighbouring stations and to more distant ports.

THE INGREDIENTS.

In the manufacture of biscuits, flour, of course, is used in larger quantities than any other ingredient. It is procured by Mr. Hall from the mill of Mr. A. Clegg exclusively. Consignments of 6,000 pounds at a time are deposited in the storage department and there it is left for a week or so to give it the proper age.

Next to flour, more money is expended in sugar than in any other article used in the factory. Although it is not used in the manufacture of soda biscuits, yet it enters largely into the manufacture of fancy biscuits and into confectionery. It is all of the best No. 1 granulated kind, and is bought by the car load from Messrs. Kinlock, Lindsay & Co., wholesale merchants, Montreal.

Lard is also used in large quantities. It is procured from the pork packing establishment of Mr. G. W. Mathews. Buying it from such an establishment is a good guarantee for its purity.

These three ingredients, together with numerous others, such as ginger, soda, etc., etc., are stored away in the store house, from which they are taken when required.

THE PROCESS.

In the first place the ordinary "sponging" process is gone through. When ready, the whole batch (700 pounds of flour) is made in a long deep wooden trough. The lid is put down and the dough is allowed to "rise." When the time arrives for baking it is taken out and run through four separate machines, a mixer, a break, a trimmer and a cutter. The first by a peculiar method, something like a horizontal corkscrew on a large scale, thoroughly mixes the dough; the second renders it fresh and "springy" by means of its passing through iron rollers; the third rolls it out smooth and regulates its width; and the fourth cuts, shapes and puts all these little ornamental dinges in it and by means of a moving platform, conveys it, a strip of smooth thin dough the width of four biscuits, to directly in front of the huge oven. The operator with a thin wooden scoop, just the width of the strip of dough, takes up the already formed, but uncooked, biscuits and places them on one of the six pans, which keep revolving over a scorching coal fire. These pans are about three feet broad and seven feet long. They are not fixed, but keep turning as the reel turns and remain always in an upright position. It takes about five minutes to thoroughly cook the biscuits, and then they are, as the pans come round, pulled out by a scooper into an iron trough, which leads to a basket. They are carried to long shallow bins, which stand about four feet from the flour. Several girls, with nimble fingers, quickly arrange them in neat rows in boxes ranging in capacity from 3 lbs to 18 lbs.

THE CANDY DEPARTMENT,

as was before stated, is situated on the second flat. The raw material is conveyed upwards by an elevator. Perhaps it would not be uninteresting to give the process of the manufacture of some of the most common kinds of candy.

CREAM CANDY.

The sugar and other ingredients are thrown into a large iron cauldron, and it is melted and boiled to a low degree of heat. The degrees of heat are ascertained by means of a machine specially adapted to the purpose. At the proper time the liquid is dipped out and poured on a long marble slab, flanged at the sides and ends to cool. It is gently moved backwards and forwards with a wooden "paddle," until it becomes white and thick. Relief moulds are then pressed upon trays filled with corn starch. The liquid is poured in the different shaped impressions, and the shape of the candy is determined.

CHOCOLATE CANDY

is made by almost the same process as cream candy, except in the coating. A board on which 78 little bulbs of plaster of Paris are fastened is pressed on the trays of corn starch. The syrup is poured in the little holes and left to cool. When cool enough the tray is turned upside down on a wire netting and 78 little domes of whiteness stand on their ends, while all the corn starch falls through the wire. The dust is blown from the candy by means of a hand bellows, they are placed upon another wire netting, bathed in liquid chocolate, taken out and dried, and are then packed away in fancy boxes ready for sale.

ROCK CANDY.

The ingredients are boiled to a lower degree of heat and the liquid is then poured in moulds strung across with fine strings. These moulds, which hold about twelve quarts, are put away in the drying room, a room about 10x10, and heated with steam. Here they are left for some days, during which time the work of crystalization has gone on and the rugged bars of crystal luciousness have formed on the strings. The surplus syrup is poured out and the candied bars are tried, packed, and ready for the market.

BOILED GOODS.

These goods consist of sugar sticks, bulls-eyes, candy canes, and all that class. The mixture is heated to a high degree (300° Fahr.) and is then poured on iron slabs to cool. When sufficiently cool it is taken in hand by the workmen and drawn and "worked" on iron hooks until it has a white appearance and assumes a tough, sticky state. The whole batch is, when worked, placed in a steam heater and "spun" out as it is required.

CANDY TOYS

are made from fine sugar boiled to a low degree of heat and "grained" in the boiler. The syrup is allowed to stand for a short time only in the moulds, so as to let the outside harden. The mould is opened, and that part in the centre which has not congealed, is poured out. This accounts for the hollow state of the toys.

DRAGEE GOODS

are those of the carraway comfit type. The manufacture of this class of goods is the most interesting of all. The carraways, almonds, filberts, or whatever the nucleus is to be, are placed in a revolving pan and the liquid cooling is poured in. This pan is especially made for the purpose. Is something like a large hollow ball with the top cut off. The diameter of it is about three feet, it is heated by coils of steam pipes running around the outside of it, and it is placed in an inclined position. As it turns the "rolling stone does gather moss" or in other words the sweet sticky material which was poured in the pan adheres to the nuts kernals or seeds as the case may be. After the goods are formed into shapliness they are taken out and the pan is coated with white wax. The candies are again put in the pan and whirled around until they assume a pretty glossy appearance

THE CIGAR DEPARTMENT.

Mr. Hall still continues to deal largely in cigars, and handles the produce of the factories of the following well known cigar manufacturers:—Messrs. J. M. Fortier, Messrs. G. Fischel & Co., Messrs. Kelly & Co., Messrs. Olmstead Bros., and Mr. C. P. Reid. Mr. Hall estimates that during the year he has not sold fewer than a million cigars. At present he is introducing a new and popular brand, the "Noisy Boys."

GENERAL.

At a meeting of the Biscuit Manufacturers' Association held recently at Toronto, the soda biscuits of Mr. G. W. Hall's manufacture were placed on a par with the products of all the first class factories of Canada.

The machinery of the factory is driven by a horizontal engine manufactured by Mr. W. H. Law, of the Central Iron Works. The yearly output is about $50,000.

Mr. Enos Dunsford makes the baswood 18 pound boxes, and the three pound caddies are procured from the REVIEW Bindery.

Perhaps the secret of Mr. Hall's success in manufacturing is because he secures the very best workmen procurable. He pays high wages but he is amply repaid in the quality of goods which he turns out. Mr. Richard Tanner, who is at the head of the baking department, is a man who has thoroughly investigated the effects and causes in all the ingredients used in baking. He has a high reputation, and has managed several departments in some of the large American factories. He has worked in the principal Canadian factories and his capabilities are undoubtedly of a high order. Mr. John Watt, chief of the candy makers, is also a first-class workman. He understands just how everything should be done and in imparting his ideas to the members of his staff he is eminently successful.

Death of Bishop Fuller.

HAMILTON, Dec. 17.—Bishop Fuller, of the Diocese of Niagara, died at his residence here, this morning, at 3 o'clock. The cause of death was blood poisoning from a wound received on the hand by a rusty file while working in his library some days ago. Owing to his great age and failing strength, very little hopes were given by his medical attendants from his first attack. Deceased leaves a wife and grown up family. He was over 70 years of age.

Daily Evening Review

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1884.

OUR GREAT STATESMAN.

In accordance with its usual policy of honoring with its abuse any especially distinguished man, more particularly those who have won the esteem and support of the people of Canada, the Globe is now airing its vocabulary of vituperation in favor of Sir John Macdonald. The bad taste displayed in choosing, as the time for doing this, a moment when the majority of the people of Canada are celebrating the fortieth anniversary of the entrance upon public life of Canada's foremost statesman, is a comparatively trifling matter, which sinks into insignificance as compared with the general scurrility of the Globe.

In the monstrous perversion of the history of the public services of Sir John now being published by Mr. Blake's leading journal, we have, of course, a rehash of the old falsehoods put forth by the Reform fictionist and dabbler in shady mining adventures, Mr. L. S. Huntington, falsehoods which he dared not appear to uphold before a Commission of Judges.

But still more striking are the fallacies that are uttered by the Globe in regard to the founding of our Confederation. No Conservative wishes to detract from the credit due to the late Hon. George Brown for his patriotism in aiding in carrying out this great idea—a patriotism now altogether out of fashion with so-called Reform leaders—but it is an absurd falsification of history to ascribe the origin of Confederation to the Hon. Geo. Brown, or to assert that he forced it upon the reluctant Sir John Macdonald. The testimony of the Hon. Alex. Morris, who was a party to the negotiations, shows that it was Sir John and his Conservative friends who obtained the adoption of a general Confederation of the British North American provinces, rather than the "joint authority" for Upper and Lower Canada, as advocated by Mr. Brown and his allies. Not only Canada, but the world looks upon Sir John Macdonald as the father of our Confederation, and public opinion is well founded.

The most complete reply to the vilification and slander emitted by the Globe is the magnificent reception now being given by the people of Canada to Sir John Macdonald.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

We republish from the Fenelon Falls Gazette an article on our educational system. It will be seen that even a staunch Reform journal finds much in it that is objectionable, and agrees with the Conservative contention that the Educational Department should be freed altogether from its present connection with party politics.

ONTARIO EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT.

The management of the Educational Department of Ontario has been one of the Government's most difficult tasks, and every one has something to say for or against the way it is being carried on. The Minister who is at its head is subject to a thousand criticisms, and these often of an unfavourable character. Mr. Crooks, who for long presided there, broke down, it is believed, under them, after having done his best to give general satisfaction. Faults are seen everywhere by those who, if they were in the position of Minister of Education, could do nothing. Now, the great evil is the unsuitableness of the books; next, the ineffectiveness of the teaching; then the deplorable effect of the strain it makes upon the children in weakening their mental powers and ultimately consigning numbers of them to total imbecility. Then there are faults found with compelling youth of immature years to study grammar and arithmetic of a nature they cannot understand, and which would be of no use to them if they could. Add to this the quarreling about school sections and about the doings of school superintendents, and it will be seen that the Educational Department of Ontario has work on its hands sufficient to overtax the energies of any man who is capable of becoming exhausted and who feels the sting of adverse criticism. The present Minister of Education has so far shown a disposition to please everybody. He has set aside the series of school books got up by rival publishers, much to their pecuniary loss, and in this way secured their enmity, which will, as a matter of course, haunt him like a ghost as long as he holds office. The new set of books he is bringing out have been heralded (probably by interested parties) as the best that can be got, but an adverse opinion is sure to be pronounced by others, and the parents who are compelled to buy them will in many cases arrive at the same conclusion. At best he will find that the public are inclined to believe that the whole of the educational business of which he is the head stands on a par with the host of quack prescriptions which are in general more certain to deplete the purse of the invalid than to cure him of his malady. Yet what can he do but do his best, and, if possible, shut his eyes against all criticism and punctually draw his salary? After all the efforts of the Educational Department to place education on a satisfactory basis, it looks as if that point was not going to be attained. Connected as it is with the Government of the day, it shares in its political fate, which is a thing to be regretted, as it would be far better if it stood on a basis aloof from the wrangling of party strife. As it is just now it is made the target of political animosity, and much talking is wasted in assaulting and defending it. It is a thousand pities that it is not kept clear of party. Could not all ranks unite in placing it outside of Government influence and Government patronage, to stand or fall by its own merits? Then it might have a fixed system as binding as the civil code, and free from those perplexing and expensive changes of books and regulations which are its present bane. That the boasted free school system of Ontario, after its long trial of improvements and experiments, can be justly charged with weakening the intellects of not a few of its pupils, is enough to shew that it has need of reformation. The same charges proven against an individual would consign him to the penitentiary. The first thing to be done is to remedy that; but how it is to be done is the question the present Minister has to solve. He is making the attempt, and it is to be hoped in the interests of the young he will succeed. He will fulfil his mission all the better that the M. P. P.'s of the Local House confine themselves to other matters and let him do his own work alone.—Fenelon Falls Gazette (Reform.)

THE BARNARDO HOME.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I had no expectation or intention of entering into a controversy with Miss Millie Sanderson when I wrote the communication which you kindly published in the Daily Evening Review, and such is my intention still. But there are certain facts in dispute between us, and it is right that they should be referred to by me and all doubt respecting them removed. Let it be understood that my object in writing that letter was not to prejudice this Barnardo Home or contract its usefulness in any way. I am willing to concede that his motives are good and that he desires to benefit those children whom he trains and brings to this country. At the same time, however, any one can see how difficult is his undertaking and how easy it is to fail in the good work which he has thus taken upon himself to perform. The children whom he brings out to Ontario are, I believe, as a general rule, if not altogether, quite small, and, therefore, incapable of protecting themselves, and, as a consequence, must be at the dictation and mercy of those who have charge of them. And anyone can see, no matter how well intentioned their caretakers may be, that it must necessarily be very difficult to get many of them into the right kind of homes or with people who will treat them properly and kindly. But Miss Millie Sanderson would have us believe that in the case of the Home here all the children are well and suitably provided for, and that they are contented and happy. Perhaps, when Miss Millie Sanderson has had a little more experience of the world, she will come to the conclusion that all mankind is not just what they might be, and that she, as well as others, may sometimes be mistaken in her estimate of her abilities to always distinguish the bad from the good, and that she may be deceived. Many persons in this country think that it is not advisable to bring out pauper children from the old country and so occupy the places and receive the favors which of right belong to the children of our own soil. To a certain extent I admit this to be true, and I admit also, that it savours of injustice to thus forestall those of the country who are willing to work, and who say they cannot get it owing to the pre-ence of so many pauper children from other lands, who are simply brought here practically for that purpose. At the same time I myself would be sorry to see the helping hand withheld from any one, however degraded he or she may have been heretofore, provided the experiment does not have the effect of working injury to ourselves, and provided that those who claim to be benefactors work out their purpose without, at the same time, asking the people of this country to give them that support which they should first of all give to their own. I believe that Dr. Barnardo stated at a public meeting in Toronto, which was called at his instance, that there were no poor in Canada, and, in consequence, that the people here should give liberally of their means for the support of his children. But he must have drawn largely on his imagination when he made this assertion, for, even during his short stay in Canada, he could not help seeing enough to the contrary. I hope, however, that what ever is given in that direction the children will get the benefit of. I would like to state here, that on my visit to the Home I did not see Miss Millie Sanderson, but instead, a very civil and obliging lady whom I suppose to be Mrs. Duff, and who spoke of the matter in hand in a kind and motherly manner, and who, I am sure, as well as Mr. Duff, would cheerfully have given the little girl to Mrs. Linster, as the Mr. Duff said would be done, and I am positive he would have carried out his promise had he not been prohibited from doing so by Miss Millie Sanderson, who, when Mr. Duff said to her, in the presence of Mrs. Linster, that he had given such a promise, and asked what would Mr. Burnham say if his promise was not fulfilled, said, "What right has Mr. Burnham to come here? I am in power here, and I will rule." And she did rule, and the result is that the little girl is prevented from going to the kind family where she wanted so much to go, and where her mother wanted her to go, and who wanted so much to have her. And I know that the mother, more than once, expressed a wish that Mrs. Linster would come in and take her before she died. I am credibly informed that Miss Millie Sanderson told both Mrs. Linster and Mrs. Watson, when she wanted to take one of the children from the Home, that both the little girl and little boy of Mrs. Donnelly had been sent away, although she now says they are still in the Home. There must be a mistake somewhere, but I don't think it rests with Mrs. Linster. If Miss Millie Sanderson will read my letter again she will see that I said nothing about Mr. William Curtis' respectability, but that I only said I did not consider he was able to take the child he had to feed and clothe and educate it, as it is expected he will do. Poverty is no disgrace. Many a good man is poor, and he deserves respect and encouragement in his struggles with the world. I mentioned no names, and I don't think it was just or becoming in Miss Millie Sanderson to tell Mr. Curtis that I had spoken unjustly of him. I referred Mr. Duff to a gentleman who could have given every information on this point, but as Miss Millie Sanderson rules the Home, it was her place to make this inquiry, instead of telling Mr. Curtis that I had spoken ill of him. And if this lady would still see the gentleman referred to she would find corroboration of all I said. I would like to ask Miss Millie Sanderson if it is true that when word was sent to the Home that Mrs. Donnelly was dead, she thought it was not best to tell her little children of it, and if it is true that the little girl was prevented going into the house where her dead mother lay, and who, when she saw the crape on the door, broke away from the nurse, exclaiming, "Oh, my poor ma is dead and I must go in and see her." Let it be known that this little girl always slept with and attended upon her mother, day and night, and the mother said she was so good to her, and how, in the night, she would get up and bring her drink and cover the bed clothes over her so carefully. Is it any wonder then that she wanted to see her mother when she was lying dead, and was it not a most cruel thing to prevent her? I am told that she cried so constantly in the Home to go and see her dead mother that Miss Millie Sanderson was at last moved to let her do so just before she was buried. Now the mother is gone to that home where there is no cold, nor hunger, nor trouble; and her poor little girl will see her no more forever in this world. But when the still hours of night come over the land, and the little orphan child thinks of the days that are past and gone, when she had her mother by her side, and could hear her words of faith and comfort, and when she could minister to her wants and help to comfort her in return, how sad and weary must she feel, and there is no one near to still her cries and dry her flowing tears. Forced away to a far off home, among strangers, where, perchance, she may never hear the voices of her brother or baby sister, nor play with them any more, all that will henceforth be left to her will be the recollection of the past and the long dreary future. She may never look upon her mother's grave, nor look upon the faces of those little ones left behind.

The mother says:

When I am dead and gone from you, darling,
When I am laid away in my grave,
When my spirit has gone to Heaven above,
To Him who my soul will save;
When you are happy and gay once more,
Thinking of the days that have been,
There is one little wish I ask of you,
See that my grave's kept green.

Oh, the days will come to you, darling,
When on earth no more I'll be seen,
One sweet little wish, darling, grant me,
See that my grave's kept green.

Will you keep me, love, in remembrance,
When the voice of chiding is heard?
When others may speak in censure or blame,
Speak not one unkindly word;
When you are happy and gay once more,
Thinking of the days that have been,
There's one little wish I ask of you,
See that my grave's kept green.

Oh, the days will come to you, darling,
When on earth no more I'll be seen,
One sweet little wish, darling, grant me,
See that my grave's kept green.

The years will pass and come again, but the poor little girl will never look upon her mother's grave. In spring time the bird's will come and sing over it, but no sound of her child's voice will be heard, and there will be no little busy hands there to keep her grave green. And in the winter the stormy winds will blow over the mother's cold grave, and her little girl will be far away, and will be seen no more.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

MANITOBA AND DAKOTA.

A line like a roadway separates Dakota and Minnesota from Manitoba. On the Minnesota side of the road the price of wheat is twenty-seven to thirty-seven cents per bushel, and on the Manitoba side of the road it is fifty-two to fifty-six cents per bushel. Three farmers of Manitoba have certified these statements as facts, upon which they have acted. They have sold wheat at fifty-six and fifty-seven cents at Emerson, Manitoba, for which they could only get thirty-six to thirty-seven cents in St. Vincent, Minn.—Montreal Witness (Ref.)

THE SCHOOL BOOK JOB.

Does it not look reasonable that the threat of Mr. Nelson to sell out his Globe stock to the Canada Pacific syndicate has finally brought the Government to terms? It is not positively certain, however, that he may not carry out his threat after all.—Toronto News (Indep.)

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

The Globe informs us that "the U. S. Congress House Committee will report favorably a bill, which, if passed, will prevent aliens holding land." In such case what will Pardee and Peck do? Will they sell out their lands in Uncle Sam's dominions or go thither and naturalize? The former, it may be explained, owns lands in Dakota, which territory it booms. The latter professes to administer justice in Haliburton, for which county he is Mr. Mowat's stipendary magistrate, while he works his farm in Dakota during the summer.—Belleville Intelligencer.

PRINCE BISMARCK.

It seems strange to find the thunderer of the scene, who is Jupiter on Olympus, passing direct from the Congress where he, as it were, presides over the nations, to the chamber of the representatives of his own people, to plead in vain like a weak old man for a thousand marks, three hundred and twenty dollars, amid the taunts of the house.—Montreal Witness.

A COMPARISON.

Will those eastern papers which are ever drawing comparisons between Dakota and Manitoba as a farmer's paradise please note the following fact. To-day wheat is selling at 27 cents a bushel at St. Vincent; at Emerson at 57 cents per bushel. Minnesota and Dakota farmers are actually teaming their wheat to Emerson and Gretna, pay the duty of 15 cents per bushel upon it, and then realizing 15 cents more per bushel upon it than they could realize in their own markets. This is a fact and it now remains for eastern Grit papers, Globe, London Advertiser, and lesser lights, to say as much. But they won't; not they.—Winnipeg Siftings (Ind.).

UNDER THE TERRIBLE N.P.

The coal mines of Nova Scotia have more than doubled their output in five years, under the tariff; and the labor and capital put into the business have progressed in the same ratio. —London Free Press.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for Wm. Gillesby, Hamilton and Grimsby: "I was for many years afflicted with Costiveness, Biliousness and untimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by John McKee.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, Ayer's Sarsaparilla will dislodge it and expel it from your system.
Scrofula
For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

A DRINK WHICH BEATS WHISKEY.

And Gets Away With a Man in About Two Years.

"Do you know what that is?" said the Captain of a bark lately returned from a cruise in the Southern seas to a Call reporter. He held in his hand what appeared to be a gaudily painted barber's pole shrunken to the size of a policeman's club.

"That," continued the skipper, "is a piece of gagus stalk. It came from Gauptil island, near the Molucca group."

"Who painted it?"

"Painted it? Why, that's the way it grew," cried the skipper, with a laugh. "It is a species of catacus," he explained, "and, as I said, grows only, to my knowledge, on Gauptil island. The island is a small one, but is well populated by natives of the Malay race. In the interior this plant grows wild, flourishing especially in the rocky. It looks beautiful when growing, as you might judge by the bright hues with which this is spotted. A grove of gagus shrubs is a very pretty sight. But it is the properties of the plant that distinguish it. Opium is a potent drug, but I will back the extract from the gagus stalk to effect more damage on the human system than all the opium in the world. The natives cut the plant in the early spring. After they have gathered a sufficient quantity they put it in large bowls and crush it with huge stones. A grayish sap runs out freely, and this they collect and drink after letting it ferment, which it does easily. One drink of a pint is enough for an ordinary man, but I have seen natives drink more. Within half an hour after imbibing it the drinker becomes perfectly stupid and lies around like a log. The spell lasts a day or more, during which time he natives say they live in paradise."

"Do white men drink it?"

"I have known sailors to try it, but they never tackle it twice. Three years ago I had a man in my crew who was driven crazy by one drink."

"What effect does it have upon the natives?"

"Well, that is where the gagus displays itself. If you could see some of the terrible examples of gagus drinking in Gauptil, you would be horrified. The first effect of the liquor is to soften the bones and gradually eat them away. There are natives there, the victims of gagus, who are indeed boneless, and unable to walk and use their limbs. Then they begin to wither away like a stalk, until they die in misery and convulsions. Immediately after death the head becomes as soft as pulp, no bones can be felt; the skull is eaten away. The body begins to swell as though it were inflated with gas, and immediate burial is necessary."

"How long does it take to thus devastate a human being?" asked the reporter.

"That is according to the appetite of the victim to the stuff. Usually two years will finish the hardest man."—San Francisco Call.

A MARVELLOUS STREAM.

Wherein Birds and Beasts are Caught and Held Captive.

At a distance of thirty miles south of the river Diamente our route passed by a natural object of considerable interest—a stream, or rather rill of yellowish white fluid like petroleum issuing from the mountain side at a considerable height, and trickling down the slope till lost in the porous soil of the valley below. The source from which it flowed was at the junction where a hard metaphoric rock, interspersed with small crystals of acnite, overlaying a stratum of volcanic turfa. It was formed like the crater of a volcano, and full of black, bituminous matter, hot and sticky, which could be stirred up to the depth of about eighteen inches.

Floundering in it was a polecat or skunk (Mephitis varians), having been enticed to its fate by the desire of securing a bird caught in the natural bird lime, till a bullet from the revolver of one of the party terminated the skunk's struggles to extricate itself from the warm and adhesive bath in which it was hopelessly a captive. The overflow from the fountain was, as described, like a stream of petroleum two or three feet wide trickling over a bed of pitch or some such substance, which extended to a much greater width along the edge of the running stream at its contact with it. This material was of a very sticky nature, becoming gradually harder as it spread further out, assuming the appearance of asphalt when it became mingled with the loose sand of the adjoining soil.

While engaged in examining this natural curiosity, we came upon two small birds, caught in the sticky substance at the edge of the stream; they were still alive, but upon releasing them both the feathers and the skin came off where they had came in contact with the bituminous matter, so that we had to kill them to put an end to their sufferings. No doubt they had been taken in by the appearance of water which the stream presented, and had alighted to drink, when they discovered their mistake too late. Their fate suggested the idea that in a district so devoide of water, others of the feather tribes must constantly become victims to the same delusion in a similar manner, and upon a close inspection of the margin of the stream the correctness of this inference was established by the discovery of numerous skeletons of birds imbedded in it; nor were those of small quadrupeds unrepresented, among which we recognized the remains of a fox.—Ex.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met on Dec. 1st, pursuant to adjournment. The members were all present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. It was moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, and seconded by Mr. Middleton, —That Messrs. McIlmoyl and Garbutt be appointed a committee to examine the timber on the 9th concession line between lots 25, with power to purchase the same.—Carried. Application was made by Mr. McFarlane for refund of license money, as two months of the time covered by his license had passed before the license was issued. The Deputy Reeve and Clerk were appointed to interview the Inspector regarding the matter, with power to take such action as they think justifiable under the circumstances. A by-law to fix the place for holding the next nomination for Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors, and to appoint deputy returning officers and fix polling received its several readings and was signed and sealed. Moved by Mr. Middleton, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald,—That, as this Council has reason to believe that the quarter line between Lots 6 and 7 in the 2nd Con., surveyed by the late T. B. Clementi, P. S. L., is not parallel with the boundary, the Reeve take the necessary steps to have the said line surveyed, if found incorrect. —Carried. Moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Garbutt,—That the Treasurer be and is hereby instructed to refund to Geo. E. Elliott the amount of taxes overpaid by error of assessment of 1883. Aaron Nicholls, jr., applied for the timber on quarter line, between lots 11 and 12 in 7th con., for which he offered to pay $5 and clear off the road allowance.—Offer accepted. Mr. Jas. Fowler, overseer of highways, was allowed to dispose of the timber on his road division, to any person paying what he thinks reasonable value for the same. The following claims were ordered to be paid, namely:—

W. B. Kelly, rent of hall, fuel, &c.		$20 75
Jas. H. Mann, work on road		5 75
John Faucett	"	17 00
G. W. Fitzgerald	"	8 00
Robt. Edmison	"	20 00
Thos. Milburn	"	20 00
B. McIlmoyl, for goods furnished Mrs. Ketchum		13 95
S. Nichols, for board of men while pulling stumps on road		7 00
S. McKibbin, for support of Mrs. Clegg		35 00

The Council then adjourned.

A Philanthropist.

"I tell you, this is a sudden setting in of winter!" he exclaimed, as he swung himself aboard of the street car and stamped the snow off his boots.

"Oh, well it's time," replied the man in the fur cap, as he smoked away at his cigar.

"It'll be hard on the poor."

"Well, I dunno. While it will stop some kinds of work it will render others necessary. It wasn't fifteen minutes ago that I offered a labouring man a dime to clean my sidewalks, and I have only a hundred and fifty feet at that"—Detroit Free Press.

LAKEFIELD!

From Our Own Correspondent.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.—Jas. C. Brown, Esq., Public School Inspector for the county will hold an examination in the head master's room in the Lakefield school next week for the accommodation of candidates in this part of the country, so that candidates for entrance to high schools need not go to Peterborough and pay $2 for the privilege of being examined there.

BUSINESS.—There has been quite a perceptable improvement in business since the last fall of snow. Farmers are bringing out their produce, and at times the streets of Lakefield present quite an animated appearance.

RAISING A ROW.—A young man called Ed. Smith, working on the Lakefield dam, was charged before Squire Hull with raising a row in the Blakely House on Tuesday, the 16th inst. The charge was proven and the defendant assessed in the sum of $2 and $4.60 costs, total $6.60. The above will be a lesson to the boys to keep sober and quiet after pay day another time.

HIGH WATER.—The water above Lakefield has risen very fast lately. It rose about three inches per day, and on Saturday night the coffer dam above the portion of the new dam under construction was carried away, and the water began to flow over the new slide. This accident will be quite a loss to Mr. Wynn, the contractor. The three new piers were nearly completed and the new slide would have been finished and ready for the water to pass over in two or three days if this accident had not occurred. A quantity of timber was carried down stream in the freshet. It is said by those who ought to know that the swamps and lakes in the back country are all full of water, and that very little ice has formed so far and that this is the cause of the high water.

THE CRAZE FOR WOOD CARVING.

Chatting lately with one of the most talented wood carvers in this country, says a reporter of New York city daily, I learned something of the whimsicalities of fashionable New York, and how close Fifth avenue stands to workshop benches. This city, in fact all the country, went wild three or four years ago over carved woodwork. Plans for the Vanderbilt mansion gave an impetus to the mania. All the rich houses that followed the Vanderbilts within a year or so went quite as largely into carving. Walls, ceilings, door panels, everything everywhere was cut up into ambitious figures, copying nature and old art work. From Italy, from Switzerland and from France and Germany carvers of high rank were brought over here, found plenty of employment and high pay. Practically a new trade sprang up in New York forthwith. Three or four firms grew rich quickly. Cost was not considered by uptown fashionables competing one with another for distinction in their bric-a-brac homes. So ran the wave along to a year or two ago, when of a sudden it began to recede. Architects who may out orthodoxy for millionaire builders set themselves against this fashion, and houses that have gone up lately, or rather houses that have been planned within the past 12 months, look to decoration of a much milder type, almost plain and Quakeoish by contrast. Wherefore there are sighs in carving establishments, and lots of men, American as well as foreign suddenly find themselves without employment for their talents, and little hope for brighter days in the near future. Furniture houses that have been making goods to order, employing the most skilled carvers and securing the fanciest of prices, have wheeled squarely around, said good-bye to their imported artists, and gone into the manufacture of goods for the trade.

The Doctor's Revenge.

The doctor has been sent for in all haste at 2 a.m. by a female patient.

Arrived at the house he makes a thorough diagnosis of her case, looks grave, then clears his voice and says:

"My dear madame, you had better send for your spiritual adviser as soon as possible, and if you have neglected making all desirable preparations with regard to the disposition of your property, it would be as well for your coachman to call and pick up your lawyer on the road back."

"O, doctor!" shrieks the sufferer, "is there any danger?"

The prince of science reflects for about six minutes, then he roars,

"No, madame, there isn't any danger whatever, but I will be hanged if I want to be the only man roused out of bed at 2 o'clock on a winter morning on a false alarm."—From the French.

Cheap Paper.

THE demand for cheap paper for newspapers is likely to be met. The Rutland Herald is printed on paper made out of sawdust according to a proces invented by C. H. Pond, of Glens Falls, New York. This sawdust paper is said to be stronger and firmer than wood pulp paper, but somewhat inferior in color. This defect will, it is said be remedied with the perfection of the process. The new paper being made out of material quite worthless and bleached without the use of expensive chemicals, will be much cheaper than that now used by newspapers.—London Free Press.

Burglars Put to Flight.

OTTAWA, Dec. 17.—Miss Polly Austin, daughter of Mr. Austin, of the Civil Service living in Janneville with her father, observed a tall man attempting to enter the house, which is in a lonely situation. She took a shotgun and fired at him when he left in a hurry. Two nights afterwards three men attempted to force their way into the house when she fired on them with a revolver. The men took to flight. On examining the premises a dummy man, made of old clothes, stuffed, was found with a bullet in it.

PROF. BLACKIE, an eccentric but highly gifted Scotch professor, produced great commotion in Glasgow by giving a lecture on a Sunday, and selecting a subject so mundane as "Scotch Love Songs." The lecture was a eulogy of beautiful women and of the historic characters that had proved amenable to their influence, from David downward, and wound up by the spirited singing of an old Scotch song by the professor, who is nearly 80.

"Yes; I shall break the engagement," said she folding her arms and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he's as deaf as a post, and talks as if he had a mouthful of mush. Besides, the way he balks and spits is disgusting." "Don't break the engagement for that; tell him to take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It will cure him completely." "Well, I'll tell him. I do hate to break it off, for in all other respects he's quite too charming." Of course, it cured his catarrh.

To a Correspondent.

We have received a letter signed "Gentleman," but as the writer did not furnish us with his name, we must, in accordance with the well known rule, withhold it from publication. We have every reason to believe, also, that the writer made a mistake.

The New Post Office.

There are various reports in circulation as to the situation of the post office and other Government offices to be constructed in our town. We understand that there are two points still open; the acceptance of the offer of the Department, and the examination of the title.

A Large Hog.

Mr. H. C. Winch has hung up at his stall a very large hog. It is of the pure Berkshire breed and weighs 675 pounds. Mr. Edward Bulmer, Smith, was the feeder, and the large hog is a good evidence of his abilities as such, and also of Mr. Winch's desire to procure the best.

Hazel Brae.

An evening entertainment will be held at the Hazel Brae Home on Friday evening. The programme provided is a good one, and some of the best local talent will be present. Don't fail to attend the entertainment. An omnibus will be in front of the post office to carry those who wish to attend to Hazel Brae.

The Present Principal.

One of the Chicago journals, the Canadian American, says:—

"Among the successful men in this country there are hundreds of old Tassie boys—that is, men who received their education at the old Galt, Ont., Grammar School. They will be interested to know that Dr. Tassie is now at the head of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, and that he is rapidly bringing that school to the front."

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh to strong winds from west and north-west, fine very cold weather, the temperature will fall below zero at most places to-night; continued very cold weather to-morrow.

Popular Lecture To-Night.

The lecture by Dr. Fife on "Respiration and Circulation" will be given to-night in the Y. M. C. A. Rooms, over the post office. As already announced, it is the first of the popular course arranged for by the Young Men's Christian Association. The lecture, we understand, is to be illustrated by diagrams, &c. As the admission fee, ten cents, is nominal, there should be a large attendance.

Evangelistic.

Mr. Geo. H. Marsh, an evangelist from England, now labouring in Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Evangelization Society, was in town on Wednesday, and has gone back to Apsley to conduct evangelistic services there for a short time. Mr. Marsh spent three weeks in Lakefield last spring, and was the means of doing much good there. He has also been labouring with much success in other places in Canada.

Chit-Chat.

—Cold.

—Bracing but biting.

—A blank at the Police Court this morning.

—Electric lamps are being placed on the poles on Hunter street.

—Go and see the popular sensational drama "East Lynne," at the Opera House this evening,

—"Lady Isabel," the leading character, is one of Miss Van Cortland's best impersonations.

—Christmas one week from to-day.

Gratifying.

Recently the High School Inspector visited the Collegiate Institute and made out a lengthy report as to its standing. His remarks on the proficiency of the classes are highly gratifying. In his statement 1 means excellent; 2, good; 3, middling; 4, bad; 5, very bad. The numbers 2, 3, 4 and 5, however, have not been brought into requisition. He reports Latin, 1; Greek, 1; French, 1; German, 1; English grammar, 1; English literature, 1; Algebra, 1; Geometry, 1; Trigonometry, 1; history and geography, 1.

A GRAND GATHERING.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD WELCOMED AT THE CITY OF TORONTO.

The Opening of the Convention—An Address to the Dominion Premier—An Able Speech—A Provincial Association.

The Conservative Convention was opened at Toronto on Wednesday afternoon, in the Grand Opera House. The building was filled to its utmost capacity. It is estimated that there were four thousand delegates in the opera house, and six or seven thousand delegates in the city. All the members of the Dominion Cabinet, except the Hon. J. H. Pope and the Hon. A. W. McLelan were present, besides the the Hon. John Norquay, Premier of Manitoba, and a large number of members of the Parliament and the Legislatures.

Mr. W. R. Meredith, M.P.P., leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature was was chosen chairman. He acknowledged the honor, and referred to the chief objects of the gathering.

Mr. BOSWELL, Mayor of Toronto, welcomed the delegates to the city. He moved that Messrs. Carruthers, of St. Thomas, Maguire, of Kingston, and Pepler, of Barrie, be appointed secretaries, and the motion was adopted.

The address was adopted on motion of the Hon. J. B. Plumb, seconded by Mr. H. E Clarke, M.P.P.

The addresses from the different constituencies were then handed in.

Shortly after two o'clock Sir John Macdonald arrived, and he was received with great enthusiasm.

The CHAIRMAN read the address to the Premier.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD replied in a long and able speech. He returned thanks for the kind expressions in the address, and reviewed the history of Canada from the time he entered Parliament forty years ago, to the present time.

A committee was appoinsed to prepare a constitution and rules for a Provincial Liberal Conservative Association, and a committee to frame resolutions.

Mr. Allen, President of the North Bruce Association, on behalf of the ladies of that constituency, presented Sir John Macdonald with a handsome banner, and Sir John acknowledged the gift.

Holiday Announcement of the Boot and Shoe Emporium. As the season is now fast approaching when people are on the alert to secure some special articles for Christmas and New Year's gifts, the undersigned wishes to inform his patrons and the public generally that he has kept the same in view, and is now offering a fine variety of Men's, Ladies', Misses' Kid and Fancy handworked Slippers, that are both nobby, useful and very appropriate for holiday gifts, at lower prices than you can have your own patterns made up for. All other lines of fine leather goods, Carpet and Felt Slippers, Rubbers and Overshoes complete. An inspection solicited. J. MCALEER.

Have You Seen It?

Did you see it yet? What? That pyramid of cigars at George Rubidge's tobacco store? Then go and see it. This pyramid is composed of 100 cigars, 33 on each side of the pyramid, and one stubby little cigar at the top. The cigars at the bottom are stout, big fellows, eight inches long, but at the top they have slanted up to tiny little things only half ah inch long. At the bottom and around it are a pipe, a tobacco jar and a mallet, all made of tobacco. The pyramid is encased in glass and mounted on a black stand. The pyramid being composed of different kinds of cigars shows off to good advantage some of the manufactures of our local cigar makers, Messrs. Quirk and Co. It was they who made this novel article and it certainly is worth seeing.

A fine assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING, Socks, Scarfs and Ties, Kid Gloves and Mitts, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. J. ERSKINE.

Dr. Barnardo's Home.

A social in aid of the funds of the Home will be held at Hazelbrae on Friday, the 19th inst. Admission, 25 cents. The following programme of vocal and instrumental music cannot fail to prove an attraction:—

2. Quartet...Lo! the Early Beams of Morning! Miss Banemann, Miss Wells, Mr. Butcher and Mr. Geale.
3. Recitation.....Mr. Cooper
4. Solo.....Mr. A. D. Browne.
5. Duet.....Miss Banemann and Mr. A. Lech.
6. Song.....Mr. Geale
7. Quartet and chorus....Robert, toi que j'aime.

PART II.

1. Pianoforte Solo
2. Song.....Miss Banemann.
3. Reading.....Dr. Clarke.
4. Trio.....Blow, Gentle Gales, Miss Ellsworth, Miss Rush and Mr. Duff.
5. Duet.....Mr. Geale and Mr. Duff.
6. National Anthem.

Refreshments will be provided. Contributions towards this fund are earnestly solicited. An omnibus will be engaged by which, for a small sum, parties can be conveyed to and from the Home. It will leave the Post-office about seven o'clock. The proceedings will commence at 7.30.

The Ruling Motive.

When a man does a questionable act, or one that we think he should not have done, his motive for doing it is at once enquired into, for if he did not intend to do wrong, and if his motive was a good one, he is not so unsparingly condemned. It has been stated that shelfishness is the ruling motive in this world. It is an undoubted fact that it has a great deal to do with most of our acts. In small things it is plainly shown. Who does not want the best seat at a theatre or in a railway car? Who is not always looking about to see what will add most to his comfort? It is even said that when a man does a benevolent deed, and does it privately without letting it become known, he does it on account of the satisfaction he feels in doing it. Some would have us believe that love, of which poets have sung in such terms of high praise, is simply sublime selfishness, because, they say, a man desires a lady's company—her presence pleases him—and in his selfishness he loves her! Now, every one would not carry the theory of selfish motives that far. They would object that it would be lowering humanity, and argue that it was not true. But no one will deny that it is commendable selfishness for any one to desire to have good clothes and to purchase them at reasonable prices, and it is proper to enquire as to the best place to make such purchases. ANDREW MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street, has a large stock of gentlemen's furnishings at the lowest rates.

We would like to see all our regular patrons avail themselves of the 20 per cent. reduction on Winter Underclothing. Andrew McNeil.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH SUNDAY SCHOOL.

It is Opened by the Ladies' Aid Society With a Bazaar and Enteriainment.

The Sunday School part of St. Paul's church having been completed, it was opened by the Ladies' Aid Society connected with the church by holding a bazaar in the afternoon and evening, and an entertainment to close the proceedings.

The bazaar was held in the room to be known as the ladies' parlour, which will be used for holding meetings of the Ladies' Aid Society, meetings for missionary purposes, and such like. During the afternoon the bazaar was well patronized, and a large number of fancy and useful articles were sold. The tables were tastefully arranged and well supplied with a great variety of finery of different descriptions. Mottoes of an appropriate character adorned the walls and in the evening they were shown off to good advantage by numerous gas jets. The bazaar department was under the management of Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. McDonald. In the infant class room, on the other side of the hall, Mrs. Innes, Mrs. Hamilton and Misses Hamilton and Brown were in charge of refreshment tables.

In the evening the entertainment was held in the Sunday School room, which is situated on the second story. The room will comfortably hold about four hundred people, and it is one which pleases the eye at the first glance, but the more you look the more you are pleasant with the arrangement of the room. The shape is semi-circular. All the way around the half circle are pretty class rooms neatly partitioned off from each other and facing (without doors) the centre of the room. There are, in all, nine class rooms, and midway between the first and the ninth is a platform, also semi-circular, which rises about six inches from the floor. The room is heated by steam and lighted by gas.

At 7.30 the place was crowded. In the class rooms tables luxuriant with refreshments and decorations were presided over by the lady members of the congregation. The beaming faces, the many happy greetings and the brightness of the whole room made the scene a perfect picture of gladness.

The Chairman, Mr. J. H. Roper, called the meeting to order and the Rev. Mr. Torrance requested the people to stand and sing two verses of the 100th Psalm, after which a short prayer was offered. The chairman then briefly explained to what the funds realized were to be applied—the furnishing of the ladies' parlor, the infant class room, and (when furnished) the lecture room. The Rev. Mr. Torrance then made a short address expressing feelings of gladness at the abundant blessings bestowed upon the people. He urged them now to take a fresh start and greater blessings would be bestowed upon them. Mr. P. E. S. Cooper gave a recitation, Misses Gilmour and Roper played a piano duet and "Hail the Chief" was sung by Mr. D. D. Galletly. Refreshments were then indulged in for a few minutes.

The second part was opened by an instrumental solo by Mr. Geo. Schneider, jr. The Rev. I. Tovell being called upon, expressed his delight to see his friends in their new habitations. He referred to the good relations existing between the two bodies, the Presbyterians and the Methodists, of this town, and was co that it would long continue. There was abundant work for all. Mr. Coleman gave a classic recitation and Mrs. E. Johnston sang "Not a Sparrow Falleth."

The chairman announced that an entertainment would be held on Friday evening for the young people, but old people, if they care, would not be excluded.

This exceedingly pleasant evening's entertainment was closed by the benediction being pronounced by the pastor.

At intervals in the entertainment the St. Paul's Church choir, under the able leadership of Mr. Galletly, sang several anthems.

"The Banker's Daughter."

Last night there was a still larger audience a the Opera House, when the Tavernier Dramatic Company presented "The Banker's Daughter." As on the two previous evenings, the company scored a success. Each character that Miss Ida VanCortland appeared in appears to be "just suited to her," and Mr. Wilson Day and Mr. Tavernier appeared to good advantage in the play. Miss Alice Hunt deserves special mention for her representation of the part of Mrs. Browne, and her success was shown by the applause she received. Miss Annie Bird sang several songs with the invariable result—loud applause and encores. The fact that a number of persons have occupied seats in the Opera House each night this week speaks well for the company. To-night they appear in the ever popular "East Lynn," with Miss VanCortland in the double role of "Isabella" and "Madame Vane."

Don't Blush.

Young ladies, whenever a gentleman pops the question, don't blush and stare at your feet, just throw your arms around his neck, look him full in the face, and ask him to go to D. Bellechem's and give him the order for the furniture. His is the best and cheapest.

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

A GREAT GATHERING.

THE SECOND DAY OF THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

A Conservative Union Formed — Resolutions and Addresses — The Banquet Tendered Sir John Macdonald.

The Liberal Conservative Convention again assembled at ten o'clock on Thursday morning in the Grand Opera House in Toronto, and there was again a large attendance of delegates.

The HON. ALEX. MORRIS addressed the Convention. He expressed the satisfaction he felt at seeing so large a gathering, paid a well deserved compliment to Sir John Macdonald and urged the necessity for organization. He also referred in terms of commendation to Mr. Meredith, and said that at the next election they would rise in their strength and place him in the position of Premier of the Province.

The HON. J. A. CHAPLEAU expressed his esteem for the great leader of the Conservatives, and said that the Conservatives in Quebec were united in the support of the interests of the country.

A deputation from the Province of Manitoba then came forward, and the Hon. John Norquay, Premier, read an address to Sir John Macdonald on behalf of the Conservatives of the Province.,

SIR JOHN MACDONALD replied, and stated that he took a great pride in Manitoba and the North-West. He referred to the liberal land policy of the Government and the Canada Pacific Railway, and said that he hoped to go to the North-West when he could traverse the distance from Montreal to Vancouver on the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Hon. JOHN NORQUAY said that although Manitoba had only been fourteen years in existence her public men had already learned to appreciate the qualities of the eminent statesman, who, during the last forty years, had moulded the destinies of the Dominion. He referred to the natural advantages of the North-west.

Mr. D'ALTON MCCARTHY presented the report of the Committee appointed to draft the constitution of the Liberal-Conservative Union. It was, he explained, to be of a Provincial character, to be composed of fifty members as an executive, but it would not in any way interfere with the local concerns of any riding.

The report was read and adopted.

Mr. ROBILLARD, M. P. P., addressed the assembly, and referred to the fact that there were 102,000 French Canadians in Ontario, who, he said, were so peaceable that most of them did not know that they were among them.

Mr. SOLOMON WHITE, M. P. P., also delivered a short address.

Mr. J. J. HAWKINS was the next speaker, and he said that Sir John Macdonald was a golden band binding them closer than ever to that glorious Empire of which they formed so important a part. He also paid a compliment to Mr. Meredith.

The officers of the Union were elected. The Rt. Hon. Sir John Macdonald was elected President and Mr. W. R. Meredith, Vice-President, with fifty members of the executive. This committee was to exist for a year, beginning with September in each year, when the committee would again be elected by a general meeting.

Mr. G. T. BLACKSTOCK moved the second resolution as follows:—"That we express our satisfaction that the question as to the boundary of the province has been finally determined by the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, and the speedy settlement of the dispute by the Privy Council within the period of seven or eight months from the time the case was submitted, is the clearest and best indication of the wisdom and patriotism of Mr. Meredith as leader of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly, in persistently and consistently advocating that the matter should be referred to that tribunal as originally proposed and insisted on by Sir John Macdonald so long ago as 1872; and we regard with the scorn it merits the unwarranted attempt of Mr. Mowat's Administration to claim the credit for the result of a policy which they had all along opposed, and accepted only to escape the grave consequences brought about by their reckless agitation and wilful delay."

The motion was seconded by Mr. John Miller, (Pickering), and adopted.

Mr. N. A. COSTE, of South Essex, moved, "That the charges made by the members of the Local Administration on the floor of the Legislative Assembly against the members of the Government of Canada in direct terms, and by inuendo against the members of the Opposition in that Assembly, of complicity in the so-called attempt to bribe some of the members of the House, without any evidence to support it, was a grave offence against the amenities and common decencies of public life; that the result of the examination before the commissioners appointed to take evidence on the subject is admittedly a complete exoneration of the members of the Dominion Cabinet and of the Local Opposition; and that the sworn testimony of the Ministers themselves established the fact that a conspiracy to entrap the members of the Opposition and others into an attempt to bribe certain members of that Assembly was entered into by the Mowat Administration to serve a party purpose, regardless of the honor and dignity of the House." He said that the constituency in which he lived was ashamed of itself for having sent a man to the Legislature who became a vile informer, and he referred in scathing terms to the acts of the members of the Ontario Government in connection with the conspiracy.

Mr. MCKECHNIE, of Dundas, moved:—"That this convention, on behalf of the Conservative party of Ontario, endorses the National Policy, which the country declared for in 1878 and again in 1882, being convinced from the plain and manifest results that have followed the application of the tariff since 1879, that it is the policy best calculated to promoted the welfare of a young community (more especially of one lying alongside a great protectionist nation like the United States), and to secure its interests against destruction from the slaughtering of foreign goods in seasons of temporary depression; and that we call upon parliament to maintain this policy intact until such time as the Americans who rejected our reciprocity proposals in 1874 think fit to offer the free interchange those natural products which by the law the Government of Canada have now the power to admit free on reciprocal conditions."

Mr. JOHN E. DOYLE bore testimony, as a farmer, to the benefits derived from the National Policy.

Mr. ROBERT BROUGH, of Gananoque, said that he was one of the oldest protectionists and youngest Conservatives in the hall. He was now, like many old Reformers, united with the Conservatives.

Mr. THOMAS COWAN, of Galt, then moved the following resolution:—"That this convention heartily approves of the energetic construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, now approaching completion, believing that the country will greatly benefit by that vast undertaking, not only politically, but materially, beyond all present calculation; that it will lead to an immediate development of the North-West and of British Columbia, in the prosperity of which the older provinces must share, and that it will complete without further delay the great fabric of Confederation, and place Canada in a position as regards natural wealth and extent of territory second to that of no other country in the world." He, also, was an old Reformer, but so long as the Government and party were true to the National Policy and the scheme of a Canadian national highway they would have thousands of old Reformers with them.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Moberley, of Collingwood, and adopted.

A deputation from the County of Frontenac was introduced and presented Sir John Macdonald with a large and beautiful epergne.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD made a felicitous reply to the deputation and returned thanks.

Mr. DEACON, Q. C. (Renfrew) moved the following resolution:—"That we have read with astonishment and disapprobation the speeches of certain leading men of the so-called Reform party, in which a severance of the connection of this country with Great Britain is boldly advocated; that we oppose all such attempts to disturb our present most satisfactory relations with Great Britain as being mischievous and uncalled for, and that we here reiterate our adhesion to the British Crown and to British institutions, under which this country has made great and enduring progress." He referred to the practical independence of Canada and condemned those who decried British connection.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Robillard, M. P. P., and unanimously carried amid loud applause.

Mr. MORGAN (Middlesex) moved the next resolution as follows:—"That we approve of the general policy of the Dominion Government in encouraging railway development; in maintaining the efficiency of our canal system; in prosecuting all necessary public works tending to facilitate trade and commerce, in exempting from taxation tea, coffee and other necessaries of life not produced here; in reducing the rate of interest payable on the public debt; in keeping the expenditure within revenue, so as to maintain public credit, and in furthering by every lawful means the material welfare of the people."

Mr. F. MADILL (Beaverton) seconded the motion and it was adopted.

Sir LEONARD TILLEY addressed the Convention. He referred to the gathering as showing that Sir John Macdonald's services were appreciated, and, in the course of an able address, adduced figures to prove the success of his policy as Finance Minister.

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN was the next speaker. He delivered an able speech, and said that if the French Canadians did not speak the English language as they did, if their religion was different, if their blood was not the same, if their history before the conquest of the country was different, yet their feelings to-day were the same—they prided themselves upon being British subjects. The hearts of a million and a half of French Canadians were present with them in the honoring of Sir John Macdonald.

The Hon Mr. BLANCHET also addressed the Convention.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Manning for the use of the Opera House was moved by Mr. Boultbee, seconded by Sir John Macdonald and adopted.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Chairman, Mr. Meredith, on motion of Sir John Macdonald, seconded by the Hon. Mr. Plumb, and Mr. Meredith acknowledged it in a short speech.

Cheers were given for the Queen and Sir John Macdonald and the Convention adjourned.

The banquet held in the evening in the Horticultural Gardens was a most successful affair.

WHO CAUSE EXPLOSIONS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—United Ireland says:—"The English people exhibit admirable patience under the senseless and wicked frights to which they are subjected, but the police direct the dynamite conspiracy and pay for the explosions." Extra guards have been placed on duty at the public buildings here, and Crown officials are specially guarded.

STRONGLY ENTRENCHED.

HONG KONG, Dec. 18.—The French forces in Tonquin are now strongly entrenched at Langkep, while the Chinese are in force at Bacle, four miles distant. The French troops anxiously await the arrival of reinforcements. Many deaths have occurred among the soldiers and a large per cent. of those remaining are unfit for service on account of sickness. Operations in Formosa are entirely at a stand still. The officers of the lighthouse tender Fei Hoo, which was captured by Admiral Courbett, have been released on parole.

RIPON'S STATE ENTRY.

BOMBAY, Dec. 18.—The Marquis of Ripon, the retiring Governor-General of India, made a state entry into the city. The streets for six miles were thronged with people. Seventy-five addresses were made. The Marquis said he was leaving India in a tranquil and prosperous condition and loyal to the Home Government, and the country was better guarded against famine than ever before. Enthusiastic cheers were given for Queen Victoria and the Marquis.

THE MAHDI WELL POSTED.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Daily News correspondent telegraphs from Korti that he has ridden 140 miles through the Kabbabish country alone, and found the natives courteous. It is officially known that Paine is in the Mahdi's camp, and communicates with the people in Cairo, who keep him informed of the British movements.

GREAT PROMISES.

Mr. Wilfred Blunt has written a letter which says that the Peace Association are certain that if proper authority should be given it it could negotiate a safe conduct for Gordon and the Khartoum garrison to Dongola. The Association could also secure a general pacification of the Upper Nile region and avoid the necessity of the expedition to that quarter. The present movement in the Soudan is identical with that under Arabi Pasha, and is equally amendable to overtures of peace.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD, G. C. B.

It was a grand gathering that assembled at Toronto to give a fitting reception to Sir John Macdonald. In numbers, in enthusiasm, and in personal qualifications it was such an assemblage as has rarely been seen. It was truly representative of the country, and was worthy of the occasion—the celebration of the Conservative Premier's forty years of public service. It is true that the convention had other business to transact of a poltical nature, but the vast influx of the chosen men from every part of Ontario, to say nothing of delegates from other Provinces, was undoubtedly drawn together by a desire to do honour to one upon whom have already been heaped so many well-deserved honours. And, as was remarked, this concourse was not augmented and given its chief weight by the coincident crowds attracted by an exhibition with widely puffed side shows. It was a genuine tribute of respect and affection, without the aid of adventitious circumstances.

It is seldom that any man can be made the subject of such a demonstration. Forty years of public service—a quarter of a century of office and beneficial rule fall to the lot of few. Still less seldom does a statesman live to see the unification and consolidation of his country fully accomplished by himself. Cavour hardly saw a thoroughly united Italy; Bismarck, more fortunate, has seen Germany consolidated through his efforts. And it is with these statesmen that the future historians of this century will class Macdonald. Like them, the Father of Confederation in Canada had predecessors who dreamed of national unity and able lieutenants and allies who aided him in carrying his great work into effect, but like them he will be held to the master spirit with whose name Canada will be associated as Italy and Germany with theirs.

And this unification of our country is not the result of conquest or even of diplomacy, but is a greater triumph still, if less striking. The various Provinces of Canada agreed, under his lead, to throw in their lots together, but even then much remained to be accomplished. A great national highway has linked Province with Province from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The opening up and settlement of the Northwest is creating from the prairie additional Provinces of the future. The adoption of a National Policy has fostered and made possible that variety of industries throughout Canada, without which a country cannot attain the highest state of civilization. And for all these benefits, this completion of our national being, Canada has to thank Sir John Macdonald and the colleagues whom he so ably leads. And loyal Canadians will value his services all the more because in consolidating Canada he has strengthened rather than weakened the tie that connects us with the Empire and with our Sovereign.

It is no wonder then that people and Sovereign alike delight to honor Sir John A. Macdonald.

DIRTY JOURNALISM.

The leading Reform journal has been exciting disgust among all decent men, even of its own party, by its venemous and slanderous abuse of the greatest statesman of Canada—the Premier, who has been placed and maintained at the head of their affairs by the people of this Dominion. But in its issue of Thursday it surpasses even its own bad record by its exhibition of stupid malevolence. Its reporters gave a fair report of Sir John Macdonald's speech at the Conservative Convention at Toronto—not, of course, a verbatim report, but one that seems to be full, truthful and worthy of such an important event. But if its reporters are fair and honest, the editorial staff of the Globe is malicious and untruthful. Prefixed to the report, and flatly contradicted by it, is a so-called summary of Sir John's speech, which is a deliberate falsification, the facts being disgracefully misrepresented.

In their mortal terror of such a formidable political opponent, and in their hatred of one who has won the love and esteem of the great majority of the people of Canada, these dastardly foes of Sir John Macdonald hesitate at no meanness, so that they can strike a blow at him. Their animosity is only another tribute added to the many that have been paid to the Premier of Canada for his services to his country.

The Globe publishes on Thursday the usual four columns of editorial, and there was one little note of seven lines on the page that was truthful. The Globe says so itself. As the "great Reform organ" has been filling its editorial columns with untruthful matter so long, it is no wonder that it pointed with evident glee to the one fact that at last found its way into those columns—if it was a fact.

The Centenary Conference.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 17.—The pastoral address of the bishops read at the closing of the centenary conference to-day is a Christian congratulation on the state of the church, a review of its doctrine and future mission. It is addressed to the Methodist people of the United States and Canada. The address urges maintenance of family religion. It speaks of the Sabbath as the pillar of Christian civilization, and says the spiritual church without the Sabbath is an impossibility.

AN OLD VILLAGE.

The Extraordinary Architecture of the Old Afghan Time.

Our special correspondent with the Afghan commission thus describes an extraordinary looking village which he passed at the distance of 100 miles from Teheran:

We had not proceeded far on our way when vestiges of the former conditions of things met our eyes. It was at a place only 100 miles from Teheran that we first realized the dreadful state of danger in which the people then lived. We found a most remarkable village at which we encamped. Supposing that no information could have been procured, and an archæologist had come upon it by accident, he would have a profound puzzle to unravel and explain. The name of the village is Lasgird. The people ascribe an immense antiquity to it, and say that Las, or Last, a son of Noah, drew on the ground the "gird," or circle, which is the plan of the structure. The hero of this legend is not very familiar to Biblical scholars in the west, but he is not known in Afghanistan. The colosseum at Rome, although an oval, would convey some idea of the general appearance of Lasgird, only it must be conceived as built of mud, which is almost the only building material of this country. It should also be remembered that the one belongs to the period of good architecture, of which it is a celebrated monument, while the other may be said to be entirely destitute of any pretensions of this kind.

The rude mud walls are thick and solid all round at the base, and rise some 30 or 40 feet, where there is a line of doors, with here and there a small window between them. By means of projecting beams or branches of trees, over which smaller branches are laid, a kind of gallery is produced, bearing a strong resemblance to the simple forms of birds' nests, which are formed of sticks placed on the upper branches of trees. The wonder is how the eggs do not roll over, or that the chicks do not tumble down to destruction. So it is with the galleries of Lasgird—there is no protection on the edge. Yet we saw women and children, sheep and goats upon them—a more dangerous-looking arrangement it would be hard to conceive. There are two tiers of houses all around, and in some places there appeared to be three. All had these galleries in front, either to communicate with the next house, or as some did not communicate they were only of use to come out upon to sit, work or for the children to play upon; to us these places seemed the brink of destruction, while to the women and children it all as safe and comfortable as if they had been monkeys. Of course there was no getting up to these galleries from the outside; that would have suited the Turkomans. The means of going up was all on the inside. In some cases there are rough steps of mud, and in others there are inclined planes, half ladder and half road, made in the same way as the galleries. These lead up to galleries communicating with the houses, which were an exact repitition of those outside, the only difference being that they were not so high up, and there were walls at places which did duty as a parapet, hence the certainty of falling over did not seem quite so great from the inside as on the outside. While looking at this strange structure from one of these upper galleries, an old woman of at least 70 years of age passed me with a child stuck in some primitive way on her back; a few yards from me was one of those means of ascent formed of sticks with the remains of mud hanging to it. It would have done for fowls to go up to their roosts upon. She clambered up on this to the gallery above, but that was not her destination; her house was one still up higher in a corner, and to reach it she had to crawl up on the edge of a crumbling mud wall, not above eighteen inches wide; on her left hand was a perpendicular descent, enough to make anyone dizzy, and death at the bottom of it if a fall should occur; although the other side there was only a few feet, if the old creature had slipped, the chances are she would have rolled down and fallen over the gallery with the baby on her back. The old lady went up very steadily, and reached her crow's nest in perfect safety. I could not help thinking that a few generations of this kind of thing would undo all our development, and that we should go back again to our original Simian condition.

The dwellings of the people were all in the upper part of the great circle, and the centre was filled up with strange moss structures, which are now failing to decay, as there is no longer any danger from the Turkomans. These places were for containing the grain of the villagers when a raid occurred. One of a number of wells was pointed out to us within the circle, and we were told that they had three or four which were always kept in good order in the days of danger. There is only one entrance to this circle, and that is by a small entrance scarcely four feet in height, to which there is a stone door working with a pivot and socket similar to the ancient stone doors found in the Hauran and other parts east of Soudan. This stone door of Lasgird is a very rude one, being eight inches thick in some parts, and it tells its tale of the existence of great danger and the necessity for protection. Sir Peter Lumsden had a long conversation with the Khet Khodah and some of the principal villagers, and it seemed that they not only ascribed the origin of the Lasgird to the son of Noah "Nu," as they called him, but they likened their strange dwelling places to the ark. Extreme theologians, who identify the church with the ark, say all who were in the ark were saved; all without were destroyed. This was exactly the case with Lasgird. When Chupao took place all who got in were secure; all who were left outside became victims. A chronic state of war existed, and this fortified village has the result. The government either could not, or would not, defend the people, and they had to take means for their own safety.—London Daily News.

DEATH OF BISHOP FULLER

The End of a Long and Useful Life — A Sketch of His Career.

The Right Rev. Thos. Brock Fuller, D.C.L. and D.D., Bishop of Niagara, died at an early hour on Wednesday, Dec. 17th, at his residence, Bishophurst. The deceased prelate was born at Kingston, July 16, 1810. His father was Major Fuller of the Forty fifth Regiment of foot, then in garrison at the Limestone City. Left an orphan as a very early age, he was adopted by his aunt, wife of Rev. Wm. Leeming, who for forty years was rector at Chippewa. Having completed his primary education at the Hamilton grammar school at the age of 19 he entered the theological seminary at Chambly, in Quebec. In 1833 he was ordained Deacon in Quebec Cathedral, and a few months later he was selected as curate in the parish church, Montreal. During the cholera visitation he labored night and day in the pest houses. In 1835 he was ordained to the priesthood at Toronto by the Bishop of Quebec. In 1836 he removed to Cantham, and in 1840 was appointed to Thorold where he established numerous congregations along the Welland Canal line. He labored there gratuitously for 21 years, and in 1861 was appointed Rector of St. George's Church in Toronto. In 1867 he became Archdeacon of the Diocese in Toronto. In 1875, when the Diocese of Niagara was created, Archdeacon Fuller was consecrated the first Bishop on May 1st, in that year, by the Metropolitan of Canada. In 1835 Bishop Fuller married Cynthia, eldest daughter of Samuel Street, of the Niagara District. Besides his much respected wife, he leaves six sons, Samuel Fuller, of Stratford; Richard and William, of Toronto; Valancey E. Fuller, of Hamilton; Shelton, of Woodstock, and Henry, of Toronto; also three daughters, Mrs. McLeod, wife of Rev. D. I. F. McLeod, now in England; Mrs. Benson, wife of Judge Benson, of Port Hope, and Mrs. McMurray, wife of James S. McMurray, of Toronto. All of these, with the exception of Mrs. McLeod, were with the Bishop in his last moments.

FUN FOR THE BOYS.

But Uncomfortable for the Young Man on the Floor Below.

In a second story window of an uptown residence, fronting on a cross street, a dignified young man sat reading one warm Sunday morning not long ago. The rising sun was preparing to ride high in the heavens, and the people were going to church. The smoke of a cigar curled upward from the young man's lips, and he leaned idly from his window, watching the people passing along the sidewalk below him. A stately citizen, clad in conscious virtue, a white waistcoat and some other garments, came walking along. When the stately citizen arrived at a point directly under the window where the young man sat he suddenly clapped his hand to his ear, stopped short, and looked up at the young man. The latter looked calmly down, and the citizen went on.

A thin gentleman passed a moment afterward, twirling a cane as he passed along. Below the window he, too, stopped, rubbed his nose violently and then looked up. The young man again looked down calmly, but with a little surprise on his features. The thin gentleman looked at him suspiciously and moved on, and an angular person of the female sex soon followed. She, too, abruptly stopped, fanned her left ear with her hand, and looked up. The young man blushed and half retired into the room.

"Wretch," hissed the angular female and passed on.

The young man looked at himself in the mirror, but saw nothing in his appearance which should impede traffic in the street below. He returned to the window just in time to find a fat woman shaking her fist at him and and hear her threaten to call the police. The driver of a cab sawed at the bits to keep his horses from starting on a run when it reached a point opposite the window, and an aged newsman dropped his stock, put his hand to his eyes, and danced up and down with rage.

The horror-stricken young man closed the window, drew the curtain, and wondered if he or the populace were going mad, while in the room directly over his head two boys hugged two pea-shooters to their breasts and voted they were having more fun than one could shake a stick at.—New York Times.

NORWOOD MODEL SCHOOL.

The following letter appeared in the Norwood Register, and we republish it by request:—

DEAR SIR,—Kindly permit us space in your paper to make a few remarks on the Model School recently organized in Norwood.

There has been, we believe, an idea among people generally that a Model School is an unnecessary institution. Such an idea prevailed among ourselves previous to our attendance during the season just closed, but now our opinions are altered. We have found that a general knowledge of the branches is no more necessary to a teacher than is the ability to apply it. To be able to apply this knowledge we have from experience found it absolutely necessary to attend the Model School. Any student going out to teach before he has received a training as to how to teach, might be compared to "a blind man leading the blind." Not only in this does the benefit arise, but one feels himself qualified and able to teach, and can accordingly take a better position than he otherwise could. In conclusion we strongly recommend all teachers to avail themselves of this training before taking upon themselves the great responsibility, not only of developing the child intellectually, but also of developing him morally and physically.

Signed on behalf of the Model School students,

MISS J. E. ELLSWORTH, Peterborough,
MR. HARRY LEWIS, Norwood.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

The following is from J. W. Ptolemy, of Winnipeg, formerly grain buyer for Wm. Gillesby, Hamilton and Grimsby: "I was for many years afflicted with Costiveness, Billiousness and untimately Dyspepsia. I suffered very much and tried many different medicines, which gave me only temporary relief and then I was as bad as ever again. I was recommended by a friend, who had been restored to health by it, to try McGregor's Speedy Cure. I did so, and it was not long before I felt like a new man, and I have enjoyed excellent health ever since. I commenced taking it February 7th, 1879. Sold by John McKee.

THE PRESERVATION OF EGG

Since I wrote you last week there has been published in the Field newspaper a letter by Mr. W. B. Tegetmeier, giving the result of an examination made by him of the preserved eggs at the late Dairy Show. For the purpose of this examination he had been permitted to take away two eggs out of each lot. These he tested thoroughly, and I give a summary of his remarks thereon for the benefit of your readers. I explained last week that the eggs had been kept from the 8th of last July to the 8th of October, and as it was at least three days after the latter date before Mr. Tegetmeier could possibly make the examination, the period during which they had been kept was more than three months. And it is to be remembered that these were the three worst months of the year, namely, July, August and September, and that this year we have had a season of the most intense heat, such as we have not experienced here for many seasons. Therefore, this experiment was sufficiently trying to satisfy the most exacting, especially as the eggs were kept in the offices of the Dairy Farmers' Association, and under no such favorable conditions as would be the case in the cellars or store closets of a farmhouse.

The lots of eggs entered for this competition were thirty-one in number, and in each lot there were two dozen eggs. Seven were packed in common salt, which in some cases had previously been thoroughly dried. Respecting these, Mr. Tegetmeier says:

"The eggs when broken were alike in quality; the salt had absorbed a rather large portion of the water of the albumen, or white, consequently there was a considerable air cavity at the larger end, the presence of which was evident by the sound produced when the eggs were shaken. The white was thickened by the loss of the water, but otherwise very little changed, and the eggs were very good for pastry or cooking purposes, being superior to the common shop eggs obtained in London during the winter season, being free from any objectionable odor or taste."

It is evident that these eggs would not be suitable for sale, however good in cooking, for the shaking of the contents would be fatal to them in the former respect. One of the lots of eggs packed in salt had been first wrapped in thin paper, but there was no difference in the result. In addition to the seven packed in salt alone, there were three others with which salt was the actual preservative. One of these was packed in sand and salt, another in a mixture of slaked lime and salt, and a third had been first coated with a solution of gum arabic and then packed in salt. But the result was the same in all these cases as when the plain salt had been used.

One lot of eggs was preserved by the use of gum alone. The plan followed was described by the exhibitor: "Eggs dipped into a strong saturated solution of pure gum arabic; operation repeated twice. Eggs thoroughly dried, then wrapped in paper and packed in bran; eggs three days old." This is a somewhat troublesome system, but the result showed them to be well preserved, and the white was more natural in appearance than the previous lots, consequent upon the gum having prevented any evaporation.

Three lots of eggs had been coated with melted wax or paraffin, but it is remarkable that these were all decided failures. When the wax was removed, the shells were found to be more or less discolored, and on opening the insides were mildewed and the contents spoiled. This is all the more surprising, as the lot which won the second prize at Birmingham last December was preserved in the same way, and by the same exhibitor as one of these. The system then answered very well indeed, but this time has been a failure. One other lot of eggs had been wrapped in oil paper, and then dipped in boiling rosin, but they were unfit for use.

Four more had been painted with fat or oil, and one of these obtained a second prize. This lot had been painted over with melted beef and mutton dripping, and then wiped with a cloth. Another had been rubbed well with butter; yet another painted with salad oil and packed in sand, and a fourth also painted with salad oil but wrapped in paper and packed in flour. Other three lots had been first buttered or oiled, and then packed in salt. All these seven collections had been preserved satisfactorily for cooking purposes, but as no evaporation had taken place, the white had more tenuity than in those where the pores had not been actually closed. One of these preserved by oil and salt gained a second prize.

Three lots only were preserved in liquids. One was in pure lime-water; another in lime-water, with a very small quantity of salt; and the third in the following: "Twenty quarts of water, one ounce of saltpetre, one pound of salt, six tablespoonfuls of quick lime; boil the water saltpetre and salt twenty minutes, and pour that hot upon the quick lime; the next day put in the eggs, and keep the pot covered in a cool place." These lots were well preserved and very good indeed for cooking. There had been little or no evaporation, and yet the white was less watery than in those preserved in fat or oil. When wiped dry they had just the appearance of shop eggs. The lime-water process is that used so largely abroad, and it would almost appear as if it was the best system. One lot was kept in an egg cabinet, standing small end downwards on perforated shelves. These were fairly preserved. The other lots do not require any special mention.

Thus it will be seen that many of the systems used are good for the preservation of eggs, even through a hot, oppressive summer, but only for cooking purposes. Of course there are thousands and millions of persons who would be quite content to eat of these eggs. But they do not realize what a fresh egg is, and its superiority to one even a week old. I had hoped that this experiment would have indicated some system by which eggs would be preserved so as to be fit for table purposes, but this is not so. It does show, however, that there are three or four ways in which they can be kept, even under the most unfavorable conditions, and be first rate for the kitchen.—Stephen Beale, in Country Gentleman.

Wellington on Napoleon.

The following is given from John Wilson Croker's correspondence as the Duke of Wellington's opinion of Napoleon:—

Bonapart's mind was in its details, low and ungentlemanlike. I suppose the narrowness of his early prospects and habits stuck to him; what we understand by gentlemanlike feelings he knew nothing at all about; I'll give you a curious instance.

I have a beautiful little watch made by Breguet at Paris, with a map of Spain most admirably enamelled on the case. Sir Edward Paget bought it at Paris and gave it to me. What do you think the history of this watch was—at least the history that Breguet told Paget, and Paget told me? Bonaparte had ordered it as a present to his brother, the king of Spain, but when he heard of the battle of Vittoria—he was then at Dresden in the midst of all the preparations and negotiations of the armistice, and one would think sufficiently busy with other matters—when he heard of the battle of Vittoria he remembered the watch he had ordered for one whom he saw would never be king of Spain, and with whom he was angry for the loss of the battle, and he wrote from Dresden to countermand the watch, and if it should be ready, to forbid its being sent. The best apology one can make for this strange littleness is, that he was offended with Joseph; but even in that case a gentleman would not have taken the moment when the poor devil had lost his chateaux en espagne, to take away his watch also. All these codocils to his will, in which he bequeathed millions to the right and left, and amongst others left a legacy to the fellow who was accused of attempting to assassinate me, is another proof of littleness of mind; the property he really had he had already made his disposition of. For the payment of all these other high sounding legacies, there was not the shadow of a fund. He might as well have drawn bills for ten millions on that pump at Aldgate. (We had on our way driven past it). While he was writing all these miserable donations he knew that they were all in the air, all a falsehood. For my part, I can see no magnanimity in a lie, and I confess that I think one who could play such tricks but a shabby fellow.

HOT AIR ENGINES.

We are of opinion that hot air engines are of no use for driving wood-working machinery. In other establishments, where very small power is required, they are useful, as they can be worked with economy without skilled labor, and without danger of explosion. In hot-air engines of the latest construction the principle of working is as follows:—Atmospheric air is in the first place forced by an air pump into a retort or generator in which a fire has been previously lighted, the fuel used being coke or charcoal. The fire being well alight, the generator is hermetically sealed by means of doors. No chimney is used, in fact the use of such when the engine is working would be fatal, as it is necessary that the pressure to be afterwards utilized in the working cylinder should be retained within the generator. A thick fire-brick lining in the generator leaves an annular space between it and the outer casing. The air from the feed-pump is divided into two streams, one entering this annular space, whence it descends beneath the grate-bars and passes through the fuel, the other entering into the space or chamber above the fire. That passing through the fire gives up its oxygen and effects the combustion of the fuel, forming first carbonic acid, and subsequently carbonic oxide; that entering into the chamber above the fire meets with the carbonic oxide and nitrogen and creates an intense heat. This heat tends to expand the air, but having no room to do so it becomes compressed; the pressure thus formed is the force used to effect the motion the engine. governor determines whether more or less air shall pass through the fire or into the space above; consequently according to the position of the governor the pressure of the air is regulated, and the fuel is consumed in direct proportion to the work being done by the engine. —Timber Trades Journal.

Profound Amazement.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Times says the terms of the Nicaragua Treaty will excite profound amazement in England and America. If the published version is correct it will undoubtedly elicit a distinct protest in both countries as being in direct violation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty It presents a more distinct violation of that instrument than Blaine ever contemplated. Americans must not suppose that Englishmen will deprecate the treaty, owing to any alarm at the extension of American dominions, or from any mistrust that advantages gained will be abused to the injury of British trade; but they cannot approve the example of one State purchasing control of such a waterway for its personal advantage, and not as trustee for the benefit of the world. A navigable highway between two oceans is not a petty matter of sale and barter between a couple of states.

IT LEADS ALL.

No other blood-purifying medicine is made, or has ever been prepared, which so completely meets the wants of physicians and the general public as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

It leads the list as a truly scientific preparation for all blood diseases. If there is a lurking taint of Scrofula about you, SCROFULA AYER'S SARSAPARILLA will dislodge it and expel it from your system.

For constitutional or scrofulous Catarrh, CATARRH AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is the true remedy. It has cured numberless cases. It will stop the nauseous catarrhal discharges, and remove the sickening odor of the breath, which are indications of scrofulous origin.

ULCEROUS SORES "At the age of two years one of my children was terribly afflicted with ulcerous running sores on its face and neck. At the same time its eyes were swollen, much inflamed, and very sore. SORE EYES Physicians told us that a powerful alterative medicine must be employed. They united in recommending AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. A few doses produced a perceptible improvement, which, by an adherence to your directions, was continued to a complete and permanent cure. No evidence has since appeared of the existence of any scrofulous tendencies; and no treatment of any disorder was ever attended by more prompt or effectual results.

Yours truly, B. F. JOHNSON."

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A Correction.

The first Skating Carnival will take place on the day after Christmas, Friday, December 26th, not December 29th. The rink will probably be opened on Monday next.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds, fair, continued very cold weather, with a few local snow flurries.

"East Lynne."

Last night there was another large audience in the Opera House and the Tavernier Dramatic Company presented "East Lynne." This was the fourth consecutive night that this company has appeared in the Opera House, and each night they have been greeted by large audiences. Miss Ida VanCortland acted the part of "Lady Isabel" and "Madame Vine" and she did herself and the play credit. Mr. Wilson Day and Mr. Albert Tavernier, as usual, pleased the audience by their representations of the characters of "Archibald Carlyle" and "Sir Francis Levison." Miss Alice Hunt and Miss Marie Newman also gave a very good representation of "Barbara Hare" and "Miss Corney." Little Annie Bird acted well as "Little Willie," and her songs were received with the usual emphatic evidences of appreciation. This evening the company will appear in "The Mighty Dollar."

HILLIARD'S FAMILY FLOUR is ahead for bread making. Leave your orders at W. J. Mason's.

Respiration and Circulation.

A lecture on the above subject was delivered on Thursday night in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall, by Dr. J. A. Fife. The audience was not very large, which may be accounted for partly by the numerous other attractions this week, and partly because of the extreme cold. Those who did attend, however, considered themselves amply repaid by the interesting and instructive nature of the lecture. The doctor explained the method of respiration, caused by the contraction and expansion of the lungs and diaphragm, and gave several practical hints concerning the necessity for pure air, &c. He showed how the oxygen from the air was taken hold of by the blood in the lungs, which at the same time got rid of a considerable quantity of carbonic acid gas, which passed out of the body with the exhalation. In treating of the circulation of the blood he explained the other methods by which impurities are removed from the blood, namely, through the kidneys, liver and skin. In illustrating the circulation he stated that the blood, purified in the lungs by the exhalation of carbonic acid and the inhalation of oxygen, passed into the left side of the heart, and was thence pumped through the arteries by a powerful contractive action of the heart. The blood, after doing its work at the end of the arteries in the capillaries, then passed into the veins, by which it was carried back to the right side of the heart, which passed it into the lungs, there to be purified. The doctor was listened to with close attention throughout, and at the end was greeted with applause. Mr. D. B. Gardner, who occupied the chair, conveyed the thanks of the audience to Dr. Fife for the instruction he had given them.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

Anniversary Services.

On Sunday morning and evening the pulpit of the George Street Methodist Church will be occupied by the Rev. Ralph Brown. The occasion is the anniversary day commemorative of the erection of the church. Collections will be taken up in the interests of the trust fund. The Rev. Mr. Brown will also lecture on Monday evening, his subject being, "Heads and Faces." The admission fee is a voluntary silver coin to be given at the door. Mr. Brown is making a tour through Canada and the United States. His lectures in Toronto and Hamilton have drawn immense audiences. The following is taken from the Hamilton Times:

"Seldom in the history of Hamilton has such a large and enthusiastic audience greeted a lecturer as that which assembled in Wesley Church last evening to hear the Rev. Mr. Brown, of Australia, discourse on 'Heads and Faces.' Mr. Brown is in the prime of life, and is a very fluent and attractive speaker. An effort is being made to induce him to return to the city at an early date and repeat the lecture of last evening."

The Christian Weekly, of Australia, says:—

"For two hours the fine audience was kept in close attention. Logic and humour, wit and philosophy, anecdote and description, sarcasm and instruction, blended together, and delivered with great natural force and earnestness, made the lecture a great treat. We would advise all to attend this really instructive and amusing lecture."

The Brighton Southern Cross says:—

"The lecture on 'Heads and Faces' was logical, thoroughly practical, and intensely interesting from first to last. I believe Mr Brown claims to be an Irishman, improved by birth in America, and training in Australia. Certainly he has the wit of the Irishman, the energy of the American, and the sociability of the Australian."

Taken from the Ganler Standard:

"He treated the subject most masterly in all its bearings. His manner and matter were alike very pleasing, and his witticisms splendid. It was a real intellectual treat, given in such a racy style that the audience would gladly have sat longer under his magic words."

HILLIARD'S EXTRA PATENT FLOUR makes delicious biscuits, cakes, pastry, &c. Order at W. J. Mason's.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.

The Scholars of St. Luke's Sunday School are Delightfully Entertained.

On Thursday afternoon and evening the annual Christmas festival in connection with St. Luke's Church was held in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. From half-past four o'clock until half-past five the children of the Sunday School, numbering over 120, regaled themselves with the good things provided. After that hour the parents of the children and friends of the Sunday School took tea, while the children all retired to the adjoining school room to see the magic lantern exhibition which was given. After tea, which was continued until 7.30 o'clock, an evening entertainment was given.

It was opened by an overture, "Approach of Spring," by the Fire Brigade Band Orchestra. The school children sang a Christmas carol, "Ring the Merry Christmas Bells," Mrs. Bowman sang a song entitled "The Beggar Girl," and Mr. McDonald gave an instrumental solo on the bagpipes. "Billy Boosey's Donkey," a reading, was given by Miss Grundy; Mr. T. McNaughton gave an illuminated club swinging exhibition, and the first part closed with a dial gue by Messrs. Geo. Overton, Wm. Heaps, Arthur Smith, Wm. Rombough, Geo. Phillips, and C. W. Orde. Part second was opened with another carol, "With Wondering Awe," sung by the school children. The Fire Brigade Band Orchestra rendered another selection, "Sounds from the North," Mrs. Bowman sang, "Roses Neath the Snow," and Miss Grundy contributed another reading, "An Awful Story." The second part was closed with a dialogue, "Using the Weed," by Misses Carrie and Ella Bennett, Katie Payne, Sophia Cameron, Florence Tivey, and Laura Butcher.

After the entertainment, books to the number of 46 were distributed as prizes to the Sunday School scholars. Those who had attended 50 Sundays in the year received a first prize, those attending 46 Sundays or over, received a second prize, and those who attended 43 Sundays and over, received a third prize. There were nine first prizes given, fourteen second prizes, and twenty-three third prizes. Those who received first prizes were:—Katie Payne, Louisa Friend, Victoria Masiece, Hettie Bennett, Maud Packenham, Fanny Packenham, Carrie Bridgewater, Martha Beatty and Harry Phillips. Those who received second prizes were:—Carrie Bennett, Lizzie Beatty, Pearl Walker, Katie Phillips, J. Pollock, Fred. Long, Jos. Starr, Geo. Crowe, John Crowe, Carrie Young, Susie Young, Laura Butcher, Geo. Phillips, and Thos. Cathcart. The winners of third prizes were:—Mary McAnairn, Eva Gaddy, Annie Denne, Laura Young, Lizzie Tighe, Effie Bennett, Gertie Denne, Ada Curtis, Albert Roberts, Geo. McWilliams, David Rogers, Chas. Young, Geo. Overton, May Canning, Richard Canning, Ed. Armstrong, Jennie Pollock, Mossie Irwin, Hettie Burnham, Frank Curtis, David Curtis, Thos. Burnham, and Mary C. Curtis.

Hazel Brae.

Don't forget the entertainment at the Hazel Brae Home this evening. The programme is a good one, and those who attend will doubtless spend an enjoyable evening.

The Collegiate Institute.

The work at the Collegiate Institute for this year came to an end this forenoon. The classes were dismissed and both teachers and pupils were relieved from their duties until after the holidays. Most of the pupils from a distance departed for home on the last night's and this morning's trains. The entrance examination will take place next week.

Her Fault.

"Why, dear Robert," she said to her husband, "have you cut your face again? I'm so sorry!" "Well, I think you might be," he answered sharply, "for you are to blame for it. If you had bought that bedroom set at Belleghem's he would have put a good mirror in the dressing case, and then I could have seen what I was doing when I cut myself. He would not have charged you any more than you paid for that miserable looking set. Why, just you go and have a look at his furniture and price the goods. You will be surprised!"

CHRISTMAS CARDS in great variety; also a large assortment of SCRIPTURE CARDS, in packets, at list prices, besides a fine variety of SCRIPTURE TEXT BOOKS. Miss Havergal's Books Scripture Mottoes, etc., at JOHN ERSKINE'S.

Chit Chat.

—The sudden cold snap froze out the Police Court business this morning.

—Go and see "The Mighty Dollar" at the Opera House to-night.

—The rink was flooded last evening, the water being procured from an Aylmer street hydrant.

—There is good ice on the western curling rink to-day.

—A session of the Division Court was held in the Court House to-day. His Honor Judge Dennistoun presided.

The Cold Snap.

The mercury in the self registering thermometer of Mr. G. W. Morgan, fell to 26° below zero last night. At 8 o'clock this morning it stood at 20° below zero. Several children attending the South Ward School were severely bitten by frost on their way to school this morning. Some had their cheeks frozen, some their feet and hands, and some had their ears touched with the frosty air. Mr. Harry Stock, (at A. McNeil's) while out driving to-day, had four fingers frozen. At three o'clock this afternoon the weather has moderated somewhat, and the thermometer stands at 4° below zero.

The Public Schools.

In the public schools throughout the town the promotion examinations usually held at the closing of the term, took place on Thursday and to-day. In the South Ward School the rooms of Miss McLeod and Mr. Jones were decorated on Thursday evening by the scholars, with evergreens, cards, etc. In Mr. Jone's room appropriated Christmas mottoes were placed on the walls, and the room wore to-day a particularly pretty and cheery appearance. The afternoon readings, recitations, etc., were given by the scholars in the presence of their parents. A presentation and address were tendered to Miss Fair, at the Central School, this afternoon on the eve of her departure from services in the school.

HEADQUARTERS FOR XMAS CARDS.

Go straight to A. L. DAVIS & CO'S and see the greatest display of Xmas Cards that is to be seen. Our Cards are all New, for last year the assortment was so fine and the prices so low that we cleared out our entire stock. The public no doubt remember this, hence the patronage we are now getting. Ask to see our special low line, A. L. DAVIS & CO.

The Ruling Motive

When a man does a questionable act, or one that we think he should not have done, his motive for doing it is at once enquired into, for if he did not intend to do wrong, and if his motive was a good one, he is not so unsparingly condemned. It has been stated that shelfishness is the ruling motive in this world. Is an undoubted fact that it has a great deal to do with most of our acts. In small things it is plainly shown. Who does not want the best seat at a theatre or in a railway car? Who is not always looking about to see what will add most to his comfort? It is even said that when a man does a benevolent deed, and does it privately without letting it become known, he does it on account of the satisfaction he feels in doing it. Some would have us believe that love, of which poets have sung in such terms of high praise, is simply sublime selfishness, because, they say, a man desires a lady's company—her presence pleases him—and in his selfishness he loves her! Now, every one would not carry the theory of selfish motives that far. They would object that it would be lowering humanity, and argue that it was not true. But no one will deny that it is commendable selfishness for any one to desire to have good clothes and to purchase them at reasonable prices, and it is proper to enquire as to the best place to make such purchases. ANDREW MCNEIL, Habiliment Hall, George street, has a large stock of gentlemen's furnishings at the lowest rates.

The Scott Act was voted on in the united counties of Leeds and Grenville on Thursday, and was adopted by a large majority, according to the lastest returns, 723.

A Remarkable Escape.

Mrs. Mary A. Daily, of Tunkannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitis, during which time the best physicians could give do relief. Her life was despaired of, until last October she tried a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50lbs. in a few months. Daily Evening Review

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1884.

THE COUNTRY'S PROGRESS.

THE Reform journals, urged on by Sir Richard Cartwright, have been trying to prove that Canada has not advanced as rapidly as it should have done. One of the methods they take to show this is to parade statistics furnished by the Educational Department of Ontario, and it is stated that the number of children in attendance at the public schools of Ontario has decreased since 1878. If this proved anything in regard to the population of Ontario it would prove that the number of people residing in the Province had decreased, but as it is admitted that such is not the case, that the population of Ontario has increased, the statistics can give those defamers of our country no comfort. Besides, they overlook the fact that in the years that the Reformers were in office at Ottawa there was not the demand for labour that there has been since. There was less employment for men, boys and girls, and a number of children who otherwise would have been employed at the lighter kinds of labour, were in those years sent to school. It might be argued that it was better for those boys to be sent to school, but it will scarcely be contended that the demand for employees should be lessened in order to compel parents to send their larger children to school.

There is one way, and the correct way, to look at this question. Has the policy pursued by the Dominion Administration since 1878 been such as tended to the advancement of the country? It must be admitted that it has, and no carping by Opposition journals or speakers will make thinking persons believe otherwise. The construction of the Canada Pacific Railway through the fertile lands, the coal fields and the timber lands of the Northwest, has assisted in developing that portion of our Dominion—which could not be developed without it—while it has assisted the older Provinces. The policy of fostering the industries of the Dominion has been of benefit to the manufacturing interests and the whole country. In pushing forward the construction of public works and in other ways the Dominion Government has pursued a policy that was in the best interests of the country. Let these grumblers tell us what would have been the present state of the country if a different policy had been pursued, or if they will not tell us, let the people ask themselves the question.

It is loudly urged that Canada is now suffering from a depression of business, and what is given as the cause for the depression? Over production. They say that there are too many goods in our markets. The United States is also suffering from a depression from a similar cause—suffering far more severely than Canada is—and the Reformers propose as a remedy for the depression on this side that our markets be opened to the United States manufacturers in order that the surplus goods in that country may be brought into markets here, which they say are now too fully supplied! If we have a plethora of manufactured goods, and if a depression is caused by it, to open our markets as proposed would only be increasing the agony. It would be like a person with a cold in his head going out in the freezing air with the idea that his crazy act would bring relief.

The policy of the Conservative rulers of the Dominion has been and is in the interest of the country. A policy opposed to that carried out by them would ruin Canada. And if our country has not advanced as rapidly as we fondly hoped it would—and it cannot progress too fast to suit us—it is because a section of people who reside in the Dominion, by their foolish and unpatriotic attacks upon the land they live in, and their almost constant belittling of its resources, have tended to retard its progress. The Government has striven to advance the interests of the Dominion and to cause the country to grow; the Opposition have pursued an opposite policy—a policy that interfered with its progress and checked its advancement.

Sir John at the Station.

The Globe publishes an editorial note regarding the greeting Sir John Macdonald received at the Petesborough station when on his way to Toronto. If it were true it would be very amusing, but as it lacks the element of truth it is not so interesting.

Will be Warmer.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate easterly winds, cloudy weaher, snow at night, higher temperatures.

Chit Chat.

—Still severely cold.

—Mr. G. M. Morgan's thermometer registered 27° below zero last night.

—At noon it stood 1° below zero.

—Two electric lamps have been hung on Hunter street. The poles used are higher than those on George street and certainly the light is more effective.

—"The Ticket of Leave Man" will be presented at the Opera House to-night.

—Twenty-four years ago to-day Lord Macauley died.

—A lady, while walking around the market this morning, had her feet badly touched with the frost.

—A caucus of the "Ministerialists" of the Mock Parliament (Mr. J. H. Long, leader) will be held in Messrs. Poussette & Roger's office at a quarter to eight on Monday evening.

IF YOU WANT a first-class article of Family Flour, go to W. J. Mason's and order some of Hilliard's. It is the best.

At Hazel Brae.

On Friday evening a social and entertainment was given at the Hazel Brae Home for its own benefit. On account of the intensely cold weather there was not so many people present as there would have been on a more favorable evening. But those who attended were well repaid for coming out; and all spent a most enjoyable evening. A pianoforte duet by Misses Gilmour and Roper was the opening piece. A vocal quartette by Misses Bannemann and Wells and Messrs. Duff and Geale, "Lo! the early Beams of Morning!" came next. Mr. P. E. S. Cooper contributed a recitation, and Miss Bannerman and Mr. K. G. Loch sang a very pleasing duet. A pianoforte trio was given by Mrs. Duff, Miss Kathleen Duff, and Mr. Ed. A. Duff. Mr. Wm. Dixon executed some of his clever imitations in ventriloquism, and a chorus "Blow, Gentle Gales," was sung by Miss Bannemann, Miss Ellsworth, Miss Wells, Miss Rush and Mr. Duff. The second part was opened with a pianoforte duet by the Misses Dennistoun. Solos were given by Miss Bannemann and Mr. Geale, and a reading was contributed by Dr. Clarke. A chorus, "Robert, toi que j'aime," was sung by the vocalists who took part. The entertainment was closed with the singing of the National Anthem by the gathering. During the evening refreshments were served.

"Keep warm! Keep warm! Keep warm!" Twenty per cent, reductionon all Winter Underclothing at A. McNeil's.

The Festive Season.

The festive season has once more rolled around and again we find Mr. James Howden amply prepared to supply his customers with the very finest of meats. But Mr. Howden has made a departure from the regular way of supplying the Christmas market. Early in the season he commenced scouring the country in search of well made young cattle, sheep and hogs. He selected the animals with the careful eye of a long experienced buyer and then had them conveyed to his farm in North Monaghan to feed during the summer and fall. These animals have had careful attendance during the season and have gradually been brought into the very prime-t condition. It is enough to make the mouth of an Englishman water, just to look at Mr. Howden's display. The shop is filled with choice beef, mutton, and other meats, and it would seem as if the stock had burst out of the door, so great is the amount of it. All along the front of the shop and on the fences in the immediate vicinity are hung quarters of mutton, beef, pork, turkeys, geese, and a fatted bear and a thoroughbred calf (300 lbs), make up a display rarely seen in this part of the country. In all, fourteen beeves, twenty-five sheep, one calf and one bear compose this excellent exhibit. It is necessary for Mr. Howden to provide largely, for he has a large circle of customers to supply. They may confidently rely, however, on getting anything and everything they want at the usually patronized stall. The meat was all dressed by Mr. Robert Clayburn, formerly of Toronto, and those who see it at once discern that it was done by an experienced hand. The meat is tastefully arranged and gaudily decorated with evergreens, rosettes, etc., etc.

$70,000 in Ashes.

MONTREAL, Dec. 17.—The tin stamping factory of Thomas Davidson & Co. was totally destroyed by fire this evening. The factory, which was a three-story building, was valued at about $30,000, machinery $27,000 and stock $13,000. Insurance $30,000. Among the companies interested are the Commercial Union, British American, Royal and Western. The fire throws 125 men out of work.

South Renfrew.

The Court of Appeal has affirmed the decision of the judges who tried the cases, setting aside the election of Mr. Dowling, the Reform member of the Legislature, on the ground that he was disqualified as a candidate by the result of a former trial. The Court also dismissed the appeal of the petitioner who contended that Dr. Dowling's opponent at the last election was entitled to the seat.

DUBLIN, Dec. 19.—The United Irishman alleges that the British Government sent a woman to Ireland with authority to offer a contribution of £500 towards the cost of a launch to be used on the Thames for throwing bombs at the Parliament buildings. The paper connects the story with the launch seen near London bridge shortly after the explosion.

CRUELTY AT SEA.

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 19.—The second mate and boatswain of the American ship J. F. Chapman, from San Francisco, have been arrested, charged with causing the death of a seaman named Jones by brutal treatment.

ATTEMPT ON THE CZAR.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 19.—Advices from the Russian frontier state that on the 7th inst. the Nihilists attempted to wreck the railway train conveying the Czar to St. Petersburg.

THE EGYPTIAN PROPOSALS.

PARIS, Dec. 19.—It is said that M. Ferry is proposing to Earl Granville terms of agreement on the Egyptian question on condition of England's supporting France's Congo claims and Chinese policy.

REVOLT OF A GARRISON.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Advices from Oreromtsee, China, state that the Chinese garrison there has revolted on account of the arrears of their pay and of their murdered commandant. They endeavored to spread the revolt, but the disturbance was quelled.

GERMAN COLONIZATION.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—It is reported that the German flag has been hoisted over the islands of New Britain and New Ireland, and the Admiralty Islands, and portions of the north coast of New Guinea.

PIRATICAL SMACKSMEN.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The English Government is prosecuting several smacksmen at Yarmouth on the charge of piracy and larceny. They boarded the German vessel Diedrich in July, off the Dutch coast, and stole a quantity of tobacco, spirits, and other articles, amounting in value to £40. The prosecution is owing to a request from Germany to England that the marauders should be punished.

Look for Heavy Shawls and Clouds at Turnbull's, bought since the bottom fell out of the Wholesale Trade, and selling at Correspondingly Low Prices.

A Steamship on the Rocks.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Dec. 10.—The steamship Portia, with twenty passengers from St. Johns, Nfld, for Sydney, struck on the rocks off Victoria mines, Sydney harbor, at 2 a.m. during a thick snowstorm and a gale from the north. The tug Gladiator proceeded to her assistance followed later by the Merrimac. Their united efforts were unavailing to move her, and she gradually worked higher on the reef. At 10 a.m. a tremendous wave liftad her completely off the reef into a narrow channel, from which she was quickley extricated by the tugs and towed to North Sydney, where she now lies safely moored. The storm continues. The Portia is one of the new steamers of the Red Cross line, and was bound into Sydney for coal, on her way for Halifax and New York.

Northwest Coal.

ST. PAUL, Dec 18.—A fine seam of coal has been found at Crowfoot Crossing 800 miles west of Winnipeg, on the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is 14 feet thick, 150 feet below the surface and a anthracite of good quality.

A Dream not all a Dream.

I dreamed a dream the other night
When everything was quiet,
I dreamed our Peterborough folk
Were making quite a riot;
For Salisbury had lots of goods
And expected millions more,
And the people were all rushing
To his magnificent bookstore.

Next morning bright and early
As to work I made my way,
I thought the people in all the town
Were taking a holiday;
And my dream was not quite all a dream,
But a fact, and something more,
For the people still were rushing
To Salisbury's fine bookstore.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD

SPEECH AT THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION AT TORONTO.

Canada's Progress During the Premier's Forty Years of Public Life—A Review of History—The Present Conservative Policy.

We give from the speech of Sir John Macdonald at his reception at the Liberal Conservative Convention at Toronto the following extracts from the Mail's report:—

SIR JOHN MACDONALD:—Mr. Meredith and gentlemen, I would indeed be unreasonable if I did not receive this address and this cordial greeting with feelings of the deepest emotion. I can assure you, gentlemen, that during my long and varied career no moment of my life can approach the culmination of all the various kindness and all the honours that have been bestowed upon me from Crown and people—no instance in my life, I say, can at all approach to the gratification with which I receive this greeting. (Cheers.) To have been in Parliament and in public life for forty long years; to have fought the various battles of the party; to have struggled with strong, able and earnest opponents; to have been the object of attack, of insult, of contumely and of obloquy; to have with all this, and and after all this, at the end of my career a greeting such as this; to receive such assurances of your kindness—I may say, of your affection—(loud cheers)—to hear the eloquent language in which my services have been spoken of in the address you have just read, make me indeed a proud man. (Hear, hear.) At the same time, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I must say that my feelings are commingled. This is not only a great and glorious incident in my career, but it is also a very solemn one. When I look back through my forty years of public life; when I remember how few remain of those who with me entered full of hope, life, and the earnestness of youth; when I bear in mind that those who do remain are like myself, feeble old men—(cries of "No, no")—when I think I am now approaching, if I have not already approached, the culmination of my career—(cries of "No, no," and a voice, "You'll never die, John A.")—when I think of all this, feelings of a most solemn nature are awakened in my mind. But if most of the friends of my youth have departed I still have the gratification of knowing that they are succeeded by their sons and their grandsons—some, indeed, by their great grandsons—and that in addressing these I speak to men thoroughly imbued with the feeling of patriotism, the devotion to Liberal-Conservative and Conservative-Liberal principles which marked the characters of ther ancestors forty years ago, and I have the further consolation as a Canadian and a party man of knowing that the country and the party are safe in the hands of such men and of those other supporters of mine who are so nobly represented in this present meeting. (Cheers.) I heard a cry just now from one of my friends saying,

"YOU WILL NEVER DIE."

(Laughter.) Gentlemen, I really do believe that those who are in political opposition to me think so too—(renewed laughter)—and I fear though they pray for me and all other like sinners, that in their supplications there is no pious expression of the desire that my life may be long spared. (Loud laughter.) They have no objection that I should go to another and a better world, and that I should not prolong my stay in this one. (Loud laughter.) I am happy, gentlemen, to state to you that your good wishes, with respect to the renewal and the continuance of my health, have been to a very great extent realized. (Loud cheering.) Thanks to a good conscience and to Sir Andrew Clark, I come back to you nearly as good as new—(cheers and laughter)—a little the worse for wear to be sure—(laughter)—but still able to stand the battle for a few years longer. (Cheers.) I was much amused, gentlemen, when in England to read a sentence in a Toronto newspaper, stating that the position of the Opposition was simply this, "If John A.'s stomach gives in, then the Opposition will go in—(loud laughter)—but if John A.'s stomach holds out, then we will stay out." (Continued laughter.) You will be glad to know that there are strong indications that they will stay out. (Hear, hear.) I think, gentlemen, it will be admitted that since 1844, when I entered Parliament, Canada has made some progress. (Hear, hear.) Even those who malign Canada, who belittle its resources, who have retarded its development, who have praised up other lands to the desparagement of our own, will admit that there has been

GREAT PROGRESS IN CANADA.

Now I may say that during the time that the progress has taken place—during that forty years—I have been in Parliament. In May next I will have been twenty-five years in the Government. (Cheers.) There are, then, fifteen years left during which, though in Parliament, I was not in office. In 1847 I became a Minister. But for two years before I became a Minister Canada was governed by a Conservative Administration, which I was elected to support. So that of the whole of the forty years during which I have been in Parliament there are only thirteen years in which the Liberals or Grits have held the reins of power. (Hear, hear, and a voice "Good.") Therefore, if this country has made any progress; if it has been developed; if it has grown from a collection of small feeble provinces into a great Dominion, its advancement must to some degree be dependent upon the legislation and the administration of the various Governments of which I have been a member. (Applause.) Thirteen years of the forty years are all the years for which the present Opposition can claim any share of the development of the Dominion or of the old Province of Canada, and, gentlemen, even of these thirteen years the Grit party cannot claim the whole. They can only claim five—(hear, hear)—the years during which Mr. Mackenzie was Premier, when, before that time, Canada's destinies were swayed by a Government of which I was not a member, that Government was the Baldwin-Lafontaine Administration, which was not a Grit Government but a Conservative-Liberal Government. (Hear, hear.) We were afterwards ruled by the Hincks-Morin Government, which was also a Liberal—a Reform Government if you will—but not a Grit Government. (Hear, hear.) Therefore, when we read of the development of Canada and of the great progress it has made in numbers and in area we must remember that but an insignificant portion of that development and of that progress can be at all attributed to the present Opposition in the Canadian Parliament—(hear, hear)—and of those

VARIOUS LIBERAL GOVERNMENTS

what can I say? What can I tell you in looking back? To the Baldwin-Lafontaine Government I was opposed, I was elected to vote against it. But we respected each others differences of opinion, giving credit to opponents for their conscientious support of their own cause, as they gave us credit for acting as we believed to be best in the interests of our country. We respected each other, although we were opposed to each other, and by slow degrees Mr. Baldwin, who was the leader of the Government which I opposed, ended by giving his cordial approbation of the coalition which I formed with the best and the ablest of his party in 1854. (Cheers.) And so, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, with respect to the Reform Government which succeeded the Baldwin-Lafontaine Government—the Hincks-Morin Government. So strong were our principles, although we were really opposed, so much did we respect each other's opinions, so much confidence had we in each other's honesty, that when the time came both Mr. Morin—the leader of the French-Canadian Conservatives, of whom you have spoken so justly in this address—became my colleague, and, in after years, when Sir Francis Hincks, after considerable service in other colonies as representative of our Queen, came back to Canada—our relations had been so pleasant, our confidence in each other was so strong, that I did not hesitate to ask him to become Finance Minister of a Conservative Administration. He came to us, and in the future we acted cordially together, because both in the case of the Baldwin-Lafontaine Administration and in the case of the Hincks-Morin Administration, we believed in each other, and whenever we differed we differed honestly in opinion, and whenever we agreed we could act cordially together. (Cheers).

NOT EXTRAVAGANT.

It is true that if you compare the payments shown in the public accounts forty years ago with those of to-day there is an enormous difference, and the total amount is hugely greater than it was. So it is, I must confess, with the expenditure, which has largely increased, but at the same time the expenditure has all been for the good of the country. (Cheers.) It is very easy to pick out a large sum expended in one year and contrast it with a small sum expended years before, and then cry out "See what an extravagant Government this is." We might just as well charge Baron Rothschild with being extravagant. The founder of the family commenced by collecting second hand corks and selling them at a profit. His expenditure was probably about a few cents a week. Before his career was ended his expenditure was some hundreds of thousands of dollars, but then his fortune was perhaps millions. Commodore Vanderbilt commenced his operations by running a ferry through to Brookiyn at a cost of a few dollars per week. Afterwards his expenditure increased to hundreds of thousands of dollars, but at the same time his credit and fortune increased proportionately. So with Canada. As we expanded into one united and important nation great responsibilities and expenditure were called for, and this is my answer to the charge that we have been guilty of extravagance. Strange to say, notwithstanding the enormous expenditure of the funds of the country with which we have been charged, both the wealth and have steadily increased. I remember well that the old Province of Canada could not borrow a farthing in England or the capitals of Europe at a less percentage than 6 per cent. To-day, although we have incurred large obligations and the national debt has been increased, and although we have been charged with extravagance of every kind, yet by slow degrees—well, perhaps, not so very slow—our credit has risen, and we were able to borrow at 5 per cent., then at 4 per cent., until at the present time we could go into the English market and obtain all the money we wanted at 3½ per cent. (Cheers.) During the period in which I have been connected with the Government, we have not always been so extremely prosperous. There are times of shrinkage and depression, and of expansion. There are times of great enterprise and commercial activity, and there are times of little enterprise and little activity. We have had during the last forty years many vicissitudes to encounter in this variable world. But, during all that time, whether in the culmination of prosperity or in the despondency of temporary depression, we have never lost confidence in the future of Canada. (Cheers.) We knew that the prosperity of this country was based upon a solid foundation of good laws, a good climate, a fertile soil, and a law-abiding and industrious population, and we knew that these seasons of adversity could be only temporary in their nature, and that the invaluable resources of Canada must, in the long run, place her where she has been ever since 1867, with the exception of the five years of Grit rule. (Laughter.) But we began well, because we had the large surplus of $340,000 in our treasury. In 1874-75 Sir Richard Cartwright would have been very happy even then to have had so large a surplus.

CREDIT OF THE DOMINION

CHOOSING THE CAPITAL.

In 1858 we were defeated in the city of Toronto. At the time we were defeated we had a large majority in Parliament, but we were defeated upon the question of the seat of Government. You may remember that after that unfortunate event in Montreal the seat of government went to Quebec, and then there was the alternate system, of having the seat of government for four years alternately at Quebec and Toronto. This was found to be ruinously expensive and greatly detrimental to the best interests of the province. But we could not settle upon any one place. Kingston, my constituency, had been the seat of government in 1841, Montreal in 1843. Quebec and Toronto had also been the seats of government. Ottawa was ambitious; Hamilton and London were ambitious; in fact by no possibility could we get Parliament to agree to any one place. Under the circumstances we did agree to get rid of this insufferable nuisance of moving between Quebec and Toronto every four years by leaving the selection of a new seat of Government to her Majesty the Queen. Her Majesty—on such advice as was given her—and we gave no advice because we pledged ourselves not to do so—selected Ottawa; and Ottawa, on the whole, was a very good compromise. Mind you, this was before Confederation, and the capital was be that of only Upper and Lower Canada. Ottawa was chosen for two reasons. In the first place there was a military reason. The Duke of Wellington had previously decided that Ottawa was a most important point from a military point of view, and had caused the Rideau Canal to be built at a cost of a million sterling, the idea being to connect Ottawa with Kingston, so that troops could get up by that route if the Americans had possession of the St. Lawrence. Military reasons then were in favor of it. Then on the other hand the city of Ottawa is on the River Ottawa, which divides Upper from Lower Canada. It is therefore a place where the two people could be considered to be on an even footing. At this moment we have at Ottawa a Lower Canadian Ottawa, which is called Hull, and is a city of more than ten thousand inhabitants, as well as an Ottawa in the Province of Ontario. (Hear, hear.) We had left it to the Queen to say, to choose a site, and we were to sustain her decision. But in the ensuing session Mr. Piche, a Rouge member, moved that Ottawa was not a fit place, without giving any reason for his motion and without proposing to ask Her Majesty to reconsider her decision; throwing it back, in fact, in her face in an insulting manner, without rhyme or reason. When that was carried against us we felt that our honour was concerned. We had asked the Queen to be the arbitrator, and we felt bound in honour to support that reference although my own constituency was bitterly disappointed. I consequently felt myself bound to resign, and all my colleagues did so, too. It was the honorable course for honorable men. But we were not long out. (Laughter.) It was the most impudent thing—if I may use that expression—in the Liberal Opposition to take office at that time. There was a large majority against them in Parliament, and the people had sent representatives to the House opposed to the policy of Mr. Brown. Still that gentleman took office, and he took it although Sir Edmund Head, acting with perfect constitutionality, told him that he must not expect to be granted a dissolution. "If you can give me good reasons for it I am open to those reasons; but if you accept the obligation of forming a government, you are not to suppose, as a matter of course, that you are to have a dissolution." Mr. Brown formed his Government notwithstanding, and he concealed the effect of that statement of Sir Edmund Head from all but two or three of his leaders. I know that because two or three of those who were afterwards his colleagues told me, and I have no doubt they would have told you. The consequence was that Parliament took the bit in its teeth and said no, they had not a confidence majority, and they must go out. There was a vote of want of confidence and they did go out. They remained in office for two days, and I do not think I can charge them with doing much mischief during those two days. (Laughter).

A Deadly Struggle.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18.—Last evening a farmer named Harrington, living near Geneva, was called to the door, and on opening it was confronted by a masked man who presented a revolver, and said he wanted the farmer's money. The handkercheif fell from the robber's eyes and Mrs. Harington exclaimed, "I know him!" "You do, do you?" shouted the ruffian, "take that then!" and he fired, the bullet going through her shoulder. She ran to a neighborr for help, and on returning with friends, evidence of a desperate struggle was found. Harrington lay dead on the floor with a bullet hole in his forehead. The murderer is a fellow named Feck, who lived about two miles from the farm. Citizens are scouring the country for him.

THE SNOW ANGEL.

The sleigh-bells danced that winter night;
Old Rattleborough rang with glee;
The windows overflowed with light;
Joy ruled each hearth and Christmas tree.
But to one the bells and mirth are naught:
His soul with deeper joy was fraught.
He waited until the guests were gone;
He waited to dream his dream alone;
And the night wore on.

Alone he stands in the silent night;
He piles the snow in the village square:
With spade for a chisel, a statue white
From the crystal quarry rises fair.
No light, save the stars, to guide his hand,
But the image obeys his soul's command.
The sky is draped with fleecy lawn,
The stars grow pale in the early dawn,
But the lad toils on.

And lo! in the morn the people came
To gaze at the wondrous vision there;
And they called it "The Angel," divining its name,
For it came in silence and unaware.
It seemed no mortal hand had wrought
The uplifted face of prayerful thought:
But its features wasted beneath the sun;
Its life went out ere the day was done;
And the lad dreamed on.

And his dream was this: In the years to be
I will carve the Angel in lasting stone;
In another land, beyond the sea,
I will toil in darkness, will dream alone;
While others sleep I will a way
Up the night to the light of day.
There's nothing desired beneath star or sun
Which patient genius has not won.
And the boy toiled on.

The years go by. He has wrought with might;
He has gained renown in the land of art;
But the though inspired that Christmas night
Still kept its place in the sculptor's heart;
And the dream of the boy, that melted away
In the light of the sun that winter day,
Is embodied at last in enduring stone,
Snow Angel in marble—his purpose won;
And the man toils on.

FASHIONABLE GAMBLING.

How Bon-Ton Parisian Men and Women Win and Lose.

The passion for gambling is the pest of modern French society. People play for high stakes in the most respectable of private houses at the smallest and most sociable of entertainments. Nay, I have seen the board of green cloth installed in the palace of the Elysee itself, under the presidency of Marshal MacMahon, on grand ball nights, with all the concommitants of shaded lights, piles of gold, intense, earnest players, and a total silence prevading the room. The sums won and lost nightly at the fashionable clubs are startling in their extent. It is by no means an uncommon thing for fortunes to be hazarded on the turn of a single card, and the ordinary stakes in many instances amount to from $4,000 to $10,000. The extraordinary career of the young American who commenced last season by winning $300,000, and who finally left Paris without a penny, furnishes an illustration of the doings in these elegant homes of hazard. As a rule, however, Americans are not welcome guests at the fashionable clubs, as they do not usually play high enough to satisfy the habitues.

Less dangerous, but more severely dealt with by the police, are those clandestine gaming houses, whose directors display a degree of adroitness in baffling the researches of justice which would do honor to a more reputable pursuit. There was one man who contrived for a long time to keep out of the clutches of the law, while continually carrying on the nefarious occupation. He would hire two or three furnished apartments in different and widely separated quarters of Paris, and would transfer his roulette table in a cab from one to the other, never spending two consecutive evenings in the same place. At last he was captured in a hotel which was for sale and in which he had installed himself ostensibly to take charge of it. He very coolly remarked, in rather a hurt tone, to the policeman that took him prisoner:—"I really think that you must have got prejudiced against me in some way."

A woman's gambling club, which bore the semblance of an inoffensive table d'hote was also recently broken up on the Rue des Martyrs.

Many people think it would be far better if the Government were to establish a licensed gambling house at Paris like that of Monte Carlo which would be under the strict surveillanse of the police, prohibiting card playing in the clubs altogether.

FIRE IN AN ORPHAN ASYLUM.

Seven Hundred Children in Danger—Heroic Efforts to Save Them.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 18.—A fire broke out this afternoon in the large building of the Catholic Mole Orphan Asylum, containing seven hundred and eighty-five orphans, sixty of whom were in the dormitory on the top floor. Whether or not all escaped cannot be told until the roll is called. It is thought some were lost. Sister Mary Josephine, who was in the dormitory at the time the fire broke out, made heroic efforts to save the little ones. She remained in the room until driven out by the flames. Then she ran to the window, where she stood upon the cornice until a fireman from the roof swung his coat to her. The sister caught the coat, but when the fireman tried to pull her from her perilous position she lost her grasp and fell headlong to the ground. An eight-year-old boy jumped from the third an was severely injured. There was great excitement among the inmates. It is believed that all the children on lower floor escaped. A spectator says he is confident he saw a woman fall back into the smoke. There were 30 sisters in the asylum at the time, but it is believed they all escaped, Father Moloney, who was in charge of the building, thinks all the children escaped.

Several thrilling incidents occurred while the children were being rescued. Two civilians handed seven boys down from the second story window, when the flames compelled them to retreat. Two firemen fell from ladders and were severely injured. The excitement in and around the building was intense. Hundreds of partially clad children forced themselves through every conceivable avenue of egress, and rushed shivering to the nearest place of shelter.

The fire originated in the drying room, where a boy with a candle accidentally ignited some clothing. The building, which occupied a whole block, was destroyed. Loss on building, $200,000. Sister Mary Josephine has since died from her injuries.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

BROOKLYN, Dec. 19.—Fireman Hall reports that twelve bodies were found up to eight o'clock this morning among the remains of St. John's Home. Workmen are still searching in the debris. The utmost excitement prevails in the vicinity. As yet the bodies found are so charred and blackened that identification is almost impossible. It is believed most of the children who perished were in the ill-fated Sister Josephine's Ward. The men who are engaged in excavating the ruins of the laundry have found the remains of nine boys and two grown persons. Who the adults are has not been ascertained. The Sisters are unwilling to be interviewed, but it is plain that their list of inmates who have been rescued does not come up to full number. This if explained by the statement that the children may have been cared for in private houses, and that the chances are they will turn up. The fact is that last night only one child was admitted to be missnig and this morning a dozen bodies have been found.

FROM ALL OVER.

As XMAS is drawing near we all want th best Flours for our holiday dainties. To make sure of it order some of Hilliard's, at W. J. Mason's.

WHEN a person is weak and faint, or fatigued and exhausted, there is nothing so refreshing and reviving as a little of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. Rubbed on the hands and temples and inhaled freely, it tones and braces the whole system.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

Grand Trunk Railway.

Mr. A. White, District Traffic Manager, has written to headquarters to have a stove placed in the parlour car, which leaves here by the 8.20 train, a.m., for Toronto, which will certainly be a great boon to those who patronize this route, as the present mode of heating this handsome car is not sufficient, and thanks are due to Mr. White for his action in this matter, as the complaints are numerous in this cold weather.

"England Must Not Fall."

A meeting of the Dufferin Literary Society was held on Friday evening. The subject of debate was "England must fall from her present position." Messrs. Geo. Stevenson and F. P. Henry spoke on the affirmative, and Messrs. J. Richardson and A. Dixon maintained the negative side of the question. After summing up, the President, Mr. J. D. McIlmoyl, decided in favour of the negative. At the conclusion of the debate Mr. R. Tate gave a reading.

Slight Boiler Explosion.

On Friday afternoon a pipe used as a temporary safety valve was blown from the boiler in the basement of St. Paul's Church. The place was immediately filled with steam, and as no one was near the boiler at the time, it was feared that something serious had happened. As soon as the steam had cleared away it was ascertained that it was merely the pipe which had been blown off, and that no damage was sustained. Mr. Stewart, the sexton, during the improvements which have been going on at the church has been usually spending a good deal of his time in the basement of the church where the boiler is situated, but fortunately for himself he was not near at the time of the styled explosion. Had he been near at the time he might have been severely scalded. The boiler is now working all right.

Can Santa Claus find anything more suitable for Children at Christmas than a pretty Hood and Jacket from Turnbull's?

Another Entertainment.

The second entertainment was given in St. Paul's Church Sunday School room on Friday evening, this one being for the Sunday School children. At an early hour the room was well filled, and the very interesting entertainment was opened with a hymn sung by the scholars, after which the superintendent of Sunday school and chairman of the meeting, Mr. J. H. Roper, made a few appropriate remarks. An instrumental duet was given by the Misses Dennistoun, and the pastor of the church, the Rev. E. F. Torrance, gave a short address. After a reading by Mr. Smith, Miss Eliza Johnston, with a class of six little girls, gave a representation of the Kindergarten school. This was perhaps the most interesting event of the evening. The little girls sang very pleasingly. A magic lantern exhibition was then given under the superintendence of Mr. D. B. Gardiner, who seemed to be an expert in the managing of such machines. Miss Eliza Johnston sang a solo very pleasingly, and effective and practical addresses were given by the Rev. Messrs. Bennet and A. H. Munro. At the close, as the children passed out, they were each presented with a fancy bag filled with good things, consisting of confectionary and other articles.

GLITTERING GLASSWARE.

Our Reporter Takes a Walk Through Mr. Macfarlane Wilson's China Hall.

This is doubtless the age of specialties. Some of the largest factories in the country produce only one kind of goods; the man who finds out what business or profession he is best fitted to and then sticks to it, is almost always successful; and the same principle may be applied to business life—those who handle a few lines of goods and handle them well are those who secure the largest patronage.

When China Hall was first opened in this town by Mr. McFarlane Wilson, only three years ago, it was doubted by many persons whether such a large establishment would pay in a place of the size of Peterborough. But all doubt has vanished and China Hall is now doing a larger trade than it ever did. The two leading lines in this magnificent establishment are, glassware in all its branches, and silverware.

China Hall is situated on the corner of George and Simcoe streets, and besides its commercial value to the town it may also be classed among its attractions. At any time the place is well worth visiting, but at night the sight is almost dazzling. Under the floods of light from the electric lamps, glassware, of almost every conceivable description, in glittering piles, is the first object that strikes the eye. On closer inspection, however, the visitor becomes aware that all these almost innumerable articles of glassware exhibit perfect neatness of arrangement. Down through the centre of the establishment runs a row of small tables in pyramids of three. The bottom table is about five feet long while the others taper down until the top one is about two feet long. Between each of these pyramids of tables there is left ample room to pass. On each side of the place, shelving filled with great variety of crockery goods reaches the ceiling. In the centre of the Hall is arranged a column of dolls, also reaching the ceiling, ranging in size from the small to the great, and in material from the crockery articles to that of the wax.

The display of silverware is particularly striking. On the right hand as you enter the main entrance is stretched a long ebonized case with gold ornamentation. In this case is displayed the scintillant silverware having for a background, jet black material. On side tables more silver is also displayed and a large supply is kept in a spacious fire proof vault at the rear of the store. Mr. Wilson imports silverware largely from England and France and these goods are particularly exquisite in workmanship In the cellar is almost as large a stock as in the flat above. Boxes, cases and shelving filled with dishes and other crockery ware show what a reserve is kept on hand to draw from.

The windows of China Hall are always neatly and tastefully dressed, but just now they are especially attractive. One is devoted to the showing of silverware and one for glass and crockery. It must be highly gratifying to the person who dressed those windows to see what an interest is taken in them by the passing public. Scarcely anyone passing the place can resist the temptation to stop for a short time and survey the contents of the windows.

The reputation of China Hall has become well known. Not only from town and the surrounding country do its patrons come, but from Port Hope, Lindsay, and other towns and villages near, and in some cases distant, from Peterborough. Mr. Wilson is doing a very good wholesale trade, but as yet he has not pressed this line of custom. All orders of this character have come in unsolicited.

For Christmas presents don't fail to visit China Hall. A corps of young ladies are in charge of showing the goods, and they do so with pleasure and alacrity.

Habiliment Hall.

The above establishment is fast becoming noted for the excellence of its goods and abundance of variety. At the present time, when everybody is wondering where they will go and what they will buy for a Christmas present, Habiliment Hall is having an excellent run. The stock of small wares, such as beautiful Silk Squares, Handkerchiefs, Ties, Cuffs, Cuff Buttons, etc., has never been so large. A visit to the store will repay you, and if you want to buy something nice for a present, you could not do better than make "Habiliment Hall" your headquarters. A. McNEIL.

The stock of Fine Scotch Lamb's Wool Underclothing is now being offered at 20 per cent. reduction at Andrew McNeil's.

The Christmas Market.

Mr. Hary Winch is always on the qui vive to secure the very best meats for the Christmas markets. This year he has an unusually fine display. When it is known that such feeders as Messrs. James Wallis, (Merino), Peter Drummond, Edward Bulmer, Francis Carter, James Fife, John Moloney, (Reeve of Douro) and R. Moloney, have supplied almost all the animals for Mr. Winches meat display, it will be at once admitted that it must be an excellent one. No. 1 Stall to-day was filled with customers and the outside was lined with admirers of the prime meats. Strung on the outside are all kinds of meat and fowl. One end is terminated by a huge hog and the other end by an antlered monarch. Mr. Winch adopts a novel means of decoration this year. Each of his hotel keeping patrons are brought prominently forward by crayon cartoons, executed with much gusto by Mr. Grierson. A burley Englishman confidentially advising a slim dude to patronize the Oriental where he would find some of Winch's choicest cuts. A jubilant Scotchman playing the pipes says:—"We're a hundred pipers and ah, we'll gi'e ye a bonnie blaw o'er Winch's beef at Chamberlain's. A sturdy farmer tells a lank lean friend that the best thing he can do is to fill his void at Morgan's Hotel. An Indian from the North-West asserts, "Mia-ka-pas kunk wi a kee," and says he has learned that T. Cavanagh will have some of Winch's beef for Christmas. Muldoon, a jolly Irishman, states that he is going to have his Christmas dinner at M. Halpin's Hotel and a musically inclined German with satisfied aim says that wherever he goes there is no place like Clancy's. Other ornamentation and adornment make the display a very attractive one.

PHILLIPS & FRAID

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

Special Lines at Reduced Rates for the next three weeks.

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselves are awkwardly on the floor of a ballroom or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

THE NILE EXPEDITION.

THE PROGRESS OF THE ARMY TOWARDS KHARTOUM.

The Health of the Canadian Contingent—How News From Home is Welcomed—Warm Weather.

(Special Correspondence of the Review.)

GEMAI, Egypt, Nov. 16, 1884.

DEAR REVIEW,—Not liking to pass you by without saying "How do," I will just, so to say, leave my card. As I have been rather remiss in my correspondence with the home department lately and the bulk of my package is for them, I therefore will not trouble you with much on this occasion. In fact, I have very little that is new to communicate.

From Bab-el-Keber to this place the river is pretty well studded with islands, cutting it up into numerous channels. These alluvial deposits have a few palm and other trees growing on them, but there does not seem to be any great amount of cultivation. Some years, I am told, they are very fruitful, but this, it appears, has been a bad year, the periodical rising of the Nile not having been as great as in those past, but still there is not anything of the umbrageousness and fertility of the Lower Nile here. On the contrary, round about our immediate vicinity the country is the very picture of desolation, nothing but black rock and sandy plain, a few palm trees and a few feet of dried mud cultivated (if I may use the term) to the edge of the water; even where the bank is perpendicular the sides are planted with beans, every foot available is used. The patches of soil among the rocks of Buckhorn or Burleigh would be a God send to the Soudanese—at least such is my opinion of the country about here that I have seen up to this time. There are not a few ruins scattered about on the top of the eminences here; they look well enough at a distance, having something of a castellated form about them, but nearer inspection reveals that they are only mud—and not of great antiquity either. I tell you we miss the green fields of Canada sorely and though, I suppose, when this reaches you, that a snowy shroud will cover the earth; yet the evergreen fir, spruce and balsam will always be prophetic of green fields, seed time and harvest, and to me will always be that "thing of beauty which is a joy forever." But I am a very Druid in my love of the forest and an Isaac Walton in my fondness for the stream.

On the evening of the 10th we were served out with blue serge pants with a red stripe down the side of the legs. Other articles of utility we can purchase from the Quarter Master, Col. Kennedy, at a very reasonable rate.

11th.—Received newspapers, which were heartily welcomed, in fact I am afraid we are lapsing into idolatry, for news worship prevails alarmingly among us. More than a dozen now are in devout attitudes worshipping the deities of their respective localities. To us from Peterborough the REVIEW is ever "Jupiter Tonans," and as No. 1 is the first law of nature you should see the respectful and loving glances that my slaves or accolytes for the time being throw at me while I devour every line from the first to the last, advertisements and all. But thanks to your kindness "there be other gods than ours." The Peterborough boys are not the only ones who have something to fall down before and worship. Ottawa, Winnipeg, Toronto, Lindsay, Montreal, all are represented, and though last, not least, the cheery Independent from Bobcaygeon meets with a hearty greeting when we get hold of it.

The officers are soliciting the services of mechanics from among the men to repair and refit the boats. A few have already started to work, but recruits are very scarce, the men being all eager to push forward, and they fear that should they attach themselves to the refitting crew they may be delayed until the work of repairing, &c., is done, and thereby be deprived of actual participation in the rescue of Gordon.

Two companies of the 46th arrived here today, and were immediately marched to the boats, each of which was manned by eight of them with a non-commissioned officer, and a Canadian in charge. They started off pretty well, the soldiers having had boat drill at the last station.

One hundred Kroomen from the west coast of Africa have arrived. They belong to the British Coast Service, and four hundred more of them are on the road from Alexandria.

They seem to be very fair oarsmen. They are as black as a polished stove, average about 5 ft. 6 in. in height, and are stout, well built men. They are dressed sailor fashion in navy blue suits, which soots (not suits) them well.

Four more men from Canada arrived on the same train. They are engaged to command small steamers which are to ply between Serras and Dongola. Four more from Manitoba are waiting at Alexandria until some small steamers that are being built there for the expedition can be finished.

I cannot relieve my mind of the continual thought, why was not all this done before? Long ere I heard even of a Canadian contingent, this expedition was determined on, and it is only now progressing by piecemeal. Why, even our contingent have to idle here day after day for boats, which might have been supplied and on the ground or water here at this very spot if any reasonable amount of energy had been expended in the prosecution of the enterprise, at at least by the time we reached Alexandria. By Jove, if our cousins across Lake Ontario had the job in hand, some of Pinkerton's detectives would have had the Mahdi in limbo by this time.

There are five or six thousand soldiers with artillery to come up yet, and the expectation is that all the command will be at Khartoum by the day you are eating your Christmas pudding. Well, this is the middle of November we may say, and I think I may prophecy with safety that the time may be extended to mid January if even then our destination may be reached. I judge from the past and its delays, and the apparent hang fire in all the doings here, not that I would attempt to blame our officers; I think they are doing wonders, but they seem to be always waiting for something, or have something to wait for, rather. In fact, they seem hand-tied—with red tape, I suppose.

13th.—Three companies of grenadiers from the Scots, Coldstream and Greardier guards have arrived here on camels. They are all volunteers from their respective corps, and they are the finest body of men I have ever seen banded together. They are all six feet in height and many over. They look as if they would play sad havoc among an enemy.

Col. Kennedy sends his best wishes to all his old Peterborough acquaintances. He is very kind and considerate to us all, and has a great fund of patience with and forbearance for our many shortcomings and constant demands on his kindness.

I suppose you can hardly realize that I am in summer quarters at 75 or 80°, while you in Peterborough are all cuddling round the stoves and perhaps gazing on the snow. The mornings are cold, but not frosty, and my feet are the only portions of my body affected, and when I find that they are numb it is generally time to rise, pick up my bed and shake the sand out of it. My humble couch is a mat laid on the sand, on this I place my rubber, roll myself in my blanket, with my kit bag for a pillow, and sleep without dreaming, a good sound sleep you may depend.

The officer in command here, Col. Brither, acting as commodore of the flotilla, is forwarding the boats as fast as possible, in fact too fast for some of our fellows. There was a lack of soldiers to man the boats so he supplied them with natives (to the great grief of the poor Canucks in charge), who are more than useless. It was laughable in the extreme to see them row eight oars all a different stroke, no two of them pulling together. Four of the negroes are worth twenty of the miserable crying, begging Arabs.

I heard to-day from a fairly reliable source that we were not likely to go beyond Dongola or Debbeh, twenty miles above that place, and that we were to remain there until Gordon marched out Red Sea wards or down the Nile to us. Our men are all healthy and have been so, with the exception of two or three who were down with dysentery, but are now recovering. The soldiers say we are "a blooming healthy lot of blokes," and from the very marked inspection they give us I imagine that before they got a good squint at us they fancied that we had tails on us, and were a sort of a cross between a squirrel and a monkey—but I think they are quite undeceived now. When I get further up I may have to send you word through some other channel, for it is said that General Wolsley is down on correspondents. But if that is the case I must only try some scheme to smuggle my letters, and that I'll do by hook or by crook or my name's not Jack.

We were served out with rum once since we left the ship, by mistake. I gave mine away, for it is not good to drink any intoxicant here except in the evening. It is without doubt injurious to any one who uses it in this clime except at that time. A Canadian or soldier can not buy it anywhere; it is contrary to Head quarter orders. A couple of the contingent got some through an interpreter at Wady Halfa. They got wild, kicked up a rumpus, and were put in the guard house, and the store of liquor of the man who sold it, about £150 sterling worth, was emptied out into the street.

Letters from home are at a premium among us, and as for the papers—of which, many thanks to you, I have more than the whole contingent put together—I believe some of our fellows would give 5 guineas for such a bundle.

I must now close my office and dismiss my clerk, who is getting tired, poor fellow, (doing nothing), so farewell for the present. With kind respects to all. J. A. S.

IF YOU WANT a first-class article of Family Flour, go to W. J. Mason's and order some of Hilliard's. It is the best.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

MONDAY, Dec. 22.—The adjourned case of Wm. Beavis, charged with having assaulted his wife, was heard this morning. The defendant was fined $1 and costs. He appealed.

EMBEZZLEMENT.

J. W. Ratcliffe was charged with having misappropriated the sum of $22, the proceeds of seven cow hides, Mr. Ratcliffe, who kept a store in Apsley, became financially involved, and Mr. Fairweather, as his chief creditor, sent a man up to take possession. Mr. Ratcliffe was engaged in the store and for two weeks had sole control of it. He had also a lease of the premises. The business, however, was conducted for Mr. Fairweather.

A short time ago Mr. Ratcliffe came to town with a load of produce, consisting of partridges, etc., among which were the hides above mentioned. The money received for this produce, except from the hides, was paid over by Mr. Ratcliffe to Mr. Fairweather. The counsel for the defendant contended that as the hides were not the property of Mr. Fairweather there was no ground for the charge. The counsel for the plaintiff maintained that the hides were taken in the store as exchange for Mr. Fairweather's goods, and that they were the property of the plaintiff. The case was dismissed. Mr. W. H. Moore for the plaintiff and Mr. A. P. Poussette for the defendant.

A new range of Linen Collars just received at A. McNeil's, George street.

Gigantic Forgeries.

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 19.—Joseph Herzog, a grocer who recently failed, was arrested this afternoon charged with committing forgeries to an enormous amount. Banks here held $72,000 of maturing notes most of the endorsement to which are forged, and there is $25,000 in notes held among outside parties. Individual forgeries now maturing number over 100, and Herzog says he has followed these practices for nearly ten years, making on the aggregate thousand forgeries. His practice was never to allow a note go to protest, but to pay it with another forgery. The exact losses of the different banks of this city will be heavy, but they cannot at present be ascertained.

A Powerful Shot.

SANDY HOOK, Dec. 18.—A shot weighing 152 pounds was fired from the Haskell multi-charge gun this morning with 116 pounds of powder. The velocity of the shot was 1,801 feet per second; elevation 8½ degrees: the range 6,514 yards; the muzzle energy of the shot, 3,422 foot tons. This is the most powerful shot yet fired from this gun, and much exceeds that of any gun in the world of the same calibre.

BECOMING MORE DIFFICULT.

CAIRO, Dec. 20.—Despatches from Khorti state that the navigation of the Nile is becoming more difficult owing to the shifting of the sand. The boats have been delayed, and one a whale boat, was capsized at the rapids. All the men on board, including two special correspondents, were saved, but their baggage was lost.

BY THE SWORD.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—A despatch from Shanghai to the National says the French Minister has been ordered to inform China that any further negotiations are useless and the dispute must now be settled by the sword.

AN AGRARIAN OUTRAGE.

DUBLIN, Dec. 21.—A gentleman named Dunn was fired on and dangerously wounded near Tullamore yesterday.

PRINCE BISMARCK'S HEALTH.

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—The National Gazette states that Prince Bismarck intends taking a voyage to Maderia for his health.

DEFENCE OF THE COLONIES.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Government has issued instructions to the board of Admiralty to prepare plans for concerted operations for the defence of the British Colonies in the event of war.

A NEW PLAN.

PARIS, Dec. 21.—The French Cabinet has approved of the new plan for the Chinese campaign. All reinforcements will be directed to Tonquin, instead of part of them being forwarded to Admiral Courbet at Formosa. General de Lele will direct his forces in two columns on Lang-son and Cao bang. When solid garrisons are formed upon the Chinese frontier, it is calculated that 5,000 will be available to send to Admiral Courbet, for an attack upon Kelung and Tamsui.

For a good warm pair of Gloves, try "Habilliment Hall."

WINDSOR CASTLE.

A Plot to Destroy the Royal Residence Frustrated.

An Associated Press despatch, dated at London on Dec. 21 says:—A fire broke out in the parcel office of the Windsor railway station yesterday, but was soon extinguished. Among the debris were found a number of brass wheels and a bottle supposed to contain an explosive substance. They are supposed to be the remains of an infernal machine. No clue to the person who left the parcel has been found. A foreigner was noticed loitering around the station on Friday, and it is believed that finding he was unable to enter the royal palace and that the Queen had gone to Osborne, and thinking his he took the machine to the railway station in order to rid himself of it. The affair has caused great excitement. The wheels found were exactly similar to those used in the outrages at Victoria, Paddington and other stations, and are of a cheap American clock pattern. A tin can containing a dark gelatinous substance was also found, and its contents are now being analyzed.

DESIGNS WERE FRUSTRATED,

A FUSE MADE OF COTTON

and saturated with alcohol protruded from the neck of the bottle. A broken quart bottle, which had recently contained rectified spirit, was also found in close proximity to the scene of the fire. It is believed the fuse instead of exploding the nitro-glycerine ignited the adjacent articles. The man noticed loitering about the station on Friday is described as having the appearance of an American, with a sallow face and a moustache. He has since disappeared.

A special despatch to the Mail says that a number of mysterious and suspicious looking men had become persistent loungers about the Royal stables. It is now alleged that on the Saturday the bridge was attacked, strange men made several at the Windsor post-office, and that each one of the callers betrayed uneasiness and vexation over the non-arrival of the package. On the Monday following the explosion the loungers both at the stables and at the post-office suddenly disappeared. It is argued that the disappearance of the mysterious loungers was brought about by the excitement following the explosion at London bridge. The police reason that the conspirators probably intended to do their work at Windsor on the same day the bridge was attacked and failed to carry out their intentions, because of the delay in the arrival of the clock which was to set off the explosives previously received. The railway officials cannot fix the date of the arrival of the box, but think it had been at the station several days, and that its consignees had been deterred from claiming it by the police vigilance following the London bridge outrage.

For a real handsome Tie, try McNeil.

Steamship Collision.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 19.—The British steamship Victoria, from Galveston for Bremen via this port collied this evening with the steamship Fred A. Blanks, making excursion trips to the exposition. The Blanks sank in a few minutes. She had a number of passengers on board, but they were all saved as well as the crew by the gallant action of Caption McNally, of the Corsair, who lay alongside the sinking steamer with his little tug until all hands were taken off. The Blanks was valued at a hundred thousand dollars, and is beleived to be a total loss. The Blanks conveyed the officials and invited guests to the exposition on the opening day.

Consumption.

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this fatal and terrible disease, which is daily winding its fatal coils around thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will clense the blood of scrofulous impurities and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous diseases of the lungs). Send three letter stamps and get Dr. Pierce's complete treatis on consumption and kindred affections with numerous testimonials of cures. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo N. Y.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipe that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the REV. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D., New York City.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning? The signal perhaps of the approach of that more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cts., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough it never fails. This explains why more than a million bottle were sold the past year. It relieves croup or whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's porous plaster. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, can be cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects result from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Circulars and testimonials sent free. Address, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

THE CONVENTION.

THE recent Liberal Conservative Convention in Toronto was most satisfactory in every respect. As a mark of honour and a manifestation of respect and affection for the great leader of the party, Sir John Macdonald, and a celebration of the fortieth anniversary of his entrance into public life, it was worthy of the occasion, as we have already shown. But it was also a party and, indeed, a national gathering, and in this respect also it was highly gratifying. The harmony, the good will, and the sinking of minor differences for the welfare of the whole country were especially noticeable. Of course, being primarily an Ontario meeting, the great majority, both of the audience and of the speakers, were from this Province, but Quebec, the Maritime Provinces and Manitoba were also worthily represented. There were men of different nationalities, different denominations, different Provinces, even of different political antecedents, but all was harmony, mutual respect and trust, and a similar desire to uphold both the Dominion and the Empire.

There were no sneers at our Sovereign because she had seen fit to bestow honours upon the foremost men in Canada. There were no jibes at our fellow citizens of the great Empire to which we belong; no speaking of them as foreigners. There were no appeals to sectional and local jealousies, no setting of one Province of our beloved Dominion against another, no dubbing of the people of a sister Province as foreigners. There was no virulent and slanderous abuse, even of political opponents; they were not much dealt with, and even when they had to be mentioned in the discussion of political questions, their public acts alone were criticised, and that fairly, temperately and truthfully. There was no trusting to abuse of the opposite political party in the place of a policy, no rejoicing in the supposed ill-health and probable death of adverse leaders as the only hope of obtaining office.

In short it was a meeting of Liberal-Conservatives—of men who believe in the welfare of their country, and are ready to help each other to build it up—men who can love their Province and yet can remember that they belong to a great Dominion—who can love Canada and yet be proud of being citizens of the greatest Empire in the world.

"SIR JOHN will be King of Canada yet," said an exuberant Tory yesterday. Of course he will. Why, he's the Knave already," rejoined a good natured Reformer, who, as the Toronto Mail will say, knew the faces of the cards.—Ottawa Free Press.

We got a gentleman with whom we are very slightly acquainted to introduce us to another gentleman who was understood to know something about cards. This latter gentleman informed us that the Knave could never by any possibility be King, but he said that the card called the Knave was often the best one in the pack. He further remarked that the Knave was an abusive term, probably given to it by spiteful persons when defeated by it, but that it was otherwise known as the Jack.

HE is "The Right Honorable Sir John Alexander Macdonald, Q.C., M.P., K.C.B., K.G.C. B., B.A., C.L., D.C.L., LL.D." That's all.—Picton Times.

No, that's not all. He is Premier of Canada, he has served his country faithfully for forty years, he has done more than any other living politician to advance its interests, and he is the most popular man in the Dominion. He is also P. C. (Privy Councillor) of the British Empire, being the only colonial statesman who has attained that rank. That's considerable. And his career is not yet ended.

Wives as Chattels.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—A case of wife selling was unearthed in Peekskill yesterday. On Water street, not a stone's throw from the depot, stands a boarding house. The proprietress was once Mrs. Thomas Robinson, but one day Joel Thompson became infatuated with her, and, the husband not having any further use for her, sold her to Thompson for three bushels of wheat. For a number of years Thompson and the woman lived together as man and wife, but on account of his dissolute habits she left him, and to support herself opened the boarding house. After his purchased wife left him Thompson became a strong advocate of temperance, while she became a prominent Salvationist. Among the prominent boarders at the boarding house is a character known as "Gip" Williams. He had a wife to whom Frank Nalor took a fancy, and after a little coaxing he succeeded in purchasing her from Williams for half a dollar. For a number of years they lived together in the village and finally left for Pullman County. After the sale of his wife Williams lived with a Mrs. Connors as his wife. He stole her clothing and sold it for money to buy liquor. She was found nude by Officers Curry and Wyatt the next morning in the third story of an unoccupied house, where she and Williams slept the night before. She was sent to prison for four months for vagrancy.

Burglary in Montreal.

Another extensive burglary occurred on Thursday morning in Montreal, a Jeweller's store within a stone's throw of police headquarters being entered, the safe blown open, and ten thousand dollars' worth of jewellery and eight thousand dollars in cheques carried off.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD

SPEECH AT THE LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION AT TORONTO.

Canada's Progress During the Premier's Forty Years of Public Life—A Review of History—The Present Conservative Policy.

CONFEDERATION.

In 1858, as Mr. Morris in his able letter to this morning's Mail showed, the Government of which I was a member, put it in the Governor-General's speech that steps would be taken to get the consent of Her Majesty's Government to communicate with the sister provinces, regarding Confederation.—(Cheers)—and then in 1864, at the time of this deadlock, the question had been an old one. It was obvious to everyone that some such solution must be found for the difficulties then existing, but the proposition for the union of all the provinces, as Mr. Morris shows by this paper, which I myself read in Parliament, did not come from Mr. Brown. Mr. Brown and his whole party had been in favour of passing a resolution, and the elder gentleman who are here may remember, passed a resolution that the legislative union between Upper and Lower Canada should be renewed, and that there should be a federal union, each province having its own Legislature, and joint authority to govern both. That was the proposition of the Reform party. That was the proposition they originated in 1864. He said that by-and-bye the larger federation might be undertaken, but that federation of the provinces, which had before been legislative unity, should be taken up first. We objected, and we compromised afterwards upon this arrangement, that we should try what we could do to get the lower provinces to unite with us, and the two questions should be considered together. If we could not get the larger federation we might take the smaller if we could agree upon the terms. Mr. Brown yielded, and then we went to Prince Edward Island. In Prince Edward Island, by a providential combination of circumstances, representatives of the Maritime Provinces were to hold a meeting for the purpose of forming a federation of the three provinces, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island. They met, and we asked permission to be present and state our views. The whole Government went down from Quebec to Prince Edward Island. We laid before the assembled representatives of the three Maritime Provinces our larger scheme. We had subsequent meetings, and it culminated in the Quebec resolutions, in which the larger scheme was adopted. Upon these resolutions Confederation was founded. This question of Confederation is a marked historical event, and the fact of it should be ascertained and known without misapprehension or misstatement of any kind.

THE NATIONAL POLICY.

You will remember we were told we were raising up a gigantic monopoly, that these cotton lords, the capitalists, would lord it over us, that they would accumulate enormous fortunes at the expense of the people. What has been the result? At this moment the manufacturers of cotton and wool are suffering from over-production. Cotton and woollen goods have never been so cheap as they are today. We are suffering, not from the want of anything, but from having too much. (Laughter.) We have more cotton than we can use. We shall soon have as many woollens as we can use. We are getting our goods cheap, and making them in our own country instead of importing them from abroad. (Cheers.) You know that the price of articles is regulated by supply and demand. There was a rush into

COTTON MANUFACTURING.

Everybody thought money was to be made there. The earlier companies had certainly divided large sums of money in the way of profits, and everybody who had a spare shilling put it into a cotton factory. The consequence was that unless everybody in Canada took to wearing three shirts instead of one—(laughter)—there would be no means of using all this cotton up. That was a temorary difficulty. But the people of Canada did not suffer. The manufacturers who had worked not wisely, but too well, had to work less and to change the character of the cottons they were turning out. They are doing so now; they are going into coloured cottons, bleached cottons, and other varities which formerly they did not touch, and the result is that the thing will right itself. There may be lines in which work is short, but it must be remembered that the workingman in the United States is more short of work than the workingman in Canada—(hear, hear)—and that the workingman in England is shorter still—and that is a free trade country. (Applause.) While both England and the United States are suffering our people cannot hope to escape. (Hear, hear.) But the depression is temporary. These things will right themselves. We have the manufacturers in our country. We have also the consumers of the produce of our farms; so that our farmers have their market here and are not compelled to send their produce to feed the producers of their manufactured goods in the United States. (Hear, hear.) I therefore say that the National Policy has not in one single particular been a failure. (Cheers.) And I nail my colors to the mast on that point. (Applause.) I am a National Policy man. Those who do not agree with me on that point, though they may support me on others, will fail me on the point which it more essential and more important to the future prosperity of Canada than any subject that can be submitted to the Legislature of a nation. (Cheers.)

THE CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY.

When the C. P. R. has been extended eastward to the Maritime Provinces with a direct line to Louisburg, C. B., the ocean voyage from England to America may be accomplished easily in five days, and the railway journey from Louisburg to the Pacific ocean may be done in five days more. This will be ten days from London to the new city of Vancouver on the Pacific coast. The run across the Pacific to Yokohama may be made in 14 days; the whole trip will thus be made in 24 days from London to Yokohama, a saving in time of at least 20 days over the route via Gibraltar and the Suez canal. The English colony of Hong-Kong may be reached by the C.P.R. in less than 30 days from England, or 16 days less than by Gibraltar or the Suez canal. During all that time the traveller will never be out of the sound of the British drum, and may always have his eyes resting on the Union Jack." (Tremendious cheering.) Gentlemen, I have told you the opposition we had to contend with, and the opposition has been enormous. Among other things they opposed the building of the road to the north of Lake Superior. It was said that it would be going through a country fit for nothing. It would be enormously expensive, and would not pay for greasing the wheels of the locomotives. The Government of which I was a member said if that road is not built we shall have no Pacific railway at all. In the first place it would be a breach of contract with British Columbia, and in the next place it would fail altogether in the great objects which the older provinces had in going in and agreeing to pay $25,000,000 cash of the hard earnings of the people taken from the public treasury for the building of the road. What would have been the consequence if the road north of Lake Superior had been abandoned? The Pacific Railway would be simply a feeder to the American railways running to the south. What commerce from Canada, what of our products would go through the United States when burdened by a foreign tariff, foreign rates of freight, and the troubles and delays of the bonding system? What freight would go from Old Canada to the Northwest by such a route? It was absolutely necessary that the road should be built. That road is all but 70 miles completed. It will be built by the time next session of Parliament ends. There is now a line building connecting the northern railway system with the Pacific which will give direct communication between Toronto and Callendar. By this branch the manufacturers of Western Ontario, of Toronto, and Hamilton will be able to send their goods to the Northwest through Canada at rates to be fixed by the Government, who have provided for a control of the freight charges. These are acts for which the Government believe they have every reason to be proud, and for which they consider they should retain the support of the majority of the people. (Cries of "So they will.").

THE WASHINGTON TREATY.

I had the honor of being appointed an Imperial Ambassador to look after the interests of Canada, and I did the best I could for Canada. (Cheers.) I did not get all that I wanted, or nearly all, but at all events we got a settlement of the question in dispute. For the time between the commencement of the operation of the treaty and the first of July next we have got five and a half millions of money for allowing the Americans to fish in our waters. You remember what a fuss was made when I came back from Washington by the Opposition. Mr. Mackenzie said that he looked with loathing at the sacrifice of the territorial rights of Canada for the filthy lucre of the arbitration. I was bitterly attacked and was compared to a cross between Arnold and Judas Iscariot. (Laughter.) I did not feel that our honour was affected, and if it was, Mr. Mackenzie forgot it very soon, for when he came in he carried out the reference, and it was to his Government that the five millions and a half were awarded for the right of fishing in our waters. They did not refuse that money, but were very willing to take it. Not only that, but Mr. Albert Smith was made Sir Albert Smith because he had submitted to the great humiliation which caused Mr. Mackenzie so much loathing. Now what do we see? We see in the Maritime Provinces some of our most extreme Grits, instead of feeling that the country has been humiliated by the treaty in which it was said I betrayed it, crying out for the renewal of the treaty, and charging the Government with want of energy in trying to get it renewed. It is no use now trying, because the Americans have resolved not to renew it. They have given us notice, and we shall have to submit. We will, however, do all we can to increase our commercial relations with the United States, and if we can in the course of such negotiations obtain a renewal of the fishery clause on fair and equal terms, we shall spare no pains to do so, but we are not going on our knees, which would be dishonest and would defeat our object, to ask the United States to be good enough to save us from ruin by making this arrangement.

THE COUNTRY SAFE.

Proud as I am of the honour conferred upon me by my sovereign, which she placed with her own hand upon my breast as a recognition of my services, all must yield to the overwhelming expression of the approbation of the people of Ontario as represented by you on this occasion. My time cannot be long, but I can depart in peace with the consolation and comfort of feeling that the Conservative cause, that is the cause of the country, is safe in your hands, and in the hands of those who will be governed and influenced by you. I appeal to the young Conservatives of the country to put their shoulders to the wheel. We old men are disappearing from the stage, but we leave behind us young and vigorous men who will fight the battle as enthusiastically and successfully as we have done, although I shall not be here to see it. I shall rest my head upon the pillow to-night with the confidence that for long after I have gone the Conservative cause is safe; the country is safe in the hands of men like these I have now the honour of addressing. (Loud and prolonged cheering.)

REV. JOHN NEILL was inducted to the Charles street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on Thursday.

THE Provincial Fat Stock Show at Guelph closed on Thursday. It has proved a great success.

A WISE CONCLUSION.—If you have vainly tried many remedies for rheumatism, it will be a wise conclusion to try Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cures all painful diseases when other medicines fail.

IT is said that Thurman will not accept a position in Cleveland's Cabinet as it would create a hopeless division in the Democratic party in Ohio.

A GREAT MISTAKE.—It is a great mistake to suppose that dyspepsia can't be cured, but must be endured, and life made gloomy and miserable thereby. Alexander Burns, of Cobourg, was cured after suffering fifteen years. Burdock Blood Bitters cured him.

THE Ontario Court of Appeals has decided that the Dominion Legislature may pass an Act providing for a civil remedy for a breach of the election Act.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—A person suffering from pain and heat over the small of the back, with a weak weary feeling and frequent headaches, is seriously ill and should look out for kidney disease. Burdock Blood Bitters regulate the kidneys, blood and liver, as well as the stomach and bowels.

Two shipwrecked sailors spent seven years on an island where their only food was cocoanuts and an occasional flying fish. They retained good health and gained in weight.

A VALUABLE PATENT.—The most valuable discovery patented in modern times is that of the best blood purifier and liver and kidnes regulater known. We refer to Burdock Blood Bitters, which is making so many wonderful cures and bringing the blessed boon of health to so many homes.

A GIGANTIC Christmas tree is being arranged in the New Orleans Exposition, fifty feet high, and lighted with 500 variegated electric lights, and it will be covered with toys for distribution to children.

A PERFECT BEAUTY.—Perfect beauty is only attained by pure blood and good health. These acquirements give the possessor a pleasant expression, a fair, clear skin and the rosy bloom of health. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the blood and tone the entire system to a healthy action.

THE light of an electric lamp travels at the rate of 187,200 miles per second. The velocity of the light of the sun is 187,500 miles per second, and that of a petroleum lamp 186,700.

NOT another Pill shall go down my throat again, said a citizen, "when I can get such a prompt and pleasant cure for my Bilious attacks, as Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It renders the Blood Pure and Cool and makes a splended Spring Medicine. Large Bottles 50 cents.

There are lots of people going around grumbling, and half sick at the Stomach all the time; who might be well and happy if they only used Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters occasionally. It is a splendid Blood Purifier. All Druggists, 50 cents.

MERRY DAYS AGAIN!

A CATASTROPHE.

A Bridge and Workmen Swept Away—Fatal Results.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19.—On Wednesday last, between two and three p.m., St. Hyacinthe was again the scene of a very sat catastrophe. Last spring, at the breaking of the river, large icebergs were seen floating down the Yamaska at a rapid rate until they met with the huge dam which barricades the river to supply water power to the various manufactories lining the river banks. For a few hours the accumulated ice afforded the spectators a very curious aspect, until finally the pressure became so powerful that the dam gave way to the mighty waters. In addition to this two iron bridges were swept down the rapids. Last May a contract was signed by a Toronto firm for the erection of a new bridge, and since that time the work was carried on very satisfrctorily. Last Wednesday 150 feet was swept from off its piers and hurled down the rapids, along with 21 workmen, by a hurricane. Immediately the sad accident was telephoned the city over, and in a few minutes hundreds were lining the shores. All were rescued, two lifeless, two others whose recovery is very doubtful, and 17 hopeful of recovery, as their injuries are not grave.

LINDSAY.

BURGLARY.—On Monday of last week the house of Thomas Nugent, lot 27, con. 11, Ops, was entered by some persons unknown, who broke open a chest and stole therefrom a note for $150.

ACCIDENT.—Last Monday evening a little boy named F. Frame, son of Mr. A. Frame, living in the east ward, had his leg broken while riding on a bobsleigh. In jumping off a portion of his clothing caught, and he was dragged along the road, and his leg striking against a stone it was broken between the ankle and the knee. As the little fellow is only eight years of age and not very strong, it is doubtful if he will recover. This should be a warning to boys to keep off sleighs.

LINDSAY SURPRISED.—One of the free and easy gentlemen of the road known as tramps passed hurriedly through Lindsay on Friday afternoon. His raiment was all right, but he carried his feet encased in the biggest pair of boots that mortal ever gazed on. As he turned the corner at Lindsay street he left a track in the mud—Lindsay mud—and a bystander out of curiosity fetched a rule and measured it. The sole of the foot covered an area of 16½x5½ inches at widest point. What a foot for a waltz, or better still for an "obdurate papa." He hailed from Peterborough.

THE SAVED ARMY.—The Saved Army will commence holding a series of meetings in Lindsay about the beginning of January. On Monday of this week a deputation from Peterborough—the head quarters of the Saved Army—visited Lindsay to make arrangements. The deputation comprised Gen. Lindsay, Capt. Munt and Mr. Geo. Sproule, chief delegate and chairman of several important committees.—Post.

CAMPBELLFORD.

SHUT DOWN FOR A SHORT TIME.—The Northumberland Paper Company have been compelled to cease running their mill at Ranney's Falls for want of straw. The stoppage has lasted only about a week, and as soon as sufficient material arrives, work will be resumed.

ARM BADLY SPRAINED.—One day last week, Mrs. John George, an elderly lady, fell near her home, in this village, and sustained a severe sprain in her arm. Her attending physician thinks the injury could not have been worse had the arm been broken.—Herald.

Sentenced to be Hanged.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 18.—Two Indians, found guilty, one for the murder of a white trader, and the other for that of an Indian, were to-day sentenced to be hanged on February 24th next. Both men received their sentences with laughter. Judicial representation will be made to Ottawa for a commutation from capital punishment to life imprisonment for the latter culprit.

A Fruitless Thirteen-Years Courtship.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 19.—A branch of promise suit for $20,000 damages was instituted to-day against Jos. H. Holloway by Miss Anna Welsh, a lady who mourns because a thirteen-year courtship ended in nothing. She avers that Holloway became acquainted with her in 1870, promised to marry her in 1871, and frequently repeated his promise up to November last when he married another.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

IN chopping suet dredge flour over it to prevent it sticking to the knife.

HALF a teaspoonful of common salt dissolved in a little cold water and drank will instantly relieve "heart-burn" or dyspepsia.

A HANDSOME cover for the sideboard is made of fine white crash, with ends of macreme. Table scarfs are sometimes made in this way also.

To remove white spots from varnished furniture try this: Rub with a sandpaper gently, then with a soft piece of cotton rub on some shellac varnish thinned with turpentine.

AN effective way of colouring meerschaum bowl is by painting it while you are smoking, and after it becomes warm, with the creamy surface of good milk, or with cream, by means of a common hair pencil, which brings out the brown and yellow colours beautifully as if by magic.

THE Glasgow Herald declares that if the Americans would forsake their course of perpetual pie and demoralizing hot cakes for the solid comfort of wholesome oatmeal porridge, they would be a calmer, a less lively, a less speculative, a less bombastical and a happier people.

A DESCRIPTION of one of Worth's latest to be worn at a wedding:—The skirt is to be of black and gold striped velvet, peafectly plain, save for the little ruffing of plain velvet, the former opening over a waistcoast of Persian embroidery in hieroglyphics of black gold. The collars and cuffs are to match.

AN excellent dish for breakfast is made of six eggs and three tablespoonfuls of ham chopped very fine; beat the eggs, and after melting a lump of butter in the frying pan, drop the eggs into it and stir the ham in; the ham has of course been cooked, either fried or boiled; season with pepper. This is a good way to use up pieces of meat that are left from dinner.

Christian Right of Christian Might.

Might is right, say many; and so it is. Might is the right to bear the burdens of the weak, to cheer the faint, to uplift the fallen, to pour from one's own full stories to the need of the famishing. Might is right: but it never is right to oppress the weak, to trample upon the defenceless, to extort from the poor his all for the purpose of adding a little to one's own. "We that are strong," says the apostle, "ought to bear the infirmaties of the weak, and not to please ourselves." That is the Christian right of Christian might.—S S Times.

WHEN a person is weak and faint, or fatigued and exhausted, there is nothing so refreshing and reviving as a little of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. Rubbed on the hands and temples, and inhaled freely, it tones and braces the whole system.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

Every purchaser of common sense business capacity, when requiring an article for a certain purpose, purchases that only which has been tried or is allowed first to test before buying. You are allowed a free trial bottle of McGregor's Speedy Cure, the great remedy for Dyspepsia, Impure Blood and Liver Disorders, at John McKee's Drug Store. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. BLYTHE MILLS!

Two months ago I completed alterations in and additions to my Flour Mill Machinery. Since then I have been making grades of Flour which I am pleased to say are giving universal satisfaction.

I have placed a Rig on the road in charge of a competent man, in order that my friends and the public generally may take advantage of a chance to get Superior Flour.

MR. W. J. MASON will telephone all orders to the Mill, where they will receive prompt attention. Mr. Mason's Store is one door South of the Bank of Toronto, George Street.

Daily Evening Review

MONDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Town Council.

A regular meeting of the Town Council will be held this evening.

The Ball and Cue.

A grand fifteen ball pool tournament will be held on Tuesday, January 6th, at the Vignaux Billiard Rooms. Two prizes valued at $15 and $10 respectively will be offered for competition among the players. All those who wish to enter for the competition may get full information by applying to Mr. J. Crevier, at the rooms.

Heads and Faces—Phrenological Charts.

Rev. Ralph Brown, of Australia, may be consulted for charts at the Y.M.C.A. rooms to-morrow (Tuesday), from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Chart of 60 pages, with 70 illustrations, showing what to restrain or cultivate—what best suited for in life—what your boy would succeed at. Chart and consultation only one dollar. To-morrow is the only day Mr. Brown will be here.

Remember the sweeping reduction now being offered on all Winter Underclothing at A. McNeil's.

The Opening Event.

Don't forget the grand fancy dress carnival at the Skating Rink on Charlotte street on Friday evening, the 26th inst. The Brass Band will be in attendance. The Rink will be brilliantly illuminated with six electric lights and there will be a curling match between the Peterborough and the celebrated Lindsay Club. For particulars see large posters.

Colder To-Morrow.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—East and south winds, mostly cloudy weather, with local falls of sleet or rain in the southern, and snow in the northern portions, slightly higher temperature, colder again to-morrow.

Anniversary Services.

Services commemorative of the opening of the George Street Methodist Church were held in the church on Sunday. Both morning and evening the Rev. Ralph Brown, of Australia, preached eloquent and instructive sermons. In the morning he took for his text a part of Isaiah, xxviii, 16, "Behold I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste." In the evening he took as his text II Kings, v, 1, "Now Naaman, captain of the host of the King of Syria, was a great man with his master, and honorable, because by him the Lord had given deliverance unto Syria, he was also a mighty man in valor, but he was a leper."

The finest range of Socks in Peterborough can be found at "Habiliment Hall."

"The Ticket-of-Leave Man."

The above named five act comedy drama was presented on Saturday night at the Opera House by the Tavernier Dramatic Company. The company was greeted with the largest house they have had since their arrival; the play was interesting, and the people seemed well satisfied. The company during the week had been favoured by increasing audiences each night during last week and on Saturday night, the last of the week, it was the largest. The plays presented during the week were attractive and were put on the stage in good style. A good entertainment was provided each night. The singing of little Annie Bird was wonderful, as the enthusiastic encores she received each night testified. "Rosedale" will be played to-night. The reportoire for this week includes the following plays:—"The Danites," "Hazel Kirk," "Forget-Me-Not," "Lol Astray," and "The Hidden Hand." This is an attractive programme, and one which the company is fully competent to carry out. As the prices are so low, no doubt they will have bumper houses each night.

Did He Get "Left"?

A few days ago the driver of Mr. N. Laplante's meat delivery went out to take orders for the next morning. He first drove to the palace of His Lordship Bishop Jamot. The horse was left untied (Billy was never known to run away), but when the driver came back he found to his surprise that no horse or delivery was to be seen. The tricky animal was at last found to be meekly standing before the house of Miss Veals, on McDonnell street. After a sound scolding to the horse the driver, who had no halter to tie the horse, went into the house of this customer for the order, but while he was in the horse had jogged along until he came to the residence of Mr. Melville Millar. He stopped here for a few minutes and then trotted up past the Court House to the residence of Mrs. Col. Haultain, where he waited for another few moments and then proceeded to Mr. Laplante's stall at the market. In the meantime the driver had given up following him and had taken a short cut to the market, which he reached, considerably out of humor, about the same time as the horse. The driver says he's going to take a halter along next time.

THE CHRISTMAS MEAT DISPLAY.

Amazing Muchness of Meat at the Stalls of Our Many Marketers.

In Saturday's issue we gave a short description of the stalls and contents of Messrs. Harry Winch and James Howden. To-day we continue the list.

MR. N. LAPLANTE

has in stock a large and varied assortment of meats. The stall inside is well filled, and the outside is lined with the very choicest beef, lamb, pork and mutton, all tastefully dressed and arrayed and decorated with rosettes, tissue paper festoons, etc. The following well known feeders supply the animals for Mr. Laplante's display, which are annexed to their names:—Mr. John Lang, Reeve of Otonabee, 1 heifer; Mr. D. Henderson, Otonabee, 1 heifer; Messrs. W. and J. Stewart, Otonabee, 1 heifer; Mr. Wm. J. Stewart, Otonabee, 1 heifer; Mr. Wm. Keneer, Cavan, 1 cow; and choicest of 100 sheep one lamb fed by Mr. Laplante himself, besides the finest pork, fancy meats, etc., form one of the leading displays for Christmas.

MR. M. O'BRIEN,

whose shop is situated on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, has not exerted himself to a very great extent to make a Christmas display. His customers, however, will find that when Christmas eve comes he will have on hand some excellent beef and other meats, and will supply them with what they desire.

MR. ARTHUR WHITE

has made a very good exhibit this year. His shop is situated on the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer streets, and is filled with all of the staple meats. Mr. John Porter, of Manvers, has supplied a very fine heifer; Mr. Wm. O'Brien, Cavan, has fed two steers for his display; and he has himself fed specially for the Christmas trade, two young heifers. Mutton, pork, lamb and other meats are hung around the shop in large quantities.

MR. J. MERVIN,

although he has not been in the business for any great length of time, evidently knows how to cater for the custom of this time of the year. He has purchased from several noted feeders catale, sheep and pigs of a character that does both himself and the feeders credit. Mr. John Young, Smith, supplies a fine young heifer; Mr. J. Stothart, a young steer; Mr. A. Moffat, Otonabee, a spring calf; Mr. Eliss Thompson, two pigs; and Mr. T. Henry, Otonabee, one heifer. The meats are well dressed and hung in such positions that it can well scanned by the customers.

MR. W. M'ANAIRN,

George street, north, says that he is not going to make a great display, but that he has some "good" cattle, sheep and lambs ready for the Christmas trade. No doubt his customers know by this time that when Mr. McAnairn says the article is "good," it is certainly worth digesting.

MR. F. W. HEATHER,

Rubidge street, is one of Peterborough's oldest butchers. In past years he has always catered well for his customers, and this year he is by no means behind. Those living in the South Ward need not go past his shop, as they can get what they require without going further. Mr. Heather has a high reputation and this year he fully sustains it.

Lined Kid, Calf, and Buck Gloves in all shades and at reasonable prices, can be found at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

A PLEASING INCIDENT.

Presentation and Address to Miss Fair from her Pupils—An Entertainment.

On Friday afternoon, the occasion of Miss Fair's severing her connecting with the Public School, her pupils prepared a very acceptable programme of songs, recitations and readings, and, at about three o'clock, when the examinations were all over, her room, which had been very prettily decorated for the occasion, was filled to its uttermost capacity with teachers and pupils from other rooms. The Inspector, the Principal and a fair number of parents and friends were also present.

Master Willie Bletcher filled the position of Chairman very creditably. No special mention need be made of individual participants in the afternoon's entertainment. All did very well. At its conclusion Miss May Snider and Master Alfred Weir came forward, the latter to read an address, the former to present Miss Fair with a beautiful jewel casket. Miss Fair replied very appropriately, and after a few remarks from the Inspector and the Principal the very pleasant performance ended.

The following is the

ADDRESS:

DEAR MISS FAIR,—We, your pupils, hearing that you are going to leave us, cannot allow the connection which has existed for the past sixteen months to be severed without expressing our regret at your departure. You have always shown the deepest interest in our studies, ever ready to give a helping hand; our advancement seemed your one desire. We know that at times our seeming indifference must have been very trying to you, but we hope you will overlook our imperfections and remember only that which may be pleasing to you. Before parting we ask you to accept this jewel case, as a slight token of regard and affection, with best wishes for success and prosperity in your undertakings.

Signed,

MAY SNIDER, ALFRED WEIR,
CELIA HARVEY, GEO. BOUCHER,
CLARA ARMSTRONG, WM. FIFE.

THE REPLY.

MY DEAR PUPILS,—It is with feelings mingled with pleasure and regret that I now part with you; with pleasure when I consider the many happy hours we have spent together; with regret because I must now sever the tie existing between us of teacher and pupil.

When I look back upon the time which I have spent in teaching you, and boys and girls of the South School, it seems more like months than years; for to teach the youth of Peterborough has been always more of a pleasure than a labor to me.

One of my greatest triumphs in future years will be to see my pupils ranked amongst the most respectable and honorable. But in seeking for earthly honor always remember that no earthly dignity can render that satisfaction which is realized from the assurance that God is looking with pleasure upon his image reflected upon our hearts.

I hope that the pupils whom I leave behind me will still continue to reflect credit upon their parents' careful training, that they will treat my successor as kindly and respectfully as they have treated me, and he will also leave Peterborough with the idea that teaching is both a pleasant and an ennobling profession. I know that those about to be promoted will gladly pass under the care of Mr. Coleman, whom they have already learned to esteem as a kind and faithful Principal.

My dear pupils, this handsome gift has taken me by surprise. I shall always prize it, not for its worth, although it is indeed valuable, but as a token of love and esteem.

I now say good-bye to my fellow-teachers and pupils thanking them for their kindness, and wishing them a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Chit-Chat.

—Milder.

—The cold snap is over.

—The rink is open and the ice is good.

—Go and see "Rosedale," the grand military drama, at the Opera House to-night.

—It must have been pretty chilly up in Minden. A gentleman in town received a card from a friend who lives in that village to the effect that the thermometer sank to 37° below zero on Saturday last.

Now is the time to buy Underclothing. Call and see the extensive range at 20 per cent. discount now being offered at McNeil's.

"Heads and Faces."

The Rev. Ralph Brown, of Australia, will deliver, in the George Street Methodist Church this evening, a very popular lecture on the above mentioned subject. All should attend.

The Rink.

We wish to call attention to the advertisement of the Skating Rink Co. in another column. It will be seen that notwithstanding the increased facilities of the rink, and the large amount of money which has been spent in making it complete, the tickets still remain at the same price.

HILLIARD'S FAMILY FLOUR is ahead for bread making. Leave your orders at W. J. Mason's.

The Last Service.

The members of the Baptist body of Peterborough having purchased a new church on Murray street, and having had it furnished and fitted ready for occupation, the last service was held in the Aylmer Street Church on Sunday evening. The sermon, which was delivered by the pastor, was an eloquent and impressive one, during which he reviewed the history, growth and development of the Baptist body in this town. The sermon will be published in to-morrow's issue.

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselves awkwardly on the floor of a ball-room or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN
Hair Renewer.

Seldom does a popular remedy win such a strong hold upon the public confidence as has HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. The cases in which it has accomplished a complete restoration of color to the hair, and vigorous health to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle-aged people like it because it prevents them from getting bald, keeps dandruff away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1884.

"HEADS AND FACES."

An Able Lecture on Phrenonology by the Rev. Ralph Brown.

On Monday evening the Rev. Ralph Brown delivered in the George Street Methodist Church a lecture entitled "Heads and Faces," to a large audience, who seemed thoroughly to appreciate his very clear, entertaining and instructive manner of explaining phrenology and physiognomy.

The Rev. I. Tovell opened the proceedings by announcing that the choir would sing an anthem, which was admirably rendered, especially the solo, which was taken by Miss Fanning.

The Rev. I. Tovell, after pronouncing a prayer, thanked the congregation for its liberal contribution of $250 the previous day. He then announced that Miss Fanning would favour them with a solo, which she did in such a manner as to call forth well deserved applause.

The Chairman then introduced the lecturer as coming from the other great British Colony of Australia, though none the worse for being born in Canada, being of Irish extraction, and a Methodist minister.

The REV. RALPH BROWN began by remarking that he found that people on this continent thought of Australia as a far off country in an out of the way part of the globe, but in Australia they thought that they were in the very centre of the world. They were proud in Australia to belong to the British Empire, and not have to go through the turmoil of a presidential election such as he found going on when he landed at San Francisco.

He then briefly but graphically described some of their chief cities with their marvellous growth, and made some humorous remarks on striking points of difference with this hemisphere.

Before he had heard of phrenology he had a physiological system of his own by which he judged of the character of those he met from their appearance. He did not wish to maintain that phrenology was an exact science, but he would give some hints for judging characters and choosing a pursuit, or even a husband or wife. There were two classes who were opposed to phrenology, those who were afraid to have their defects exposed, and those good people who feared that it was at variance with the Bible. Eloquently he maintained that not only what was true in phrenology but all true science must be in accord with Revelation, for both the Book of Nature and the Book of Grace were the work of God. The brain was the organ of the mind, and unless the organ was strong it could not perform its functions well; and not only must the brain itself be strong, but the whole body also, if good brain work was to be done. To illustrate that portions of the brain had different functions, he pointed out the fact that it could execute different processes at once, as the organ above him produced a variety of sounds at once when the different keys were slightly touched.

In a lunatic asylum few were wholly man; they were insane on some points, as the organ might have one note out of tune. The mind was not diseased, being immortal it could not be, but a part of the brain was diseased and could not respond to the mind. Another point was that size of the brain gave power, other things being equal, such as quality, activity, health and education. The whole body was adapted to the character of the man, and he clearly but humorously described various temperaments, the vital, the muscular, the mental, the animal, and the lymphatic, each clearly marked in the frame and having corresponding faces and heads. The physical frame was adapted to the work required, as was illustrated by the race horse and the cart horse. Many men had some resemblance to the lower animals, as we all acknowledged when we spoke of a foxy look, a fishy eye, &c. So one man was like a lion, another like a bull dog, with corresponding characteristics. Women, being more beautiful, had finer feelings, though less strength than man. Diversity of character was shown even by the walk, and he described with much humorous truth the short, quick steps of the active and contracted mind, the slouching gait of careless indolence, the mincing step of the Miss Nanny who could hardly be called a man, the fussy, hurried walk of the man who was all bluster and important business, but made little real progress, the little man rising on his toes at each step, and having many ups and downs in life, and so on. So the very shake of the hand was characteristic, and he described various styles, from the touch of the tips of the fingers to the warm, cordial grasp and hearty shake. Everyone practically believed in phrenology and physiogomy, judging new acquaintances by their looks. Rapidly he described the varieties of the principal features, the eye, the nose, &c., and showed how each variety went with a corresponding skull, and with the mental characteristics thus indicated.

There was now a pause in the lecture, during which a duet was charmingly sung by Miss Fanning and Miss Ellsworth.

Mr. Brown resumed by touching on the practical application of his subject. The art of reading character by phrenology might be useful in choosing servants and employees. It was invaluable for the teaching of children and for the training of children. It was a great aid in choosing a calling, a trade or a profession in which one would succeed because best fitted for it. He severely ridiculed the idea that any one should despise being a farmer or a mechanic, and should aim at being a professional man or a merchant, however unfitted for it. To illustrate this he gave a pleasant description of his own little family, with the idiosyncracies of his two boys. Then he explained the advantage of phrenology in choosing companions for life, drawing a laughable picture of the clashing of two similar natures. He called upon the audience to send up a few model heads upon which he might practically illustrate phrenological science. Six gentlemen presented themselves and the lecturer in a very practical manner described their characteristics, those acquainted with the gentlemen seeming to be impressed with the truthfulness of the portraiture. Mr. Brown is a very interesting lecturer, very clear in his explanations of phrenology, and very humorous in the illustrations by which he throws light upon the subject while keeping his audience thoroughly amused, administering his valuable information in the pleasantest shape, and riveting throughout the attention of his audience. He concluded by explaining his system of charts and stating that he would be at the Y. M. C. A. rooms till 9 o'clock this evening for interviews with those who wish to consult him.

The meeting was closed by the singing of the Doxology and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Rev. I. Tovell.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

The pupils of the Ashburnham Public School having heard that their Head Master, Mr. A. T. Emmerson, had tendered his resignation to the School Board, previous to the closing of the school on Friday last for the Christmas vacation, presented him with a dressing case and the following address:—

Mr. Emmerson:

DEAR TEACHER,—It was with feelings of regret that we heard you had decided to sever the connection which has existed between us for the last two years. During that time you have proved yourself to be a faithful and painstaking teacher, ever striving to advance the best interests of the school, and guiding with patience and kindness our steps in the path of learning. Under your wise management the school has prospered, and we feel that in parting with you we are not only losing a good teacher, but a friend. We hope you will accept this toilet case as a small expression of our esteem; and in whatever sphere of life you may hereafter engage, you have our best wishes for your success. Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, we are your affectionate pupils.

Signed on behalf of the school,
LIZZIE ROMBOUGH,
ROBBIE ERSKINE,
MAUDE FAKENHAM,
ROBBIE MCAMMOND,
LIZZIE BEATTIE,
ARTHUR LIPSETT.

Ashburnham, Dec. 19, 1884.

MR. EMERSON made a suitable reply, thanking his pupils for their good wishes and expressing his interest in their future welfare. We feel sure that the sentiments contained in the foregoing address will be heartily endorsed by the parents and friends of the children, as Mr. Emmerson is an efficient teacher, whose place it will be difficult to supply.

A new range of Linen Collars just received at A. McNeil's, George street.

A Strange Story.

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—James Nickerson on trial for shooting his wife, told the story of his crime on the stand to-day. He had been drinking very hard, he said, and shot her without provocation or warning. After he did it he went out and drank more and then started for Chelsea. "From Chelsea," he said, "I went to East Boston, then back to Chelsea and I know not where afterwards. I woke up in a wood at night. I stayed there two or three days. Then I was walking along at night and heard some talking and two fellows came up to me. They walked past and then I walked up to them. They caught up to me after I passed and ran ahead of me. I turned around and went back to a bridge. I heard a sweet voice talking, and on looking up saw my wife. She was right in front of me, and when I stepped she walked ahead of me, looking back over her shoulder. When she got over the bridge she stopped and faced me. There was a bright thing on her forehead like a diamond. She had a happy smile on her face. I got close up to her and said, 'Ellen.' Her veil fell down and she disappeared, and I have never seen her since."

A Corner in Coppers.

Our merchants all complain of a scarcity of coppers. Probably the conversation related below will account for it:

Customer—Will you please give me coppers for ten cents?

Merchant—Sorry, I can't do it.

Customer—Why, where have all the coppers gone to? This is the tenth store I have been in, and the merchants all say coppers are not to be had.

Merchant—I think I know where they have all gone to. You know the Women's Christian Association distributed some five or six hundred "jars" amongst the Sunday Schools of the city, asking the scholars to get the jars filled before Christmas, and from that date until now the copper have been getting scarcer and scarcer. I believe there is between three and four hundred dollars in copper locked up in these jars—in other words, the W. C. A. have got a "corner" on coppers, and until the 15th of January, when the jars are to be broken, coppers will be scarce.

Customer.—Well, I guess you're right, I believe too that that is where all the coppers have gone.—Belleville Intelligencer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—The facts with regard to an accident on the Baltimore and Ohio Railway near Bremen, Ind., were made known here to-night. The train was a fast express from Washington city, due here this morning. It was running at a rate of 40 miles an hour when it struck a broken rail. The engine and forward part of the train pulled over safely, but the dining car and two sleeping coaches were derailed and overturned. The dining car took fire and was burned, but the sleeping coaches were saved from destruction. There were sixteen persons in the sleepers, some of them public men. Congressman Shively suffered painful bruises, and all the others were more or shaken up. The occupants of the dining car suffered severely. Edward McCabe and Jos. Pratz, cooks, and E. Gray and R. McNaughton, waiters, were fatally lacerated, scalded and burned. The wounded were brought here this afternoon.

Daily Evening Review

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1884.

BECAUSE a stove manufacturing company at London has closed as usual for a few days for stock taking and repairs, some of the anti-national journals are rejoicing over their false assertion that another factory had shut down, throwing 200 employees out of work.

THE Globe now admits that Mr. Mowat went to the Privy Council in the Boundary matter, because he was forced to accept a second arbitration. For many years Sir John Macdonald had pointed out that this was the correct course, but the obstinacy of Mr. Mowat kept this Province for years out of its rights.

MR. MOWAT'S leading journal claims that Mr. Mowat should get credit for having secured from the Privy Council a decision confirming the Boundary Award by the Arbitrators. The Globe must be very ignorant if it is not aware that the Privy Council declared that award irregular and invalid. Probably the Globe is more mendacious than ignorant on this point.

THOSE Reform journals which have attacked Sir John Macdonald because, they said, he had stated that he would prefer annexation to independence, should now turn their attention to the Ottawa Free Press, the organ of that party at the capital, which says:—

"For our part, we believe that should the day unhappily come when separation from Great Britain is rendered necessary, the mass of Canadians would prefer to enter into the certainties of annexation rather than to take the leap in the dark which separate nationality means."

CONVENTION NOTES.

ONE striking feature of the recent Liberal Conservative Convention at Toronto, was the presence of old Reformers acting with the Conservatives because of their belief in the National Policy. This is only a repetition of previous acquisitions from the Reform ranks of those who found that the Conservatives of Canada were the real Liberals, and the statesmen under whom the country flourished.

THE presence of Mr. Norquay was noteworthy, for Manitoba has chosen him as her representative, and his presence typified the adhesion of the Province to Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues. They, in fact, may be said to have created the Province, which remained almost at a standstill during the Mackenzie regime, and has made its unexampled progress under the Macdonald Administration.

AN attempt has been made by Reform journals to persuade the public that Sir John Macdonald misrepresented and insulted the Marquis of Lorne in the Letellier affair. We have now learned that it was the Governor-General himself who wrote the statement which Sir John submitted to the House of Commons. This explanation fully agrees with Lord Lorne's friendly treatment of Sir John in England, a treatment which he would not have vouchsafed if Sir John had wronged him.

STRANGE FATALITY.

A Young Telegraph Operator Skates to His Death—Corroboration of a Dream.

PORT ARTHUR, Dec. 12.—On Saturday afternoon last, as the western bound train was leaving Red Rock, a young man named Daniel McKenzie laughingly shook hands with a number of friends on board the train, bound his skates on his feet, and struck out over the ice for Mezokimas, a construction station some 15 miles east of Red Rock, where he was employed as telegraph operator. When about a mile from shore, as he was rounding a point, he turned and waved his hand, and was then lost to view. This was the last seen of him. When it became known that he had not arrived at his destination on the following Monday his friends here were alarmed, and searching parties were organized who went over the route supposed to have been taken by Mackenzie. They could not discover any traces of the missing operator, but the state of the ice, in many places, thin, rotten, and full of holes, pointed out too plainly the fate of the unfortunate youth. In connection with the disappearance of the young telegraph operator a very singular coincidence occurred here. A young man in the town, a particular friend of Mc Kenzie's, on Sunday night startled his brother with whom he was sleeping by crying out, "Catch him!" "Catch who?" asked the brother. "Didn't you see him go through the ice?" "No, you're dreaming." He had dreamed that his friend had fallen through the ice while skating, and sure enough the news was received in town a couple of days afterward.

A POOR-HOUSE HORROR.

An Insane Woman Dashes into a Burning Building and Perishes.

DETROIT, Dec. 19.—A terrible fire occurred at Lapeer county poor-farm, two miles from Lapeer, Michigan, last night, resulting in the loss of one life and much suffering to others. The fire originated in the poor-house, where 37 inmates were housed, and is supposed to have been caused by a defective chimney. The main building was entirely destroyed, together with its contents, consisting of furniture, bedding, clothing, provisions, etc. One woman was burned to death, but all the other inmates were taken out alive and are now quartered in farm houses in the neighbourhood. The poor creature who lost her life was an insane woman named Bertha Rockwell. She was got outside with the others, but dashed back into the blazing building and was burned to dath, only her charred and blackened bones being found in the debris this morning. Another insane woman named Phœbe Salisbury, escaped from her keepers during the excitement, and clad only in her night gown, ran two miles into the country before she could be recaptured. She was badly frozen, the thermometer indicating below zero at the time. However, she will probably recover if she receives proper care. The condition of the surviving inmates is pitiable, but their temporary wants are being supplied. There were no fire fighting appliances at the poor house, but the surrounding buildings were saved by throwing snow upon them. The pecuniary loss to the county is about $6,000.

THE LAST OF THE YEAR.

OUR COUNCILLORS MEET THE LAST TIME THIS YEAR TO TRANSACT BUSINESS.

The Reports of the Various Committees—The Spaulding's Bay Question Again Before the Council—The Electric Light on Hunter Street—Amendment to the Building By-law not Fully Considered.

A meeting of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening. The following members were present: Councillors Cahill, Davidson, McNeil, Green, Millar, Yelland, Douglass, Rutherford Menzies, Kendry and Hartley.

In the absence of the Mayor, Councillor Menzies was elected to preside. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read to the Council:—

From John Flood, offering to supply good dry wood, of which one-third was beech and maple, at $2.75 per cord.—Wood to be bought from the town dealers when required.

From Robert Logan, asking a remission of taxes.—Court of Revision.

From Thos. Blezard and Jno. Fowlds, recommending John Cardwell as a sober and steady man.—Committee on Appointments.

From John Cardwell, applying for a position on the police force.—Committee on Appointments.

From Wm. Gaskin, asking for a remission of dog tax.—Granted when he takes the statutary declaration.

From Thos. W. Redner, asking for a transfer of livery license.—Licensee Committee with power to act.

From E. H. D. Hall in behalf of Mrs. Costello, stating that that the amount offered by the town to her for her recent injuries was not as large as it should be.—Finance Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were received:—

John Halpin	$ 14 25
Lochart & Chowen	58 50
E. B. Edwards	140 56
R. Kingan	3 25
Dixon Estate	568 85

An account of $101.55 was also received from Wm. Collins, of North Monaghn, for the keeping of the man while in sickness, Richard Hicks.

All the accounts were referrid to the Finance Committee.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Councillor DAVIDSON, Chairman of the Finance Committee, read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—The Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

The REVIEW Pub. Co.			$ 34 06
do	do		6 25
Alfred McDonald			103 63
The Metropolitan Grocery			11 00
R. Wainwright			3 00
R. B. McKee (when certified)			27 31
R. B. McKee	do	do	7 51
Geo. Stethem	do	do	22 75
D. Desautels	do	do	8 25
B. Shortly	do	do	1 00
T. Smith	do	do	12 00

Your Committee also recommend that $20 be given to Thos. Beavis, being one half of fine.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. S. DAVIDSON, Chairman.

Peterborough, Dec. 11, 1884.

The report was adopted.

THE BUILDING BY-LAW.

Councillor MCNEIL, Chairman of the Building Committee, read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Building Committee to whom was referred the petition of R. Z. Rogers and others, beg to report and recommend:

1. That the by-law known as the Building By-law be amended so as to provide for the appointment of an efficient building inspector to carry out the provisions of the same at such a salary as might seem meet.

2. We would recommend that the fines imposed on the following persons for the infringement on the by-law be remitted:—

	Fine.	Costs.	Total.
W. G. Ferguson	$10 00	$2 35	$12 35
R. Z. Rogers	10 00	2 35	12 35
Wm. Aldridge	10 00	2 35	12 35
V. Best	10 00	2 35	12 35
			$49 40

All of which is respectfully submitted,

A. MCNEIL, Chairman.

Councillor CAHILL said that Mr. John Halpin had also been fined at the same time as the others mentioned. He thought that his fine should also be remitted.

Councillor MCNEIL stated that those whose fines had been remited built their buildings under the permission of the Building Committee. Mr. Halpin had not done so.

The report was then adopted.

COURT OF REVISION.

The report of the Court of Revision was read by Councillor Rutherford as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—The Court of Revision beg leave to report that the following requests be granted:—That (David Leroy, Chas. Millage (upon his taking the statutory declaration), Thos. Workman (remission of $1.56, six months' taxes), Mrs. F. C. Crowley, Hugh Darke ($3.75 income tax). That the following requests cannot be allowed:—That of Mr. O'Connor, Jas. Coughlin, Alfred Hutchinson, B. Lefort, L. F. Carpenter, R. Kingan, H. Caicutt, and John Britton. In reference to the Barnardo Home, the taxes shall be paid until the date of the transfer of the lease of the Home to its present possessor. For the rest of the year the taxes shall be remitted. In regard to the Grand Trunk Railway, the Collector is authorised to collect the full taxes, with the exception of $10.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. MENZIES, Chairman.

MR. CARPENTER'S TAXES.

MR. CARPENTER was, on motion, heard in reference to the remission of his taxes. He had suffered severely by the recent fire, and as he had occupied no building, he thought he should not pay any taxes. He left the matter in the hands of the Council.

Councillor RUTHERFORD was in favor of remitting Mr. Carpenter's taxes.

Councillor DOUGLAS said that in his opinion it was a matter between landlord and tenant.

Councillor KENDRY said that it was unfair to make Mr. Carpenter pay these taxes. He had been burned out shortly after the assessors had made their rounds, and he had had no benefit from the premises, as they were burned.

Councillor KENDRY moved, seconded by Councillor HARTLEY,—That the matter of Mr. Carpenter's taxes be referred back to the Court of Revision.—Lost.

CHARITY.

Councillor GREEN read the report of the Charity Committee as follows:—

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—The Charity Committee beg leave to report on the several matters which were referred to them. They recommend that $1.50 be paid to Mrs. Vetch or her sister, cash or provisions, and also that she be provided with one load of wood; that $3, cash or provisions, be given to — Fortsmouth; that Mrs. Larkin get $10, cash or provisions; but in regard to Mrs. McKinney, they require further information.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. H. GREEN, Chairman.

DRAINAGE AND NUISANCES.

Councillor MCNEIL read the following report of the Special Committee on the drainage question:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Special Committee, to whom was referred the question of drainage, and the best means of abating the nuisance at Spaulding's Bay, beg leave to report and recommend that the Clerk write to the Ontario and Quebec and Grand Trunk Railway Companies, asking upon what terms they will undertake to fill Spaulding's Bay with earth.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

A. MCNEIL, Chairman.

Councillor MCNEIL, in moving the adoption of the report, stated that since the Committee had met he had received several communications in regard to the Spaulding's Bay question.

Among others he read the following one from Mr. Ivan O'Bierne, Secretary to Commissioners of Town Trust:—

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 30, 1882.

SIR,—I am directed by the Chairman of the "Commissioners of the Peterborough Town Trust" to intimate to you that the condition upon which the patent for the "reserve" south of the Town of Peterborough was to have issued, to the commissioners is now fulfilled.

The land is now drained in accordance with the terms imposed by the Order-in-Council of the 5th June, 1861, and I am instructed to apply for the issuing of patent.

I am also directed to enquire whether the fact of the land being drained will require to be further certified to the department.

I have the honor to be, sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Sgd.) IVAN O'BIERNE, Secy. to the Commissioners.

Hon. Commissioners of Crown Lands.

Councillor MCNEIL said that in this letter the Secretary of the Commissioners claimed that this land was drained in accordance with the terms imposed by the Order-in-Council. He claimed the very opposite. Nothing was more plain than that there was no drainage in that part of the land in which Spaulding's Bay is situated. The land was not drained now or ever had been.

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

A by-law to provide for the placing of electric lights on Hunter street, and for the levying of a special tax therefor was read for the first time and passed.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading with Councillor Hartley in the chair.

The by-law was passed clause by clause, and the committee rose.

The by-law was read for the third time and passed.

BUILDING BY-LAW.

A building by-law to amend clause 21 in the original Building by-law so that it provide for a competent inspector to oversee the plans of buildings to be erected, was read for the first time.

The Council went into a Committee of the Whole on the third reading, with Councillor Kendry in the chair.

Councillor CAHILL said that he hoped that the by-law would be fully discussed before the name of the Inspector was inserted. He thought that there was enough Inspectors now. The Council was complaining because the present Inspectors did simply their duty.

Councillor MCNEIL stated that it was to provide for a competent man to look into the plans of the buildings to be erected, that this by-law was being brought forward. People had been allowed to go on and build during the summer any way they chose and now they had been brought before the Police Court and fined for infringement of a by-law which they knew nothing about. It was to prevent this misunderstanding in the future that the by-law was framed.

Councillor HARTLEY said that he did not support the appointment of a permanent inspector. If the by-law was not a good one, it would be better to throw it overboard altogether. He would never submit to the having of the plans of buildings being at the mercy of a single man. It was too much power to place in the hands of one man.

Councillor RUTHERFORD said he did not believe in having the by-law carried in a half and half manner. It should be carried out to the letter, and thus we would have a town tolerably safe from fire. A practical, competent man was necessary to look into the plans of buildings to be erected.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought that Mr. Beavis would make a good Building Inspector.

Councillor MENZIES said that the By-law had been amended before. The year Mr. Poussette was in the Council the By-law was amended to a considerable extent. He did not, however, think it necessary to appoint a Building Inspector at this time of the year. No buildings were being put up at this season.

Councillor YELLAND said that trouble would perhaps arise as to the plans being submitted to a Building Inspector. He might favor one person and persecute another.

Councillor KENDRY said that he understood by the By-law the Inspector was to act strictly in accordance with the By-law.

Councillor CAHILL said that he took the stand that no Inspector was necessary. As soon as the present Inspectors brought up offenders against the present By-law a motion was passed in the Council remitting the fines imposed on the said offenders. There were enough inspectors and he would guarantee the carrying out of the By-law if the Inspectors were left alone, and not interfered with in the carrying out of it.

The Committee rose and the Council resumed.

THE NIGHT WATCH.

Councillor RUTHERFORD moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLAS,—That the services of the special night watchman from date be dispensed with, and that the Chief of Police notify him of the action of the Council.

In supporting the resolution Councillor RUTHERFORD said that he did not think the services of this night watchman were any longer necessary. The Chief was now relieved from the Street and Bridge work, and he was at liberty to attend to police matters.

Councillor MCNEIL was in favor of having two policemen on duty at night, and one on in the day time.

Mr. JOHNSTON was heard and said that he did not see how this scheme could be carried out. One policeman was not sufficient in the daytime, and if two were to be on at night perhaps some great row would take place in the daytime, and then the people would say, "Where's the police?" One policeman was not enough in a crowd.

Councillor KENDRY said that there should be at least two policemen on duty in the daytime.

Councillor MCNEIL moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor GREEN,—That the police force remain as they are.

Councillor CAHILL said he was now in favour of retaining the special night watchmen on the grounds that the George street merchants asked for the same. It was better to pay a night watchman than to have burglaries committed. If the night watchmen were removed and another burglary was committed the people would lay the blame on the Council.

Councillor MCNEIL withdrew his amendment. The original motion was put and lost.

TRANSFER OF LICENSE.

Councillor YELLAND moved, seconded by Councillor RUTHERFORD,—That Mr. R. Wainwright be allowed to move his butcher shop southward on George street to the distance of half a block, and that his present license cover these premises.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned for three weeks.

Lined Kid, Calf, and Buck Gloves in all shades and at reasonable prices, can be found at Andrew McNeil's, George street.

Charlie Ross Once More.

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 21,—Officer Lazarus has captured a boy supposed to be the original Charley Ross. The lad, about 15 years of age applied at a real estate office this morning for a situation, but being unable or unwilling to give any satisfactory information concerning himself he was taken in charge by an officer, who afterwards heard his history, which so corresponded with that of the lost Charley Ross that the officer has taken him home and telegraphed Mr. Ross to come on immediately to identify him. There is great excitement here, and many citizens are flocking to the residence of the officer to see the supposed long lost Charley.

Our Holiday Ties, just received, are the admiration of all who see them. Andrew McNeil.

Dry Goods!

FOR ONE MONTH AT

T. KELLY'S

Corner of Simcoe and George Street, Peterborough.

We respectfully direct attention to the above announcement, and have to say that in consequence of the general appearance of trade, the near approach of a seemingly dull winter, and the fact of having an enormous Stock—one of the Largest—in fact too large, we have determined to commence a great bona-fide Cheap Sale on SATURDAY NEXT, AND CONTINUE FOR ONE MONTH. Surplus Stock will not be carried over, no matter what the sacrifice. The prices will tell, and the Goods will move out quickly as they must be sold. In order to make this Sale a Grand Success, we have decided to make the reductions on the whole stock. The Reductions will be general, and not confined to a few leading articles.

BARGAINS IN SILKS,
BARGAINS IN DRESS GOODS,
BARGAINS IN HOSIERY,
BARGAINS IN GLOVES,
BARGAINS IN BLANKETS,
BARGAINS IN UNDERCLOTHING,
BARGAINS IN LINENS,
BARGAINS IN SHEETINGS,
BARGAINS IN COTTONS,

"VARIETY'S THE SOURCE OF JOY!"

"Variety's the source of joy"—and the amount of "joy" that can be obtained from Routley's, Santa Claus' Headquarters must be something enormous, for the "variety" of articles for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS is greater there than at any other store in the city. It would take up nearly the whole of this paper to enumerate all the pretty things on exhibition there, but we mention a few of the principal, in order to give parents and friends of the rising generation some slight idea of what they will see when they visit us. The prices of the articles are either 5c, 10c, 25c, 50c, 75c or $1.00 each, and are arranged according to such values—a great convenience to would-be-purchasers. Among multitudinous other things, visitors will find Alphabetical Obelisks, Square Blocks, Crandall's Story Blocks, Dolls, (see our $1 Kid Doll, and our 25c. "Model" Doll), Bisque Ornaments, Vases, Noah's Arks, Fancy Cups and Saucers, Toilet Sets, Guns, Swords and Trumpets, Plush Photograph Frames, in almost endless variety, Plush-Framed Mirrors, Glove and Handkerchief Boxes, Christmas Cards, Ornaments, Musical Instruments, Albums, Dominoes, Knives, Inkstands, Rocking Horses, &c., &c. Oh! for time and space to describe a few more of the things, but you must COME AND JUDGE FOR YOURSELF. It is quite certain that such bargains have never before been offered in this our "Plate Glass City." Our store is crowded from its opening till its close, and "The cry is still 'They come!'"

DON'T DELAY. All the goods are going "like hot cakes"! At present there are plenty of all kinds left, but dont' postpone too long!! SANTA CLAUS' HEADQUARTERS are at the Fancy Store of

THE LAST SERVICE.

Memorial Sermon in the Aylmer Street Baptist Church — An Interesting Historical Sketch.

On Tuesday evening the Baptist Congregation of this town held its last service in the place of worship which it has occupied for 38 years on Aylmer street. The Rev. A. H. Munro preached to a large and deeply interested audience a sermon strictly appropriate to the occasion. He took for his text: John 14, 31, "Arise, let us go hence."

He began by remarking that there is in the Scriptures the record of many interesting and impressive departures and referred to those of Abraham from Mesopotamia, to Lot's from Abraham and afterwards from Sodom, to Jacob's to Padan Aram and Egypt, to Orpah's from Naomi, and Ruth's from Moab; to those of Samuel and Saul, of David and Jonathan, of Elijah and Elisha and finally to that of Jesus and his disciples from the upper chamber to Gethsemane, when one great epoch of their lives was to end and another was to begin for which He sought to prepare them by a wise and loving address, by praying for them and urging them to pray for themselves. All this would remind the congregation of much applicable to their own present circumstances. And 1st. That change and progress are the law of life. Only one life has no change, that of the great I Am, who inhabiteth eternity. All other life is a continual change from what it is to what it will be. When progress ends death begins. All the great empires died as soon as they ceased to advance. Religion loses its power when it loses its productiveness. Evangelical churches are the living part of Christianity. From them have come Sunday Schools, Home and Foreign Missions, Bible Societies, Christian Associations and all that marks Christian enterprise and philanthropby. And they are God's seed ground, from which will yet spring forth many similar and better things. Our own lives are, and ever will be, subject to this law of progress. 2. Divine Providence is continually affording us opportunities for making new departures in beneficial ways. Every day is a new day. God never repeats himself in things or events. We are not to fossilize the past, but grow into a nobler future. 3. To do this we must rightly regard the past. We cannot separate ourselves from it, neither can we alter its character—that must remain to all eternity. But not so our feelings towards it, or the manner in which we are affected by it. As we review that past let gratitude mingle with regret as we recall its departed joys and friends. True repentance does not need to prove its sincerity by morbid lamentation. The true penitent may forgive himself, for God has fully pardoned him for Christ's sake. Neither should we regard the past with pernicious complacency, satisfied with its attainments and work, but like Paul, both as regards the errors and improvements of the past—Forget the things that are behind, and reach forth unto those that are before. In this spirit let us briefly review the

PAST HISTORY OF THIS CHURCH.

In the year 1845 a few brethren of the Baptist faith came together and consulted as to the advisability of providing for themselves a place of worship in this town. After carefully considering the subject, they determined to build a house in which to hold their religious meetings. The edifice to which this resolve gave rise was opened for worship on the first Sunday in January, 1846, the Rev. Mr. Home, of the Monaghan Church, preaching on that occasion. Those who had originated this undertaking were members of the Baptist Church in Smith, to which they applied for and from which they received letters of dismissal to form a church in Peterborough. This was done on the 10th of May, 1846, when the following persons partook together of the Lord's Supper:—Rev. J. Gilmour and Rev. John Edwards (pastors), Matthew Walton, Martha Walton, Thos. Graham, Jas. Edwards, Thos. Noice, Dan. McIntyre, Eliza Edwards, Grace McDonald, Jane Gilmour, Margaret Lamb, Eliz. Gibson, Martha Finlay, Mrs. Elizabeth McIntyre, and Matilda Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. John Walton, members of the Smith Church, were also present and partook of the ordinance.

During the first year of its existence only four persons united with the church and for some years there were but few additions to its numbers.

In the year 1848 the Rev. E. R. Roberts became co-pastor with the Rev. J. Gilmour, the latter not receiving any salary from the church, but having an income as agent of the New England Company. The Rev. J. Cameron was pastor of the church for about four years, of which, however, I have not the exact date.

In the summer of 1853 the Rev. H. Lloyd spent his vacation with the church and afterwards received and accepted a call to its pastorate, preaching his first sermon in that capacity on Aug. 20, 1854. He resigned the pastorate in May, 1855, his labours having been blessed to the conversion of many souls.

Originally the church was organized as an open communion church. But in the course of years differences of opinion as to the terms of communion arose among the members. The opposite parties being nearly equal, the decision varied on different occasions. Eventually this led to the erection of another place of worship on Dublin street, in 1862. There for some time the Rev. J. Gilmour officiated as the pastor of an open communion church. But in 1865 he and his congregation accepted an invitation to return to this building. But infirmity and advancing years were beginning to diminish the energies of this able and faithful minister of Christ. In 1867 it was found necessary to arrange for him and Mr. Roberts to preach here on alternate Sundays.

In the same year the Rev. Mr. Stock, an English Baptist Minister, was invited to come to this country and assume the pastorate of the church. He complied with the request and began his work in Peterborough in December, 1867. But in 1869 the death of his wife and other circumstances caused him to resign his pastorate, much to the regret of the congregation. In that year also the Rev. John Gilmour preached his last sermon in this place, on the 8th of May, and on the 22nd of the same month was called to his rest, leaving behind him a name that will long be honored and a memory that will long be fragrant.

In December, 1869, the church gave a call to the Rev. Mr. Dyall, an English Baptist Minister, who had taken up his residence at Owen Sound. In the following year the church was plunged into deep sorrow by the sudden death of one of its most useful and beloved members, Mr. J. Walker Gilmour, whose removal is still felt and mourned.

In July, 1871, the Rev. Mr. Dyall resigned the pastorate. Shortly afterwards the Rev. R. Cameron spent some weeks with the church, during which his labours were so highly blessed that the church desired him to become its pastor. But he did not feel it to be his duty to comply with that wish. During the same year the labours of the Rev. Mr. Carrol and Mr. Russel were greatly blessed, both to the town as a whole and especially to this church.

In January, 1872, the Rev. Mr. Carrol was invited to the pastorate. He accepted the call, but had to fulfil an engagement in Erie city before beginning his work here. During this delay, the Rev. Mr. Gough, an evangelist from England, occupied the pulpit, and also during the subsequent absence of Mr. Carrol in Scotland. The Rev. Mr. Carrol's pastorate ended in Sept., 1876. During its continuance the church enjoyed unprecedented growth. The next pastor was the Rev. Mr. Mulhern, an able and venerable minister of the gospel, during whose ministry large additions were made to the church. His connection with the church began in January, 1877, and ended in January, 1880. The Rev. Mr. Stobo became pastor of the church in July, 1880, and left it in January, 1882, having been during his residence here a most efficient worker in connection with the meetings held by the Rev. E. P. Hammond. During his summer vacation in 1882, the Rev. Mr. Walker preached for the church, which was without a pastor till March 4th, 1883, when the Rev. Mr. Best accepted a call to the pastorate, which he filled with much acceptance, but only for a brief period, the sudden death of his wife causing him to resign in the following May. In July, 1882, the Rev. Dr. Davidson was invited to the pastorate. Before giving a final answer he thought it advisable for him to visit the church. He did so and spent two weeks with it. But the signs of serious illness were apparent to all who saw him. Yet it was not without surprise as well as regret that the Church heard of his death about a week after he had returned to his home. During the summer of 1883 the church had its pulpit supplied chiefly by students, acquaintance with whom the church was thus happy to make. In November, 1883, its present pastor received and shortly after accepted a call to the position he now occupies.

And now in the providence of God we have reached a new and important epoch in our history as a church. Some will look back to-night to the day when the foundation stone of this edifice was laid. They will recall the years in which they have worshipped within these walls. They will think of the loved ones who are dead, of the living who are removed, of past happy scenes, work and progress. They will think, too, of past errors, mistakes and griefs, of what might have been avoided, and of what might have been accomplished, and their hearts will be very full. But to-night we must not think only of the actions of men, but also of the Government of God. The Lord Omnipotent reigneth. What patience and goodness he has shown to his church. What kindness and wisdom he has manifested in creating out of all the errors and imperfections of men, in his use of their devotion to His cause and the movements of events, the condition of things in the midst of which He is saying to you, Arise, go hence.

A future lies before us, known only to God. Let us go and meet it in Christ's name, in God's strength, and for the Master's Glory, going in the spirit in which He first went to offer His great sacrifice, to obey His Father's will and to manifest His love to men. Let us go and meet it with earnest prayer. So Christ did, and so He enjoined upon His disciples to do on the great occasion to which our text refers. Let us not meet our new epoch of life and work as they did theirs—with unprepared hearts.

And what shall we pray for but that God will go with us and guide us, use us for His glory and ripen us for His Kingdom!

And while we pray for ourselves we will pray also for those whom we are to succeed in the occupancy of our future place of worship. We are glad to recognize them as those who, though they may differ from us in minor things, hold with us the great cardinal truths of the Gospel. May God bless them in their new ecclesiastical relations, and may He in His mercy and loving kindness go with us to the house where they have so often sought and found Him and had the place made blessed with the tokens of His presence.

I confess that I have cheering hopes as to the future of this church. The spirit of true Christian sacrifice you have shown in consenting to give up and leave a place of worship so dear to many of you as this must be because of the memories of the past; and the great liberality you have exhibited in your contributions towards the outlay attendant upon the purchase and alteration of your future place of worship, encourage me to hope that God will honor those who have thus honored Him, and that the improvement soon to be seen in the material surroundings of our worship will prove to be typical and prophetic of the spiritual blessings we shall receive from our Heavenly Father.

When a person is weak and faint, or fatigued and exhausted, there is nothing so refreshing and reviving as a little of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. Rubbed on the hands and temples, and inhaled freely, it tones and braces the whole system.

Oh! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Baptist Church.

Persons desirous of occuping seats in the Baptist Church are requested to attend at 8 o'clock on Friday evening, Dec. 26th, to select their sittings.

St. Andrew's Sabbath School.

The annual entertainment, with Christmas tree for the children, will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 30th. There will be a good programme. Entertainment to commence at half-past seven. Admission 10 cents.

Personal.

Mr. F. E. Burnham, formerly of Peterborough, was an unsuccessful candidate for the mayoralty of Emerson, Man., being defeated by a small majority. He received 164 votes and his opponent, Mr. Nash, 178.

The Chiniquy Lecture.

The net proceeds of the lecture recently delivered by the Rev. C. Chiniquy, under the auspices of the Orange Association, amounted to $169.14, and they were applied as follows:—$84.57 was given to the lecturer, and $84.57 to the Peterborough Protestant Home.

The Opening Event.

Don't forget the grand fancy dress carnival at the Skating Rink on Charlotte street on Friday evening, the 26th inst. The Brass Band will be in attendance. The Rink will be brilliantly illuminated with six electric lights and there will be a curling match between the Peterborough and the celebrated Lindsay Club. For particulars see large posters.

Phrenological.

During to-day, at the Young Men's Christian Association rooms, the Rev. Ralph Brown, of Australia, has given a striking proof of his ability as a phrenologist, as he did in the George Street Methodist Church on Monday evening in the capacity of a lecturer. Those who have subjected themselves to his examinations state that he is remarkably accurate.

The finest range of Socks in Peterborough can be found at "Habiliment Hall."

The "Stanes" and the Skates.

At last that long longed for event, the opening of the new skating rink, has transpired. On Monday night the rink was opened, and curlers and skaters alike flocked to their place of resort. The attendance was large; the skaters gracefully glided along the smooth surface of the ice and the three curling rinks were occupied until a late hour.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company.

Each succeeding night the audiences in Bradburn's Opera House becomes larger and larger, and the above company grow in favour as play after play is put on the stage. Since the advent of the company in Peterborough, nearly two weeks ago, it is safe to say, they have not received such genuine applause, nor have they been greated with such a large audience as that of last night on the occasion of the production of Lester Wallack's famous military drama "Rosedale, or the Rifle Ball." Miss Ida Van Cortland, as "Rosa Leigh," was charming. She acted the character in a manner that made it true to life, her grief at the loss of the kidnapped little boy, and the sudden outburst of joy at his unexpected rescue by Elliott Gray and his corps of guards, being alike a decidedly well-performed and difficult piece of stage performance. Mr. Wilson Day, as the cool, calculating young English captain of the guards, impersonated the character of "Elliott Gray" to perfection. This character throughout the whole drama was most fascinating—the audiences following each move and jesture of the gallant young captain with anxious impatience and excitement. Especially where he most distinguished himself, was at the scene of the gipsy camp fire, when disguised as "Coll, the crack," he rescued the abducted child at the point of the bayonet, and eventually restores it to the sorrowing mother. The part of "Miles M'Kenna" was acted with a specially good effect by Mr. Albert Tavernier, who played the villain in a manner that proved him a clever actor. Little Annie Bird, although by far the smallest individual in the company, being only eight years old, is by no means the least in effect. Her character of "Arthur May" was really good, and astonished the large audience. Her rendition of the songs "Please open your door," and in res onse to an encore "Hush-a-bye baby" would have done credit to many with years of experience to back them. Mr. Harry Sargent created much amusement by his acting in the funny and odd character of "Bunberry Kobb." This evening "The Danites" will be presented, when, no doubt, they will again be greeted with a crowded house.

Remember the sweeping reduction now being offered on all Winter Underclothing at A. McNeil's.

Price of Wheat.

Wheat has advanced a half cent at Chicago to-day.

Legal.

The following report of a local case is given in the Toronto papers.—

COWITT v. O'CONNOR.—Judgment. Defendants' motion absolute for a new trial unless plaintiff consent to reduce his verdict for $200. G. H. Watson for the motion. G. T. Blackstock contra.

Chit Chat.

—Somebody should stop the disgraceful uproar made in the Opera House every night by rowdies in the back seats.

—Make a note of it: Telephone communication all over town with Connors Bros., Tip Top Livery.

Keep Your Ears Covered.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Fresh westerly winds, decreasing in force; fair, cold weather; temperature will fall to zero to-night; continued cold for Wednesday.

Photography.

The photographers of Peterborough recently held a meeting the result of which is that Mrs. Esterbrook and Mr. G. B. Sproule have announced their intention of reducing their charges on certain classes of work, for instances on cabinet photos. This was unanimously agreed to be the best course, as the leading houses in Toronto had reduced their prices.

Music on the Market.

At about two o'clock on the afternoon of Christmas Day the City Band will give an open air concert on the market square. The programme will be as follows:—

Quickstep—General Harrison ..... Lichtenberger
Overture—Zethus ..... Pettee
Waltz—Ida May ..... Pettee
Overture—Crown of Victory ..... Ripley
Quickstep—Oswego Guards ..... Lichtenberger
Andante and Galop—Dandy ..... Pettee
God Save the Queen.

Good Things Galore.

Uncle John—who keeps the store of cheap goods, you know—is still alive and in a hurry to sell off all of his goods. Any price will be taken for them, and there will be no reserve. You can get an overcoat, or a bucksaw, to keep you warm, or a valise to carry presents in, and if you can get away with the watch and chain you can take it. Do not forget where Uncle John lives—on Water street, opposite Cavanagh's Hotel. An oyster supper will be given on New Year's Eve after the drawing. Yum, yum!

Apologetic.

Mr. R. Sailsbury, on behalf of Messrs. Sailsbury Bros., wishes to apologize to his patrons for the non-appearance of his holiday announcement. But the fact of the matter is, he has not had time to draft out an advertisement. All the live-long day the bookstore is crowded with purchasers. It is now a common saying in commercial circles that "Sailsbury leads the book trade." The success of Sailsbury Bros. is due chiefly to the tasteful arrangement of the goods and the well-selected stock which is carried. Mr. R. Sailsbury, who is in charge of the business, evidently understands it in all its branches. In buying Christmas presents don't forget to call.

The most extensive range of Cardigan Jackets can be found at Andrew McNeil's.

Fell from a Scaffold.

While Geo. Distant, a painter, was engaged in working at St. Paul's Church on Monday, he met with a very painful and serious accident. As he stood on a scaffold twenty feet high plying his brush, a part of the scaffold gave way and he fell to the floor beneath, which was covered with rubbish. His back struck the floor violently, and it was feared by his fellow workmen that he had been killed. But he had happily struck some object in his descent which broke the fall to a considerable extent. He was conveyed to his home at the south part of George Street, and medical attendance was procured. It was found that no bones were broken, but that the shock on the whole frame was so great as to produce a violent fever. Dr. Kincaid was the surgeon in attendance.

Home for the Holidays.

As the Christmas season comes around each year it invariably brings with it numbers of Peterborough people from various parts of the country. No doubt they enjoy being in the old town even for the brief holiday season. Among those who have recently arrived in town for the purpose of spending their holidays we notice Messrs. Maxwell Dennistoun and Maxwell Hamilton. They have both been attending Queen's College, Kingston. Mr. Harold Morrow, who has been attending the Military College, Kingston, is also in town. Messrs. Jas. Delaney and Wm. Delaney have been in town the for the past few days. The former has been for the past two years in Montana, U. S., and the latter has been in attendance at St. Michael's College, Toronto. Mr. Alfred Tate will also spend Christmas with his friends and relatives here. He has been for the past two years in New York city.

Back from British Columbia.

"Hallo, William! Glad to see you. Where have you come from?" "Why, I thought you were in British Columbia."

"Well, James, I have just come from there to spend the Christmas holidays."

"How long does it take you?"

"I was six days on the cars from the time I left Victoria—that is, the capital of British Columbia—until I arrived here this morning."

"But you look quite fresh to have been on the cars so long. You must feel very tired."

"Well, you see, James, I went to Roddy's Hotel and slept on one of the Dominion Wire Spring Beds, and I tell you, James, it is the most comfortable rest I ever had. You have no idea how comfortable they are to rest on. I never in my life got up from a bed so refreshed as I did to-day, and before I go to Emily this night I will take two with me. Can you tell me where Belleghem's Furniture establishment is? They say he is the only one that sells them."

"Yes, William; it is down on Hunter street. You will easily find it. It has two electric lights burning at night, and if I am not mistaken there is plate glass windows; but any one will tell you. I bought four there about five months ago, and I tell you I feel like a new man when I get up in the morning, and my sons say they feel better than when they slept on those other common spring beds. I think your sisters will be delighted if you take two out with you. Well, I must bid you good-bye, William, as my wife is waiting in the cutter. I hope you will find Belleghem's. Good-bye."

Reduction in Price of Photographs.

On and after Monday, the 21st December, 1884, and until further notice, the scale of prices in our establishments has been changed. Those now in force we hope will meet Toronto photographers or any one else, as we do not mean to allow our reputation to suffer. We invite the attention of cash customers to this change in prices, hoping to bear out our promises to give the best work at the lowest possible rates.

GEO. B. SPROULE.

To Subscribers of "Picturesque Canada."

We take pleasure in informing subscribers to PICTURESQUE CANADA, that we are prepared to bind the work in various styles, at the lowest possible prices. We make the binding of PICTURESQUE CANADA a specialty, having secured artistic covers and having an experienced binder and gilder, who is prepared to produce the work as it should be. Parties at a distance desiring the work bound can send them to us and we will return to them when bound, paying express charges both ways.

THE REVIEW PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY, (LIMITED.)

The prettiest range of Silk Handkerchiefs, suitable for Christmas Presents, can be found, cheap, at Andrew McNeil's.

Gold Medal Ale.

If you want a glass of Labatt's prize medal fine ale (special brewing) call at W. H. Chamberlain's Parlour Restaurant. This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

Sweet Apple Cider.

We take pleasure in announcing to our numerous patrons and the public generally that we still hold the exclusive agency for the Belleville Cider Works. This Cider needs no comment from us, as the quantity we sold last year is sufficient proof of pureness and delicacy of flavour. CARTON, BROS., opposite Market Square.

A fine assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING, Socks, Scarfs and Ties, Kid Gloves and Mitts, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. J. ERSKINE.

Bass' English Ale.

If you want a delicious glass of Bass' genuine English Ale (October brewing), the proper place to get it is at Chamberlain's Bodega and Restaurant. All our liquors are guaranteed pure and unadulterated. Choice imported and domestic cigars.

A Pointer to Business Men.

Dinner will be served to business men from 12.30 to 2.30 every day at FAUCHER'S Restaurant and Bodega.

Bodega.

Spanish Wines, Portes and Sherries drawn from the wood, at the Parlour Restaurant of W. H. Chamberlain.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

Tom Darcy's Oysters

Are still the "favourites" by long odds. It's the size of them and the way he gets them up that takes. Try a stew or a plate of raws.

A LOT OF BREAKFAST SHAWLS and Clouds, slightly soiled, selling cheap at J. ERSKINE'S.

Cuffs in Silk, Cashmere and Wool, at prices to suit the times. Andrew McNeil, George street.

FARM AND GARDEN.

THE average weight of the carcasses of American cattle is over one-third more than it was fifty years ago.

ALWAYS keep cattle, sheep and hogs ready to sell, and then if a drought comes to the butcher will buy them at a fair price.

THERE is no more promising field in the production of new small fruits than the growing of seedling gooseberries of the American species.

POTATOES, parsnips, carrots, beets, turnips and all roots that suffer from wilting, are best kept in a cold, rather damp, but not a wet cellar, covered with a little straw or litter, or buried in sandy earth.

LET every farmer make a beginning if he only sets out half a half dozen trees along the highway against his land. The honest pride which he and his family will feal as his trees grow, will co-operate with certainty to profit to brace him up in further efforts.

DISEASE among the fowl is almost always the result of mismanagement, no matter how much science may be mixed in as preventive or cures. Cleanliness is of the first importance; next, an abundance of good food always accessible and in variety; also fresh, clear water, summer and winter, where the fowls can get it when desired.

Impracticable.

Judge (to Witness)—Repeat the prisoner's statement to you exactly in his own words. Now what did he say?

Witness—My Lord, he said he stole the pig——"

Judge—Impossible! He couldn't have used the third person.

Witness—My Lord, there was no third person!

Judge—Nonsense! I suppose you mean that he said, 'I stole the pig'?

Witness (shocked)—Oh, My Lord! He never mentioned your Lordship's name!—Punch.

Young Men?—Read This.

The Voltaic Belt Co. of Marshall Mich., offer to send their celebrated Electro-Voltaic Belt and other Electric Appliances on trial for thirty days, to men (young or old) afflicted with nervous debility, loss of vitality and manhood, and all kindred troubles. Also for rheumatism, neuralgia, paralysis, and many other diseases. Complete restoration to health, vigor and manhood guaranteed. No risk is incurred as thirty days trial is allowed. Write them at once for illustrated pamphlet free.

Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free urself of every symptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Answer this Question.

Why do so many people we see around us seem to prefer to suffer and be made miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Coming up of the Food, Yellow Skin, when for 75c. we will sell them Shiloh's Vitalizer, guaranteed to cure them. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Scott's Emulsion of Pur Cod Liver Oil, With Hypophosphites.

Dr. C. T. Bromser, Rochester, N. Y., says: "After having used Scott's Emulsion with decided benefit upon myself, I have taken great pleasure in recommending it since in the various conditions of wasting in which it is indicated."

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

Special Lines at Reduced Rates for the next three weeks.

14 pieces Costume Melton, 10 different shades, at 20 cents per yard.

16 pieces Costume Melton, in 12 different shades, at 25 cents per yard.

12 pieces Foule Dress Goods, in 8 different shades, at 25 cents per yard.

18 pieces All-Wool Cashmere, in 12 shades, at 50 cents. Sold in town at 65 cents.

Black Cashmeres from 25 cents to $2.00 per yard.

Our Finest Cashmeres cannot be surpassed in the large cities.

Dress Goods in all the new designs from 8 cents per yard and upwards.

Dress Goods in all the colours, from 8 cents per yard and upwards. A reduction of ten per cent. is made for the next three weeks in all Fancy Wool Goods.

Ladies should not fail to see our assortment of Velvet Shawls, ranging in price from $2.50 to $9.00.

A Big Purchase of Grey Cottons.

We have just completed a contract for the purchase of fifteen thousand yards of Grey Cottons, which we can sell by the piece at a lower price than the merchants can usually buy it by the bale.

FOR THE HOLIDAY SEASON!

A case of Silk Squares, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Scarfs ex. S. S. Peruvian, will arrive this week and will be sold at astonishingly low prices.

DAILY EVENING REVIEW.

VOL. XII.—No. 149. PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1884. PRICE TWO CENTS

Giroux & Sullivan.

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this eetablishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

We wish you all "A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselve awkwardly on the floor of a ball-room or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

MR. F. A. THOMAS

will give private lessons at the GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL BALL-ROOM, or at the residences of pupils. If Classes are voluntarily formed at private residences, special rates will be given.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier that can be used. It invariably expels all blood poisons from the system, enriches and renews the blood, and restores its vitalizing power. It is the best known remedy for Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin, as also for all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, and Scrofulous Catarrh.

OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

THE CENTRAL IRON WORKS IS IN A VERY FLOURISHING CONDITION.

Mr. W. H. Law, the Proprietor, Makes a Specialty of Bridge Building — The Bridges Manufactured Giving Satisfaction—The "Works" a Veritable Hive of Industry.

What metal is there that is more extensively used and less appreciated than iron? The mass of the people all seem to grasp after gold and silver and each and everyone seem to regard them as more precious and valuable than any other metals. But a thinking mind will at once conclude that the real intrinsic value of iron is ten times more than that of either of the above mentioned metals. Gold and silver, although possessing intrinsic worth, are chiefly used as a commercial medium; any articles of durability and great scarcity would answer just as well. But the chalybean metal is of a different character; no metal could be substituted for it. But for iron, our merchants would be still importing their goods to town via horse and cart as they did some thirty years ago—a locomotive could not be constructed without iron neither could it run on any other rails but steel or iron. Were it not for iron our great and magnificent stretches of water would be traversed by rude and imperfect sailing vessels instead of by rapid and direct steamboats. We would have no axes, no chisels, no saws and scarcely any machinery whatever, but for iron. Were it not for this perhaps most precious of all metals, in crossing our principal rivers we would have to go by way of scows or by way of an ungainly, and anything but beautiful, wooden structures, instead of crossing those spans in which beauty, magnificence, durability and strength rival each other in so equal a degree. In short, the good people would be little more than savages were it not for this so little prized metal.

NOT THE LEAST

among our foundry and machine shops of Peterborough is the Central Iron Works. This establishment was opened out under the above name about three years ago by Messrs. McLean & Brayshaw, but it has grown from its infancy, so to speak, until it is now one of our leading industries.

Mr. W. H. Law, the present proprietor, is a gentleman who has had large experience in the working of iron and in engineering in all its branches. In the year 1864 he was among the staff of engineers selected to determine the route of the Sinde, Punjaub and Delhi Railway, situated in the northern part of another of England's great dependencies, British India. For sixteen years Mr. Law was in various parts of the United States engaged chiefly in the carworks branch of his business. About three years ago he came to this town with the intention of taking charge of a large car works establishment, which it was proposed to erect by means of a joint-stock company. The proposed carworks were to have been built on an extensive scale, covering in all ten acres of ground. A company was formed, and stock to a considerable amount was subscribed, and measures were taken to secure the necessary land on which to build. Unfortunately, sufficient stock to carry out the scheme was not subscribed, and the matter was dropped. But so favorably was Mr. Law impressed with the town that he determined on remaining here. After some negotiation he purchased the Central Iron Works from Messrs. McLean & Brayshaw, and he commenced at once to add new and improved machinery. Since the advent of Mr. Law to the proprietorship of the Central Iron Works, it has had a steady growth—in its size, reputation, and quantity of machinery.

THE PRODUCTS

of these works are composed of boilers, engines, rotary pumps, piston pumps, plunger pumps, improved pulp grinders, wet machines, (used in pulp making), paper machines, Law's patent hydrants, Law's patent power hammers, Stubbs' slutz wheel scrapers, travelling cranes and hoists, and ornamental fencing and cresting. But the specialties of the Central Iron Works are bridges and iron roofing. For the past few months the principal work of the foundry has been in the iron bridge line. Mr. Law has had placed in position a very handsome bridge across Pigeon Creek, which runs through the village of Omemee, in the county of Victoria. Not long since, the bridge was inspected by the Council of the County of Victoria, in the presence of their engineer. They all pronounced the bridge to be of a first-class character, both as to quality of material and as to finish. It cost $1,500. Two bridges are now in course of construction at the Central Iron Works. About eight years ago it was proposed to build a bridge across the river Trent, at the village of Campbellford. The bridge was to have had six spans, but only four were completed, the other two wooden ones having been left to do service. Some time ago Mr. Law received an order to complete the bridge, and in accordance with the order he manufactured two additional spans, one of 90 feet and the other of 40 feet. The roadway is 18 feet wide, and two sidewalks are on each side of the roadway, each 5 feet wide. One of the spans is now up, and the other will shortly be ready for shipment. The bridge for the spanning of the creek on Hunter street is now partially built. This bridge will consist of seven main girders and twelve intermediate girders. The iron for this bridge is of an extra fine quality, and has been imported especially for the purpose. The total weight of the iron work will be about forty-eight thousand pounds, and it will cost about $2,300.

NEW MACHINERY.

Mr. Law has of late introduced into his works some very expensive and serviceable machinery Among other machines is a ponderous and powerful plate and bar punch, used for punching holes in heavy iron plate and in iron bars. A new horizontal flange punch is also noticeable. A bending and straightening machine used for bending and straightening iron plates or bars which will not yield to the hammer, has also been introduced at a recent date. All this new machinery is specially adapted for bridge building.

THE WORKS.

are situated on Simcoe street. They consist of two solid bridge buildings, one two stories high and the other one story high. The main building has a frontage of 70 feet and a depth of 35 feet. The foundry building is 70 x 33. The second story of the main building is used for a machine shop for light work and for pattern making. The first story is used exclusively for the manufacture of heavy machinery. At the east end of the main building is a neat little office, 10 x 18. A telephone hangs on the wall having communication with nearly all the principal business houses and factories in the town.

THE PROSPECT.

The Central Iron Works are filled with busy hands from daylight until dark. There is abundance of work and vigorous workers. It is in reality a hive of industry. The work that these works have turned out is said to be much superior to that of either the Hamilton or Toronto bridge companies. The people seemed pleased who have received the products of these works, and give the most assuring promises of continuance of patronage. It is just possible that ere long we will have a "Peterborough Bridge Works."

KEENE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

L. C. CONVENTION.—Those who went to the Convention in Toronto last week were well pleased, and returned home with a feeling of satisfaction at the progress of the party.

BAND CONCERT.—Owing to the very severe cold on last Friday night the band concert was not as well attended as it ought to have been. We hope the band will have better luck next time. The officers for the next years are as follows:—President, Mr. R. B. McIntyre; Vice-President, Wm. Wedlock; Secretary, B. M. Wylie; Treasurer, Jas. McIntyre; Committee, P. McFarlane and Jas. Brice, with the officers above named. We ought to be proud of our band's improvement lately.

RINK.—The rink will, it is expected, be in fine condition after Thursday morning, Dec. 25th.

R. B. PRECEPTORY.—The regular meeting of the above will be held on Friday evening next, Dec. 26th.

MASONIC.—Keene lodge, 374, G. R. C., will meet on Saturday evening next, St. John's Day, in the Masonic hall, for installations of officers.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. W. J. Campbell, who has been teaching the Keene school for over two years, was presented with a handsome writing desk by his pupils as a slight token of their esteem. We learn with pleasure that Mr. Campbell has received the appointment as teacher at the Mather's Corners' school, so that we will see him occasionally.

WEDDING AND PARTIES.—There seems to be a boom in weddings and parties at present, averaging about three or four, perhaps, of each and every week.

NOMINATION.—A large number of the electors are expected to be present to nominate councillors for the ensuing year.

LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Corresponden.

PERSONAL.—Mr. G. H. Marsh returned to Lakefield last week to spend a few days, and on Sunday, Dec. 21st, held two meetings in the P. C. A. Hall, which were well attended. In the afternoon Mr. Marsh gave a stirring address on the text, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation," and in the evening he gave a most interesting account of his work in the navvies camps on the C. P. R., North Shore of Lake Superior. There he found men of every nationality—the very scum of the earth—whom no church could ever reach, who, though from the nature of their work, living in constant danger of their lives, lived as though there were no hereafter. These men welcomed him among them, and though he labored in their midst for nine weeks, distributing Gospel books and preaching to them, he never once received an angry look or a cross word, and he was the means of converting many to God. He hopes soon (D.V.) to be sent by the Canadian Evangelization Society, of which he is a member, to another part of the line to carry on this much needed work among the navvies.

VICTIMS OF ESCAPING GAS.

Two Girls Asphyxiated in the American Hotel on Sunday Night.

A sad case of asphyxiation occurred at the American Hotel, Toronto, on Sunday night, resulting in the death of one young woman, while the other is suffering so severely from the effects of the suffocation that at present serious doubts exist as to the probability of her survival. Kate O'Brien and Mary Harrington, two employees of the hotel, engaged in the laundry department, on Sunday night at the usual time retired to the room which they jointly occupied. On Monday morning the housekeeper of the establishment, noticing their absence at about nine o'clock, told a fellow servant to go to their room and ascertain what had delayed them. Repeated knocking at the door failed to elicit a reply, and the girl, becoming alarmed, informed Mr. Mackie, the proprietor of the hotel, of the circumstances. Mr. Mackie at once proceeded to break open the door, and upon entering the room a terrible sight met his gaze. The two unfortunate young women were lying unconscious on the bed, their faces blackened and distorted by asphyxiation, while room was filled with the fatal gas. Doctors Thornburn and Riordan were at once sent for, and adopted restorative treatment, but in the case of Kate O'Brien it was without avail, the poor girl being quite dead. Mary Hrrington was still breathing, and through the incessant care of the medical men who were called in is still living, but there are grave doubts as to whether she will ever recover. Both girls were experienced hotel employees, and throughly understood the nature of gas and gas fixtures, and as the burner had a stopcock on it is thought that the accident occurred in the following manner:—After turning the tap off the girls had accidentally turned it on again by handing a toilet bag, the strings of which were suspended on the gas fixture. Dr. Riordan and Dr. Thornburn on being called in examined the gas fixture and are of the opinion that the accident was occasioned in this manner. Both the young women had been for several years employed at the hotel. The deceased girl has a married sister living in the city, while Mary Harrington has a brother here. Coroners Duncan and Johnston were communicated with, but as Dr. Thorburn was satisfied as to the manner in which the sad fatality was caused, an inquest was not deemed necessary. The Sisters of Mercy have temporarily taken charge of the body of the deceased young women.—Globe.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

ONCE more we are on the eve of the great festival of Christendom—the chief holiday of the civilized world. Before we again meet the eye of our readers another Christmas will be past and gone with all its pleasures, its reminiscenses, its good fellowship, and kindly feelings. Old friends will have met and revived the memory of old times; those between whom differences has arisen will have yielded to the peaceful influence of the season and renewed their transiently interrupted friendship; joyous family reunions will have been held; and hospitality, blessing both the giver and the receiver, will have been exercised.

Upon the religious aspect of the Christmas season, we, as secular journalists are not called to dwell. This is a matter between each man and his conscience, but it lies at the foundation of all the special character of this holiday, so far as it realizes the old message of "Peace on earth, good will to men." Socially such an epoch is of the greatest value; men's thoughts, too generally engrossed in the struggle of life, the competition for business, and the acquisition of money, are for a time at least turned into more genial channels. It is well that this should be so, and that a more brotherly feeling should prevail.

At this season of rejoicing and kindly feeling we would be loath to let the opportunity pass without acknowledgement to our friends for their support during the past year. Our labours in their behalf have not been wearisome, because they have been appreciated. With the kindliest feeling we wish to all our readers a

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

ANY young lady sending us five new subscribers will have the News-Letter for a year and we will get her a good husband into the bargain. Orillia News-Letter.

That offer beats all! We have heard of chromos, engravings, books on horses and such things being thrown in with a paper, and offered as prizes, but a husband—well, that is ahead of pewter watches! But how is the editor of the paper going to manage it, if he gets a number of responses to his offer? Is he going to establish a new Salt Lake City in Orillia, or has he got a chattle mortgage on the young men of that town? The young ladies should have a thorough understanding with him on the subject before they accept the proposal.

WE have received several Christmas numbers issued from the offices of contemporaries, and some of them have been very neatly got up and printed. But we think the Woodville Advocate has, so far as we have seen, issued the neatest of these special numbers. It is in magazine shape, with illuminated cover and contains sixteen pages, exclusive of the covers. It is, indeed, a credit to that establishment.

A HINT FOR CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

To the Editor of the Review.

MR. EDITOR,—At a time when so many are puzzling themselves as to what they shall get for Christmas presents for their friends, let me mention something that is within the reach of all, and which will be a continued source of pleasure throughout the year. A ticket for the Mechanics' Institute gives good reading for the year, with access to the illustrated papers, magazines and news papers, and the cost of the tickets is reduced when two or more members in the family have them, and every ticket bought helps on one of our best public institutions.

GAS EXPLOSIONS.

Many Persons Killed and Buildings Destroyed in Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 21.—Natural gas has been playing sad havoc in different places in western Pennsylvania within the last twenty-four hours. Reports of explosions attended with fatal and serious results, have been received from Butler and Washington, while in this city a building occupied as a grocery store was completely demolished this evening by an explosion.

At Washington, Pa., the residence of Wm. Rabe was partly wrecked, and Rabe and his wife and child injured so badly that all have since died. Mrs. Rabe arose in the night and went into the cellar with a lighted candle, when the explosion occurred. The excitement in Washington is intense, as many people have natural gas in their houses.

An explosion at Butler occurred this morning nearly ending in a terrible disaster. The tin brick residence of John Gates was entirely demolished, and the family, consisting of Gates, his wife, and four children, all grown up, were buried in the ruins. The entire family was rescued, all more or less severely hurt. They retired at ten o'clock, and two hours later Winnie, a daughter aged 20, awoke and noticed a tiny blue flame playing on the hearthstone. She put it out and then called her brother, who, with a light went to the cellar to investigate. He had no sooner opened the door than a terrific explosion followed, and the building was razed to the foundations, and came down a mass of ruins. People living a quarter of a mile away felt the shock, and in a short time willing hands were at work trying to save the lives of six human beings known to have been in the building at the time of the explosion. The first taken out was Leonard, aged 26. He was painfully bruised, and is thought to have sustained internal injuries. John Gales, jr., was next found, badly burned about the face, neck, and arms. Mr. and Mrs. Gates escaped with severe bruises, and their daughters were found in the coal vault uninjured. The escape of all from instant death is miraculous.

At Kittanning, Pa., an explosion occurred in the Worthington lampblack factory last night, shattering the building and seriously injuring eleven men, four fatally. The force of the explosion carried portions of the building several hundred feet.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

NO DOUBT OF IT.

The country is greatly indebted to the man who has devoted to its services 40 years of his life.—Toronto Telegram (Indep.)

JUST SO.

The indignation of the Reform party at the alleged disloyalty of the tariff is only equalled by its indignation when a Canadian expresses loyal sentiments.—Mail.

THE FRIEND OF THE POOR MAN.

Sir Leonard Tilley has been oppressing the "poor man" again. It appears that under Cartwright champagne paid a duty of only $2.18 per dozen; under Sir Leonard Tilley's tariff the duty is $4.50 per dozen. Under Sir Leonard the tax on wine has been increased from 48 to 65 cents per gallon; upon imported spirits the tax has increased from $1.20 to $1.36 per gallon, and upon whiskey from 75 cents to $1 a gallon. Sir Leonard has not only increased the taxes upon the poor man's champagne, etc., but he has added insult to injury by taking the taxes off tea, which, according to his opponent, is a luxury. Sir Richard Cartwright, at the present rate of consumption, would have got over a million dollars out of the tea duties; under Sir Leonard tea is free. All of which goes to prove that Sir Leonard is the enemy of the poor man; Sir Richard his friend.—Moncton (N.B.) Times.

CANADA'S GREAT STATESMAN.

Sir John Macdonald is deserving of congratulatory addresses from all parts of the Dominion. Not only has he shown himself to be the greatest statesman and leader of men Canada ever produced, but stands on an equal footing with Gladstone and Bismarck, although his field of operations is much more circumscribed. The marked attention shown the Canadian Premier, by royalty and the nobility of England, clearly demonstrates in what esteem he is held. Aside from any party feelings, the people of Canada should unite in tendering the old warrior all credit and honor due him for his manifold services to the country.—Port Arthur Herald (Ind. Ref.)

AN ORGAN AT FAULT.

For contorting and perverting facts, the Toronto Globe excels. In speaking of the proceedings of a meeting of the Farmer's Union held in Winnipeg recently, the Globe leads its readers to believe that the people of Manitoba are in a more serious state of political agitation than they were last winter, and are threatening to overwhelm the Government by physical force. It may seem peculiar to the Globe, but the people of the country are not yet aware that such a state of affairs exists, and for the Globe's information we will state that from a political point of view, the people of this province have not been in such a peaceful state for the past two years. The Globe also stated that at the meeting "it was urged that the political rights of the people were still being sacrificed to the exigencies of eastern politicians." If such is the case it was urged by the men who, like the Globe, would, and are, sacrificing the welfare of the country both politically and commercially for their party. The Grit organs that look to the Globe for political guidance will be sadly misled.—Portage la Prairie (Man.) Tribune.

IMMIGRATION.

In five years the Mackenzie government spent $1,541,000 to promote immigration, whereas the present government has spent but $1,337,000 in five years.—Hamilton Spectator.

CANADA'S DEBT TO SIR JOHN.

That on the whole his influence on the country has been beneficial rather than injurious and that Canada owes him more than it will ever pay him. This much the candid journalist would say of Sir John Macdonald dead; it may, we think, with as much propriety be said of Sir John Macdonald living.—Montreal Herald (Reform).

ENTERTAINMENT AND PRESENTATION.—On Friday evening last a large number of the parents and friends of the pupils of the Auburn School assembled to witness the closing exercises. An entertainment consisting of readings, recitations, dialogues and singing was given, by the pupils in which each one acquitted themselves in a satisfactory manner. At the conclusion of the entertainment a very pleasing event took place, when Miss Chrew was presented with a beautiful plush album and a perfume case, accompanied by an address. The address was read by Miss Ella Burke and the presentation made by Miss Ada Curtis, on behalf of the pupils of the school, to which a reply was made in suitable terms. Then followed the distribution of prizes off a Christmas tree, which was laden with suitable gifts. Special prizes were awarded for regular attendance, carried off by Miss Maggie Moffat and Miss Maudie Tully. Brief addresses were delivered by the Trustees, after which the evening's entertainment was brought to a close by singing "God Save the Queen."

A Sense of Honor.

There is little doubt that the thing which most needs to be breached to this generation of Americans, by the ministers of the Gospel, by both clerical and lay instructors of the youth, by all who have public influence or private authority, is a sense of honor. It must be shown and insisted upon that every position in life where one person is employed by an other to do a certain work imposes an obligation to fulfill the duties of the place with an honorable and disinterested regard for the interests of the employer. It must be shown that this view of employment applies to the cook, the errand boy, the cashier, the legislator, the governor, the president. This is a trite and apparently simple and perhaps somewhat stupid view of the opportunities of a "smart" and ambitious young American of our day, but unless this commonplace view of responsibility is laid hold of by increasing numbers in the future of our country we will not say that our society will go to pieces, but we will say that our calamities will increase and that we will get into troubles and not soon get out of them, compared with which the danger and distress of the past will seem almost insignificant.—Century.

Dry Goods!

FOR ONE MONTH AT

T. KELLY'S

Corner of Simcoe and George Street, Peterborough.

We respectfully direct attention to the above announcement, and have to say that in consequence of the general appearance of trade, the near approach of a seemingly dull winter, and the fact of having an enormous Stock—one of the Largest—in fact too large, we have determined to commence a great bona-fide Cheap Sale on SATURDAY NEXT, AND CONTINUE FOR ONE MONTH. Surplus Stock will not be carried over, no matter what the sacrifice. The prices will tell, and the Goods will move out quickly as they must be sold. In order to make this Sale a Grand Success, we have decided to make the reductions on the whole stock. The Reductions will be general, and not confined to a few leading articles.

BARGAINS IN SILKS,
BARGAINS IN DRESS GOODS,
BARGAINS IN HOSIERY,

A CANADIAN CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY CHIEF JUSTICE HAGARTY.

No shepherds in the field to-night, no flock upon the wold,
Thro' the shivering forest branches moans the north blast fierce and cold,
But gloriously the white stars gleam as on that holy even,
When the herald Angels' chorus swelled thro' the soft Judean heaven.

Oh earth! the white shroud wraps thee, now in death's cold clasp thou art,
Thy tears, thy music bound alike in the ice-chain on thy heart;
So long the darken'd world of sin when the angels spread abroad
The glorious tale of the Virgin-Born—the birth of Incarnate God!

Melt, melt, oh cold and stormy heart! even as the ice bonds shiver,
When Spring breathes soft on the frozen wood; when warm winds loose the river,
The Angel-vision sheds on thee its glory's softening ray—
The Angel-song is for thine ear, "A Saviour's born to-day."

Morn on the sparkling wilds of snow, morn on the frozen west,
The holy chimes float musical o'er the deep wood's solemn breast;
And the winter sun plays cheerily on the wealth of the bright green wreaths
When thro' the lowly forest shrine a spring-like freshness breathes.

Frail monitors! your verdure speaks all eloquently bright,
Of a lustrous summer morn to break on life's long wintry night—
Of the waving palms—the crystal streams—the everlasting flowers,
Beyond the jasper battlements, by the Golden City's towers!

Let the wild wind sweep the snow without—within be joy and mirth,
Let happy households cheerily meet around the Christmas hearth!
One welcome pledge must circle round—"Be happy hearts and smiles
To all we love in the forest land! to all in our parent isles!"

The Christian hearth! Ah pleasant spot where joyful kindred meet,
Kind eyes with love and gladness lit, scarce mark the vacant seat;
And if too faithfully memory turn to mourn the loved, the fair,
Look up—the Shepherd's star in heaven—the lost one waits thee there.

Wake thy ten thousand voices, Earth! out-pour thy floods of praise—
Up to the crystal gates of morn the deep Hosanna's praise!
Till heavenward wafted, seraph-winged they pierce the illumed zone,
Where the Church Triumphant's anthem floats round the Everlasting Throne.

THE CHRISTMAS FAIRIES

Aunt Ruth sat thinking. It was only a week before Christmas, and as yet no gift had been decided upon for her pet niece, who lived in a distant city.

It was hard to know what to give Bessie—she seemed so well supplied with everything a little girl could want for comfort or pleasure. She was such a good child, and so unselfish, that her friends, young and old, were always sending her some pretty trinket, until her own room was a kind of museum of love-tokens; every corner was full, her bureau loaded, the table covered and the walls adorned; in fact, it had almost become a proverb in the family that "Whatever Bessie wished for always came."

Now she was ten years old, had declared herself tired of Christmas trees, and announced that to hang up a stocking for Santa Claus to fill was too childish—she should like to keep Christmas some new way. This was what Aunt Ruth was puzzling over. At last, with a look of relief she exclaimed, "I have an idea! I know it will please her."

She immediately went to her writing-desk, wrote a long letter to Bessie's mamma, and folded into it a crisp bank-note.

On Christmas morning Bessie opened her eyes upon a bright new silver quarter which lay on her pillow. Beside it was a tiny letter. She opened it and read:

DEAR BESSIE,—I am one of fifteen silver fairies which are to appear to you to-day, with a Christmas greeting from your Aunt Ruth. Take us all together down to some big store to-morrow, and we will turn into whatever small thing you may wish for."

"Oh, how nice!" said Bessie. "What a funny auntie! always doing something different from other people. I don't quite understand what it all means, but I am glad enough of this bit of spending money, for I hadn't one cent left."

And, wide awake, she jumped out of bed and began pulling on her stockings, when, to her surprise and delight she found a shining piece of silver in the foot of each. Two of Aunt Ruth's fairies had taken possession of her shoes, another faced her in the wash-bowl, and a wee one was in the box beside her brush and comb.

"These will almost fill my poor little empty purse," she thought, as she took it from a drawer and touched the spring—but there, right between the rendering, was the biggest fairy that had yet appeared.

Such a merry time as she had dressing that morning! Mamma was called in continually. And how they laughed over every fresh discovery!

At breakfast she was served first to a small piece of silver coin! another, just the same size shone in the glass of water Bridget brought her. It was really enchanting—quite like the story of the Midas she had been reading about, only whatever he touched turned into gold. She wondered if the chicken, potatoes and rolls would turn into silver when she tasted it; but no. Although she looked very suspiciously at everything on the table not another fairy showed itself.

How many times that morning she counted her ten silver fairies, I cannot tell. But what fun she had hunting after the other five, up stairs, from attic to cellar, under rugs, in work-baskets, and in every conceivable place! Searching was all in vain, however; fairy number eleven did not appear until dinner time, when it flew out, most unexpectedly, as Bessie was unrolling her napkin, and its silver mate lay temptingly among the nuts and raisins.

Bessie spent a happy afternoon sitting in the midst of her many presents and planning how to spend her little fortune. Some of her fairy pieces should turn into a pair of warm mittens for poor Johnie Davis; many times had it made her heart ache as she had watched him trying to shovel snow with such red hands. She would carry a basket full of fairy cakes, frosted with pink and white sugar, to old colored Susan (she had overheard her telling the cook that it was many a long day since she had tasted anything nice); she would change her biggest fairy into a pretty doll for that distressed looking crippled girl who lived around in the alley, and would carry out many other plans of the same sort.

But Mamma was calling her to get ready for a walk, and, rather reluctantly, she turned away from her new treasures to put on her wrappings, and felt in the pocket of her cloak for her gloves. They were missing, but there she found a fairy, and another came sticking out from the bow on her hat, in a most comical fashion.

That night, at supper, a little cake was placed before Bessie's plate, and fairy fourteen came near being eaten, but peeped into sight just in time to be saved from such a fate. How pleasantly and quickly the evening passed! All the new things had to be looked at and admired over again. There was one more hunt after the fairy that had not made its appearance; it was unsuccessful, however, and bed time, that dread of children came at last. It was strange, (for Bessie had ransacked her room five minutes before), but there, quietly resting on the snowy pillow, lay the last of Aunt Ruth's fairies!

While she was undressing, Mamma explained all the mysteries of the day by reading her Aunt Ruth's letter, in which full directions had been given. Then she told how papa had changed the paper money into the newest and brightest coins he could find, and how busy she had been hiding them, as Auntie had suggested, and how successfully she had escaped being caught.

"Well, Mamma, it's the merriest Christmas Day I ever knew! I like all my presents very much, but I think I have enjoyed my fairies the most. I know what I shall do to-morrow. I have got it all planned. Some other people shall see fairies too."

And thanking her Heavenly Father for all his good gifts, Bessie tucked the crowded purse under her pillow, lay down, and was soon fast asleep.

Early next morning with mamma to help and advise, Bessie started out on her pleasant errands of love; and the silver fairies disappeared rapidly into all kinds of the oddest shaped parcels, until Bessie's big basket was full, and her arms too. Such fun she had distributing her fairy bundles, and such looks and words of gratitude as she received in return! "Why, it's nicer than my Christmas, Mamma," she whispered, as she turned to leave the poor little cripple, whom she had made so happy by giving her the first doll she ever owned.

So, many sad hearts were made glad that day, and the whole long year, by Aunt Ruth's Christmas fairies.—M. E. K., in the Christmas St. Nicholas.

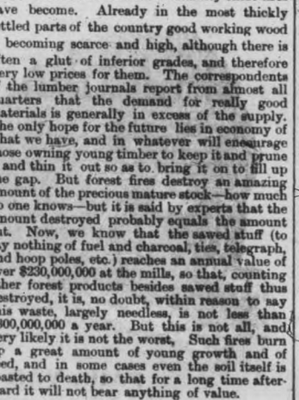
RESULTS OF FOREST FIRES.

An exchange, speaking of the peculiarly destructive nature of forest fires, thinks few people realize how serious a calamity these fires have become. Already in the most thickly settled parts of the country good working wood is becoming scarce and high, although there is often a glut of inferior grades, and therefore very low prices for them. The correspondents of the lumber journals report from almost all quarters that the demand for really good materials is generally in excess of the supply. The only hope for the future lies in economy of what we have, and in whatever will encourage those owning young timber to keep it and prune it and thin it out so as to bring it on to fill up the gap. But forest fires destroy an amazing amount of the precious mature stock—how much no one knows—but it is said by experts that the amount destroyed probably equals the amount cut. Now, we know that the sawed stuff (to say nothing of fuel and charcoal, ties, telegraph, and hoop poles, etc.) reaches an annual value of over $250,000,000 at the mills, so that, counting other forest products besides sawed stuff thus destroyed, it is, no doubt, within reason to say this waste, largely needless, is not less than $300,000,000 a year. But this is not all, and very likely it is not the worst. Such fires burn up a great amount of young growth and of seed, and in some cases even the soil itself is roasted to death, so that for a long time afterward it will not bear anything of value.



The Trade in Wooden Shoes.

A factory has just been opened at Danbury, Conn., for the manufacture of wooden shoes. The proprietor is a German, and for some time has supplied the brewers in New York with wooden shoes for their employes, and the demand has become so extensive as to require much greater facilities and the aid of steam power. The shoes have the improved curved round toe of the old Dutch style and are heelless. They are made wholly of the wood of the butternut tree, and while impervious to water are also very light. They have been introduced into all the hat shops for the protection of the feet of operatives from the wet floors while at the same time they are very easy and rest the feet.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Tavernier's Dramatic Co.

Remember the two great performances in the Opera House on Christmas Day. At 2 p. m. "The Banker's Daughter" will be presented, and in the evening Dion Boucicault's charming drama, "Led Astray." Prices 10c. and 20c.

The Opening Event.

Don't forget the grand fancy dress carnival at the Skating Rink on Charlotte street on Friday evening, the 26th inst. The Brass Band will be in attendance. The Rink will be brilliantly illuminated with six electric lights and there will be a curling match between the Peterborough and the celebrated Lindsay Club. For particulars see large posters.

Upset From a Sleigh.

While Mr. Archie Morton was driving the delivery sleigh of the Town Clock grocery down Water street on Tuesday evening, by some means the horse became frightened and ran violently southward. When opposite the Ontario Bank the sleigh upset, and the driver was thrown to the ground. He was not hurt, however, to a great extent and soon recovered from the effects of the fall.

An Item for Merchants.

Do you want to keep your goods over? Or do you prefer to sell them? Probably the latter is the case; if so, lose no time in sending in an advertisement to the REVIEW Office of the articles you have to dispose of. It will pay you to do so, as it is now paying scores of others. Everyone must buy presents during the holiday season, either for relatives or friends, and all they want to know is what to get and where to get it!

The most extensive range of Cardigan Jackets can be found at Andrew McNeil's.

Hello! Some Christmas Beef.

Mr. Harry Winch, with his push enterprise, and business tact, is leaving no stone unturned to make his establishment complete in all its departments. The latest improvement he has made is that of introducing a telephone into his stall. Those who are connected with the telephone system may now order their meats without leaving their homes. Mr. Winch this year has made a "big push" in the meat line, and his exhibit is well worth being seen. If you can't get down to the market to see it, ring your telephone and secure a piece of his excellent beef.

"The Danites."

On Tuesday evening the Tavernier Dramatic Company gave a second representation of "The Danites" as satisfactory as last week, and to a full house. Miss Ida Van Cortland acted with much pathos the part of the unfortunate Nancy Williams and the still more unhappy Billy Piper. Sandy McGee was ably impersonated by Mr. Wilson Day; Mr. J. P. Endus was excellent as "The Parson," and Mr. A. Tavernier as "The Judge." The minor parts were also well filled. Little Annie Bird, the wonderful child actress, charmed the audience both in her part of George Williams, and by her songs between the acts. It was announced that "Forget-Me-Not" would be played to-night, followed by a laughable farce; that there would be two performances on Christmas Day at 2 and 8 o'clock, and that for Miss Ida Van Cortland's benefit on Friday "Hazel Kirke" would be performed.

The finest range of Socks in Peterborough can be found at "Habilliment Hall."

Mr. Wainwright's Display.

Mr. Robt. Wainwright, butcher, is always determined to keep up with the times. He has recently moved half a block southward on George street, and now occupies very convenient premises. He has introduced electric light into his shop, and intends shortly to have a telephone placed in his shop also. His most display this year is an excellent one. The following animals have been dressed under his personal supervision:—1 cow from Wm. Collins, Monaghan; 1 cow from Wm. Taylor, Douro; 1 cow from Wm. A. Hall, Smith; 1 heifer from Mark Curtis, Douro; a pair of heifers from John Garbutt, Smith; 4 cattle from Wm. Crough, Ennismore; several hogs from John Ludgate, Ashburnham; a 550 lb hog from T. Hall, Smith; a number of sheep from George Ward, Harvey; T. E. Fitzgerald, Smith; and T. Hall, Smith; and several lambs from W. A. Hall, Smith. Mr. Wainwright has also on hand a quantity of venison, sausage and fancy meats of different descriptions.

"Our Girls" are coming out, and "don't you forgot it." Quirk & Co. are bringing them out.

THE SKATING AND CURLING RINK.

A Large Building Erected in a More Convenient Spot—Very Complete.

Early in the fall a movement was set on foot to have the old skating rink moved to a more convenient place for the majority of the skaters and curlers. After some time a very desirable lot on Charlotte street was secured, and preparations were made for the removal of the large building.

At first it was the intention of the directors to have the rink simply veneered with brick, but on more mature consideration it was decided, although it cost more than twice the amount of money, to have the walls built of solid brick.

About two months ago Mr. David Gamble was awarded the contract of taking down, moving, and placing in position on Charlotte Street, the skating rink. This work, as well as the additions built, was expeditiously done, and Mr. J. J. Hartley, the contractor for the brickwork commenced work. On Monday night it was, to the delight of lovers of skating and curling, opened to the public.

The building is 193 feet long, and 103 feet wide. There are four rinks; three mirrors of ice used for curling, and one rink, 49x160, used for skating. The curling rinks are, from post to post, each 18 feet wide and stretch the same length as the skating rink. An additional at the east side makes the building 18 feet wider than the old one. This new addition is 15 feet high and stretches the entire length of the building.

On entering the rink from the south side the visitor steps up a short stairway. At the top on each side are ticket offices. When past the ticket offices two stairways, to the right and to the left, lead to the galleries which run all the way round the rink at a distance of about 14 feet above the ice. Passing the staircases and turning to either the right or the left are suites of dressing rooms; the left side for the gentlemen and the right for the ladies. In front of the dressing rooms, from side to side, runs a platform about 8 feet wide from which lead numerous flights of steps to the various rinks. The curlers have also special rooms for the "Stanes" at either end of the dressing rooms. On the upper flat a chamber for holding the meetings of the company and for other purposes, is now being constructed. On the whole, the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company are to be congratulated on their enterprise; the removal, and the fitting up of the new rink having cost more than $5,000. We are pleased, however, that the people are appreciating the enterprising spirit of the company, and are each evening flocking in large numbers to enjoy the exhilarating sports—curling and skating.

HILLIARD'S FAMILY FLOUR is ahead for bread making. Leave your orders at W. J. Mason's.

Song Service.

A song and praise service will be held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association on Christmas morning, between the hours of 9.45 and 10.45. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Personal.

At the twenty-second annual meeting of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Montreal, held recently, Mr. D. English, brother of Messrs. Wm. and Jas. English, of Peterborough, was elected one of the Editiry Committee of the Society.

Chit Chat.

—Procure your tickets for the Carnival at any of the bookstores.

—PATER FAMILIAS: "Ah, now I have it. I'll buy a season ticket for the Skating Rink for each of my boys and girls. That's about as good a Christmas Box as I can think of at present." Selling like hot cakes this season; ripping good ice, and roaring good fun.

A Fine Piano.

That magnificent piano which has been on exhibition at Hartley's for some time past, made by Heintzman & Co., of Toronto, was purchased by Mr. Robt. Fair, of the firm of Fair, Van-Every & Co., dry goods merchants, George street. The piano is four round, agraffed throughout, three strings to each note, and is encased in rosewood of a magnificent finish. The price paid for this beautiful instrument was $700.

Why Mother, Don't Scold!

"What is the matter with you mother," she said, "you are always grumbling about the furniture. You seem to be afraid that I will pull it all to pieces whenever I go to clean it. Now, if you had bought it at Belleghem's you would not be grumbling like this. I was in his warerooms the other day, and I saw such nice strong furniture, and of such beautiful design, He was only asking about half the price for it it you paid for this. Mother do try to sell this on the market or at some auction sale and go to Belleghems and buy some of his furniture. There will then be no more grumbling and scolding.

AS XMAS is drawing near we all want the best Flours for our holiday dainties. To make sure of it, order some of Hilliard's, at W. J. Mason's.

Business Good.

Our reporter, while strolling around this afternoon, took a look into the bookstore of Messrs. Sailsbury Bros. The shop was filled with customers and the clerks were dealing out the goods with astonishing rapidity. The articles shown seemed to just suit the customers and the result was the bargains were soon closed. During a short cessation of the rush, he asked Mr. Sailsbury how business had been during the past few days. "Business," said the junior member of the firm, "Why at night when I close up I am so tired, that I can hardly drag myself homeward." That's good" said the reporter, as he opened the door and evaporated.

Christmas Dinner.

On Tuesday evening the residence of Mr. G. W. Hall was the scene of a very festive and social gathering. But it different somewhat from the ordinary social gatherings. Mr. Hall had invited all of the employees in his biscuit and candy factory to come to his residence to spend the evening, and they turned out, as may be expected, en masse. Mr. Maxwell Hall, a brother of Mr. Geo. Hall, occupied the chair, and the company of employees sat down to a well spread table. Songs and speeches followed, and a very agreeable evening was spent. Mr. J. Watt ably defended the rights of Winnipeg in a very eleborate speech. When Mr. Hall rose to speak he was listened to by his employees with evident feelings of high esteem. He referred to the prosperous year which both employer and employees had enjoyed and hoped that each would continue to work in the interest of the other. Friendly relations had always existed between them and he was confident that these relations would long continue to exist. He wished his employees, each and all, a very happy and joyous Christmas and New Year. The evening's enjoyement was brought to an end by the singing, in the most hearty manner, "God Save the Queen."

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this eetablishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

*We wish you all "*A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

SELECT NEW YEAR'S ASSEMBLY

MR. F. A. THOMAS,

Dancing to commence at 8.30 o'clock. ☞ TICKETS procurable only from the following Committee:—Messrs. A. Thompson, James McNamara, (at W. A. Sanderson's), and V. Eastwood. ☞ Instructions will be given gratis in the Square Dances. 7d148

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselves awkwardly on the floor of a ball-room or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

MR. F. A. THOMAS

will give private lessons at the GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL BALL-ROOM, or at the residences of pupils. If Classes are voluntarily formed at private residences, special rates will be given.

☞ Communicate to Mr. F. A. Thomas, at the Grand Central by Mail or Telephone. a147

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Is a highly concentrated extract of Sarsaparilla and other blood-purifying roots, combined with Iodide of Potassium and Iron, and is the safest, most reliable, and most economical blood-purifier that can be used. It invariably expels all blood poisons from the system, enriches and renews the blood, and restores its vitalizing power. It is the best known remedy for Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin, as also for all disorders caused by a thin and impoverished, or corrupted, condition of the blood, such as Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, General Debility, and Scrofulous Catarrh.

WARD NO. 3.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR.—I saw it announced in your paper some time ago that Mr John Douglas was not to be a candidate again for muicipal honors. Now sir, although I differ from Mr. Douglas in a great many respects, I am very anxious to see him in our Town Council, as he is one of our solid men, who can always be relied on to cast a conscientious vote without reference to any ring, party or clique, and there are intelligent ratepayers enough in this ward to elect him even without his consent.

Yours, etc.,
NO. 3 WARD.

Peterborough, Dec. 26th 1884.

GEESE.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I was in the Croft House on Christmas eve, and I saw three geese bought from Mrs. Matthew Flemming, which our host had just purchased. Geese! well you bet they were geese—one 15 lbs., one 17 lbs., one 19 lbs. How is that? No. 3 ward, if he were to see them, would be inclined to put license fees up to—well, further than I can imagine.

Yours, etc.,
H. S.

Peterborough, Dec. 26, 1884.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

DECEMBER, 26.—At sunrise this morning the thermometer stood 27° below zero.

The Snow Plough.

The snow plough has again made its appearance on the railroad. After a rest of six or seven months it is again brought out to do duty. On Christmas Day the Grand Trunk morning express drew up to the Bethune street station having attached to it in front the familiar looking article for scooping the "beautiful."

On the Sick List.

We regret to learn that Mr. W. J. Hall has been on the sick list for the last two weeks, which has prevented him from opening out business in the store lately occupied by Mr. Geo. Pope, as announced some time ago. We understand, however, that he has sufficiently recovered to warrant him in hoping to be able to commence business early next week.

Christmas.

The day opened calm, clear and of a temperate temperature. Religious services were held in the various churches in the morning and were well attended. In the afternoon the sun shone brightly and every available cutter and sleigh was brought into use. All was gladness and gaiety on George street, the silver bells jingled out their cheery chimes amid merry peals of laughter and mutual salutations redolent of Christmas.

The Nominations.

The nominations for the Mayor and Councillors for the year 1885 will be held on Monday the 29th December. The nominations for No. 1 Ward will be held at the Mission School House; those for No. 2 Ward, in the Town Council Chamber; those for No. 3 Ward, in Mr. Wm. Yelland's office; and those for No. Ward, in Mr. Wm. Lee's shop. The nominations for school trustees will be held in the same places on the following Wednesday. All the nominations will be held at 12 o'clock noon.

The Bold Burglar.

It seems that Peterborough is not the only place that has been pestered with burglars. On the night of the 21st Dec. the fur store of Mr. H. H. Brix, East Saginaw, Mich., was entered and a large quantity of furs were stolen. The Yankee burglar has a weakness for fur as well as the Canadian. A full list of the furs stolen may be seen at the Police Office. On it is numbered 27 beaver skins, 20 Astrachan caps, a large number of ladies' and gentlemen's seal caps, seal coats, dolmans, etc., etc. Mr. Brix offers $150 reward for the recovery of the goods or for information which will lead to the arrest of the culprits.

Consumption.

Notwithstanding the great number who yearly succumb to this fatal and terrible disease, which is daily winding its fatal coils around thousands who are unconscious of its deadly presence, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will clense the blood of scrofulous impurities and cure tubercular consumption (which is only scrofulous diseases of the lungs). Send three letter stamps and get Dr. Pierce's complete treatise on consumption and kindred affections with numerous testimonials of cures. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo N. Y.

TOKENS OF REGARD.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McKee Receive Handsome Presents on the Eve of Their Departure.

For a considerable number of years, Mr. Alex McKee has been one of the most zealous teachers in the Collegiate Institute. Not long ago he determined upon severing his connection with the above mentioned school. He having been offered the Head Mastership of the Uxbridge public schools. While in the capacity of teacher in Peterborough, Mr. McKee has won the love and respect of his pupils as the following lines will amply show.

At shortly after seven o'clock on Christmas Eve, a number of his pupils came flocking into his residence and ere long two handsome chairs, one a ladies platform rocker and the other a gentleman's easy chair were delivered at the door. They were duly presented to Mr. McKee, who accepted the beautiful gifts in a few expressive words. The chairs are very handsome, each having a walnut frame and being covered with silk, shot with tinsel, and trimmed with cardinal plush and cording to match.

Shortly after representatives of the, Auburn Sunday School, in which Mr. McKee was a prominent teacher, appeared on the scene with another present. At an appropriate time Miss Annie Croly presented Mr. McKee (with a beautiful hall lamp and Miss Hattie Hamachir read the following

ADDRESS.

DEAR MR. MCKEE,—The unexpected and sudden announcement of your intention of severing your connection with the Auburn Sunday School renders it impossible to make this presentation in the presence of all your pupils.

It is with regret and sorrow that we bid farewell to one who has endeared himself to teachers and scholars alike by the willing and benevolent spirit with which you have devoted each Sunday afternoon for the past three years to the instruction of the scholars of the Auburn Sunday School in the truths of the Bible, the result of which you have as yet seen little, but we hope and trust that in the day when all shall be made known great and grand results of these years of labor will be manifest.

Before leaving this town, endeared to you by many recollections, we wish to give you this present as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by us, and as a slight remembrance of the scholars of this school.

In bidding you farewell now, we hope it is only for a season, and that you will frequently visit our school, when we will all be very happy to meet you, and yet how much happier we would be if all would meet you at the right hand of God in that grand and glorious meeting at which all must meet, if not on the right hand, on the left.

We all join now in wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and many returns of the season.

Signed on behalf of the teachers and scholars of the Auburn Sunday School,

HATTIE HAMACHIR,
ANNIE CROLY.

Mr. McKee acknowledged the token in feeling terms.

Carlin Captured.

Some time last spring, Captain Crandle, of Lindsay, was badly beaten by three roughs. Two of the offenders were apprehended at the time and punished, while the third, one Michael Carlin, escaped. Word was sent to the police authorities all over the country, but by some means Carlin escaped arrest. On Wednesday morning Officer Pidgeon spied the man on George street, but as he heard that the charge against him had been withdrawn he did not arrest him at once. He wired the information that Carlin was in town to the Chief of the Lindsay Police. No answer was received to the telegram and another one was sent. After waiting eight hours an answer was received, asking to have the man taken into custody. Officer Pidgeon had kept an eye on his bird in the meantime and on receiving authority he placed him under arrest and took him up on the hill. Carlin has the reputation of being one of the worst characters in the Midland District, and if rumor be correct, he has on more than one occasion recently defied the Lindsay officers to take him. He never made the slightest resistence here and when placed in the cells he broke down and cried like a child. If he is a sample of Lindsay's "Toughs" or "Tar Gang" as they are commonly known in that berg, they had better send them all here to get tamed. We understand that a reward was offered for Carlin's capture, and if such is the case P. C. Pidgeon will receive a New Years gift, that he little expected. Chief Bell, of Lindsay, and assistants arrived here on Christmas and took Carlin back to Lindsay with them.

A fine assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING, Socks, Scarfs and Ties, Kid Gloves and Mitts, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. J. ERSKINE.

Our Rink.

The Lindsay Post says: "The new mammoth curling and skating rink at Peterborough has been opened, and is now in use by both curlers and skaters. The building is an immense one, containing three rinks for curling and a large area for skating. Refreshment and waiting rooms have been furnished for the comfort and convenience of those in attendance. The first grand carnival of the season will be held on Friday evening of this week. The preparations have been made on a large scale, and an attractive list of prizes has been arranged. A curling competition will take place between rinks of the Peterborough and Lindsay curling clubs. Lindsay will send down two or three rinks and an interesting game may be expected. Favourable arrangements have been made for tickets over the Midland from Lindsay to Peterborough, and a large number should take advantage of the occasion to visit that thriving town. We hope the Lindsay rinks will have a share of their usual success in the game."

Smith's Market.

Death of a Journalist.

OTTAWA, Dec. 25.—Last evening George R. Kingsmill, of the editorial staff of the Ottawa Sun, and long and favourably connected with the Toronto press, died here suddenly of disease of the heart. The deceased was about 46 years of age. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss.

MASSING THE TROOPS.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—A Shanghai despatch says 85,000 Chinese troops, under Li Hung Chang, are massed at the Pei Ho works at Port Arthur, on the Gulf of Pechi Li, built by German artillery officers, being the strongest fortress in the north of China. They are mounted with heavy Gatling and Nordenfeldt guns. The entrance to the port is guarded with troops. The Chinese have warned the French that they intend to make an attack.

NO WRITS.

LONDON, Dec 25.—The crofters on the Kilmur estate forcibly prevented the sheriff from serving a number of writs and ejected him from the estates.

CORN DUTIES.

LONDON, Dec. 25.—The French Chamber of Commerce in this city has protested against the proposed increase of the corn duties by France, and declared itself in favour of free trade.

AN EDITOR IN TROUBLE.

PARIS, Dec. 25.—The editor and manager of the Anarchist paper, the Marseilles La Flamme, have been sentenced respectively to imprisonment for a year and for eight months for inciting to plunder during the cholera epedemic.

ASTUTE BISMARCK.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—It is impossible for Prince Bismarck to leave Berlin or Varzin at present. He personally controls all the business, and will not trust any of the Ministers to act on their responsibility. A direct wire connects Prince Bismarck's office with the Foreign office at Vienna. It is an exaggeration to say he controls Austro-Hungarian politics.

A SECRET CONVENTION.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—There is a secret convention between France and Germany in accordance with which France is allowed unlimited colonization in Morocco and Touquin. Germany, while respecting the French possessions in Africa, is at liberty to annex territory anywhere not affecting French interests.

THEY ARE COMMENCING.

It is now time for the Grits to assail the Bleus again. While they were encouraged to think those gentlemen would do something discreditable, they were held up as patriots and gentlemen. When it was thought they would accept the bribes Mr. Blake was offering them, betray their constituencies, abandon the principles they professed on the hustings, and prove themselves false and venal, the Grit press praised them, have shown themselves loyal and unpurchaseable, and it is time for the Grit press to abuse them again.—Hamilton Spectator.

TWO MANY "READERS."

Within two or three years at least three new series of school readers have been authorized. The old readers were laid aside, and parents, some of whom could ill afford it, were compelled to buy new books. Now we are informed that still another new series will be forced upon the public by the Department of Education. The first and second books will be ready on the first of January, and the third and fourth "about a month later." As a special act of grace the three series now in use may be continued for another year. So that, during 1885, no less than four series of readers will be permitted in the schools of Ontario.

JOHN CHINAMAN'S WAY.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—A Pekin despatch says that the Board of Censors has proposed to sentence to death M. A Kien, Secretary of Li Hung Chang, whom the Board holds responsible for the Tien Tsin treaty. It is expected that Li Hung Chang will intercede in the Secretary's behalf and with success.

THE POPE'S REPLY.

ROME, Dec. 24.—The Pope, replying to the Christmas congratulations of the Cardinals today, deplored the abnormal condition of the Papal See and the general immunity allowed by the present State laws. He vigorously censured Protestants for their machinations, and the liberal press for their insinuations when the foundation of the cholera hospital by the Vatican was announced, and denounced the divorce law submitted to the Chamber of Deputies.

PRINCE BISMARCK'S ASSISTANT.

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—The North German Gazette officially advises the abandonment of the scheme to raise a public fund to pay for Prince Bismarck's assistant. It says the factions in the Reichstag that are united by a common hatred of the Chancellor dare not again refuse the credit solicited by the Government.

A CONTINENTAL CHRISTMAS.

PARIS, Dec. 25.—The weather to-day in Paris and London was cold but fine. In Paris owing to the absence of rich people, the day was rather dull for Christmas except among the German residents. Itinerants were selling a political toy representing Prince Bismarck & M. Ferry, embracing, with the cry "Voila les deux Prussiens." In Vienna the day was unusually gloomy, owing to the bad condition of trade and the damp weather.

Daily Evening Review

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1884.

REPRESENTATION IN THE SENATE.

We feel sure that we will have all our readers with us when we claim that the people of this district are not sufficiently represented in the Parliament of Canada. That Parliament consists of two Houses, and we have no one in the Upper House to advocate our interests. There is not a single Senator from the whole of the great inland region of Central and Eastern Ontario. From Barrie to the eastern extremity of the Province, from Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence to the Ottawa, no Senator has his abode. And, as may be seen by a glance at the map, it is a large expanse of country that is thus unrepresented, it has interests that are not identical with those of the residents upon the frontier waters of the south and north-east, and it is a very important portion of the Province.

Especially is this true of the valley of the Trent and Otonabee. It is an extensive region, with fertile agricultural tracts, rich mines, flourishing factories, unsurpassed water power and far-reaching inland navigation. In the midst of it are the two important towns of Peterborough and Lindsay, with flourishing industries and a large trade with the surrounding districts. And yet these important interests are totally unrepresented in one of the Houses of our Dominion Parliament. This is not as it should be. There is no reason why the great majority of the Ontario Senators should come from Toronto and localities to the west of it, the remainder being strung along the St. Lawrence and Ottawa waters. We do not feel that these gentlemen represent our interests, and we believe that we may fairly claim at least one Senator of our own.

Of course we are aware that Senators cannot be distributed at the mere wish of the Executive. Their number is limited, and as the present Cabinet of the Dominion is not likely to follow the example of the Mackenzie-Blake administration in applying for an increased number of Senators, our wishes can only be granted when there is a vacancy in the Senate. At present, however, there is such an opportunity. The death of the late Hon. Mr. Gibbs has left a senatorial seat vacant, and we can see no good reason why it should not be filled from the counties of Peterborough and Victoria. Western Ontario and the riverine portions of Eastern Ontario are already so abundantly represented in the Senate that there can be no valid reason why they should have another Senator, and the claim of inland Ontario may well be recognized. It would be doing us no more than justice without the slightest injustice to anyone.

We are confident, as we have said, that the people of this whole district will agree with us. Those who, like us, value the Senate as a very important part of our Dominion Legislature, will feel that we should not be without some representative therein. Those who, as we think mistakenly, attach less value to our Upper House, wishing either to change its constitution or to abrogate it, will be ready to admit that so long as it exists in its present shape it should be made as representative as possible, and that this district is as well entitled to a Senator as others that now monopolize the seats in the Upper House.

The whole of our people may therefore join in the demand that there should be a Senator appointed for this district.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD.

The banquet to Sir John Macdonald at the Empire Club last night was an appropriate complement to the honors which have, during the last few days, been bestowed upon our foremost colonial statesman. The present visit of the Canadian Premier is unconnected with politics, and it is, therefore, the more convenient to turn it to account in a manner which is no less agreeable to the distinguished statesman than honorable to the great colony he represents. In advancing him to the dignity of a G.C.B., Her Majesty conferred upon him what, according to Lord Beaconsfield, is practically the highest meritorious distinction it is in the power of the Sovereign to bestow. The hospitality of a club designed to perpetuate the name and precepts of the late Prime Minister of England was aptly offered a few days ago to one who has earned the soubriquet of the "Canadian Beaconsfield"; but though Sir John Macdonald is the leader of the Conservative party in Canada, it would, as Lord Salisbury remarked, be exceedingly injudicious to attempt to draw any analogy between the Conservatives of Great Britain and of Canada, and presumptions to infer a similar triumph for their principles. The character of last night's gathering dispensed with the necessity of suggesting ingenuous parallels in radically dissimilar bodies. The assembly at the Empire Club represented the unanimity with which all parties in this country applaud the loyal and statesmanlike policy of colonial federation of which Canada has set us so excellent an example. Of this policy Sir John Macdonald was, if not the originator, the consistent advocate, and he, more than any other man, reduced vague aspirations to a practical result. In a sense, therefore, the Canadian Premier was the pioneer of the idea of Imperial unity, which is just now finding so much favor both at home and in the Colonies. It was the successful accomplishment by the Canadians of the experimental programme entrusted to them at the instance of Lord Carnarven, some seventeen years ago, that has enable the leaders of the two great English parties to put aside their habitual contentions and join in harmonious panegyrics. In honoring Sir John Macdonald, British statesmen pay a tribute to the loyalty and enterprise of our greatest colony. Canada has extinguished the school of politicians referred to by Lord Derby, who were opposed to the connection with the colonies. She solved the problem of confederation, and pointed the way to the aspiring rulers of the Australasian continent. While the Colonial Secretary last night spoke vaguely of the possibilities of practical imperial federation, and confined himself perhaps too exclusively to sentimental generalities, the Canadian Premier showed a disposition to grasp it courageously, as he has already dealt with the lesser problem on the the banks of the St. Lawrence. Canada has created the imperial idea, and it seems by no means improbable that Canadian statesmen will devise the methods of its application.—London Times.

LAKEFIELD

From Our Own Corresponden

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.—A special meeting of the Lakefield Village Council was held in the Council Room on Monday evening the 22nd inst. Members present, Mr. R. C. Strickland, Reeve, in the chair: and Messrs. Cox, Moore, and McWilliams Councillors. Moved by Councillor Cox, seconded by Councillor McWilliams,—That the Collectors Roll as returned be now received from the Collector, Mr. W. McDonald, and that the bond given by Isaac Garbutteon and Wm. Leonard be and are hereby cancelled.—Carried. Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Councillor Moore,—that the taxes of John Hamblin be remitted, as he John Hamblin, as reported by the Collector is not in a position to pay the same.—Carried. Moved by Councillor Moore, seconded by Councillor McWilliams,—That Councillors Cox and McWilliams be a Committee to make arrangements to keep the sidewalks within the corporation clear of snow during the winter months.—Carried. Moved by Councillor Cox, seconded by Councillor Moore,—That this Council do now adjourn to meet at the call of the Reeve.—Carried.

XMAS.—Your correspondent tenders to all the readers of the REVIEW, the compliments of the season, a merry Christmas and happy New Year to all.

NOMINATION.—The nomination of Candidates for Reeve and Councillors for the Village of Lakefield for the ensuing year will be on Monday next at noon in the Council room.

SCHOOL NOMINATION.—The school nomination meeting will be held in the Council room, Lakefield, on Wednesday next, for the purpose of nominating candidates as members of the Lakefield School Board for the ensuing term of three years. There are two offices to fill. Dr. Caldwell and Mr. W. C. Sanders are the retiring members, or the members whose term of office expires.

MUNICIPAL.—It is now pretty certain that Lakefield will have a pretty lively time of it at the ensuing municipal election. Mr. R. C. Strickland and Mr. John Hull, it seems, will contest the Reeveship and Messrs. Cox, Moore, and McWilliams, Leonard, Sherin, T. J. Nelson, Henry Wynn, Isaac Garbutt, sr., John Isbister, W. J. Wallace, Jas. Brown, Robt. Graham, sr., Thos. Gordon and John Richardson, sr., are freely talked of as Councillors. We shall see next Monday whether it is all talk or not. There has been enough discussions already for a couple of elections. It is to be hoped the best men will win.

BALL AT YOUNG'S POINT.—Mr. C. Wynn, contractor, gave a supper and ball to his employees and other invited guests on Tuesday evening last at Kearney's Hotel, Young's Point. Quite a number from Lakefield attended and a very pleasant evening was spent. The ball room was well patronized; the music furnished by Messrs. Saringer and Brown being excellent. Young's Point can boast of a larger number of good dancers for its size than any place in the county. Considering the large number present, the place being crowded, the gathering was remarkably good-natured and the very best of good feeling was manifested throughout, which by those present from a distance was considered to be a credit to Young's Point. A great deal is due Mr. Kearney and his estimable wife for their able management of the affair and their interesting efforts for the comfort of their guests.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

A Planing Mill Blown to Fragments—Several Men Killed and Wounded.

DETROIT, Dec. 20.—Last evening the boiler in C. H. Plummer's planing mill, at Jackson, Mich., exploded, blowing the entire structure into fragments. At the time ten men were engaged about the place, six of whom were either killed or wounded. Albert Keypert, teamster, was instantly killed, his head being nearly severed from his body, which was badly mangled. He was from Three Rivers, and 21 years old. Geo. Vanbrunt, engineer, aged 43, was scalded about the body and hurt about the head, and was also struck on the side but not dangerously. Fred. Vanbrunt, son of George, had his right leg broken, the left badly burned, and hurt about the head and shoulders. His wounds are dangerous. Fred. Miller, aged 35, was struck on the head, and a sliver the size of a cigar was forced into his skull just above the temple. He will probably die. Charles Davenport was wound up in the belts, which had to be cut to release him. His left arm was broken, but he sustained no serious injury. N. B. Breckenridge was hurt about the head and side, but not seriously. A flue was driven through the side of a house thirty rods away. George Pangburn and Will Noll were up stairs with Fred Miller, but escaped unhurt. The force of the explosion shook the entire city, rattling doors and windows two miles from the scene. Bricks were hurled through the sides of houses forty rods away. Charley Palmer was walking the street 150 rods distant, and was struck in the face by part of a brick and knocked down. Not a stick of the mill was left in its original shape. Wm. Armstrong, assistant superintendent of the Cleveland mine at Ishpeming, Mich., while assisting the workmen, was struck on the back by a falling piece of rock and instantly killed. He was a young man, 28 years old, and very highly esteemed.

Our Holiday Ties, just received, are the admiration of all who see them. Andrew McNeil.

FATAL FANATICISMS.

A Faith Cure Believer Sacrifices Her Life for Her Creed.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—Emma Kitemiller died here on Saturday. Both she and her family were believers in the faith cure, and were members of a band known as "Heavenly Recruite." Emma refused all medicine saying Jesus would heal her. Her husband, after reading a portion of the Scriptures, laid his hands upon her and anointed her. When he awoke in the morning she was dead. At the inquest to-day a physician testified that a simple remedy, if taken at the proper time, would have saved her life.

A River on Fire.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—This afternoon the naphtha tank at Pratt's Astral Oil Works, which occupy the entire block at the foot of Twelfth street, Williamsburg, exploded with a deafening report, and fragments were sent high and far, the burning oil scattering in every direction. Every available engine in the city was despatched to the scene. A few minutes after the first explosion another tank burst. These two sent 10,000 barrels of flaming oil pouring into every nook and crevice where it could make its way. The burning oil flowed into the Bush wick Creek and continued to burn on the surface of the water, giving the appearance of a river on fire. The shock occasioned by the explosion broke the windows of all the houses in the neighbourhood and sent the people flying into the street in terror. The heat was so intense that the firemen could not get close enough to render needed service. Tug boats took up positions on the river and sent heavy streams of water into the flames, but the wind carried the flames out at them, and they were compelled to steam away giving the fire complete control. The members of one engine company on shore were forced to retreat from their engine to escape death. Explosion followed explosion, and the burning masses were carried up and away for a long distance by the wind. Thousands of spectators gathered in the heavy rain, and stood watching the great conflagration. All the buildings and tanks at the works, excepting a large brick building in which canning is done, were destroyed. The loss will reach $500,000 or $600,000 dollars. It is estimated that over 100,000 barrels of refined and crude oil were burned. It is now reported that there is fire in the tunnel connecting with the other tanks. It is expected that they will explode.

DECEMBER MEMORIES.

What shall we write of thy coming, December?
What of the memories thou dost renew?
For thrice in thy reign death invaded our circle,
And sadly we bade our dear lov'd ones adieu.

Shall we hail thy return with dread superstition,
Or evil foretokings of unmingl'd gloom?
Shall afresh be unseal'd the founts of affection,
To bitterly flow o'er each lov'd one's tomb?

Though sad were our partings, and sadly we miss them,
Hope lustr'd promises, yield us sweet
Consolation and comfort in this assurance
That soon all together in Heaven we'd meet.

Yes, soon, though we live not the full time allotted,
For life is a vapor that soon flies away,
As a tale that is told, or weaver's swife shuttle,
Or flourishing gourd that is but of a day.

Misgivings about the soul's immortality
Ne'er trouble our minds; we truly rely
On what is so plainly reveal'd in the Scripture;
Souls of believers go to Christ when they die.

We think of them not in the grave's gloomy precincts,
'Neath the snow-mantl'd mound, all silent and lone;
There repose their remains, but when Jesus call them,
He'll give them bodies glorified as His own.

We think of them dwelling in sunshine and gladness—
Ineffable bliss and transcendent delight:
Thrilling their souls as they gaze upon Jesus;
Glorious themselves in His reflected light.

We remember the pleasure afforded them viewing
The beauties of nature with admiring eye;
Or pour'd forth their souls in reverent devotion
To Him who had garnish'd the starry-orb'd sky.

Now, 'mid the unfolding of infinite wisdom,
What deep odoration their beings will thrill!
Outpouring in rapturous plans of praises
To Him who the Heaven of Heavens doth fill.

December, thine aspect is dreary and cheerless,
And some recollections thou bringest are sad;
But thereby grows brighter the brightness of Heaven,
With gaze often thereward, e'en now we are glad.

No, December, we'll not write thy memories mournfull,
For festal to those who're departed they'll be,
And e'en when we think of their happy transition,
More light in our own cloud of sorrow we see.

We rejoice in the thought that sickness or sorrow
Or trouble will never afflict them again,
And joy that with them we can sing the glad anthem,
"All glory to Jesus the Lamb who was Slain."

MORE IN THE MAN THAN IN THE LAND.

I knowed a man which lived in Jones,
Which Jones is a country of red hills and stones,
And is tired pretty much by getting of loans,
And his mules were nuthin' but skin and bones,
And his hogs was fat as his corn bread pones,
And he had 'bout a thousand acres o' land.

This man—which his name was also Jones—
He swore that he'd leave them old red hills and stones,
For he couldn't make nuthin' but yellerish cotton,
And little o' that, and his fences was rotten,
And what little corn he had, hit was boughten,
And danged if a liven was in the land.

And longer he swore the madder he got,
And he rip and he walked to the stable lot,
And he hollered to Tom to come thar and hitch,
For to emigrate somewhar whar land was rich,
And to quit raisin' cockburs, thistles and sich,
And a-wastin' their time on the cuss'd land.

So him and Tom they hitched up the mules,
Pertestin' that folks was mingty big fools
That 'ud stay in Georgy their lifetime out,
Jest scratchin' a livin' when all of 'em mought
Git places in Texas whar cotton would sprout
By the time you could plant in the land.

And he driv by a house whar a man named Brown
Was a livin' not far from the edge of the town,
And he bantered Brown for to buy his place,
And said that bein' as money was skarce,
And bein as Sheriffs was hard o' face,
Two dollars an acre would git the land.

They closed at a dollar and fifty cents,
And Jones he bought him a wagin and tents,
And loaded his corn and his wimmin and truck,
And moved to Texas, which it tuck
His entire pile, with the best of luck,
To git thar and get him a little land.

But Brown moved out on the old Jones farm,
And he rolled up his breeches and bared his arm,
And he picked aff the rocks from off'n the ground,
And he rooted it up and ploughed it down,
Then he ploughed his corn and his wheat in the land.

Five years glid by, and Brown, one day
(which he'd got so fat that he wouldn't weigh),
Was a-sittin' down, sorter lazily,
To the bullest dinner you ever see.
When one of the children jumped on his knee
And says, "Yan's Jones, which you bought his land."

And thar was Jones, standin' out at the fence,
And he hadn't no wagin, no mules, nor tents,
For he had left Texas afoot and cum
To Georgy to see if he couldn't get sum
Employment, and he was lookin' as humble as of
He had never owned any land.

But Brown he axed him in, and he sot
Him down to his vittles smokin' hot;
And when he had filled hisself and the floor,
Brown looked at him sharp and ris and swore
That "whether men's land was rich or poor
Thar was more in the man than thar was in the land."

CASE OF BODY-SNATCHING.

The Ingenious Way in Which an Interesting Corpse was Secured.

We have just learned of the boldest and most ingenious case of body-snatching that has been practiced in these parts within our knowledge. Mr. John Chatterson, late crier of the court, died about six weeks ago, and his remains were placed in the vault at Violet. It is said that physicians who had their attention call to his disease were at a loss to account for the cause of death, and after his demise sought the permission of the relatives to make an examination, but were refused. The key of the vault is in the possession of Mr. W. R. Perry. The day following the funeral, a young man giving his name as Asselstine, and claiming to be a brother of the son-in-law of the deceased, came to Mr. Perry and stated that the relatives had received certain information that an attempt was to be made by medical students to get possession of the body, and that they were determined to succeed at no matter what hazard. This statement was correct, as the sequel shows. Asselstine proposed that the friends be allowed to remove the remains at night, and have them secretely interred, so as to defeat the plans of the body snatchers. To this Mr. Perry demurred, and to convince the applicant that their was no cause for fear, he went to the vault and showed him how securely it was locked and barred. Asselstine depicted, with tears in his eyes, the anxiety of the relatives and the determination of the ghoulish students who would resort to any means, even to gunpowder or dynamite to get possession of the coveted subject. At length the old gentleman allowed his scruples to be overcome by his sympathies, and made an appointment to give the casket into possession of the "friends" after dark. About half-past ten Asselstine returned with four men, and during the whole of the after proceedings, these maintained a discreet silence, but this was not at the time remarked by the unsuspecting custodian of the vault. Quietly the remains were removed and handed over to the claimants, who immediately left with their much desired but ill-gotten booty.

Mr. Perry's family were away at the time or it is more than likely the parties would not have gained their point so easily. Immediately on their return, the circumstances was related, but it was then too late to successfully pursue an investigation. Mrs. Chatterton is now seriously ill, her son-in-law is absent, and no steps have been taken to detect and punish the robbers. It is certainly the most daring case of body snatching we have heard of in this section.

Some weeks ago, our Deseronto correspondent related a distressing case of grave robbing in Tyendinaga. The first intimation the husband (who lives at Petrolia) had of his wife's body being stolen was through the paragraph in the Beaver. The relatives feel very badly over the affair.—Napanee Beaver.

Heart Pains.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness Indigestion, Headache, Sleeplessness, cured by Wells, Health Renewer."

TORTURED BY THIEVES.

A Family Beaten and a Bechelor Burned With Red Hot Poker.

Two horrible outrages have been committed in Wheeling, Virginia, by hooded highwaymen in the past three days. On Sunday six masked men entered the house of Mrs. Workenour in the suburbs, and after horribly beating the family, stole $5,000 in gold. Last night four men, evidently of the same gang, broke into the house of Elijah Marling, a bachelor miser in this county. Finding only $182 on his person, they horribly tortured him to force him to reveal the hiding place of his gold. He was tied to a bed post, stripped, and a redhot poker applied to his back and thighs in twenty places. Hot oil was also poured down his back. His sufferings were terrible. In their anger the burglars struck their victim a heavy blow on the head, and left him hanging by his fastenings in an insensible codnition, where he was nearly frozen. His condition is critical. Marling is 60 years of age. All efforts to locate or capture the gang seem useless. The county constabulary are powerless, and dwellers in isolated houses are in constant dread. The deeds of West Virginia red men are being outdone in the metropolis.

Farm Work.

All farmers should keep a record of their work and "take an account of stock" at least once a year. The first of January is an appropriate time to "open new books," to be followed by a daily or weekly record of important transactions. See that the farm buildings are well insured in a reliable company at fair rates. Many fires result from carelessness with ashes. Build a brick or stone receptacle at a safe distance from all buildings and keep the ashes in it. They are well worth carefully preserving as fertilizing material, to be scattered over the pasture or meadow. Prepare the annual supply of firewood and let it become thoroughly seasoned before being used. Green wood is not economical in any sense, and is a fruitful source of bad breakfasts and worse tempers. Do not neglect to fill the ice house at the earliest opportunity. A delay of a single day may witness the loss of the ice crop. Let the head help the hands in every possible way; therefore attend the farmers' club and join in the discussions. Read and reflect. Winter may be a harvest time.—American Agriculturist.

Skating Rink.

Remember the Carnival to-night. Admission 25 cents, children 15 cents, or two for 25 cents. Tickets can be obtained at the bookstores or at the door. The Lindsay Curling Club are now here, and will play with the Peterborough Club this afternoon and evening.

Not Much Change.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Moderate to fresh winds; cloudy to fair weather, with light falls of snow in the southern portion; not much change in temperature.

The Rink.

Skating and curling was doubtless the chief attraction on Christmas day. All day long and throughout the evening the merry skaters propelled themselves around the rink in graceful glides. Nor were the curling rinks in any way deserted. The lovers of the "roaring game" held high carnival until a late hour in the evening. All seemed to enjoy themselves hugely as they will doubtless do again to-night at the first carnival of the season. This carnival promises to be a great success.

The most extensive range of Cardigan Jackets can be found at Andrew McNeil's.

A Delighted Child.

Perhaps there was nowhere to be found a more happy and grateful child than little Annie Bird, the wonderful child actress with the Tavernier Dramatic Company, on Christmas morning. When Annie first opened her eyes on Christmas Day, she bounced out of bed and looked in vain for her usual gifts from Santa Claus. Her disappointment at being overlooked by old Santa this particular year was great, as in years gone by he did not by any means neglect her. Breakfast was ready, but Annie's appitite was gone. Large tears commenced to drop from a pair of beautiful little eyes, and following them sob after sob, until she eventually broke out in a good hearty cry. This was more than the members of the company could stand, so Annie was sent up to the post office, ostensibly for the purpose of seeing if Santa Claus had made a mistake and left her presents there. On her return, as soon as she opened her door, a cry of joy broke from her lips, for setting on a table in the centre of the room was a beautiful Christmas tree laden down with handsome and costly presents. Not only did she receive gifts from members of the company, but many from a distance also contributed to her tree. She was evidently a happy and thankful little girl, and she expressed the wish that every little woman in Peterborough might be as happy as she, and then, indeed, they would be happy.

HILLIARD'S FAMILY FLOUR is ahead for bread making. Leave your orders at W. J. Mason's.

Hospitality.

On Christmas Day, at the dinner hour, the Grand Central Hotel dining hall presented a more than ordinary appearance. The tables were very tastefully decorated, and everything betokened that a genuine "Christmas dinner" was being partaken. A large number of guests sat around the festive board and chose their inedita from the following elaborate list of esculent edibles:—

MENU.

Soup.—Oyster, a la cantatrice.
Fish.—Sea salmon.
Boiled.—Turkey and oyster sauce, chicken and parsley sauce, leg Southdown mutton and caper sauce, corned beef, ham, beef, tongue.
Roast.—Sirloin of beef and Yorkshire pudding, goose and apple sauce, turkey and cranberry sauce, fillet veal, loin lamb.
Game.—Partridge and bread sauce, prairie chicken, wild duck, venison and jelly quail.
Entrees.—Rabbit a la minute, pigeon pie, scalloped oysters, bondin a la Reine.
Relishes and Salads.—Chicken salad, lobster salad, pickled cabbage, celery, horse radish, cheese, oyster sauce, mixed pickles, tomato catsup, Worchestershire sauce, chow chow, Bailey's nabob sauce, Anchovy sauce mushroom catsup.
Vegetables.—Sugar corn, green peas, asparagus, mashed potatoes, plain potatoes, tomatoes.
Pastry.—English plum pudding and brandy sauce, apple pie, mince pie, lemon pie, cream puffs, jelly roll, ice pound cake, lady fingers, sponge cake.
Creams and Jellies.—Port wine jelly, raspberry cream, arrowroot blanc mange, rum cream, charlotte russe.
Dessert.—Kisses, cream, chocolate drops, Marlborne, oranges, grapes, apples, soft shell almonds, London layer raisins, walnuts, filberts, tea, coffee, crackers.

The above bill only affords another proof of the ability that Daly Bros. possess as first-class caterers. They are well known as convivial hosts, and by no means lack the knowledge of the providing of a No. 1 dinner. The above bill of fare will increase the good reputation of the Peterborough hotels.

The finest range of Socks in Peterborough can be found at "Habilitment Hall."

The Old Story.

Chief of Police Johnston has received a telegram from Mr. H. J. Wormworth, of Tamworth, Ont., in regard so a horse and cutter which have been stolen from him. The stolen animal is described as a small brown mare. The cutter is furnished with grey robes and open bells are attached to the whiffletree.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

Miss Ida Van Courtland's Benefit.

There should be a bumper house at the representation of "Hazel Kirke" at the Opera House this evening. The performance is for the benefit of Miss Ida Van Courtland, who has for the last ten days made herself so great a favourite, and has done so much for the pleasure of the people of Peterborough, that as a mark of appreciation the theatre should be crammed. In character after character Miss Van Courtland has shown how versatile is her talent, which has enabled her to fill such widely differing parts so effectively, and there can be no doubt she will make a charming Hazel Kirke this evening.

A LOT OF BREAKFAST SHAWLS and Clouds, slightly soiled, selling cheap at J. ERSKINE'S.

Chit Chat.

—Good sleighing.

—Bright and beautiful.

—Cold last night. The mercury in Mr. G. W. Morgan's thermometer sank to 24° below zero.

—The City Band marched down George street yesterday afternoon, and played several selections on the Market Square, much to the delight of those who heard them.

—Mr. E. C. Hill informs us that the completion of the internal improvements to the Port Hope Opera House is drawing near. A fine new gasalier with 30 burners, has been placed in position; four new boxes have been completed; the scenery is well executed, and no doubt Port Hope, when Mr. Hill gets through with the hall, will have an Opera House of which it may be proud.

AS XMAS is drawing near we all want the best Flours for our holiday dainties. To make sure of it, order some of Hilliard's, at W. J. Mason's.

Festivity.

Each year, at this season, mine host McIntyre, of the Oriental Hotel, spreads before his guests a most sumptuous repast. On Christmas Day a large number of guests and their friends sat down to regale themselves with the good things provided in the following bill of fare:—

XMAS MENU.

Raw Oysters. Mock Turtle. Consomme Colbert.
Celery. Small Oyster Patties. Olives
Boiled Sea Salmon, Lobster Sauce.
Boiled Turkey, Oyster Sauce.
Boiled Buffalo Tongue.
Roast Sirloin of Beef, Yorkshire Pudding.
Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Roast Domestic Duck and Apple Sauce.
Champagne Punch.
Breast of Partridge on Toast.
Venison Steak and Wine Jelly.
Broiled Quail, Mushroom Sauce.
Chicken Salad. Lobster Salad.
Roast Wild Turkey, Chestnut Dressing.
Roast Black Duck with Jelly. Roast Pheasant.
Potatoes. Tomatoes.
String Beans. Sugar Corn. Peas.
English Plum Pudding, Brandy Sauce.
Snow Pudding and Whipped Cream.
Mince Pie. Apple Pie. Lemon Pie.
Port Wine Jelly. Sherry Wine Jelly.
Champagne Jelly.
Trifle. Tipsy Cake. Fruit Cake. Cocoanut Cake.
Chocolate Cream. Peach Cream. Jelly Tarts.
Vanilla Ice Cream. Nougat Almond Candy.
Fruit. Cheese. Coffee.

This bill of fare, we may safely say, is one of the best ever arranged in Peterborough. It brings out, however, one of the characteristics of the genial host—that of providing the very best viands for his guests regardless of cost.

Now is the time to buy Underclothing. Call and see the extensive range at 20 per cent. discount now being offered at McNeil's.

Histrionic.

On Christmas eve the Tavernier Dramatic Company presented at Bradburn's Opera House Merriedale's popular comedy drama, "Forget-Me-Not." Miss Ida Van Cortland assumed the leading character, Stephanie, the Marquise de Mohrivart (Forget-Me-Not), the heartless and dissipated wife of a French nobleman. In this character Miss Van Cort'and exhibited wonderful versatility, turning with perfect coolness from a passionate, pathetic appeal to the English heart and manliness of "Sir Horace Welby," not to betray her, to a cold and heartless laugh at his tenderheartedness. Mr. Wilson Day, as "Sir Horace," acted with his usual effectiveness. Miss Alice Hunt, as "Alice Verney," who fears the powerful and deadly charms of "Forget-Me-Not," took her part with perfect naturalness. The supporting characters were well portrayed. On Christmas afternoon a matinee, the "Banker's Daughter," was presented to a fair sized house. In the evening the hall was jammed, many persons having to stand in the passages. The play for the evening was Dion Boucicault's comedy, "Led Astray." Miss Van Cortland assumed the leading role, that of "Armande Chandece," the dreamy, fanciful and poetic wife of "Randolph Chandece," which character was taken by Mr. Wilson Day. Miss Alice Hunt sustained the part of "Mathilde," daughter of Randolph and Armande. Mr. Albert Tavernier made an admirable "Hector Placide." To take this character well requires considerable skill, but Mr. Tavernier was fully equal to it. He acted in such a manner as to keep the audience in continual good humour. In his every act, secret love for "Mathilde" was visible. Mr. J. P. Enders, as "George De Lesparre, the young poet, with whom the dreamy "Armande" falls in love, did excellently. The play terminates most happily. Instead of in the young poet it is in her own husband that "Armande" finds that other life she longs to meet, without which life her life was incomplete. Through her father, "Mathilde" declares her love for her diffident cousin "Hector," and through mutual good advice all are settled for a peaceful life. The sustaining parts were well drawn. In each of the performances, Miss Annie Bird was a great favourite. When, between the acts, she appeared, she was greeted with demonstrative satisfaction. In the evening of Christmas Day she recited "Annie's and Willie's Prayer," a long Christmas poem. This little child has certainly a wonderful memory. Throughout the lengthy selection she did not make one mistake, and not even did she hesitate. The audience listened with rapt, rivitted attention to her sweet child's voice and at the conclusion she received unbounded applause. "Hazel Kirke" will be on the boards to-night, for Miss Van Cortland's benefit. No doubt she will be greeted with as large an audience as that which assembled in the hall on Thursday night.

Is it not worth the small price of 75 cents to free yourself of every symptom of those distressing complaints? If you think so call at our store and get a bottle of Shiloh's vitalizer. Every bottle has a printed guarantee on it, use accordingly, and if it does you no good it will cost you nothing. Sold by J. D. Tully.

LOW PRICES!

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this eetablishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

*We wish you all "*A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"—

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

SELECT NEW YEAR'S ASSEMBLY

MR. F. A. THOMAS,

Professor of Dancing, &c., will hold a Select Dancing Assembly in the Ball-room of the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on the evening of New Year's Day, January 1st, 1885. Dancing to commence at 8.30 o'clock. ☞ TICKETS procurable only from the following Committee:—Messrs. A. Thompson, James McNamara, (at W. A. Sanderson's), and V. Eastwood. ☞ Instructions will be given gratis in the Square Dances. 7d148

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselves awkwardly on the floor of a ball-room or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

MR. F. A. THOMAS

will give private lessons at the GRAND CENTRAL HOTEL BALL-ROOM, or at the residences of pupils. If Classes are voluntarily formed at private residences, special rates will be given.

☞ Communicate to Mr. F. A. Thomas, at the Grand Central by Mail or Telephone. d147

A BAFFLED FATHER.

Ineffectual Attempt to Abduct a Son from His Mother.

MONTREAL, Dec. 26.—A wealthy and well-known New York broker named J. G. Rigney, who has been separated from his wife for the past three years, and both of whom are suing each other for a divorce, created a sensation in the village of St. Jerome near here, on Friday last by attempting to abduct his ten year-old son, who has been living there in concealment with his mother and little sister. It appears after the separation the boy was given to the father and the girl to the mother to care for and bring up. The woman could not do without the companionship of her boy, and she got some men to steal him from his father and bring him to Canada, as she was then living in this city unknown to her husband. Mr. Rigney employed Pinkerton to hunt up his wife, and the noted detective placed that duty in the Dominion in the hands of a local officer. Hearing that an American lady and gentlemen were residing in an aristocratic boarding-house in the west-end the detective made a descent on the mansion, when Mr Rigney admitted her identity the gentleman stopping there being an eminent lawyer from New York, who was suing Mrs Rigney's husband for a divorce. The information of the discovery was telegraphed to the husband, who came on here and employed the ex-Minister of Justice. Mr. Laflamme, to take out a writ of habeas corpus to compel his wife to give up the boy. Before the papers were ready for service the lady and children changed their residence to an unknown part of the Province, the detective being unable to get on their track until a week ago. Mr. Rigney was immediately apprised of the discovery, and soon arrived here. Thinking it was too much of a round about way to get his son by going to law, he adopted the more summary means of driving out and awaiting his chance to abduct his child. Everything favoured his scheme at first, as he found his boy opposite the cottage where he was residing shovelling snow. Mr. Rigney took him in his arms to place him in the buggy, but before he had accomplished his purpose, Mrs. Rigney came to the rescue, and rai-ed such an uproar as to collect a crowd of villagers, who took her part and became so threatening that the father was intimidated, and had not the courage to stand upon ceremony but abandoned his boy to the mother and drove off. Seeing his efforts again frustrated he returned home, but did not say what he would resort to next.

Mrs. Rigney is said to be wealthy in her own right, and is highly connected in New York. Her sister is married to Mr. Chapleau, of Winnipeg, brother of the Minister of State in Ottawa. She has been well received in this Province by the best French society, but has never made herself prominent.

Turnbull is showing new lines in Jewelery, Glove and Handkerchief Boxes, made of wood and Elegantly Finished, suitable for a Christmas Present.

LINDSAY.

A PLEASANT INCIDENT of the christmas season was the presentation to Mr. T. E. Bradburn of a handsome Turkish pipe and well-filled tobacco pouch, the gift of the clerks and sales-women in "Bradburn's arcade," and was accompanied by a brief address. The presentation took place in the business office on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bradburn made a suitable reply and warmingly thanked the donors for their handsome gift.—Post.

ON SATURDAY of last week Constable Cluman of Lindsay arrested a man against whom a warrant had been issued on a charge of arson. The name of the prisoner is Perkins and he is reported to be a dangerous man to be at large. He is believed to have fired a frame barn and outbuildings at a point north of Toronto and detectives have been on the lookout. From a description furnished to the local police constable Cluman was enabled to identify the man, who had been stopping in fancied security at Veitch's hotel, and after making the arrest placed the prisoner in the look-up and telegraphed for instructions. Government detective Murray was sent to Lindsay and the prisoner was taken to Toronto on Monday morning. Officer Cluman deserves credit for making the arrest.—Post

SALVATION ARMY PARADE.—The grand Salvation Army parade and banquet duly came off on Tuesday afternoon and evening and proved to be one of the most celebrated in the history of the army since their establishment in Lindsay. A large number of officers from other corps were in attendance, amongst whom was noticed Capt. Frere, the founder of the army in this town. The parade in the afternoon excited considerable attention and was witnessed by as many people almost as are present on a circus day. The "scramble" among the ginger snaps, etc., was held from 4.30 to 7. p. m., after which there was another grand parade this time with torches, the whole winding up with a night of prayer. The meetings will now be held regularly in the army's barracks.—Warder.

THE CONGO CONFRRENCE.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Gen. Sanford, the American delegate to the Congo Conference, proposes that opium be included under the rule prohibiting the sale of alcohol in the Congo territory.

ITALY AND ENGLAND.

ROME, Dec. 26.—It is reported the British Government has invited the military co-operation of Italy in the Soudan, offering as an inducement the cession of territory near the Italian colony of Assob Naki. The Duke of Genoa's visit to London is attributed to negotiations for an Anglo-Italian alliance.

BISMARCK'S PLANS.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The London News, commenting on the decision of the powers to ignore the proposals of England relative to the Egyptian finances, says the attitude of the powers is prompted by Prince Bismarck, who is irritated at Mr. Gladstone's policy and desires the overthrow of his cabinet. Prince Bismarck wanted England to annex Egypt and thus enable Germany to pursue her colonization policy unhampered. France and Austria willingly support Prince Bismarck, as the consider England's attitude in Egypt a check to the annexation of territory they intend to make in other quarters of the globe.

CHRISTMAS SERMON.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Cardinal Manning preached a Christmas sermon at Kensington pro-Cathedral yesterday. Beginning with an appeal for charity, he continued at length on the unendowed character of the Catholic Church, for which he was thankful. A rich priesthood, he said, brought with it relaxed zeal, fidelity, and humility of both clergy and laity.

CHRISTMAS TREE.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—There was a Christmas tree for the Alsace Lorrainers at the Hippodrome in Paris last night. There were 14,000 persons present, and thousands were unable to gain admission. Mesdames Ferry, Kestner, and Floquet presented the gift to the people.

SPAIN AND THE UNITED STATES.

MADRID, Dec. 26.—The Spanish Government will empower its Minister at Washington to assent to modifications of the Spanish-American treaty. If necessary to insure its ratification, Spain will allow the treaty to be modified to the extent of admitting free to the United States only sugars up to class 13.

DOUBLING IN STRENGTH.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—The strength of the marine infantry of Germany is to be doubled owing to the inauguration of an active colonial policy.

EARTHQUAKE IN SPAIN.

MADRID, Dec. 26.—The details of the earthquake on Wednesday night show it was more disastrous than was at first anticipated. One shock lasted fifty seconds and was felt throughout Spain. In Andalusia a number of towns suffered severely. At Granada houses rocked violently, and the earth trembled beneath the feet of the inhabitants as they fled to the fields. Many were wounded by falling bricks. At Malaga many houses were wrecked and a number of the inmates were buried in the ruins. Many persons were killed and a large number wounded. Those who escaped camped in the open squares and in the fields. The weather was cold and the refugees had to build bonfires to keep themselves warm. Fainter shocks occurred at intervals during the night, which increased the alarm of the people. Already a number of bodies have been recovered. The Government has sent provisions, clothing, etc., for the sufferers. In Madrid the damage was slight, but the shock frightened the inhabitants, and places of amusement were quickly emptied. Shocks were also felt at Gibralter, and were severe in the southern provinces. They caused great alarm among the people at Granada. At Malaga only two persons were killed by the falling walls.

THE TROOPS ADVANCING

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Active preparations are being made at Korti for the early advance of the British troops by land and by the Nile. Stores have already arrived at Kerawe. The Nile is reported as fairly navigable. Every available camel has been purchased.

FRENCH VOTE OF CREDIT.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—The Senate to-day, by a vote of 184 to 45, rejected the motion by M. Buffet to vote a credit for the first quarter of 1885 without detaching the revenue estimates from the general budget, the Government desiring to have the revenue estimates first and separately. The Government then asked a credit of 100,000,000f. for the first half of 1885.

Serious Stabbing Affray.

BRANTFORD, Dec. 26.—Early on Christmas morning an altercation arose between some young men in Geo. Elliott's Hotel, when Mr. Elliott ordered them out of the bar. They left it, but immediately on reaching the street they commenced fighting. Mr. Elliott went out to separate them, and in so doing one of the party stabbed him in the back. A doctor was sent for immediately and on examination found that one of Mr. Elliott's lungs had been penetrated. Elliott is in a very critical condition.

At the police court this morning James and Adam Johnston were charged with stabbing George Elliott. The evidence of several witnesses was taken, when James Johnston was bound over to appear when wanted, waiting to see the result of Mr. Elliott's injuries.

Smallpox Abating.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 16.—No new cases of small pox have occurred in Hungerford, and there are only two cases in the hospital requiring treatment. Two Sisters of Charity have left, and two who have had the disease formerly are going home. The other two are going into quarantine for fourteen days. The houses in which the disease has been are now undergoing a proper disinfection. There have been in all forty-five deaths from small pox in the township of Hungerford.

The Provincial Board of Health has issued a notice to the electors of Hungerford, in which they advise that no election be held this year, as the meeting of the electors would endanger the public health. This advice will no doubt be acted upon.

It is England's duty, the Times declares, to preserve the freedom of international trade.

Orange Demonstration.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., Dec. 26.—A despatch from Harbor Grace states that the Orange demonstration passed off quietly. The procession, composed of 1,000 persons, passed through the principal streets unmolested. The Riverhead men with a green flag held their own citadel, but the Orangemen abstained from intrusion on Catholic ground. The bloody memory of last St. Stephen's day, reinforced by a war ship and a formidable police force, effectually prevented any hostile demonstration.

Shortly after the possession passed through Pippy's lane, the scene of last year's sanguinary conflict, the Riverhead men, numbering hundreds, followed, but Inspector Carty with a large body of mounted infantry and police kept a safe interval between the antagonistic parties until the Orangemen reached their hall. The city is at present tranquil.

He Had Plans.

A wholesale house in Detroit, in which the firm consists of four partners, with a solid old gentleman at the head, took on a new traveller a few days ago. He was engaged and packed off without having seen the senior partner, and he probably didn't care a cent whether such a person existed or not. He was coming in over one of the roads on a recent Saturday, and had taken a seat in the smoker to enjoy a 15-center, when a fellow-traveller asked him how business was, and what firm he represented.

"Business is infernal dull, and I represent the firm of Blank & Co., Detroit," was the answer.

"Pretty solid house?"

"Oh, yes; but rather cranky."

"Going to be with it next year?"

"Well that will depend. When I get in, I'm going to ask for a position in the store. I'm fitted for almost any place there, and I'm going to push myself."

"And then you'll work for promotion?"

"You bet! and if things come around right I'll have an interest in the old ranch inside of two years."

"Eh! How's that?"

"Well, the old crank who furnishes the doubloons to keep the business booming has two marriageable daughters, and I'm going to be his son-in-law, or break both legs trying. I've got the pluck to succeed, and you can bet a new hat on me any day in the year."

The conversation died away very soon after that, and in a little time the traveller was lost to the comforts of his cigar. He thought no more of the matter until he walked into the store on Monday morning to report. The first man his eyes rested upon was his fellow-traveller on the train, and the old gent had his hat off, and seemed very much at home. He bowed to the drummer, and he smiled, and he went to the door and called after him in a forgiving tone, but the man escaped, and he has not been seen in Detroit since.—Detroit Free Press.

EVADING PUBLIC CRITICISM.

It is announced that the next session of the Ontario Legislature is to commence on January 28th. Thus it will precede by one day the opening of the Dominion Parliament, which has already been fixed for January 29th. This is a repetition of Mr. Mowat's "dodge" to avoid as much as possible public attention to his doings. When the legislatures of the Province and Dominion are sitting simultaneously it is impossible that the proceedings of both should be closely scrutinized. The newspapers cannot find space for full reports both from Toronto and Ottawa. Even if by curtailing all other news or enlarging their papers, the journals made room for full reports from both quarters, few readers would have time or inclination to peruse the whole with close attention. Thus the healthful check of public opinion is evaded. Thus Mr. Mowat's hope that little notice will be taken of his diversion of colonization road funds to political uses, and his refusal to give any details till too late for criticism. Thus his dealings with school readers and other details of our educational system for the advantage of his party, will, he hopes, escape attention. Thus, too, he hopes that his annual deficit and his very ill-managed inauguration of a Provincial public debt will escape the condemnation they deserve. He may again be able to refuse to give the particulars of the job by which Mr. Coe was granted public lands in North Hastings and East Peterborough on better terms than actual settlers. He may again manage that the Public Accounts Committee shall not be allowed to hold meetings often enough to do one half of their work. In short, he hopes by this means to evade the eye of the public and to court that darkness which is appropriate for some of his deeds.

The Globe is very indignant because the independent papers agree with the Conservative press in estimating the reception of Sir John Macdonald in Toronto as a great success. And this is how the Globe vents its spite upon the "Dumb dogs" as it styles them:—

"One would suppose that the alleged 'Independent' organs would have promptly resented Sir John Macdonald's threat to shoot down everybody who presumes to advocate separation from the Empire. But no; they are dumb before their master. Not one of them has even poor courage to attempt to reason with the warlike Premier. Not one of them dare open its mouth in behalf of free speech. All their effervescent courage and exaggerated pretension dwindle into mute cowardice and their subdued pens are put to work in illustrious glorification of the autocrat. A more paltry exhibition of cowardice has never disgraced Canadian journalism."

AGAIN we are being treated to a rehash of the false charge that Mr. Meredith and Mr. Merrick contradicted one another in the matter of the Mowat-McKim conspiracy to induce bribery. Because Mr. Meredith told Mr. Merrick that he would not care to obtain power by means of deserters, he is asserted to have contradicted himself because he testified that he knew nothing of any attempts at bribery till the coup de theatre in the House. There is no contradiction at all in the matter

DUMMER.

On Monday, the 22nd of December, Mr. Bennet Scott, who has been a teacher in the South Dummer school for a number of years, was presented with a handsome writing desk and inkstand, accompanied by the following address:—

DEAR TEACHER.—We in behalf of the school desire to read this short address, in order to show our gratitude for the general interest you have manifested in our mental welfare. During the two years of your labor amongst us, we realize that you have been a very faithful and diligent teacher. We cannot help feeling sad when we think of our separation; but we recall with pleasure the many pleasant hours we have spent together as teacher and pupils. We ask you to accept this writing desk as a slight token of esteem, and in conclusion wish you a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. Signed in behalf of the School,

NELLIE STEPHENSON.
N. MCMILLAN.

Mr. Scott replied in suitable terms and accepted the handsome gifts.

On the same day, Mr. A. Scott, teacher of S.S. No. 2. was presented with a purse and two elegantly bound volumes of the works of Goldsmith and Tennyson. The following address accompanied the gifts.

MR. ARTHUR S. SCOTT,—We, the scholars of your school, desire to express our esteem for you, both as a teacher and a friend. As you are about to leave the school, we take this opportunity of thanking you for the interest you have taken in our welfare during the two years in which you have been our teacher. We wish you every success in the future. Please accept these books and purse as a token of our esteem for you. Signed on behalf of the school by Maggie Howson Theresa E. Wigmore, Frank McMillan and Andrew Nicoll.

Mr. Scott replied in works well suited to the occasion.

The "Times" Speaks.

LONDON, Dec. 23.—The Times says annexation of a portion of New Guinea and other islands in that vicinity by Germany will expose the Government to popular execration in Australia, and to censure in England. The refusal of the Earl of Derby, the Colonial Secretary, to recognize Australia's annexation of the same territory has opened the door to Germany. The Colonists wanted to annex the whole of New Guinea, for in the event of war the Island would form a host of operations against Australia.

"Our Girls" are coming out, and "don't you forgot it." Quirk & Co. are bringing them out.

SPALDING'S BAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

Audi Ulteram Partrem.

SIR,—I would like to call the attention of the ratepayers to the agitation move got up by certain persons among us with the view of filling up Spalding's Bay. As usual, when any scheme of this kind is started the kind projectors of it try to make the people believe that something dreadful will happen them if they do not consent to the expenditure of a large sum of money. They tell the people, what they never knew before, that they are exposed to great danger and that something must be done at once or they will all die. Persons who are comparative strangers among us tell us that we are ignorant and know nothing of what is going to happen if we go on as we have been doing for the last fifty years, and that if we want to live any longer we must at once spend a large sum of money or we will surely die. This was the cry some years ago, when we were told that if we did not consent to spend two or three hundred thousand dollars for the purpose of building a great reservoir up at Hilliard's dam so as to give us good, pure water out of the Otonabee River, and spend every year an additional sum upon the keeping in use those works, some eight thousand dollars, besides the large amount of interest in their outlay. We were told then how unhealthy the town was, that sickness was increasing and that the most serious disaster would follow if we made any further delay. Notwithstanding these prognostications we were guided in the matter by our own judgements, and the outlay was not made and yet the people did not all die and the population of the town is to day probably larger by some two thousand people than it was then. We acted wisely then, and let us act wisely now. Some people are never satisfied to let well enough alone. They seem to think that all the knowledge of the work centres in themselves. They come here to-day and go astray to-morrow, but while they are here they seem to think that they must immortalize themselves by starting some outlandish project and they then go away and leave the ratepayers a legacy of a heavy debt and a consequent large increase of taxes. If the ratepayers of Peterborough had listened to all the projects that have been started by wild visionaries and had foolishly been persuaded to adopt them, their town to-day would be involved in debt, which they could never pay except at great sacrifices and consequent poverty to themselves, and it is fortunate for them that they used their own common sense and so saved their reputations and their money. And the same wild schemes were, a couple of years ago, expressed when we were told that we must build and furnish and keep up a hospital in the town and join the county in building a poor house. The outlay, of course, did not trouble these philanthrophists because they know that their share of the expense would be very small, a hundred or two thousand dollars was nothing to them. They wanted to do some great things, and probably profit by them, leaving the taxpayers to foot the bills. Well, the people in this case also, used their own judgments, and these great plans were not carried out; and yet they did not die. Now, there is another great scheme, worse than all the rest. To fill in Spaulding's Bay. A few persons tell us that the lives and health or the people are in great danger from the present condition of Spaulding's Bay and they say it should be filled up. They don't tell us how much it is going to cost to do this work, and of course, they don't know and don't care. The cost will not hurt them very much. They calculate that it would bring notoriety to their names, if they could persuade the people to act upon their advice and perform the work, and then the people may pay the expense. But I hope that the ratepayers will again use their common sense and nip this scheme in the bud. If they could only realize the vast expense of doing this work they would soon stop the foolish talk of those few persons who are urging on the work. Just let the ratepayers go and look at Spaulding's bay and calculate how long it would take any hundred of them with wheelbarrows or carts to fill it up. There are very few who cannot make some kind of an estimate like this, and then, after they have done this, just let them ask themselves where the earth for this purpose is to be had. Not in this town I am certain, unless at great expense. Oh, but say the wiseacres, who are advocating this scheme, that don't make any difference. Only issue bonds enough to raise the required money and it can be done. How much money do you think it would require. Would one hundred thousand dollars do it. No. Would two hundred thousand. Perhaps it would, and perhaps not. I will give you an instance of the cost of filling in a small hollow compared to the size of Spaulding's bay. Most of my readers have seen the ravine a little south of Millbrook, on the line of the Midland railway, where there was formerly a bridge, and while Mr. Covert who then owned the railway, afterwards filled up. The distance to be filled up was about one hundred feet in length. The height of the filling was about twenty feet. In spring and fall there was a small stream of water there, a stream so small as to bear no comparison to the creek here which runs through Spalding's Bay. I asked Mr. Covert what that cost him, and he told me it cost him forty thousand dollars. Forty thousand dollars just to make an embankment wide enough for the trains to run over. Of course he had to provide a means, under the embankment, to carry off the water of this small stream, which would form a considerable item of the expense. Now, then, let the ratepayers compare the size of this embankment with the size of Spalding's Bay, and then ask themselves if it cost Mr. Covert to make this embankment and drain, forty thousand dollars, and this too when he had the earth ready to his hands, how much would it cost to fill in Spalding's Bay, and construct the large sewer underneath the earth to carry off the high and rapid waters of the creek which rushes into and through the bay. Engineers, no doubt, will tell us that the work is not very great, and that it might be done at comparatively small expence, and, of course, they will ridicule my statements, and say I am exaggerating the cost, and will say they know better than me. We could not expect them to do otherwise. But I beg leave to tell them that I would take the opinions upon this subject of dozens of people of this town before I would take theirs, and of people, too, who would not profit as largely by the work as some of them would do. Only let the people consent to do the work, and they would soon find what a large and costly part engineers would play in the matter. Many of my readers will no doubt remember how the Rice Lake railway bridge was built entirely upon the representations of engineers, and the vast sum of money which was wasted there, and spent it in spite of the predictions of common-sense people that it could not stand. And now let me ask whose opinions were the most reliable? I am not saying anything disparaging to the profession of an engineer. I am merely declaring that they are only men, and that their opinions are not infallible. Let us then simply use our own common sense and be guided by that alone. Let the land in Spaldings Bay be given away to any persons or corporations upon conditions that, within a limited time, they will fill it in. In this way the work can be done and all difficulty and expense be avoided. And this will end all the hue and cry of these few persons over this matter. The ratepayers must not forget that the outlay of a large sum of money in Spalding's Bay will have to be raised by the issue of debentures, the interest and principal of which they and their properties have got to pay, and pay it, too, every year when the collector calls upon them for their taxes. How would they like to have to pay every year perhaps a third or a fourth more taxes than they are paying now, and how many poor person's goods would have to be sold to enable them to pay these taxes? Let the ratepayers answer this question and then say how they will like it. The people in Peterborough have already lived through two cholera years, notwithstanding Spalding's Bay, and the chances are that they will live their time out just as well as if they impoverished themselves by filling in Spalding's Bay. But there is still another big expense looming up in the near future. Certain persons are already declaring that the town must be well provided with sewers, no matter what the cost, and one man among them said that if necessary the town must issue a hundred and fifty thousand dollars of debentures for that purpose. No doubt they think all this money could be spent in this way, and in all probability it would be so spent. But what will the ratepayers say to this! The interest or sinking fund upon this money would only be a trifle over ten thousand dollars a year, and the patient taxpayers will be expected to pay it without grumbling. But will they pay it, that is the question. Let those men who talk so glibly about a trifle of a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, just ask them and I fancy they will get an answer they won't like. Now then fellow taxpayers, what are you going to do to stop these outlays. You are the masters of the situation now, but wait until after the elections are over and there will be a different story to tell. Your power in the matter will then be gone, and your representatives in the Council will tell you that they represent the town and will do according to their pleasure, and that if you are not satisfied you will have to wait another year. Now is the time for you to act, now is the time, and now your duty, to pledge all candidates against any of these expenditures, and to reject all who will not so pledge themselves and all those respecting whom there is any doubt.

MUCH MERRY MAKING.

A LARGE NUMBER OF SKATERS MEET AT THE RINK ON THE OPENING NIGHT.

A Grand Opening — The Galleries Lined With Spectators—The "Roarin" Game is Indulged in by the Lindsay and Peterborough Curling Clubs.

If there is any such feeling as gaity there was abundance of it at the Skating Rink on Friday evening on the occasion of the formal opening. The skating rink was covered with happy looking floating fairy forms clad in every sort of costume, from the gaudy, garish and gorgeous to the more mild and modeuly habit. Princes and courtiers, in their luxuriant garments flashing with jewels, phlegmatic Dutchmen, melancholy Turks, impetuous boot blacks, busy house maids, savage Zulus, one long, lank cadeverous Yankee dude, and numerous other assumed characters moved around the ice in one glittering throng under the brilliant light of the electric lamps and to the sweet music of the City Band.

The following is a list of those who appeared on the ice in costume :—

LADIES.

Name.	Character.
Miss Kearns (Montreal)	Night
Miss Millie Beck	Red, White and Blue
Miss Derry	Christmas Card
Miss M. White	Peasant Girl
Miss Annie Faucet	Patchwork
Miss Alice Hamilton	Little Miss Muffet
Miss Eva V. Tivey	Evening Star
Miss Lillie Derry	Life of Trade
Miss Ada Sherwood	Nancy Lee
Miss May Hubeck	Eastern Queen
Miss Caroline Borland	Industry
Miss Wrighton	Queen of Hearts
Miss Kate Bertram	Brahman Lady
Miss Louse Mayhew	Art
Miss Ella Donnely	New Haven Fishwife

GENTLEMEN.

Mr. F. Trotter	Stafford as Romeo
Mr. Nelson Brown	English Gentleman
Mr. G. Hubeck	Old Gent
Mr. Harry Breeze	Courtier, Charles I
Mr. C. Lawford	Snowshoer
Mr. E. Snider	Tobogginer
Mr. R. Salisbury	Mephistopheles
Mr. Max. Hamilton	Cricketer
Mr. J. McRea	Yankee Dude
Mr. V. Eastwood	Robin Hood
Mr W. Phelan	Highland Chief
Mr. F. Larone	Zulu
Mr. A. Bertram	Bluebeard
Mr. Robt. Bertram	Hindo
Mr. B. Millar	Santa Claus
Mr. Geo. Webber	Chimney Sweep
Mr. Ed. Phillips	Bootblack
Mr. M. Phillips	Evening Review.
Mr. H. Dawson	Modus
Mr. J. Sophy	Bootblack
Mr. T. Workman	Turk
Mr. W. Logan	Duetchman
Rruice Uin	Housemaid
F. V. & Co.	Golden Lion
Master Harold Cluxton	Red Riding Hood

Through the early evening hours the rink reverberated with sounds of merriment. The gay laughter of the skaters mingled with the shouts of excitement from the vigorous lungs of the manipulators of the "stanes," and ever and anon the band intercalated a lively air. The fat, puffy Dutchman propelled himself through the crowd; the Turk caused fun in immensity by his broad, short, thick form and rolling eyes; the gay Robin Hood seemed to have a weakness for the dusky native of sunny India, and glided with her through the brilliant assemblage; and the burly little Santa Claus, with a pack on his well-covered back, strode on in defiance of all. The love-lorn Romeo took no interest in anyone, his Juliet was not there; the gallant courtier, it seemed, could not find a suitable mate, for he preferred solitary rambling; Highland Chief, with the busy Housemaid, appeared on the scene to good advantage; but the Yankee Dude and F. W. & Co. were the novelties. Graceful Art passed along with gentle undulation, and seemed to be successful in capturing the hearts of those esthetically inclined; Night floated darkly by, and formed a vivid contrast to the more brilliantly decked characters; little Red, White and Blue looked very fascinating; Eastern Queen moved majestically; and little Miss Muffet was a model of neatness.

At about nine o'clock the skaters were called up to the judges' platform to hear the decision which the judges had arrived at in regard to those who had won prizes. The judges were Mrs. R. E. Wood, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. C. A. Weller, Mr. R. E. Wood, Mr. H. Burnham and Mr. C. A. Weller. In addressing the skaters, Mr. Weller stated that it was with much difficulty that the judges arrived at any conclusion, on account of there being so many excellent costumes; but some decision had to be arrived at, and there was only one prize for each class. He then made the following announcement as to the prize winners :—

For fancy costume, Miss Kearns, as Night, won first prize, silver jewel case.

For comic costume, Miss Derry, as Christmas Cards, won first prize, silver cake basket.

For best dressed girl, under 14 years of age, Miss Millie Beck won first prize, silver toilet case.

The best dressed gentleman in fancy costume was Mr. Frank Trotter as Romeo, pair silver plated acme skates.

The best dressed gentleman in comic costume was Mr. F. Workman as Turk, prize, a meerschaum pipe.

The best dressed boy under 14 years of age, Master B. Millar as Santa Claus, prize, a pair of club skates.

The decisions were received with satisfaction, and the skaters continued on in the merry sport. A barrel race for boys created considerable amusement.

But all this time the curlers were in the utmost excitement, and to judge from their vehement shouts of "soup 'er up" the games were being pretty evenly contested. Our friends from the north, however, at last prevailed, and won the bonspiel by 11 points. The following is the analysis :—

Majority for Lindsay, 11.

This result, however, is not at all discreditable to the Peterborough players, but we hope ere the season is over to see a bonspeil played that will result more satisfactorily to the home club. Throughout the two matches the utmost good feeling existed and all unite in saying that the members of the Lindsay club are "Jolly Good Fellows."

Bigotry.

Bigotry is born of ignorance. Men of large culture are not tempted much in that directon. It is the man who thinks he knows a great deal but does not. That man is sure to be a bigot. He gets just enough religion to chain him, hamper him, incarcerate him all his life. In the far East there was an obelisk. Travellers went from all parts of the earth to look at it. On one side it was white, on another side it was green and on another side it was blue. Some travellers came, and they were wearied by their long journey, and each looked at one side of it and departed. Years afterward, they met and were in a great wrangle about the color of that obelisk. One said it was white, another said it was green another said it was blue. An intelligent traveller came up and said : "Gentlemen, stop this quarrel, you are all right and you are all wrong. I walked all around it. You saw only one side of it." Alas! for that man who sees only one side of any truth, one side of any doctrine one side of any form of worship. Let us talk all around and study these great themes of God and eternity, the dead, from all sides. But alas! for the man who has only one idea, no more, or less. Better vacuito, overthrowing a physical theory that an entire vaccum is impossible, than one idea, wandering through the desert of a man's brain—just one, no more, no less.—T. De Witt Talmage.

Could Suit Him.

House-hunter—This house is very nice, but it won't do for me. It is not large enough.

Real estate agent—I thought you said you had only one child?

"True, but I forgot out my uncle. He is a very rich old bachelor, and has promised to come and live with me."

"Oh, I see now. Well, I can suit you exactly. Only a square off I have a house larger than this, and with a big spare room which will be just the thing for a rich uncle."

"Indeed!"

"Yes; it faces directly north, and is awfully damp."—Philadelphia Call.

Leap Year Privileges.

"Aunt Jane, is it quite true that a lady may ask a gentleman to marry her if it is leap year?"

"Yes, my dear, quite true."

"But if he don't want to marry her, Aunt Jane, what must he do then?"

"He must give her a new black silk dress, my dear, and then she understands."

"Oh! Aunt Jane! Aunt Jane! Now I know why you have so many black silk dresses."—The Judge.

Jones—Speaking of the principles of government, you know that Cicero says :—

Smith—Kickero, you mean.

Jones—No, I don't; I mean Cicero.

Smith—But he was called Kickero.

Jones—Oh! well; if he was a kicker it don't matter what he said.—Texas Siftings.

Toronto public and charitable institutions entertained their dependents yesterday.

The Times commenting on the Nicaragua treaty says, Britain holds a position in the situation of impregnable strength.

A Wise Conclusion.—If you have vainly tried many remedies for rheumatism, it will be a wise conclusion to try Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cures all painful diseases when other medicines fail.

The losses by the recent fire at Cincinnati are estimated at $150,000.

A number of heavy mercantile failures are reported to have occurred in Austria.

A Great Mistake.—It is a great mistake to suppose that dyspepsia can't be cured, but must be endured, and life made gloomy and miserable thereby. Alexander Burns, of Cobourg, was cured after suffering fifteen years. Burdock Blood Bitters cured him.

Howard Paul, the London actor, gave a Christmas dinner to 500 Sandwich men.

Seriously Ill.—A person suffering from pain and heat over the small of the back, with a weak weary feeling and frequent headaches, is seriously ill and should look out for kidney disease. Burdock Blood Bitters regulate the kidneys, blood and liver, as well as the stomach and bowels.

Truth says a marriage has been arranged between the heir apparent to the Russian throne, and a daughter of the Crown Prince of Prussia.

A Valuable Patent.—The most valuable discovery patented in modern times is that of the best blood purifier and liver and kidnes regulator known. We refer to Burdock Blood Bitters, which is making so many wonderful cures and bringing the blessed boon of health to so many homes.

Gen. de Lisle has been promoted to be General of a division in recognition of his services in Tonquin.

A Perfect Beauty.—Perfect beauty is only attained by pure blood and good health. These acquirements give the possessor a pleasant expression, a fair, clear skin and the rosy bloom of health. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the blood and tone the entire system to a healthy action.

The German Minister to the Corea has received a tranquilizing telegram regarding the situation in that country.

When a person is weak and faint, or fatigued and exhausted, there is nothing so refreshing and reviving as a little of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. Rubbed on the hands and temples, and inhaled freely, it tones and braces the whole system.

Drunkenness, or the Liquor Habit, can be cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it, effecting a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken the Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. No harmful effects result from its administration. Cures guaranteed. Circulars and testimonials sent free. Address, Golden Specific Co., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

THE INFIDEL AND HIS DAUGHTER.

Suggested by reading a newspaper paragraph describing the scene between Ethan Allen and his daughter, on the eve of her death, when she asked the stern infidel in whose faith he would have her die—his or her mother's.

"The damps of death are coming fast,
My father, o'er my brow;
The past with all its scenes have fled,
And I must turn me now
To that dim future which in vain
My feeble eyes descry;
Tell me, my father, in this hour,
In whose stern faith to die.

"In thine? I've watched the scornful smile,
And heard thy withering tone,
Whene'er the Christian's humble hope
Was placed above thine own;
I've heard thee speak of coming death
Without a shade of gloom,
And laugh at all the childish fears
That cluster round the tomb.

"Or is it in my mother's faith?
How fondly do I trace,
Through many a weary year long past,
That calm and saintly face!
How often do I call to mind,
Now she is 'neath the sod,
The place, the hour, in which she drew
My early thoughts to God!

"'Twas then she took this sacred book,
And from its burning page,
Read how its truths support the soul
In youth and failing age!
And bade me in its precepts live,
And by its precepts die,
That I might share a home of love
In world's beyond the sky.

"My father, shall I look above,
Amid this gathering gloom;
To Him whose promises of love
Extend beyond the tomb?
Or curse the being who has blessed
This checkered path of mine?
And promises eternal rest?
Or die, my sire, in thine?"

The frown upon that warrior brow
Passed like a cloud away,
And tears coursed down the rugged cheek
That flowed not till that day.
"Not—not in mine," with choking voice,
The skeptic made reply—
"But in thy mother's holy faith,
My daughter, may'st thou die!"

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Pulpit Exchange.

Rev. I. Tovell and Rev. Thos. Manning, will exchange pulpits to-morrow morning. In the evening in the George St. Methodist Church, Mr. Tovell will take as his subject,—"Farewell Words of 1884."

Will be Warmer.

The weather probabilities for this district for the twenty-four hours counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported by the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—Winds from east to south, fair to cloudy weather, with local snow falls by night; higher temperature.

The most extensive range of Cardigan Jackets can be found at Andrew McNeil's.

A Fine Calf.

Mr. Thos. Graham, of Cavanhill, has sold a fine shorthorn bull calf to Mr. Joseph Trennum, of Smith. It is eleven months old and weighs 1010 lbs. It took first prize at Lindsay and Millbrook, and second prize at Port Hope. The farmers of Smith will be glad to see this addition to their fine thorough-bred stock.

To our Poets.

The publishers of the Montreal Witness have offered a prize of $100 for the best and most appropriate Winter Carnival poem not exceeding 150 lines, the poem to be in the hands of the publishers of that paper by the 6th January. It is worth while our mentioning the above offer as the successful competitor may be found among our own readers.

St. John's Day.

To-day being the festival of St. John the Evangelist, the Masonic Lodges met at noon, and this evening they will again meet for the installation of their officers for the coming year. To-morrow a special sermon will be preached to the members of the craft, in the Baptist Church, Murray Street, by the Rev. Bro. Munro, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Exemptions.

We find the following in the report of the last meeting of the Lindsay council, as given in the Post:—

"Moved by the Chairman of the Fire and Water Committee,—That the council send a memorial to the legislature asking that all exemptions on church, school, county buildings and other exempted property, be abolished, and that a special committee of the council be appointed to draw up such a petition. The resolution was seconded by Deputy-Reeve Fee, and carried."

An Xmas Gift.

On Christmas Eve Mrs. James Logan was made the recipient of a handsome silver ice pitcher and stand. With the stand there is also a very pretty silver cream pitcher and sugar bowl. The gift is from her friends in the George Street Methodist Church, of which she has been a member for some time. Mrs. Logan wishes to return her sincere thanks to those who have thus so kindly remembered her on this occasion.

HILLIARD'S FAMILY FLOUR is ahead for bread making. Leave your orders at W. J. Mason's.

The R. C. Bazaar.

The amounts realized at the bazaar lately held in aid of St. Peter's Cathedral were as follows:—No. 1 Ward, on "Noble Word," as His Lordship Bishop Jamot calls it, $1,266.00; No. 2 Ward, $902.50; No. 3 Ward, $900; Ashburnham, $709; the Sisters of Notre Dame, $500; the country refreshment table, $330; the town refreshment table, $300; No. 4 Ward, $250; collected at the door and other sources, $650; making in all the grand total of $5,798.50.

Church Opening.

The opening services of the Murray Street Baptist Church will be held to-morrow. The Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Jarvis street, Toronto, will preach at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. At 3 p.m. the Rev. A. H. Munro, by special request, will preach to the United Masonic fraternity. The church has, during the past few months, undergone considerable change. Internal improvements have been made, and it is now a very comfortable, as well as beautiful, place of worship.

Christmas Tree.

A children's entertainment will be held in the St. Andrew's Sunday School room on Tuesday evening next, commencing at 7.30 o'clock, when singing, dialogues, recitations, &c., will be rendered by the scholars, at the close of which presents will be given to the children of the Sunday School from the Christmas trees. The room will be suitably decorated for the occasion and a pleasant evening may be expected. Admission 10 cents. Every one is invited.

Can Santa Claus find anything more suitable for Children at Christmas than a pretty Hood and Jacket from Turnbull's?

Monday Evening

Prof. O. S. Fowler, the famous phrenologist commences a series of lectures on phrenology, and self culture at Bradburn's Opera House.

The Third Ward.

We are informed that Mr. Douglas, at the request of some of his friends has consented to offer himself again as a candidate for the representation of the Third Ward in the Town Council.

St. Andrew's Sabbath School.

The annual entertainment, with Christmas tree for the children, will be held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 30th. There will be a good programme. Entertainment to commence at half-past seven. Admission 10 cents.

Social and Tea.

The Ladies Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church intend holding a social and tea on Tuesday, December 30th. A choice programme of singing, reading, &c., has been arranged. Tea served from 6.30 till 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

A Princely Xmas Present.

The donation taken at the door of St. Peter's Cathedral on Xmas day amounted to the handsome sum of $650. As this is a voluntary offering on the part of the people, we can congratulate His Lord-hip on being wished the compliments of the season in so tangible a manner.

"The Mighty Dollar."

At a matinee this afternoon the Tavernier Dramatic Company gave a second representation of B. D. Woolf's comedy drama, "The Mighty Dollar." Miss Ida Van Cortland again appeared in the character of "Mrs. General Gilflory" to the satisfaction of a very select audience. The other members of the Company supported her with their usual ability. To-night the last performance of their engagement in Peterborough will be given. "The Hidden Hand" will be presented.

A Rare Chance.

Now that the present cold season has the effect of making the average citizen wrap up more securely and put on heavier wearing apparel generally, it is a pleasing and commendable act on the part of the proprietor of Habiliment Hall, Mr. Andrew McNeil, to reduce the price of his immense stock of underclothing twenty per cent. This puts first class and reliable goods within the reach of all, and the public should not to fail to take advantage of the reduction. In other lines of clothing, Habiliment Hall will be found to be equally low in prices. Everything in the gents' furnishing line conceivable. Leave your orders with A. McNeil if you want a first class fit; his tailoring establishment is unexcelled for material and style in Central Ontario.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

This is the Night.

To-night the Travernier Dramatic Company complete their engagement at Bradburn's Opera House. For the past two weeks the people of Peterborough have experienced much pleasure in the performances of the above mentioned company, and at prices which satisfied everyone. The play presented to night will be "The Hidden Hand," a piece well calculated of itself to draw a large house, but on the occasion of the valedictory performance every available seat in the hall should be occupied. The admission will be as usual, 10 cents; reserved seats 20 cents. Little Annie Bird, the wonderful child actress, will appear in some of her best songs accompanied by some of her sweet posing and charming attitudes. See Advertisement.

A LOT OF BREAKFAST SHAWLS and Clouds, slightly soiled, selling cheap at J. ERSKINE'S.

Dramatic.

Miss. Ida VanCortland made a happy selection in choosing "Hazel Kirke" for her benefit on Friday evening, for in the title role she surpassed herself. As the light hearted girl, as the happy wife, as the wronged woman and as the grief stricken daughter she was equally effective and true to nature, representing youthful gaiety, warm love, womanly indignation and overwhelming grief without exaggeration and yet with full effect. Miss Alice Hunt was an arch and lively "Dollie Dutton." Mr. Wilson Day as the iron-willed but really warm hearted farmer Dunstan Kirke filled most successfully a part that calls for good acting. The many true-hearted Arthur Carrington found a fitting representative in Mr. J. P. Engres. Mr. Albert Tavernier was most amazing as the excentric Pittacus Green, and Mr. H. S. Sargent evoked roars of laughter in the comical part of Barney O'Flynn. The whole play was admirably put on the stage and evidently gave thorough satisfaction to the crowded audience which filled every seat and overflowed into the passages. Little Annie Bird, was as charming as ever in her singing and dancing between the acts and was greeted with hearty applause. "The Mighty Dollar" was announced for the matinee to-day, and "The Hidden Hand" for this evening's performance.

IF YOU WANT a first-class article of Family Flour, go to W. J. Mason's and order some of Hilliard's. It is the best.

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

SATURDAY, Dec. 27.—Thos. Billings was charged by Thos. Bradburn with being drunk and disorderly in a public place on Friday. The case was enlarged until Monday.

Rules for Peaceful Living.

1 Complain only to God. "As for me, is my complaint to man?" Job 21:4.

2. Avoid self-justification. Go and tell Jesus. "When he was accused He answered nothing." Math. 27:12.

3. Seek not favor from man, but the favor of God only. "Fear thou God." Eccl. 5:7.

4. Avoid all expression of morbid feeling, only pray. "Avoid it, pass not by it, turn from it, and pass away." Prov. 4: 15.

5. Avoid argument or any uncalled-for expression of opposing opinion. Pray instead. "The servant of the Lord must not strive." 2 Tim. 2: 24.

6. Avoid saying or doing anything which would make another uncomfortable. Pray instead. "Be harmless as doves." Matt. 10; 16.

7. Say, do, or think nothing for display. If tempted, pray. "Not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think." Roman 12: 3.

8 Beware of detraction. If tempted, pray. "Walk in love." Eph. 5:.

9. Beware of guile. If tempted, pray. "Neither was guile found in its mouth." 1 Pet. 2: 22.

10. Take things as they come. Pray to the the Lord of "All these things." Isa. 45: 7.

11. Labor not to bear the burden of to-morrow. Only pray. "Wait on the Lord, and he shall save thee." Prov. 20: 22.

12. Leave the past with Jesus. "For he shall save his people from their sins." Matt. 1: 21.—Illustrated Christian Weekly.

DAILY EVENING REVIEW.

VOL. XII.—No. 152. PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1884. PRICE TWO CENTS

Giroux & Sullivan.

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this eetablishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

We wish you all "A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

Neglect of Education!

WHILE PARENTS take great interest in the various branches of the education of their children, they should by no means neglect those of Dancing and Calisthenics. It is most painful to see otherwise attractive young ladies or gentlemen conducting themselves awkwardly on the floor of a ball-room or at a private assembly. A few lessons in these arts from a professional master would teach them the rudiments of Dancing and give them a graceful carriage.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS!

MR. GEO. A. COX ELECTED MAYOR OF THE TOWN BY ACCLAMATION.

The Old Councillors Re-elected in No. Three Ward—Opposition in the Other Divisions—A Number of Candidates in the Second Ward.

There does not appear to have been a deep interest taken in the municipal elections this year, at any rate so far as the mayoralty was concerned. There was only a small number of gentlemen present at the Council Chamber when the nomination for the mayoralty took place. In the election of councillors in the different Wards, however, more interest was manifested, except in No. Three Ward, the electors of which appear to have been satisfied with the representatives chosen last year, and they returned them by acclamation. In No. One Ward five candidates have been proposed, the three present councillors, a gentleman who formerly represented the Ward, and another. Seven candidates were nominated in No. Two Ward, and in No. Four Ward four candidates are in the field. From this number a good selection can be made.

THE MAYORALTY.

At ten o'clock Mr. Charles D. Macdonald, Returning-Officer, took the Clerk's seat in the Council Chamber, and called for the nomination of candidates for the office of Mayor for the Town of Peterborough for the year 1885.

At the expiration of the hour during which, according to law, nominations could be received, only one candidate had been proposed, namely: MR. GEORGE ALBERTUS COX, who was nominated by Mr. James Stevenson and seconded by Mr. W. H. Wrighton.

The RETURNING-OFFICER declared Mr. Cox elected Mayor for the year by acclamation.

Mr. Cox, on coming forward, said he did not intend to take up their time by making a speech. He simply desired to return thanks for the honor conferred upon him by being re-elected by acclamation. He would do the very best he could to advance the welfare of the town in which he and they had such a large interest. Wishing them all the compliments of the season, he resumed his seat.

Three cheers for Mr. Cox were called for and were given.

NO. ONE WARD.

In No. One Ward Mr. Joseph Lundy, Deputy Returning Officer, received the following nominations:—

Mr. ROBERT S. DAVIDSON, nominated by Mr. Angus Williams, and seconded by Mr. Samuel Hall.

Mr. THOMAS CAHILL, nominated by Mr. Angus Williams, and seconded by Mr. Richard Sheehy.

Mr. JOHN MCNAUGHTON, nominated by Mr. Samuel Hall, and seconded by Mr. Angus Williams.

Mr. ANDREW MCNEIL, nominated by Mr. H. W. Watson, and seconded by Mr. L. Spry.

Mr. WILLIAM MONTGOMERY, nominated by Mr. Michael Bolton, and seconded by Mr. Samuel Hall.

After the hour for receiving nominations had expired, Mr. C. Halpin was, on motion, appointed chairman.

Mr. R. S. DAVIDSON thanked the ratepayers for again nominating him to represent them in the Council. One of the first things they would have to do would be to cautiously go about filling Spaulding's Bay, and he favoured having it done by degrees, beginning bo carrying Townsend street across the bay, widening George street to its proper width, cribbing in the creek, etc. He did not want to pledge himself to any particular course for the future, but wished to be left to exercise his judgment as the questions arose.

Mr. T. CAHILL returned thanks once more for again being nominated as one of the representatives of the Noble Ward. He referred to the necessity of filling up Spaulding's Bay and the means for doing so. He thought that if any arrangement could be made with the railway companies for filling up the hole it would be the easiest way of accomplishing it, otherwise he favored constructing the streets which ran across it one by one. In answer to a question, he stated that no offer had ever been made by the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company to fill it up and take the land.

Mr. J. MCNAUGHTON was not opposed to filling up the bay, but he did not wish to see money spent on it without submitting it to the ratepayers. He reviewed Mr. McNeil's acts in the Council, spoke very severely in reference to his connection with the Board of Health, his project for a sewer to the locks, and the proposed purchase of a heater for the steam engine.

Mr. A. MCNEIL said he had not come there expecting to receive such a torrent of abuse as had been poured upon him by Mr. McNaughton. He confessed that it had been unfortunate for him to have been elected Chairman of the Board of Health, as it seemed to have caused him so much trouble. It had been reported in that Ward that he was against the "poor man's pig," and other similar charges, growing out of his connection with the Board of Health, had been made against him. These charges, he said, were all unfounded, and he explained his position with reference to them. Ever since he had come to Peterborough, Spaulding's Bay had been a hobby of his. It was certainly a source of disease, especially to that end of the town. He had taken considerable pains to get all the information he could regarding it, and had interested himself considerably in the matter. He believed the town was bound to fill it up, and they could not avoid doing it. According to information he had obtained, it would cost $14,000 to fill and crib it completely, which, if spread over five years, would not involve the town in such a tremendous debt as had been represented. He then referred to some of his acts in connection with the Board of Health.

Mr. A. WILLIAMS asked to whom the Inspectors of the Board of Health were responsible for not doing their duty. He claimed that they did not act fairly, and had made fish of one and flesh of another.

Mr. MCNEIL said they were responsible to the Council.

The proceedings then terminated.

SECOND WARD.

At noon Mr. Chas. Cameron took his seat in the Town Council Chamber as Deputy Returning Officer for the Second Ward, and called for nominations. Mr. Jas. Noble acted as pol' clerk. The following candidates were proposed:—

MR. JOHN MCCLELLAND, nominated by Mr. John Batten, seconded by Mr. Geo. Delisle.

Mr. R. H. GREEN, nominated by Mr. Walter Paterson, jr. seconded by Mr. R. E. Wood.

Mr. THOS. KELLY, nominated by Mr. Jas. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Thos. Beavis.

Mr. D. BELLEGHEM, nominated by Mr. Walter Paterson, jr. seconded by Mr. B. Shortly.

Mr. R. W. ERRETT, nominated by Mr. Jas. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Walter Paterson, jr.

Mr. WM. MILLS, nominated by Mr. E. A. Peck, seconded by Mr. C. W. Sawers.

Mr. WALTER PATERSON, jr. nominated by Mr. Thos. Beavis, seconded by Mr. W. H. Robertson.

The Deputy Returning officer declared the meeting adjourned till Monday, Jan. 5th, when a poll will be taken.

NO. THREE WARD.

Mr. John Irwin, Deputy-Returning Officer for the Third Ward, called for nominations for candidates to represent that division in the Council during 1885, and when the hour had expired the following nominations were recorded:—

Mr. WM. YELLAND, nominated by Mr. W. A. Morrow, and seconded by Mr. W. C. Nicolls.

Mr. ARTHUR RUTHERFORD, nominated by Mr. W. C. Nicolls and seconded by Mr. R. Clinkscale.

Mr. JOHN DOUGLAS, nominated by Mr. R. Rowe, and seconded by Mr. John D. Baptie.

At one o'clock no other nominations had been received, and those three gentlemen, who represented the Ward during 1884, are therefore re-elected by acclamation.

NO. FOUR WARD.

Mr. Wm. Lee, Deputy-Returning Officer for No. Four Ward, received the following nominations:—

Mr. THOMAS MENZIES, nominated by Mr. John Armour and seconded by Mr. John Gamble.

Mr. JAMES KENDRY, nominated by Mr. John Armour and seconded by Mr. F. W. Miller.

Mr. JOHN J. HARTLEY, nominated by Mr. F. Mason and seconded by Mr. T. Brown.

Mr. FRANCIS MASON, nominated by Mr. Samuel Griffin and seconded by Mr. T. Brown.

The three gentlemen mentioned first are the present representatives of the Ward.

ASHBURNHAM.

In the Village of Ashburnham Mr. John Burnham was re-elected to the office of Reeve by acclamation. The following were nominated for councillors:—Messrs. H. Calcutt, W. Wand, John Smith, Richard Mowry, Wm. Mills and Charles Braley.

LAKEFIELD

From a Correspondent.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The Christmas decorations in this pretty church are unsually tasty and effective this year. The trellis-work of evergreens which has been put around the whole building in former years, is relieved by bright vermillion maltese crosses in alternative panels. The font, reading desks, communion-table, &c., are gracefully hung with evergreen wreaths. There was a good congregation on Christmas day who seemed to enter fully into the joyous spirit of this holy season. The offerings on that day amounted to $48.50.

A Book of the Century.

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—The fourth volume of Prince Bismarck's letters, about to be published, contains the private diplomatic despatches written to General Von Manteuffel from 1851 to 1858 while Bismarck was the Prussian representative at Frankfort. In some of the letters his brother diplomatists are held up to ridicule for affecting youthfulness. In one place Bismarck says: "I do not see why we should liken our seaworthyship with the worm eaten bark Austria. Everybody courts our alliance. Great storms suit us best. We can use troubled times fearlessly without consideration of others. If we desire to become greater with 400,000 men we must not be afraid of standing alone and leaving others to fight. We had better isolate ourselves. The greater the difficulties of Europe the more valuable our alliance and the greater price we shall get for it."

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The Admiralty has awakened to the fact that facilities for coaling war-vessels at home and on foreign stations are inadequate. It has appointed a special committee to look into the matter, and to suggest a method by which facilities can be easily and quickly extended in case the outbreak of war should make such a step necessary or desirable.

DUBLIN, Dec. 28.—An anti-rent agitation prevails in Limerick. The tenants demand a reduction of twenty per cent., and the agents of the landlords object.

THE ADVANCE RETARDED.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The news from Egypt is not of the most satisfactory character. It appears Lord Wolseley has decided to abandon the attempt to reach Shendy by the desert route from Korti, thus cutting off the great bend in the Nile. The difficulties of the way seem to him too great to be surmounted with the resources at his command. Instead, he will use the road from Merawe Berber, through the desert, but much shorter than the other. He has accordingly changed the base for the concentration of his forces from Korti to Merawe. This change places the relief of Khartoum two months further into the future than had been anticipated. It is difficult to prophesy when Gen. Gordon will be rescued from his trying position. Lord Wolseley is far from satisfied with the arrangements for the expedition. He has sent further complaints to the War Office of inefficiency and the absolute breakdown of the transport and commissary service. Although two months have elapsed since the pioneer corps left Sarass, only fifteen hundred men, out of 7,000, composing the full force of the expedition, have reached Korti. The British Envoys have left Morbi on a mission to the Kabbabish and other tribes, which are only weekly attached to the Mahdi and the envoys will endeavor to persuade the tribes to enter into an alliance with the English. The chief argument to be used to accomplish this end will be of a financial character.

Armed Socialists in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—A regular detail is to be stationed at the first regiment armoury. Col. Knox has received information that four regular companies of Socialists have been organised here, and at least two are equipped with breech-loading rifles. If an outbreak should occur a raid would probably be made on the armoury.

Garden Work.

See that the vegetables in pits or trenches have sufficent covering.

Every farmer located near a town or manufacturing village, should consider what crops will be in demand. Farm gardening in such localities may be made profitable.

Early cabbage are always in demand, and pay well. Plants that have been wintered in cold frames may be bought, or raised in a hot-bed. Early beets, turnips, etc., may be grown as farm crops. It is poor policy to raise low-priced crops on high priced land.

Those who have plants in cold frames should give air every mild day; they are in more danger from being warm than from the severe cold.

Parsnips and salsify left in the ground may be dug during a thaw.

Manure in heaps should not be allowed to get hot enough to burn, or become fire fanged; prevent this by turning it over.

Repair all tools that need it, and purchase to supply deficiencies.

Order seeds early, and see that those on hand are safe from rats and mice.

Prepare boxes for sowing seeds in hot beds, or if seedings are to be started in the house, make boxes ready to fit the windows. They may be a foot wide, and three or four inches deep. Nail the parts securely together, as the boxes are apt to warp.—American Agriculturist.

IT is a good plan to draw manure and other material, and spread it around fruit trees. It will often prevent the ground from thawing until settled warm weather in the spring, and thus save fruit buds which might otherwise be pushed too rapidly by spring frosts, or by intensely severe weather the latter part of winter.

A FROST bitten potato has no value except to cook immediately and feed to stock. After freezing, potatoes have a sweetish taste, indicate that to sugar, which, of course, is of the glucose variety and not so sweet as that from canes. A frost bitten potato, however, decays so rapidly that great care should be taken to keep such cellars or from pits of sound tubers.

THE LENNOX VICTORY.

When Mr. Hawley carried Lennox with a nominal majority of 43 last August, great was the jubilation in the Mowat camp over the "famous victory" obtained in Lennox. We were assured by the Globe that "the redeeming of Lennox was a victory which was not only extremely creditable to the Reformers of that riding, and especially to Mr Hawley and his immediate assistants, but was a pretty naive indication of the change of sentiment that was going on throughout the Province"—this constituency having been previously represented by the late Mr Roe, a supporter of Mr. Meredith, and we were further assured, in that Peckniffian style for which the Globe is noted, that "the verdict in Lennox can only be taken as signifying that even in counties that were once Tory strongholds, the thoughtful among the voters have come to the conclusion that, however respectable the candidate, the iniquities of the Tory party can no longer be endured.

Nice reading that! But let us turn from the utterances of the organ of the organized hypocrisy to the facts which less than five months have served to bring to light as to how the "thoughtful" electors of Lennox were brought to view "Tory iniquities" with horror by "Mr. Hawley and his immediate "assistants" and this "once Tory stronghold" was redeemed and brought into line as a supporter of the pure, the high-minded and statesmanlike government of Mr. Oliver Mowat.

Entertaining a different opinion, as wicked Tories in the perversity of their nature will sometimes do, as to the methods by which Mr. Hawley and his immediate assistants had converted the thoughtful of Lennox, they decided to file a petition against his return. No sooner was this done than Mr. Hawley became so difficult to find by the person entrusted with the duty of serving him, that had Mr. Hawley been a wicked Tory, instead of a high and pure minded Reformer we should have said that his conduct was strong presumptive evidence that his conscience had made a coward of him. Well, finding that Mr. Hawley was proving himself such an apt scholar of the "mysterious stranger," who has been doing so much of late to convert "thoughtful" Tories from the errors of their ways, the court had to be applied to, to allow substitutional service, and the application having been granted, Mr. Hawley was at last legally served with the notice, which he, no doubt, in accordance with that "strong sense of right," which the Globe credits him with, was longing for, had his conscience, not his sense of right, proved master of his legs. This accomplished, the next step was to get a day fixed for the trial. Here again, however, Mr. Hawley's conscience got the better of his sense of right, and every possible expedient was resorted to in order to postpone the day designed to give the public more light as to the arguments which converted the "thoughtful Tories" of Lennox into good Reformers last August, and especially as to the methods of the "mysterious stranger," who seems to be a Siamese twin of the present secretary of the Central Reform Association of Ontario. Affidavits of various kinds were forwarded to Toronto, all calculated to influence the judges in fixing a distant day for the trial—even to the length of informing them that Mr. Hawley was about to take a wife, and, of course, a honey-moon should not be marred by an election trial—then it would be dangerous for the judges to visit Napanee, either now or at any near future time, as the smallpox was prevalent in that locality, and so on ad infinitum to this end, and which, had they been successful, would have postponed this trial until after the time for the meeting of the Legislature, when the trial would have been thrown over until after the session, and Mr. Hawley, in accordance with his "sense of right," would have sat, voted and drawn his pay, although all the time he knew perfectly well he had no right to do either. Well, after much unnecessary delay, the 6th of January next was fixed by the court for trial. The House would not meet before then! The issue could no longer be either avoided or postponed, and no matter what his disobedient legs might do, "Mr. Hawley and his immediate assistants" stood to face their record—the tracks that they had left behind—on the 6th January. But is this dire extremity—the "assistants," if not Mr. Hawley—were equal to the occasion. Mr. Lyon's resignation in Algoma had done much to prevent exposure as to how the "thoughtful" in that consituency were converted. Why not head off the wicked Tories in the same way in Lennox? No sooner said than done, and forthwith Mr. Hawley "gives notice to the petitioner that he abandons all claim to the seat," because, the Globe adds, "it has been discovered that an indiscreet agent committed a corrupt act" and because "of the enormous costs which, under the present law, attend the trial of an election petition," reasons which we venture to assert, as put, are not worth the paper they are written upon. Let us examine them:

1st. As to the effect of "indiscreet" acts by agents:

The 159 sec. of the Election Act, as amended by the act of last session, declares that "to prevent the expense and trouble of new elections when unnecessary or useless; in case of corrupt practice or practices being committed by an agent without the knowledge and consent of the candidate, if the corrupt practice or practices was or were of such trifling nature, or was or were of such trifling extent, that the result cannot have been affected, or be reasonably supposed to have been affected by such practice or practices either alone or in connection with other illegal practices at the election, such corrupt practice or practices shall not avoid the election." That is what the present law says about the matter, now let us see what the decisions of the judges have been under this law when it it was more stringent than it now is:—

In the Prescott case Mr. Hagar's majority was 32 (11 less than that of Mr. Hawley) and, notwithstanding that the judges found that three different persons had been guilty of corrupt practices in that election, yet Mr. Hagar retained his seat.

In the East Northumberland case, although five persons (one of whom went to the States in order to evade examination) were found "guilty of bribery, yet Mr. Ferris retains his seat—his majority being 77, as compared with Mr. Hawley's 43.

In the Welland case no less than eleven persons were reported as having been guilty of corrupt practices and yet Mr. Morin, with a majority of only 55, retained his seat.

And in the East Simcoe case, where the majority was only 20 and corrupt practices were proven against the Secretary of the Reform Association as well as by others, the judges were divided and Mr. Drury was only unseated by the Court of Appeal.

Under these circumstances it is the heighth of audacity for the Globe, Mr. Hawley or anyone else to say that he resigns because "it has been discovered that an indiscreet agent committed "a corrupt act." The truth of the matter is that the "immediate assistants," to whom Mr. Hawley owed more than his entire majority, and in whose hands he was and no doubt is but a puppet dare not face the exposure which awaited them. Hence, after doing their best to steal the seat for the session, and having failed, they now propose to shut off all investigation into their misdeeds, by Mr. Hawley disclaiming the seat,—a proceeding which has only become possible under one of the provisions of Mr. Mowat's iniquitions bill of last session.

2nd. As to the costs plea: we have not the slightest doubt but that, were the trial to go on, Mr. Hawley would have a heavy bill of costs to pay, not for the reason given, but because the corruption practiced by his "assistants" was so wide spread as to justify the calling of a large number of witnesses. Were there no danger of that, Mr. Hawley would have no fear of the costs, because he would only have to pay the costs of the particular charges upon which the petitioner succeeded. Under these circumstances it is simply absurd for the Globe to try to justify Mr. Hawley's course upon the grounds which it does. Had he not run away from the writ; had he not done his best to prevent the trial taking place before the Legislature met, and had he not waited until he was driven into a corner in which he had either to fight or run, there might have been some virtue in the Globe's excuses and some reason to believe that Mr. Hawley was actuated by that "sense of right" for which it gives him credit. But as it is, Mr. Hawley's present course can only be accepted as evidence that the last election in Lennox was conducted in the same manner, and won by the same means as the glorious victory which carried Mr. Allison into the House of Commons and in which a "Mysterious Stranger" was proved to have distributed money with a lavish hand.

SPALDING'S BAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—An exceptionally lengthy letter appeared in your Saturday's issue, the last issue that can be furnished to your subscribers before the nominations of candidates for seats at the Council Board, take place, on the subject of the health of the town, with special reference to sewerage and drainage.

"Ratepayer," in that communication, appeals to the "common sense" of the ratepayers at large. On the eve of our municipal election, he says in effect, and he means his words to reach the ears chiefly of the small ratepayers—"Don't be fooled by visionaries and engineers, who want to impose a heavy tax upon you by the removal of so-called nuisances. You have lived on for many years in a condition of dirt and unhealthiness; you have not died from malarial diseases superinduced by filthy pools and uncleansed streets; why not trust to Providence to spare you still from the evil influences which surround you? Save your dollars," that is the chief object for which you have to live and if you find your health impaired from some cause to you unknown or unacknowledged, what matter as long as you have more to spend on whiskey and tobacco?

Now this, or something like this, is the burden of "Ratepayer's" song.

I should like to remind my fellow ratepayers of the opinion universally expressed by the medical men of the town. They know well of what they treat and their voices are raised unanimously against a continuance of the intolerable nuisance of Spaulding's Bay; and why? Simply because they are honest and honorable men. Is it, I would ask, to their interest to endeavor to mitigate an evil that tends to increase their practice? What are they to gain by urging the vital importance of rendering the town more healthy, and thus making their professional visits less frequent and consequently less remunerative? Death's harvest is the doctors' harvest; but these gentlemen feel that it is their bounden duty to fight against death with all the ability with which they are endowed by God, and nobly do they discharge that duty, having no regard to the miserable cheese-paring economy of men of Ratepayer's calibre.

This person's letter harps upon the cost of filling in the bay, and institutes a comparison between the expense incurred by Mr. Covert at Millbrook and that to be incurred by us in Peterborough. I am no engineer, but I rather think that the comparison is an unfair one. The bay, I imagine, need only be filled up to a certain height with a channel left open for the free passage through it of the creek. I know not, and I care not, what the cost may be, but I maintain that whatever it is, it ought, under judicious management, to be incurred. How much, let me ask, do the ratepapers who are the chief objects of Ratepayer's solicitude spend in whisky and tobacco every year? Let them reduce this expenditure, and they will not only be enabled to pay a small additional tax for filling in the bay, without personal inconvenience, but they will thus be doing that which will tend materially, by a duplex movement, to the improvement of their health and comfort.

In conclusion, let me express my earnest hope that the ratepayers will not allow themselves to be humbugged by the specious and selfish arguments, if arguments they can be called, of the writer of the letter to which I have alluded; a letter which is simply an electioneering dodge, intended to influence the votes of the unreflecting in favor of one candidate and in opposition to another.

THE OPENING SERVICES.

THE BAPTIST CONGREGATION SECURE A NEW PLACE OF WORSHIP

The Edifice Improved — The Rev. Dr. Thomas, of the Jarvis Street Church, Toronto, Preaches the First Sermon— An Eloquent Masonic Sermon is Delivered in the Afternoon of the Opening Day.

The members of the Baptist body in Peterborough, finding the church on Aylmer street not large enough for their increasing congregation, determined on securing a place more commodious for their growing numbers. As the very substantial Bible Christian Church on Murray street had been vacated by the amalgamation of the Bible Christian and Methodist bodies, negotiations were set on foot for its purchase. Terms of agreement were arrived at some months ago, and since that time additions to, and improvements and alterations in the church have been steadily going on. A new porch has been built at the entrance, of size and style of architecture suited to the church. Inside, the church has been transformed into a place of worship at once elegant and neat. The ceiling and cornice moulding have been calcimined and tinted and the walls have been blocked out and neatly penciled. Stencil work bordering runs around the entire room immediately above the wainscotting and at a distance of about eight feet from the floor. The raised platform which formerly stood at the north end of the church, serving as a choir gallery, has been removed, and the choir now occupy a position directly to the right of the pulpit. New seats replace the old ones. They are well designed, both as to utility and ornamentality, having sliding seats which may be drawn out into the aisles when necessary. The pulpit furniture is of oak finished in mahogany and veneer. Three large, high chairs, elegantly finished, manufactured by Mr. D. Belleghem, stand on the pulpit platform, for the use of the pastor and visiting clergymen. Immediately behind the pulpit is an alcove arch seventeen feet high and five feet deep. It is ornamented by beautiful mouldings and produces a pleasing effect. Beneath the floor of this alcove is the baptistry. From the alcove, on each side, lead two passages to the vestry rooms. The vestry rooms are plainly and becomingly furnished and the floor is covered with a carpet of a cheerful pattern. These vestry rooms are a new addition to the church. The wood-work of the church throughout has been freshened by varnish; new hot air apparatus has been procured; additional gas fixtures hung, and the plach looks fresh, new and cheery. It will seat about 500 people and the cost of the improvements will amount to about $2,000.

IN THE MORNING

of Sunday, as was previously announced, the Rev. Dr. Thomas occupied the pulpit, in association with the pastor of the congregation, the Rev. A. H. Munro.

The Rev. Doctor took for his text the opening verses of the twelfth chapter of the gospel according to St. John. He dwelt at length on the character and lives of those who participated in the feast described in that chapter, and stated that fac-simile characteristics were to be found in the Christian church. The body of the church was made from people cleansed and brought back to life, as were Simon and Lazarus. There were many Marthas in the Christian church. It was essential that there should be. It was Martha that served at the feast; and was it not necessary to have zealous workers to manage the financial part of the church's affairs? There were many women whose names were not heard in prayer meetings, who were doing honor to the Lord in other ways. He knew of business men who gave with unstinted liberality support for the furtherance of God's work, who could not, it seemed, join in the more spiritual parts. There were many Marys in the Christian church, beneficient Marys, full of love and adoration for Christ. They would not do to look after the secular departments of the church; no one would dream of putting them on a committee for the providing of means for church work. But these Marys were full of quiet, religious love, and create an atmosphere at home in which the young are modelled and formed in Christianity. Then there was Judas, representative of worldly interference. There was not one Christian church without its Judas, the first church had its Judas, and those for all time to come would have their's. The good intents of zealous members have often come to naught by the coolness with which their projects were received by their dearest brethren. There was an omnipresent divinity about the church, for Christ, the Saviour, had said, "Lo, I am with you always."

IN THE AFTERNOON

at three o'clock the Rev. A. H. Munro preached a sermon to the united fraternity of Freemasons. The centre row of seats were reserved for them and were well filled with the members of the fraternity from Peterborough and from surrounding places.

The rev. gentlemen took for his text Phillippians iv, 8: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, if there be any praise, think on these things."

The Apostle Paul, he said, was the human leader in the greatest revolution of all time; a revolution that did not begin nor end with himself; that of christianizing the world. By his personal labours he extended christianity far beyond Palestine. It was Paul and Peter who brought the gospel among the Greeks and Romans in Asia and Europe, and gave them that form of doctrine which the whole world is destined to receive. The progress of christianity from the beginning had been revolutionary, but it was the sword of the spirit of God which was placed in the hands of soldiers to fight the battles of christianity. That instrument had been the means of winning many victories over ancint pagaism, unbelief, worldliness and superstition.

The revolution, he said, might be regarded as destructive or con-tructive. To the Greeks and Romans it must have seemed to be wholly destructive. They had many gods and godesses, christianity declared their idols to be nothing. They had magnificet temples, christianity turned its back upon them. They had science, christianity declared it to be falsely so called. It destroys the work of the devil and puts down wickedness. Constructive, viewing it from the standpoint that it was vivifying and bringing to life the decayed kingdoms and binding them into one, the kingdom of Christ, thus accomplishing the work destined to be fulfilled.

The ancient Pagans, no doubt, were long in bringing themselves to the understanding of Christianity—on what it places its ban and on what its sanction. The words of the text amply illustrate on what it places its sanction, it places its bane on the opposite.

What claims have Freemasons to be ranked side by side with Christianity—what can be said in its behalf and what in its defence? What is it that recommends it? First of all its antiquity. When Napoleon addressed his army before the battle of the Pyramids he said that forty centuries were looking down upon them. No doubt the soldiers were inspired with the thought that the mighty bulworks four thousand years old were to behold what they were about to do. Patriots love to trace the history of their country far back in the misty distance amid fable and fact. Where Freemasonry originated is not known with certainty. It existed in the middle ages; it was established in Britain previous to the Druidical regime, perhaps introduced by the Romans; Solomen himself is said to have been its founder, and that it came into existence with the first temple. When a thing is old, and yet full of vitality and force, men are apt to have faith in it and admiration for it, from its very survival it has given proof that it has a right to live. What an argument in its favor that though all the changes of so many centuries it has found sources of life and accessions of strength—all this Freemasonry may plead in its behalf and ask is not the fact that an institution which no man is persuaded to join and any man is free to leave has in all ages found so many staunch adherents, a proof that it contains much that is good!

Secondly, as to universality, Freemasonry knows no distinctions of race or class. It does not ask concerning a candidate, what is the hue of his skin, the occupation he follows, or the creed he professes: All that it cares to know is whether or not he is a true man. There is no land or people, creed or class, with which Freemasonry is not associated. It has spread over Europe and America, and includes in its ranks Mongols of Tartary, yellow-skinned sons of Cathay, Hindoo Rajas, and Parsee merchants.

Thirdly, Fraternity. There are two very antagonistic feelings which are swaying the hearts of human beings. The one is the selfish feeling that isolates, and the other is the sympathetic feeling that unites. We live in a day in which the intercourse between all nations is becoming so familiar that it is a question of deep interest. How are they to regard each other? Nor is it a question of less interest in society, when class seems to be arraying itself against class, and smouldering fires of Socialism are being fed by hostilities of labor and capital. How are men to regard each other? Christianity says as brethren. Freemasonry says, we will make the practical recognition of that brotherhood not less to others, but more to those within our fraternity. There is a sincere and wholesome pleasure in the sense of brotherhood. It dries up no fountain of benevolence, but opens many. Its powers and resources have been marvellously displayed. It has stayed the uplifted sword, and turned the foe into a friend. It has stopped the religious persecutor in the very act of inflicting vengeance.

Here the preacher instanced two cases where Freemasonry had worked what those outside the fraternity would term miracles. Mr. Patillo, shipowner, Liverpool, N. S., was a bitter opponent of Freemasonry. His son Joseph became a member and afterwards went out on a voyage to the West Indies. Off St. Thomas, W.I., his vessel capsized and all were in imminent peril. Mr. Patillo climbed on the rigging and made signs of Freemasonry, and in a few hours ready hands, boats, ropes, and other equipments for setting the vessel to right, and ere long the vessel was homeward bound with her cargo. Mr. Patillo the elder, when he heard the story from his son, had no more to say against the fraternity.

Another case was when Mr. Normandeau, a missionary came to St. Mary's Bay, N S., to preach the Gospel. A certain Roman Catholic became greatly incensed against him, and declared that if he dared to hold meetings in that place his life would be in danger. Mr. Normandeau did hold his meeting, and the man, according to his word, prepared to molest him. He came half way up the aisle in a state of rage and indignation, but he suddenly stopped, asked for a seat, and sat quietly until the meeting was over. The people wondered, and thought a miracle had been performed—it was no miracle, Mr. Normandeau had simply exercised his power as a Freemason.

Fourthly, benevolence. Everyone must be aware that in proportion as a pure Christianity an open Bible, and an intelligent, faith in its teachings have spread, Freemasonry has grown and flourished. To-day the vast majority of Freemasons of this continent are now of evangelical congregations, and many of them ministers of the gospel. Christianity and Freemasonry have much in common; they both teach faith in God as reverence for His word. Both agree that charity is the first of virtues and the noblest of graces.

Freemasonry in this resembles Christianity—first of all it is benovolent. It turns the eyes of pity and extends an open and full hand of help toward misery of every kind. Liberality is not restrained within narrow bounds. True charity begins at home, but never ceases there—the spirit of kindness when once created is excited.

One thing perhaps that endears Freemasonry to every member, is the knowledge of the falsity of the charges brought against it. It has been said in this country that Freemasonry creates irreverence for the scriptures and substituting itself for Christianity. It has been charged with atheism and communism, and all of which he as a Freemason declared to be utterly and rediculously false. The self respect of man, the virtue of women, the claims of the family and the obligations of justice were made more safe and sacred by this institution.

The most that can be said against Freemasonry is that it is better than some of those who profess its principles. Christianity is divine and perfect, but how often have men made it the hypocrite's mask and the persecutor's plea. Freemasonry can appeal to the lives and characters of many of it members for its defence. To them can it appeal for witness that to pledge oneself to be a true Freemason is to engage to be a thoroughly good man. No one can be all that his vows as a mason demand without being what God's word teaches and God's grace produces. This may we all be and then as far as we are known and our influence is felt the Order will need no other defense or praise. So mote it be.

IN THE EVENING

the Rev. Dr. Thomas again occupied the pulpit and preached to a large congregation.

WINTER CARE OF WORK HORSES.

For a winter diet there is nothing better or cheaper than corn fodder, with a ration of grain, generally oats, varying according to circumstances. For many years I have never fed hay to horses during the winter until the corn fodder was entirely gone. Horses are very fond of corn fodder, and thrive upon it better than on hay; it has no tendency to produce trouble with the wind, as hay is liable to do if fed in excess, as it frequently is. The fodder is slightly constipating, but this should be remedied by a ration of wet bran now and then. Corn stalks furnish both food and bedding. The simplest way of feeding them is to stand a bundle in the manger, and the horse will eat it down closely, the hard butts of the stalks being left. The horse seems to know, what many farmers do not seem to be able to learn, that corn butts are of little value as food. At the next feed throw the butts under the horse, and he will require no other litter and keep cleaner on this bed than on straw. The manure is difficult to take out, but if it accumulates for a few days the stalks will be broken and easier to remove. The actual cost of feeding horses, of course, varies widley in accordance with the locality; near the large cities, with high-priced pasture land, hay, and grain, of course, are much higher than in more remote districts, so that an estimate expressed in figures would not be of any value for the locality for which it was made. The course of feeding above laid down, is as well adapted as any to the circumstances of the ordinary farmer. The stable should be well ventilated, cool, not cold; and draughts avoided if possible. The feet of horses, not at work, should be carefully examined every few days, at least twice a week. The ordinary diseases of the stable, "thrush" and "scratches," can be prevented in most, I was about to say in all cases. Should any disease become established, consult a competent veterinary surgeon at once.—Stock-Breeder.

More Eggs in Winter.

This is the very time when eggs are worth the most, when hens want to lay as much or more than they do at any other time, and when they are not allowed to do so by most poultry keepers Folks think there is a great mystery about making hens lay in winter. There is none; anybody can do it; that is, the hens will lay if you let them. They bear a good deal of cold in the sunshine, and even freeze their combs and toes, and yet will not stop laying altogether if they can keep warm. Now do not begin to plan setting up a stove in the hen house, or introducing steam pipes. Artificial heat is not poisonous perhaps, but very nearly so to chickens. They are warm themselves, and need only to be crowded on their roosts, with the roosts all on one level. The ceiling of the roosting room should be only a few feet above the fowls' heads, and provided with ventilation from the floor if possible. Give them very close quarters, with no drafts of cold air, and clean out under the roosts every morning, not excepting Sundays. The combs will then redden up, and eggs will be plenty on less feed than usual. It must not be corn, however, or only a small percentage of it, for this will make them too fat to lay well if they sleep warm. —Col. Weld in American Agriculturist.

FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS destroy and remove worms without injury to adult or infant.

FOR Rough conditions of the Skin, Shampooing the head, Pimples, Eruption and skin diseases, use Prof. Low's Sulphur Soap.

EGYPTOLOGISTS have discovered that Cleopatra's nose was short, saucy, and celestial.

DR. LOW'S PLEASANT WORM SYRUP.—An agreeable, safe and effectual remedy to remove all kinds of worms.

SURE TO CONQUER.—The most troublesome cough is sure to yield if timely treated with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Pleasant to take and safe for young or old.

WEALTH legitimately acquired is valuable, and it is only valuable when so acquired.

TONE up the system by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It will make you feel like a new person. Thousands have found health and relief from suffering by the use of this great blood purifier when all other means failed.

It does not require great tact to write a long letter, but to write a good postscript to it does.

A WISE CONCLUSION.—If you have vainly tried many remedies for rheumatism, it will be a wise conclusion to try Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cures all painful diseases when other medicines fail.

IN a bedroom furnishing, as in life, it will be found that the greater the "sham" the bigger the "spread."

A GREAT MISTAKE.—It is a great mistake to suppose that dyspepsia can't be cured, but must be endured, and life made gloomy and miserable thereby. Alexander Burns, of Cobourg, was cured after suffering fifteen years. Burdock Blood Bitters cured him.

Employment is the great boon of life; a man with nothing to do is not half so interesting a sight as a ripening turnip.

WE have a speedy and positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria, Canker mouth and Headache, in Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. A nasal injector free with each bottle. Use it if you desire health and sweet breath. Price 50c. For sale by J. D. Tully.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—A person suffering from pain and heat over the small of the back, with a weak weary feeling and frequent headaches, is seriously ill and should look out for kidney disease. Burdock Blood Bitters regulate the kidneys, blood and liver, as well as the stomach and bowels.

"WHERE you ever caught in a sudden squall?" asked an old yachtsman of a worthy citizen. "Well, I guess so," responded the good man, "I have beloed to bring up eight babies."

A VALUABLE PATENT.—The most valuable discovery patented in modern times is that of the best blood purifier and liver and kidnes regulator known. We refer to Burdock Blood Bitters, which is making so many wonderful cures and bringing the blessed boon of health to so many homes.

"WELL, may I hope, then, dearest, that at some time I may have the happiness of making you my wife?" "Yes, I hope so, I am sure," she replied, "I am getting tired of suing fellows for breach of promise."

No other medecine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the best combination of vegitable blood purifiers, with the Iodide of Potassium and Iron, ever offered to the public.

A PERFECT BEAUTY.—Perfect beauty is only attained by pure blood and good health. These acquirements give the possessor a pleasant expression, a fair, clear skin and the rosy bloom of health. Burdock Blood Bitters purify the blood and tone the entire system to a healthy action.

Truth says a marriage has been arranged between the heir apparent to the Russian throne, and a daughter of the Crown Prince of Prussia.

WHEN a person is weak and faint, or fatigued and exhausted, there is nothing so refreshing and reviving as a little of Murray & Lanman's Florida Water. Rubbed on the hands and temples, and inhaled freely, it tones and braces the whole system.

OH! how tired and weak I feel, I don't believe I will ever get through the Spring house-cleaning! O yes you will if you take a bottle or two of Doctor Carson's Stomach Bitters to purify your blood and tone up the system. In large bottles 50c.

Their Closing Performance.

The Travernier Dramatic Company gave their closing performance in Peterborough on Saturday evening. The Opera House was crowded to the doors and standing room was at a premium. The play presented was "The Hidden Hand." Miss Ida Van Cortland assumed the character Capitola admirably. In her liveliness, dash, and love of adventure a person could never have recognized a vestage of other more stately characters she has taken during her stay here. Her posing was very natural, and her merry laugh and careless air filled the audience with admiration. Mr. Wilson Day, as Black Donald, did in this instance, as he has done each succeeding evening, very well. He is a very ruffian, but withall, brave hearted, The character Major Warfield was taken by Mr. Albert Tavernier, a sufficient guarantee for its being well done. The "occasional rows" between Capitole and the old gentleman kept the audience in the best of humor. It invariably happens that Capitola melts the old man's indignation at her frolics and all goes well till the next time. Miss Alice Hunt took the part of Clara Ray with credit. The parts of Col. Lenior, Cronen Lenior, Herbert and Mr. Cardiment, although comparitively unimportant, were well filed by Fred C. Hoey, Edward Bayley, J. P. Endres, and Miss Marie Newman respectively. The Company were greeted on this evening with the largest audience since their arrival, thus showing the esteem in which they are held by the people of Peterborough. It is to be hoped that they will ere long pay us another visit.

Christmas Music.

On Sunday evening the large congregation in attendance at St. John's Church was treated to a very choice and superior programme of Christmas music. During the service, in connection with the regular evening service music, the choir sang the psalms for the 28th day of the month, and they acquitted themselves so admirably that many expressed the wish that before very long they would have the pleasure of hearing the choir repeat the singing of the psalms. Instead of the anthem hymn, Gunod's "Nazareth" was substituted. The way in which the choir rendered this grand selection of music did them credit. Mr. Chas. W. Ewing, the excellent organist and choir-master, played at the offertory "Improvised upon Themes," and at the close of the service the well known and ever welcome "Hallelujah Chorus." Of the way in which Mr. Ewing acquitted himself in these two numbers, as well as in the accompaniments to all the other pieces, it is unnecessary for us to say, as his reputation as one of the leading organists in the Province is sufficient without aught said in his praise by us. After the regular evening service was brought to a close the choir rendered a number of beautiful Christmas carols, and finished by singing Pergolesi's "Glory to God in the Highest." The masterly manner in which this delightful anthem was rendered fully convinced the large congregation of the true merit of the vocalists under their leader. It is a choir that the church should be proud of, and we hope will long continue to sing sweet music to those who assemble Sunday after Sunday to worship their Creator and God in this sacred edifice. The following is the programme of music :—

Anthem.....“Nazareth”.....Gounod
At Offertory....“Improvised upon Themes” [Weber
Carol.....“Bethlehem”.....Gounod
Carol....“See Amid the Winter Snow”.....
Carol.....“Hark what Sounds”.....Mozart
Carol.....“The First Noel”.....Traditional
Carol.....“Come Ye Lofty”.....Ewing
Anthem.....“Glory to God”.....Pergolesi
Concluding Voluntary....“Hallelujah Chorus,” [Handel's Messiah

In some of the above carols the imitation of the piping of the Shepherds, given by Mr. Ewing on the organ, was excellent.

New Year's Presents.

DINED AND ADDRESSED.

Mr. J. H. Barber Receives a Testimonial of Esteem from His Friends.

A number of the friends of J. H. Barber, Esq., late engineer in charge of the Ontario and Quebec Railway here, took advantage of his visit to town to present him with a testimonial and an address as a mark of their respect for him. The testimonial consisted of an elaborate silver tea set, complete, and numerous other silver articles, all of which were purchased from Mr. R. W. Muncaster and valued at $125. The presentation and a dinner took place on Friday evening at Chamberlin's restaurant. A large number of invited guests sat down to dinner, which was got up in mine host Chamberlin's usual recherche style. Mr. Barber made a very happy and felicitous reply to the address. The party enjoyed themselves thoroughly and all left well pleased with the occasion.

Mr. Barber left town again this morning for his field of operations in Muskoka.

The following is a copy of the address presented to him :

To J. H. Barber, Esq., C. E.

DEAR SIR,—On your retirement from the Ontario and Quebec Railway, a number of your friends here were desirous of presenting you with some mark of respect and esteem.

Owing to the urgency in which your services were required to take charge of other important work, and consequently the limited time at your disposal, we have until now been deprived of the pleasure of doing so. This perhaps is well, for although it has deferred this pleasure to us it will serve to show you that although you have been out of sight you have not been out of mind. We now trust you will be pleased to accept this silver tea set, etc., not indeed for its intrinsic value, but as a slight mark of our appreciation of your many sterling qualities.

Amongst these, permit us to mention more particularly your uniform courtesy and kindness to those under your charge, while at the same time discharging your own duties to your employers with zeal, energy and ability.

In connection with this happy re-union, permit us to extend to your amiable wife our sincere respects and our heartfelt wishes that many, many happy returns of this joyous season may be vouchsafe to you and yours, by the Divine Dispenser of all good.

Signed on behalf of the committee,
G. T. MARTIN.

On Saturday a young girl named Elizabeth Vignette, an operative in the Auburn Woollen Mills, met with a serious accident. While tying a broken thread at a spinning machine her hand was caught in the machinery and terribly mangled. She suffered, also, other injuries.

Christmas Tree.

A children's entertainment will be held in the St. Andrew's Sunday School room on Tuesday evening next, commencing at 7.30 o'clock, when singing, dialogues, recitations, &c., will be rendered by the scholars, at the close of which presents will be given to the children of the Sunday School from the Christmas trees. The room will be suitably decorated for the occasion and a pleasant evening may be expected. Admission 10 cents. Every one is invited.

SEND for some of Hilliard's Flour, and you will decide that you can get no better. W. J. Mason will transmit your orders.

Chit Chat.

—Mild.
—Nomination day.
—Gladstone's birthday.
—Don't forget the social in the George Street Church on Tuesday evening.
—The City Band were out on Saturday night making a number of New Year's calls.
—Their second annual ball, held recently in their rooms, was a decided success.
—The Fire Brigade Band have commenced making their New Year's calls. On Friday and Saturday nights they serenaded some of our leaning citizens and to-night will make several more calls. They have been well received by those whom they have visited.

A Rare Chance.

Now that the present cold season has the effect of making the average citizen wrap up more securely and put on heavier wearing apparel generally, it is a pleasing and commendable act on the part of the proprietor of Habiliment Hall, Mr. Andrew McNeil, to reduce the price of his immense stock of underclothing twenty per cent. This puts first class and reliable goods within the reach of all, and the public should not to fail to take advantage of the reduction. In other lines of clothing, Habiliment Hall will be found to be equally low in prices. Everything in the gents' furnishing line conceivable. Leave your orders with A. McNeil if you want a first class fit ; his tailoring establishment is unexcelled for material and style in Central Ontario.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

Masonic Installation.

Last Saturday having been the Festival of St. John the Evangelist the Masonic Lodges of the town met at noon. They resumed their sessions the same evening, when an installing Board consisting of R. REVIEWS.

THE CANADIAN METHODIST MAGAZINE FOR JANUARY.—This is the best number of this Magazine ever published. It begins the 21st volume, and is a pledge of still increased excellence. It has six illustrated articles : Mr Gladstone at home, with portrait and four other engravings ; the Marquis of Lorne's Canadian Pictures, with eight engravings ; the Ice Palace at Montreal, with five engravings ; a portrait and life-sketch of Mr. Moody ; and an illustrated poem by Dr. Punshon. There are also articles on Christianity, by W. E. Gladstone ; on Preaching, by Dr. Felles ; Religion and Science, by Dr. Sexton ; on Charles Welsey, by S. P. Dunn ; and on Two Famous Hymns, by W. H. C. Keer, M A. ; and others.

FOR nice, light, white, toothsome buns, cakes, etc., use Hilliard's Patent Flour. W. J. Mason takes orders.

LOW PRICES !

More than ever before people are now using the closest scrutiny in making their purchases. But few have money to waste on worthless goods, and many feel the necessity of being careful in their expenditures, every one wants to get the best value he or she can for the money they spend. This is true in the purchasing of Dry Goods or Clothing more than in other lines of trade. We have purchased our Stock of Goods to meet this condition of things. We have built up our trade by selling good goods with the lowest possible profits. Our Stock is large in the several departments of our business, and we can give better wearing goods for less money than can be done for you by any house in the country.

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this establishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

We wish you all "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!"

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

C. O. F.

A new Court of Canadian Foresters has been opened in Norwood. On Monday evening about twenty of the brethern of Courts Peterborough and Little John went down on the Ontario and Quebec Railway on the occasion of the opening night. Among those who went down were Messrs. W. H. Watson, D. D. H. C. R., A. McNeil, C. R. of C. P., J. Galley, Chaplain of C. P., J. Frazer, Secy. of C. P., J. Fanning, Rec. Sec. of C. P., T. Hooper, P.C. R. of C.P., and T. Rutherford, P. C. R. of C. L. J. After the installation of officers in the new Court (the Rob Roy No. 114) the Peterborough brethern were entertained at a supper given by the newly installed officers. The Peterborough brethern returned to town this morning.

Free Lecture.

Prof. O.S. Fowler, the well known New York Phrenologist, delivered a free lecture on phenology and self-culture in Bradburn's Opera House on Monday night. The hall was well filled and an instructive discourse was listened to. At the close of the lecture the Professor made one examination to the apparent satisfaction of all present. To-night he will give another lecture on Love and Matrimony.

A resolution was passed authorizing William Trennum to cut and remove all the timber on road allowance, commencing at Burton's Bay, between lots 15 and 16, thence east to concession line between concessions 9 and 10, thence north to the centre of lot 18, as compensation for clearing the said road 66 feet wide, and grubbing out 12 feet wide in the centre thereof, Thomas Flynn to inspect the job and report when completed. On motion the Council adjourned.

Faith Cure Victim.

DENVER, Col., Dec. 29.—A peculiar sect, who have their headquarters in Chicago, and who believe solely in the efficiency of prayer in curing human ailments, have been discovered in Denver. The establishment is known as "The Tabernacle of the Lord," and is conducted by W. T. Williams and wife. Several old ladies conduct a foundlings home. Children who have been abandoned by parents, and other waifs who had been taken in from the poor-house and raised until they become stout boys and girls, are then sent to a farm near Boulder belonging to the same sect. The sect utterly disbelieves in the remedial power of physic. Yesterday a little waif died after a short illness, and to procure a death certificate a physician was called, who refused to sign a paper stating that the child had died of inattention. Williams said he relied upon prayer, which had always cured children before.

Chinese Desperados.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The Chinamen assaulted Hong Chung, a laundryman, in Newark last week, robbed him, cut him with a hatchet, and carved him with knives, and believing him dead strung him up to a rafter and left him. The landlord found him and prompt aid saved his life. Tom Sing, a desperate ruffian who was supposed to have been the leader, was captured here last night after a desperate struggle. The police believe he is the man who stabbed and killed a countryman in this city a year ago. Tom Sing was living with a white woman here. She has confessed that he told her he had murdered a laundryman in Newark. It is thought Tom Sing's capture will lead to the breaking up of a band of Chinese thieves and robbers. Tom Sing served as officer's steward on the Jeannette Arctic expedition, and in the same capacity with the Greely relief expedition.

Fatal result of Fooling.

GREENICH, Pa., Dec 29.—While on a lark Saturday night four young men, Joseph Randall, Charles Smith, George Nichols, and Scott Robertson, procured a gallon of alcohol and drank it, mixing a portion with oyster stews ordered at a saloon. On Sunday all were taken dangerously sick, and Randall and Smith died in great agony. The others will probably recover.

A Lady to the Front.

At Kingston when the nomination of candidates for the Mayoralty were called for, the News says that Miss A. E. Conlan stepped forward amid deafening cheers and applause and nominated John Stewart. The nomination was seconded by Jos. Hipson, and then the doctor escorted the lady off the stage, the cheers being repeated.

She was Right.

A provoked husband said to his wife, "I never saw such an obstinate woman as you are! You never confessed yourself in the wrong in your life!" "And a very good reason for it!" she exclaimed. "It's because I'm always in the right. I'm sure that if I ever were in the wrong there's is no woman alive who'd take more pleasure in confessing it."

Murdered and Burned.

THOMASTON, Georgia, Dec. 20.—John Drake, a coloured barber, murdered his wife during a quarrel yesterday morning and fired the bed on which she lay. The negroes threaten to lynch him.

Another to the List.

DELMAR, Del., Dec. 29.—James Hearn, aged 40, has eloped with the pretty young wife of Jacob Turpin. The pair are cousins. Hearn is a worthless fellow and has led astray many women.

Fever Raging.

ELLENVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Typhoid fever prevails in an alarming extent in the western portion of Ulster County, and scarlet fever is epidemic in parts of Sullivan County.

MASSACRE OF CHRISTIANS.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The Catholic missionaries in Tonquin complain that the Court at Hue, capital of Annam, has not fulfilled its promise to make reparation for the massacre of Christians which occurred some months ago. The correspondent of the Temps at Hanoi says the Court is strongly hostile to France, and he advocates a clean sweep of officials at Hue.

ARREST OF STRANGERS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—Ten strangers were entrapped by the police yesterday and searched. Five revolvers, a quantity of dynamite, and an assortment of revolutionary pamphlets were found on one of them.

HEAVY FAILURE.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Baegallays & Spence, warehousemen, have failed for £600,000, and Truninger & Co., bankers and merchants, have suspended owing to severe losses.

WAS IT SATIRE?

LONDON, Dec. 29.—It has just transpired that on the 25th the Khedive telegraphed to Lord Wolseley wishing a "Merry Christmas" for himself and forces. Such a message would indicate slight waggery or satirical fooling on the part of the Egyptian ruler.

ANNEXATION IN ZULULAND.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The British annexation of St. Lucia Bay, on the coast of Zululand, will probably increase the friction between Germany and England. Inwald, the German explorer in Zululand, writes he has acquired by treaty from the king of Zululand the right to St. Lucia Bay and 100,000 acres adjacent in behalf of Luderitz, the German merchant who established a trading post at Angra Pequena.

DAILY ATTACKS.

CAIRO, Dec. 29.—The Staffordshire regiment embarked at Korti last night for Meraweh in 52 boats. The defeat and massacre of the friendly chiefs of the Benjamor and Aallenga tribes render the position of affairs in the Southern Soudan critical. The rebels are making daily and nightly attacks on the outposts at Suakim. The garrison of Kassala made a sortie on Friday and killed many rebles.

THE RUSSIAN WINTER PALACE.

St. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.—The Czar, Czarina and Czarewitch are going on a trip through the Cossacks. The Czar will open the season with ball at the winter palace on January 2nd. Two thousand guests have been invited. Court officials deny that any precautions have been taken against Nihilists.

Swept Over the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Dec. 29.—A man, while crossing the Niagara river in a row boat to-day from Chippewa to Port Day, about a mile above the Falls, lost control of his boat, and was drawn into the rapids, where he was seen to upset and go over the Falls. On enquiry being made, he is supposed to be James Greenwood, of Chippawa, who is missing from his home, and who has been in the habit of rowing across the river. A large quantity of floating ice was running down the river to-day, and it is supposed he got caught in an ice floe, causing the fearful accident. Greenwood's brother is making every search for James, but up to the present has found no trace of him.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain and cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhœa, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind, colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy.

SENATE REPRESENTATION.

After giving a summary of our article complaining of the want of representation of this district in the Senate, the Toronto News endeavours to twist our appeal into a proof of the inutility of the upper house of our Canadian Parliament. It makes this attempt in the most illogical manner, urging that the supposed fact that this grievance has not been felt is evidence that the people of this district do not care to be represented in the Senate because they consider it useless. This is a most unwarrantable assumption. The very fact that the Review puts forward a claim for a representative of inland Central Ontario in the Senate goes to show that a Senator is wanted, and we know that in expressing that desire we are reflecting the views of very many of the residents of this part of the Province. Neither is it true that the demand has not been made before. The Review has more than once, in agreement with public opinion, advanced the same claim at different periods.

One reason why the people of Peterborough, Lindsay and the surrounding country have not agitated and clamoured for a resident Senator is that they have the good sense to know that their wish cannot be gratified unless there is an opportunity. Our constitution, the British North American Act, limits the number of Senators, and we were not so unreasonable as to clamour for an amendment of our constitution, when, with patience, we could obtain our wish without such an heroic remedy. For several reasons our opportunity has not come rapidly; in the first place this district has been growing in importance, and till recently its claim was not so strong as that of other localities; in the second place the arrangement that the former Senators should have the preference when vacancies were to be filled, precluded us from this benefit, as we had no former Senators resident among us. Like law-abiding people, we could bide our time till our opportunity came.

That time has now arrived. As we pointed out, there is now a vacancy in the Senate which may well be filled from Peterborough or Victoria, as thereby we would only obtain justice, while no injustice would be inflicted upon portions of the Province that have hitherto been more favored.

We therefore again urge the claims of this district to enjoy Senatorial representation, and in so doing we represent the public opinion of this section of Ontario.

"The Peterborough Review says that Sir John Macdonald 'has done more than any other living politician to advance his country's interests.' This is a 'whopper.'"—Picton Times.

A "whopper," is it? Will the Times please inform us what living politician has done more than Sir John Macdonald to advance the interests of Canada? A man who has done more for this Dominion than Sir John Macdonald should not be allowed to remain in obscurity any longer; he should be held up to the admiring gaze of his countrymen. But we repeat that no such man exists, and if the Times thinks otherwise, we would like to learn the name of the candidate whom it nominates for that great honor.

A Pull for Life.

John Curran, a Grand Trunk brakesman, met with a singular and very painful accident on Friday at Georgetown. He was engaged in coupling cars in rear of the engine, which was moving rapidly backward, when the thumb and finger of his left hand caught between the buffers. The position was most perilous. He had to choose quickly between loosing his fingers or his life. If his fingers were not at once extracted he would be thrown down and crushed to death. He had to summon all his strength, which he did, and after a couple of great efforts the finger broke of at the second joint. The tendon broke in the muscle near the elbow and was drawn through the forearm. He suffered intensely, but it saved him from a horrible death. Curran was brought to the city and taken to the hospital, where his injuries were attended to. He is a married man and lives at No. 40 Trinity square.—Toronto Mail.

A Level-Headed Dog.

Albert Proctor, of Woodlands, drives a stage and carries the mail on Wednesdays and Saturdays from Reaburn to Meadow Lea and Woodlands, a distance of 13 miles. His watch dog has been in the habit of going with the stage, but wishing to keep him home, Mr. Proctor tried shutting the dog up till he got away. This was successful in keeping the dog home once or twice, but the animal has now learned a trick worth two of his master's. Every Tuesday and Friday evenings as regular as the days come the dog now starts out to Reaburn, where he stops all night. In the morning he starts back and meets the stage, generally about half way between the two places. Whether the animal has an almanac in his kennel, whereby he figures out what days of the week to start, we did not learn. He has never yet, however, made a mistake in over a month.—Winnipeg Times.

General Grant's Difficulties.

New York, Dec. 28.—It is said an inventory of all General Grant's possessions has been taken under the judgment entered against him in favor of Wm. H. Vanderbilt for $150,000 and interest loaned him when trying to save the firm of Grant & Ward from failure. The inventory covers Grant's real estate, and includes presents of weapons, bric-a-brac, and rare articles made to the General by friends at home and abroad, swords and medals awarded him by Congress, his pictures and books, relics of war, and even the engraved cards ordered to be struck to express the thanks of Congress. If is understood Vanderbilt has thrown off $50,000 of his claim, and that Gen. Sherman and Cyrus W. Field with other friends are making efforts to raise the remaining $100,000.

A TERRIBLE STATE OF SOCIETY.

That more than seven hundred divorce suits should be pending in the courts of this city at the present time is a startling fact. It may well impress itself upon thoughtful people with so much force as to compell the enactment of laws which shall do something by the way of overcoming a great evil. Assuming that this city has not yet become a mere divorce resort, this record shows one divorce suit for every 250 families.—Philadelphia Times.

WHO PAYS THE DUTY?

The question, Who pays the duty? is raised occasionally, even at so late a day as this. Almost everybody in Canada now knows the correct answer to the question; but, for the information of the few who do not know, the following is reproduced from Vick's Floral Guide, for 1885, published by the great seed house of Jas. Vick, Rochester, N. Y.:

OUR CUSTOMS IN CANADA.

"There is a duty on seeds sent from the the United States to Canada. We will, in all cases when it is possible, pay duties and postage on seeds purchased at retail catalogue prices, so that our customers will have no trouble or expense."

That ought to settle the question, at least so far as seeds are concerned.—Hamilton Spectator.

OUR VETERAN STATESMAN.

The announcement that the Queen has conferred the dignity of the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath upon the Canadian Premier, Sir John A. Macdonald, K. C. He is the only Colonial Minister who is a member of Her Majesty's Imperial Privy Council.—London (Eng.) Truth.

WINDY CLAMORING.

Can anything be clearer as to two points? First that the United States Government will not consent to a renewal of the fishery clauses, and, secondly, that the windy clamoring of some few persons in Canada is taken as the necessitous outcry of the whole country and has materially destroyed all chance for negotiation that might have before existed.—St. John Sun.

SANITARY CRAZE AND SPAULDING'S BAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—The public have been treated by a correspondent signing himself "Ratepayer," with two epistles on economy, one appearing in the Examiner on the 18th Dec. styled "Sanitary Craze," and the other in the Review of Dec. 27th as to Spaulding's Bay, in time before the nomination of Councillors. Now, while I agree, on many points "Ratepayer" dwells on, I am of a different stamp of mind to let all pass without showing wherein "Ratepayer" is narrow minded, and his preaching is not as far-reaching, (it may be for a purpose), as it might be under different circumstances, and so he touches only such points as would not conflict with his own interests. I am of the opinion that every ratepayer has the privilege of expressing opinion without fear or trembling, and why not come out with your name like an honest man? The hints about rings in connection with Waterworks, Spauldings Bay, and Sewerage are the principle points that he warns the ratepayers against committing themselves. As to the waterworks they are of no public concern as this is a distinct corporation, and the town is not compelled to take the water without their approval to do so. With Spauldings Bay, in filling up, "Ratepayer" gives us the estimates of which I will neither contradict nor endorse, as I hold that the best solution for that eyesore would be to give it away to any one who is willing to undertake the job of filling it up. About the sewer question, this is a point wherein I beg to differ, as this is a question concerning our health and no matter how often Ratepayer repeats that people have lived through the time of the cholera they will do so again. No doubt about that, people live through times of the yellow fever in the Southern States every year but what of them who perish? Did Nature provide Montreal, Toronto and other large cities with sewers from their start? What an extravagance for them to have undertaken such expensive works, as people would have lived without them as well. Now, Mr. Editor, I am not one of those who could pick up the goose or the gander either, and leave town, nor am I one of those who are born rich, nor one who fell into a soft berth after trying this and that, and all ending in failure. Nor am I one connected with any ring to manipulate, and I challenge "Ratepayer" or anyone to prove that I ever received even as much as a farthing out of the public funds. What I am, I am through myself, by hard work and economy, and therefore when I took up the question of sewerage I did it not for the sake of notoriety, as I have no ambition in that direction, nor that I had turned all at once from my economical habits to extravagance, but with the full conviction that I prize health more than wealth, that with the latter you can buy all and everything, but you cannot buy health. Ratepayer shows us how the population has increased in Peterborough so much as to say, if a number die in the time of an epidemic there will be a good number left yet. I would like to know of Ratepayer on what strength he bases his supposition that all who look on the necessary improvement of the town either as belonging to a ring or some other scoundrel to profit by bringing the town into debt and then leaving them to foot the bill? As the taxes I have paid this year amounts to over $200, I well reflected on the probable cost of sewerage when I brought the numerously signed petition before the council as having to pay a proportionate share towards it. But I am rather perplexed why the public have not received more light on real economy, what an amount of money is swallowed up by streets and bridges. Is Ratepayer interested in that direction? Nothing is mentioned of electric lights; we might mention gas as well. Why to have all these luxuries? Would not the people live just as well? Surely they would not die for not having the electric lights, when our forefathers had not even coal oil, and did live to a good old age. What is the use of having a Council, as by their deliberations how many thousand feet of gas goes to loss during the year? Enough to explode the whole of mankind. And there would be no need for to provide the salary for a Town Clerk. Do not the Indians live, too, and have neither? In conclusion, not knowing your correspondent Ratepayer, yet believing him to be a cautious business man, who, as myself, counts the cost before spending, no doubt the ratepayers would feel grateful for the economical epistles, and would not fail to give him a lift into the Council, if he would assent to the aspiring of that honorable position. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours, &c.,
WM. LECH.

An Odd Phenomenon.

Liberty, N.Y., Dec. 27.—There was a heavy snow fall in Sullivan County on Thursday night. Yesterday many oddly shaped and yellowish coloured worms were seen crawling on top of the snow. A correspondent at Stevensville telegraphs that an extraordinary number of strange worms were seen there. They crawl in a lively way on the snow crust, as ordinary worms do on the land.

Blown to Atoms.

Mr. Hanson, contractors' agent, has received information of a terrible accident that occurred on Dec 13th on the Nothern Railway extension. A gang of rockmen were blasting on John Eson's contract, and the foreman was in the act of ramming into a drill hole a charge of dynamite when it exploded, blowing the unfortunate man into atoms, and seriously injuring three others who were working near by. The three injured men are now lying in a critical condition in a temporary hospital at Brascebridge, although hopes are held out of their recovery.—Toronto Mail.

EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas,
May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where I asked for some remedy, I was urged to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the Pectoral constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. Whitley."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

GRATITUDE!

During the whole time I have been in business, I have never had a more successful Christmas Season than that of the present year. My sales have been large, and I feel sure that I have enrolled many new names as regular customers. Such a state of affairs is most gratifying to me, showing as it does, that my continued efforts to provide the best of everything in my line at the least possible cost, have been so generally appreciated. To all who have patronized me not only during the Festive Season of Christmas, but also throughout the whole of 1884, I beg to tender my sincere thanks and to intimate to them that my Stock of Fancy Goods suitable for New Year's Gifts is fresh, well selected and extremely varied, and will be sold very low.

WALKING BY STEAM.

The Wonderful Invention of Mr. Job Sheldon, of New Haven.

Mr. Sheldon stopped aboard of his walking machine and proceeded to shove it off. The bed is about four feet square. On the right and left hands rises a frame work supporting two movable timbers hung at the top so as to swing back and forth. These are the legs, and they are so connected by a lever that when one is pushed ahead the other is shoved back. When the machine is walking they stretch apart just like the letter A. A beveled edge on the shoe of the leg hits a wheel on the head of the machine as it is impelled forward and drives the leg down to the ground, a clicking spring and notches holding it there till the step has been finished, then a spring releases the leg, it bobs up and is swung forward while its mate is doing its share of the work. The machine will be balanced from behind by a little wheel like the third wheel of a tricycle, or by a third pair of legs.

"These legs," said Mr. Sheldon, "are 7 feet long, or equal to half the diameter of a 14 foot wheel. Consequently the vehicle when drawn by a horse will run as easily as though it had wheels 14 feet in diameter. It will take six feet steps and it is got up on the principle of a pendulum to a clock. Whether drawn by a horse or driven by clock work, foot or steam power, it will run so easily that very little effort will be required to urge it along, even at a rapid rate, and up hills. You know that when a clock pendulum pulled out to one side and let go will swing out nearly as far to the other. That is the way my machine will work. All the operator has to do is to overcome the little distance that the pendulum fails to make in its vibration. Now, these legs are pendulums, nothing more nor less. When one of them has reached out and is making the first half of its step, of course, if it is being driven by motive power instead of being drawn by a horse, force will be necessary to drive it over that portion of its travels. But on the second half of the step, when the weight of the machine has passed forward of the leg, it will, as you can see, finish the step by its own weight, and the leg is caught up and pushed forward for duty again."

The legs being jointless of necessity give the machine a tippling motion as they pass and repass each other, but Mr. Sheldon can remedy this evil by making the steps shorter. He has also a device to keep the machine from tipping when one of the feet slip on a turning stone or strike yielding ground.

"I think on the whole I shall run it with hot air from a big oil stove when I come up through the city," said Mr. Sheldon, as he swung the shapely oaken legs idly to and fro; "then I shan't have to carry a water tank, as I should if I depended upon a steam engine."—New Haven Register.

EARTHQUAKE IN SPAIN.

Hundreds of Persons Killed and a Large Amount of Property Destroyed.

Later details concerning the earthquake in Spain shows the damage to property and loss of life to be much greater than at first believed. The provinces of Malaga and Granada were the scene of the severest disturbance. Many parts of Albuqueros are in ruins, and 150 persons are believed to have perished. At Artenas del Rey 40 persons were killed. Disasters are reported from other towns. A slight shock has been felt in many places since Thursday. As far as known 200 persons were killed in Andalusia by the recent earthquake.

Official reports show that 266 persons were killed in the province of Malaga and Granada by the recent earthquake. The population of Granada is still encamped on the squares, and the richer classes lodging in their carriages along the promenade. The facade of the cathedral was seriously damaged by the shock. Many houses were destroyed in Jimena, and a whole family were killed in the village of Cajar by the falling of a chimney. Over half the inhabitants of Albunuelas were killed. Alhama is mostly in ruins. The province of Malaga suffered equally as much as Granada. Commerce is paralized. Two hundred houses at Alfarenetzo were damaged. The panic is subsiding. The shock was not felt in the northren and northwest provinces. The government has granted $5,000 from the national calamity fund for the relief of the sufferers in the province of Granada.

Latter advices show that 300 lives were lost at Ahama. Seven hundred and fifty houses and churches destroyed and 30 persons killed at Periana. The town hall and many houses were damaged at Irrox, and the inhabitants fled from the town panic stricken. It is now estimated that 600 persons were killed in the province of Malaca, including those killed at Alhama.

Fresh shocks, more violent than the first, have occurred at Tirrox and Alhama. The panic at those places has been revived.

A WISCONSIN HOTEL HORROR.

An Immense Building Destroyed and Three Lives Lost.

RACINE, Wis., Dec. 28.—The Blake Opera House block, the handsomest and largest here occupied as an opera house, hotel, drug store, restaurant, hardware store and telephone exchange, was burned this morning. Every room in the hotel was filled with guests, and the upper storey was occupied by servants. The hotel contained about sixty persons, all of whom escaped in their night clothes with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Glover, members of Thompson's "Beggar Student Opera Company," and a Mrs. Patrick, chambermaid of the Blake hotel, which is in part of the building. The fire started from an explosion, the cause of which is unknown. When the report was heard the wildest excitement prevailed. Women screamed, men shouted, and ran hither and thither in dismay. Ladies and gentlemen left the hotel in their night clothes, leaving everything of value behind. The members of the opera company lost all their personal effects, valued at $6,000. The loss will aggregate $150,000. Mrs. Dowd, wife of ex-Mayor Dowd, of New York, who occupied apartments in the hotel, lost $5,000 worth of jewels, pictures, etc., and notes and mortgages valued at $20,000. She escaped in her night clothes. A search for the bodies will be commenced in the morning.

A STRANGER in a small town, having lost his way, accosts a gentlemen on the street. "Please, my good man," he says, "tell me the way to the post-office." "I am not a good man," says the person accosted, with conscious dignity; "I am the Mayor."

O'CONNEL, in addressing a jury, having exhausted every ordinary epithet of abuse, stopped for a word, and then added, "this naufrageous ruffian." When afterwards asked the meaning of the word, he confessed he did not know, but said "he thought it sounded well."

KEEN BLADE AGAINST BUCKHORN.

A Fearful Combat Between a Man and an Elk in Wyoming Territory.

Donald Livingston, extensively interested in stock growing in the Bear river country, came in last evening for supplies, and from him we learn the particulars of a terrible combat which took place one day last week near Yampa, between a French-Canadian hunter and trapper named Jacques Braun, and a wounded elk. Braun had surprised a herd of these animals, and drawing a bead on a fat young calf brought it to the earth, and, as he was merely in quest of fresh meat with which to replenish his larder, he allowed the balance of the herd to escape witnout molestation. Leisurely approaching the calf, which was struggling feebly to regain its feet, he drew his hunting knife to cut its throat, and, as he deftly severed its jugular, he turned his head and was astonished to see a large bull elk—evidently one of the band he had just dispersed—rushing towards him at full speed. The animal was a monster in size and sported a pair of antlers of great beauty and of large size, which were lowered, as if their proud possessor was determined to impale the slayer of the calf upon their polished points. Realizing the imminent danger in which he stood, Braun dropped the hunting-knife and seized his rifle, which was lying upon the ground beside him, brought it to his shoulder and fired. In his haste, however, he missed. Before he could fire again—the rifle used was a Winchester—the elk was upon him and he sprang aside, hoping its momentum would carry it far enough to enable him to use the weapon once more. He had not calculated, however, on the immense spread of the animal's antlers, and one of the prongs catching him in the side of his hunting shirt, he was lifted from his feet and carried several paces before the fabric parted, when he fell to the ground.

Springing to his feet he ran to where his rifle was lying, but found that it had been rendered useless by having alighted upon a rock—when hurled from his grasp by the onslaught of the elk—in such a manner as to bend the reloading lever and render it immovable. The elk meanwhile had turned and was again near him, but by a quick spring Braun eluded the charge of the animal and remembering his hunting knife, ran to where it lay beside the dead body of the calf. Grasping the hilt, he had but time to turn when the elk was again upon him, and, seizing one of the antlers of the infuriated animal in his left hand, he endeavored to plunge the knife into its throat. It was now a battle to the death. Braun was dragged about over the sage brush and rocks, the sharp hoofs of the elk's fore feet inflicting frightful wounds on his feet and lower limbs. To let go, he knew, was certain death. Meanwhile he was driving his knife into the neck of the mad bull up to the hilt, stroke after stroke, with an energy born of despair.

Thus the battle raged for almost half an hour, until, weakening from loss of blood, the elk fell upon its side in the throes of death. Braun, who was well nigh dead himself, managed to drag his shattered frame to the side of the brute and with his last remaining strength drove his knife through its heart, then, laying across the still warm body, become unconscious. He regained consciousness soon afterward and after attending to his wounds as best he could set out to crawl to the nearest ranch, but had not proceeded far before he was discovered by a party of cowboys, who tenderly bore him to his cabin. His left leg was broken in two places, and large pieces of flesh had been torn from both lower limbs in several places, while his entire body, save his breast and face, was one mass of bruises and scratches. His right foot was badly crushed. He was getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances when our informant left, but will carry with him to his grave many scars from the wounds received in his battle with the elk.—Rawlins Tribune.

WIT AND WISDOM.

"It's all very well to talk about gas-light, but you don't get it that way in the bill."

When a couple are making love by moonlight their feeling is one of in-fine-night bliss.

The spanked child soon finds out who has the upper hand in the domestic government.

Every man's life lies within the present, for the past is spent and done with, and the future is uncertain.

Courting couples should remember that when the dew begins to fall it's time to come in out of the wet.

A man who saw an apparition of his deceased wife said he was not scared, but sort of surprised, because he didn't ex-spectre.

A young lady who was blamed for allowing her glove to be discovered in a young man's pocket, said she had no hand in it.

So many women are now doing work formerly done by men that the male sex is being driven into matrimony as a means of support.

"Talking about the jaws of death," exclaimed a man who is living with his third scolding wife, "I tell you they are nothing to the jaws of life."

He—"I want you to understand, miss, that you can't make a fool of me." She—"I am not so irreverent as to suppose that I could improve on nature's handiwork."

Young lady teaching Sunday School class—"And who comes after Esther?" (Pause.) "Is it Job?" Pupil—"No, Miss, it's Billy Piper's big brother. I see him every Sunday."

"Dear me, auntie," said a clever girl, spending a gay winter with friends who rose rather early, "it seems to me you tuck me in on one side of the bed, and then walk round to the other end and tell me to get up."

Large Cheeses.

A short time since, W. Heavy & Sons, of Liverpool, received from their agents in Canada a large number of Canadian manufactured cheeses, ranging from 500 to 2,900 lbs. each. The largest one required 2,097 gallons of milk in its manufacture, and this quantity was furnished by 897 cows. The arrangements were effected by Mr. Thomas Miles, of Brantford, the representative of Mr. Walter Hately, formerly of this city. These very large cheeses are not convenient for transport or use, but were manufactured under the direction of Mr. Miles to show what great enterprises can be carried out by Canadian skill and energy. These cheeses were of the richest quality, quite superior to that of the far-famed cheese of Duchess county, in the State of New York, and quite equal to the best English cheese in the British market. Mr. Thomas Miles, we need hardly say, appears to be equal to the occasion, and to be possessed of quite as much enterprise and sound judgment in the management of the business entrusted to him as his predecessor, Mr. Walter Hately.—Brantford Telegram.

Burned at Sea.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Captain Park, of the Boston ship Alert, which was burned at sea Nov. 14, arrived to-day from Para. He says the Alert sailed from New York for Shanghai with forty thousand cases of oil and a crew of 18 persons, besides his wife and child. On the morning of November 14, lightning struck the fore royal mast, which was carried away, and the shock felled the men to the deck. Smoke was soon seen coming from the fore hatch, and on lifting the hatch a suffocating smoke arose. An explosion followed, and all hands were compelled to take to the boats. At night a French steamer hove in sight and rescued the entire party.

John Kelly's Illness.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—For several days the political and social atmosphere of New York has been prevaded by ugly rumors affecting the mental condition of John Kelly. A careful inquiry, however, shows that they are baseless. Kelly has been very sick, but his ailment has been purely physicial. He has been confined to his room at times for several weeks, but during the past fortnight has been out riding and is rapidly mending.

"A Guid New Year to Ane and A'!"

SENSIBLE AND SEASONABLE.

This is particularly the season of giving. Everybody has, or should have, a present to make to somebody else, the question of the hour is "What shall I Give?"

Call and see us, and you will have a hundred answers. The more useful the article—the more appreciated it will be. Now in looking after New Year's Presents, it should be the aim of everyone to select something that will be useful as well as ornamental. Nothing can be more acceptable or appropriate than a Nice Astrachan Mantle, a Lovely Sealette Mantle, a Wool Hood, a Knitted Square, a Pair of Handsome Fur Top Lined Kid Mitts, a Nice Silk Tie, or Handkerchief for each and every body. We have in addition many suitable things for presents FRESH AND INVITING, and as the busy season is drawing to a close, all can be satisfied that they will receive good value for their money.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1884.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Personal.

Mr. T. A. Haultain is in town on a brief visit.

The result of the Christmas examinations of the Divinity Class of Trinity College, Toronto, has been published, and in Class I. Mr. C. B. Beck's name stands fifth.

The Probabilities.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—North-westerly to northerly winds; generally cloudy, colder weather, with light falls of snow in some localities.

Midnight Service.

The usual midnight service will be held in St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, on Wednesday night commencing at the hour of 11.30 p.m. Cards bearing watchwords for the year 1885 will be given at the door to all those who attend. The Rector most cordially invites the attendance of the public at this service.

Consecration Meeting.

On New Year's morning at a quarter to ten o'clock a consecration meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms to be conducted by the Rev. I. Tovell. The Association held a similar meeting last New Year's day, which was much appreciated by those who attended. Everybody, (not only young men) will be heartily welcomed.

JUST received, another lot of White Blankets all sizes, and cheaper than ever. JNO. ERSKINE.

Coming.

The Hamilton Palladium, in speaking of the free gift show that will appear in Bradburn's Opera House on January 2nd and 3rd, says:—

"At Larkin Hall to-night, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to the scenes referred to—a sight of which is worth more than double the price of admission—is Prof. Edmonds magic performance, which are really wonderful, and as a ventriloquist his equal would be hard to find. His wooden people are fluent and comic in speech, and keep the juvenile portion of his audience in estacies."

Let Us Count Them.

As a gentleman, living at the north part of George street, sat quietly smoking his pipe after dinner on Christmas Day and watching through the window the sleighs and cutters full of happiness and merriment passing up and down, a thought struck him,—"I wonder how many rigs will pass this place within an hour?" His wife counted those that drove one way and he counted those that drove the opposite way. At the end of the hour no fewer than than three hundred and twenty-six rigs had passed. Will the streets be as lively on New Years Day?

Social Reception.

Lady friends of the Young Men's Christian Association are making arrangements for holding a social reception to all the young men of the town, on New Year's Day from two until six o'clock. A number of ladies, as well as members of the Association, will be present at the new rooms over the post office to serve refreshments, and make it pleasant for those who call. They give a very free invitation, and no young man in town need fear a cold welcome. No charge is to be made either in the afternoon or in the evening, when there will be given a good programme of music, etc.

"Canada our Home."

Mr. W. H. Rackham, who has interested himself in obtaining suitable situations as farm pupils for a number of young Englishmen, made things pleasant for the young men by inviting them to partake of his hospitality in the way of a genuine English Christmas dinner. Some twenty-five in number of those young men sat down to dinner in Mr. W.H. Chamberlin's restaurant and bodega, on Monday, Dec. 29. The dinner was got up, as above stated, in true English fashion, and those who partook of it, although over three thousand miles from their native land, enjoyed it with a relish—well, as only an Englishman can. After the good things provided had received due attention from the representatives of dear old England, the cloth was removed, and a couple of pleasant hours were spent in toast, speech and song. Mr. Rackham was the object of numerous and complimentary remarks, and was toasted in a right royal manner. The spread was got up in Mr. Chamberlin's well known style—he being a European and consequently thoroughly acquainted with the manners and customs of the Motherland, carried out his portion of the programme in such a way that one and all joined at the close in singing, "He's a jolly good fellow."

New Year's Presents.

SAILSBURY & BRO. have a large variety of elegant articles suitable for New Year's Presents.

SOCIAL AND ENTERTAINMENT.

A Pleasant Evening Spent by a Large Company at the Baptist Church.

In accordance with the notice given a social tea and entertainment was held in the Murray Street Baptist Church on Monday evening. From 5.30 p.m. until shortly before 8 p.m. refreshments continued to be served in the Sunday School room to a large number.

At eight o'clock the company adjourned to the church and filled that place to the doors. An excellent musical programme was rendered and addresses were given. In company with the Rev. A. H. Munro, the pastor, the following gentlemen took seats on the platform. The Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Manning, Bell, St. Dalmas, McAmmond, Bennet and the Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Jarvis Street Church Toronto.

The entertainment was opened by the singing of an anthem by the choir after which a reading was given by the Rev. A. Bell and the Rev. Mr. McAmmond led in prayer. Misses. Roper and Gilmour played a pianoforte duet with finish and execution. The Rev. Mr. Munro briefly addressed the assemblage, thanking them for their hearty support in the enterprise undertaken by his people. He had been very cordially received in Peterborough by all Christian bodies for which he wished to express his gratitude. He then called on Mrs. Chambers to favour the audience with a vocal solo. The solo chosen, "The Better Land," was well fitted to the occasion. She acquitted herself admirably as she also did in a subsequent selection "Oh for the Wings of a Dove."

Mr. James Stratton, at the request of the pastor, gave a financial statement in regard to the church. After a few remarks Mr. Stratton stated that the building in which they now were, together with the grounds cost the sum of $7,000. The sum expended in improvements was $2,500, thus making the cost of the church $9,500. The cushions for the seats were not as yet finished, but would be soon ready. This would be an extra expenditure of $350. It would be all paid off with the exception of $2,100, which, as it was arranged, was not at all burdensome, as it was to be paid off at the rate of $200 per year. There was an income from church property of $100 a year, which would pay half of that amount, so that all that was required of the church people was to raise the $100 each year for a limited number of years. There was an immediate debt, however, of $1,200, which he hoped would be wiped off this same evening. During the evening the Rev. Messrs. McAmmond, Torrance, Manning, St. Dalmas and the Rev. Dr. Thomas, delivered short addresses. Mr. Geo. Schneider, jr., gave a rendition of a pianoforte solo, which gave evidence of his capibilities as a raising musician. In response to a general request he gave another instrumental solo. Miss Gilmour also played a very sweet and touching selection on the piano. Mr. J. Manning sang a very pleasing solo. The choir sang another very effective anthem, and Bro. Wm. Graham moved votes of thanks to the generous friends who had assisted, to the ministers who had delivered such happy addresses, to the ladies and to the choir, all of which were unanimously carried. The meeting was closed by the singing of the Doxology by the assemblage and the pronouncing of the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Bennett.

We are pleased to learn that during the opening services the handsome sum of (approximate) $875 was collected.

Cards.

New Year's Cards, at cost, at SAILSBURY'S.

Social and Tea.

The Ladies Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church intend holding a social and tea on Tuesday, December 30th. A choice programme of singing, reading, &c., has been arranged. Tea served from 6.30 till 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents.

The Old Year and the New.

The old year will be escorted out of, and the year will be introduced into the George and Charlotte Street Methodist Churches on Wednesday night by holding services in both churches. In the George Street Church services will be commenced at 10.30 p.m., and in the Charlotte Street Church at 10 p.m. Addresses will be delivered in the George Street Church by the Rev. (Messrs. Tovell and McAmmond. The Rev. Mr. Manning, the pastor, will conduct the service in the Charlotte Street Church. All will be cordially welcomed.

Chit Chat.

—Soft.

—No skating to-day.

—The snow is disappearing.

—To-morrow will be nomination day for school trustees.

—Don't forget the social at the George Street Methodist Church to-night.

—A few enthusiastic curlers could not leave the "stanes" alone even on such a day as this.

—A channel is being cut through the ice in the creek, as a precaution against a flood. "A stitch in time," etc.

—This will be a happy evening for the St. Andrew's Sunday School children—they are to be indulged in the good things from that inexhaustible Christmas tree.

—There will be a special meeting of the Town Council to-morrow evening for the purpose of appointing Collegiate Institute trustees.

An Old Friend Going.

At midnight, nearly one year ago, 1883 passed away, and as the railroad of time whirled 1883 away from us, it brought to us 1884. We have become so accustomed to reading and writing its name, on our letters, books, and other places, that it is now like an old friend. But it has been passing away from us all the time. As each day came, and as each month arrived, we were reminded that the time was drawing nearer when 1884 would also belong to the past and would live only in memory and history, on love letters, promissory notes, and such things. The end of a year is unquestionably a time for thought. It reminds us strongly that we are approaching nearer our end. Consequently it is a time, not only for "good resolutions," but for actual reform, and a large number of new leaves are turned over at such a time. Are you about to turn over a new leaf, dear sir? Then write upon it, in large letters and with indelible ink, "I will purchase my clothing from Andrew McNeil." Those who have been accustomed to paying too much for clothing, or to buying inferior articles, should now begin to purchase from ANDREW MCNEIL, and all will find it to their advantage to patronize Habiliment Hall.

Bass English Ale.

If you want a delicious glass of Bass' genuine English Ale (October brewing), the proper place to get it is at Chamberlain's Bodega and Restaurant. All our liquors are guaranteed pure and unadulterated. Choice imported and domestic cigars.

Now that Mr. Hilliard is making the best Flour in town, don't forget that you can order it at W. J. Mason's.

A Narrow Escape.

On Monday afternoon a carpenter, named John Wilson, who was working on the new building which is being built for Mr. R. Kingan, on the corner of Hunter and Chambers street, met with an accident in which he narrowly escaped losing his life. The roof of the building slants down from the front to the back, and on Monday it was covered with ice. Mr. Wilson was on the roof at work when he missed his footing and commenced sliding down the long roof. He made desperate efforts to save himself but they were fruitless. He continued to slide with increasing velocity, and in leaving the roof, so great was the speed at which he was going, that he was thrown across an alley way on top of a shed. From the shed he fell to the ground, much bruised and unable to move. He was taken to his home in Ashburnham, and to day we are informed that he is getting along nicely. No bones were broken, but he was severely bruised.

FOR nice, light, white, toothsome buns, cakes, etc., use Hilliard's Patent Flour. W. J. Mason takes orders.

Smith's Market.

First importation of the genuine Florida Oranges, very sweet and choice. Grapes, Apples, Pears, Lemons, Cranberries, Table Raisins (new crop) and Nuts. Oysters by the tin, quart or pail. Park's pure Pork Sausages, Clark's Bologna, Fearmon's Hams and Bacon, English and Canadian Stilton Cheeses, Corn, Peas, Tomatoes, Beans, Peaches, Strawberries, Pears, Cherries, Pine Apples, Salmon, Lobster, Haddie, Mackerel, &c., Jams and Jellies, Finnan Haddies, Smoked and Salted Mackerel, Bloaters, Herrings, Cod, &c., Fluid Beef by the tin or dozen. Canned Meats of all kinds. Green Vegetables, Game, and everything usually kept in places of this kind.

Reduction in Price of Photographs.

On and after Monday, the 21st December, 1884, and until further notice, the scale of prices in our establishments has been changed. Those now in force we hope will meet Toronto photographers or any one else, as we do not mean to allow our reputation to suffer. We invite the attention of cash customers to this change in prices, hoping to bear out our promises to give the best work at the lowest possible rates.

Sweet Apple Cider.

We take pleasure in announcing to our numerous patrons and the public generally that we still hold the exclusive agency for the Belleville Cider Works. This Cider needs no comment from us, as the quantity we sold last year is sufficient proof of pureness and delicacy of flavour. CARTON, BROS., opposite Market Square.

SEND for some of Hilliard's Flour, and you will decide that you can get no better. W. J. Mason will transmit your orders.

A CARD.

In again presenting through the columns of the REVIEW our yearly Card of Thanks to all who have favored us with their patronage in the past, we do so in the hope that the many customers who have given their orders to this establishment since its inauguration, may one and all enjoy not only a very "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year" this season, but that they may have many returns of the same.

The year just drawing to a close has been altogether a prosperous one and one that we have reason to be thankful for. Thanks to the inhabitants of the surrounding county and the citizens of the town, the firm of GIROUX & SULLIVAN can look forward with renewed encouragement to the opening of another year.

In the future, as in the past, it will be the constant aim of this establishment to deal fairly with all who favor them with their custom, and we respectfully ask for a renewal of their patronage for 1885.

*We wish you all "*A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

Respectfully yours,

GIROUX & SULLIVAN.

TRUSTEE NOMINATIONS.

Public School Trustees all Re-elected—Contest for the Separate School Board.

The nomination of candidates to serve for two years in the Public School Board and the Separate School Board took place to-day.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

NO ONE WARD.—Mr. James R. Stratton was nominated by Mr. Enos Dunford and seconded by Mr. George Benton, and was re-elected by acclamation.

NO. TWO WARD.—Mr. W. H. Wrighton was nominated by Mr. C. Stapleton, seconded by Mr. Wm. Cumming. There being no other nominations he was re-elected by acclamation.

NO. THREE WARD.—Dr. George Burnham was nominated by Mr. John McKee, and seconded by Mr. James Henry. No other candidate was proposed, and Dr. Burnham was thus again chosen by acclamation to represent the ward.

NO. FOUR WARD.—Mr. John Sawers was nominated by Mr. John Gamble and seconded by Mr. Edward Thompson. Mr. Sawers was again elected without opposition.

Thus the four gentlemen were all elected to serve for two years more.

THE SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

The nomination of candidates for Separate School Trustees was held in the Murray street school and resulted as follows:

NO. ONE WARD.—Mr. James Henry, elected by acclamation.

NO. TWO WARD.—Mr. W. J. Devlin and Mr. H. Carveth were nominated. There will therefore be a contest in this ward.

NO. THREE WARD.—Mr. Noah Laplante was elected by acclamation.

NO. FOUR WARD.—Mr. John O'Meara was elected by acclamation.

Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. John McGrath and Mr. Thos. Cahill, the retiring members of the Board.

Mr. Cahill and Mr. McGrath acknowledged the vote of thanks in suitable terms, and referred in complimentary language to their successors, Messrs. Henry and O'Meara.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATIONS.

BELMONT.

For Reeve, John Brown was re-elected by acclamation. For Councillors, James Wilde, E. D. Boyd, Robert Burgess, John Vansicle, D. T. Young, Edward Holbrook and Wm. Corneil.

HARVEY.

For Reeve, James Ingram and James Hicks. For Councillors, Charles McIlmoyle, Geo. Brumwell, Robert Shaw, Thomas Flynn, Robt. Tedford, Robert Renwick and James Ingram.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

For Reeve, Joseph Forster was re-elected without opposition. For Councillors the following were nominated:—Robert Dunlop, Wm. Brownscombe, Matthew J. Johnston, John McIntosh and Robert Waterman. Mr. Waterman resigned and the four gentleman first named are therefore elected by acclamation.

Be Prepared.

Have all your seeds in readiness months before wishing to sow them. There are commercial seed-men who have large farms, and every facility for growing seeds of all kinds, for keeping them pure, and for testing their vitality before they are put upon the market. They not only advertise these seeds largely in the Agricultural papers, but they know that they have them. If a man buys these seeds, and gives them fair treatment they will come up, and bear fruit after their kind. If there is failure, the cultivator will know that the trouble is not in the seed grower, but in the seed sower, or in the soil. There will be no chance to ease conscience by blaming the seed grower. It is is a happy day when a man recognizes his own lousy chickens, as they come home to roost. It is a good plan to clear out all old seeds, of uncertain date, from the seed basket, or bag, and start early in the season with a new and genuine stock. We raise some seed with a pedigree, having followed their history for years. Others come from plants that have given maximum crops for one or two years. Every year we get seeds and plants from commercial seedsmen, who have a reputation to lose. It is money well invested. Try it and see. —Wm. Clift.

This ale has received four gold medals at the World's Exposition, Paris, Australia, Philadelphia and Canada. It is kept in one of the best cellars in Canada, and is pleasant to the taste, and at the same time a wholesome beverage.

"Our Girls" are coming out, and "don't you forgot it." Quirk & Co. are bringing them out.

REVIEWS.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.—The January number of Harper has for its frontispiece a scene drawn by E. A. Abbey, one of his series of illustrations of "She Stoops to Conquer." Mr. A. W. Ward gives an account of the career of Wiclif five centuries ago, from which it may be seen how little the English church was disposed to yield in all things to the Roman Pontiff even in those days; the numerous illustrations are highly interesting. In "The Cruise of the Wallowy," Mr. Barney Phillips conducts us to the Florida coast, his pen being liberally aided by the engraver. Mr. Seymour Haden gives a very interesting account of "The Revival of Mezzotint as a Painter's Act." His beautiful specimens of this process serve not only to throw light upon his subject, but also to illustrate the next contribution, a lively description of "The Isle of Purbeck," by Miss J. E. Panton. Mr. John Fisk discourses learnedly on "The Town Meeting," showing how thoroughly municipal institutions lie at the very foundation of the liberties of our race, though they are so little valued by Mr. Mowat, always aiming at the restriction of local self-government. Under the title of "A Pair of Shoes," Mr. H. M. Newhall gives an exhaustive account of a very important industry. One of the most pleasing features of this number is the profusion of illustrated poems, Wordsworth's sonnet on "Long Meg and her Daughters," Gustafson's "Rune of the Vega's Rudder," and Wallace Bruce's "Snow Angel," being thus treated. There are the opening chapters of two new serial stories, "East Angels," by Constance Fennimore Woolson, and "At the Red Glove," both being of the high standard of the fiction in Harper. The editorial departments even surpass their usual merit, and altogether the number is a most promising start for the new year.

"HOLD THE FORT?"

The popular song, "Hold the Fort!" was composed, words and music, by the late lamented P. P. Bliss, and was based upon the following incident, which is related by the gifted evangelist, Major D. W. Whittle: "During October, 1864, just before General Sherman commenced his famous march to the sea, while his army was camped in the neighborhood of Atlanta, the army of Hood, in carefully prepared movement, passed the right flank of Sherman's army, and gaining his rear began the destruction of the railroad leading north, burning the block houses and capturing small garrisons along the line. Sherman's army was put in rapid motion, following Hood, to save the supplies and larger posts, the principal of which was located at Altoona Base, a defile in the Altoona range of mountains, through which ran the railroad. Gen. Corse, of Illinois, was stationed there with a brigade of troops composed of Minnesota and Illinois regiments, in all about 1,500 men. Colonel Tourtelotte was second in command. A million and a half of rations were stored there, and it was highly important that the earthworks commanding the pass and protecting the supplies should be held. General French, with 6,000 men, was detailed by Hood to capture that position. The works were completely surrounded and summoned to surrender. Corse refused and sharp fighting commenced. The defenders were driven into a small fort on the crest on the hill. Many had fallen and the result seemed to render a prolongation of the fight hopeless. At that moment an officer caught sight of a white signal flag, far away across the valley fifteen miles distant, upon the top of Kenesaw Mountain. The signal was answered, and soon a message was waved across from mountain to mountain: "Hold the fort: I am coming." W. T. Sherman. Cheers went up; every man was nerved to the full appreciation of the position, and under a murderous fire, which killed or wounded half the men in the fort—Corse himself being badly wounded three times in the head, Tourtelotte taking the command, though also wounded—they held the fort three hours, until the advance guard of Sherman's army came up and the rebel forces under French were obliged to retreat. As the relator of the story remarks: "No incident of the war illustrates more thrillingly the inspiration imparted by the, knowledg of the presence of the commander, and that he is cognizant of our position; and that, doing our utmost, he will supplant our weakness by speedy reinforcements. So the message of Sherman to the soldiers of Altoona becomes the message of the Great Commander, whose ignals ever to all who fight life's battles, 'Hold the Fort.'"—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

A Montreal Man Dies from Carbolic Acid Taken by Mistake for Spirits.

One of those distressing deaths resulting from "mistake" occurred this morning, in which a highly respectable citizen lost his life in a few moments. Mr. Louis Petit-Jean, who resides on Papineau road, immediately where the railway crosses the latter, and is one of the largest pork dealers and pork feeders for market in the city, went to bed last night in his usual good health. His habit for years past has been to rise early and go out and attend to his pigs. There is also a slaughter yard on his place and the air, taking both together, being none of the purest, it was recommended to him by his physican to take a small glass of wiskey or other alcoholic stimulant before leaving his bedroom in order to prepare him for the noxious odours it was his business to encounter in the out-houses. This morning he rose and from a number of bottles of family medicines which were on the table selected one supposed in the hurry to contain gin. He had scarcely swallowed it when he called for his daughter saying he was poisoned, pointing to the bottle from which he had just drunk. The young woman was horrified to find that it was a bottle of carbolic acid of the purest and strongest kind, which had been brought to the house for cleansing purposes. The unfortunate man in a few moments became past medical relief, and although Dr. Piche, the family physician, was promptly on the spot, expired in ten minutes from drinking the poison There will be an inquest at 7 o'clock to-night.—Montreal Star, Dec 29.

A Fairy Tale told in the West.

A farmer in the eastern part of the state missed a couple of his cows some time ago and a diligent search and notices in the county papers failed to bring them to light. Yesterday, however, while in the field, he noticed a hole in one side of a pumpkin, and on getting a lantern and going in he found the lost cows quietly eating pumpkin seeds and getting fat. The hole in the fruit was caused by the rapid growth of the vines, which had dragged it along over the ground for half a mile.—Kansas Teetotaler.

Dear Ellen has just exhumed them from a cupboard, where they are alwas kept when dear aunts not expected.—Punch's Almanac.

REVIEWING THE TROOPS.

CAIRO, Dec. 30.—A Korti despatch, dated this evening, says Gen. Stewart's expedition is six miles distant. Lord Wolseley accompanied the troops for a mile, and then reviewed them as they marched past.

DEFEAT OF THE BISHAREENS.

SUAKIM, Dec. 30.—The Bishareens were defeated, many being killed, while trying to raid the town of Rowayat.

ADVANCE OF TROOPS.

KORTI, Dec. 30.—The march of the British expedition past this place was an imposing sight. The column was nearly a hundred yards wide and a mile long. The Hussars were sent ahead to prepare tea, but took a wrong path. After a march of ten miles the troops halted for an hours' rest. The men were compelled to go without tea, and bore up cheerfully. The march was resumed by moonlight. The troops hope to reach the first wells by eight o'clock in the morning.

THE CROFTERS' RESISTANCE.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—A Stoanoway, Scotland, despatch says eight crofters, committed for trial, were to day released on bail and escorted around town by crowds of people, accompanied by a band and a number of pipers. The boatmen refuse to ferry process servers. Sheriffs' officers and their assistants were knocked down and seriously injured by 200 crofters at Glendale.

STEWART'S COLUMN.

KORTI, Dec. 30.—Native servants refuse to accompany Gen. Stewart's column, but are willing to accompany Gen. Earle's. This shows the opinion of the natives relative to the dangers of the two expeditions. It is feared that in case of a sudden attack the obstinacy of the camels will be a source of danger. It is reported that the Monazers are advancing to dispute the narrow pass at Dargoyat. Gen. Earle's orders will allow him to extend a helping hand to Gen. Stewart, if necessary. Lord Wolseley's plans are severely criticized as being reckless.

A FRENCH ADVANCE.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Official Tonquin advices report the French forces advanced from Tuy en Quan and defeated the Chinese, inflicting severe losses. The French loss was trifling.

CHARGES AGAINST SPENCER.

DUBLIN, Dec. 30.—M. Biggar, M.P., speaking last night at Bolton, advised Irishmen to disown the Whigs. He said Earl Spencer had hanged a number of men whom he knew to be innocent. Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Campbell-Bannerman knew Earl Spencer was a scoundrel. The members of the Irish National League were entitled to the thanks of Irishmen for exposing the rascality of the Irish executive.

THE IRISH NATIONALISTS.

DUBLIN, Dec. 30.—The conference of the Nationalists of Dublin county, with the Mayor presiding, was held at Dublin to-day. The principle of paying the Irish members of Parliament was approved of. Mr. Clancy, editor of the Irish Nation, was nominated to represent Dublin in the House of Commons. In his address, Mr. Clancy said any other nation, persecuted as Ireland is, would expel the English and substitute an Irish Government. He declared the Orange Tory reign in Ireland was over.

A CONGO MONARCHY.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—The formation of a Congo monarchy under a German prince has been discussed at court circles in Berlin.

FIGHTING PIRATES.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Gen. De l'Isle telegraphs that he has been fighting pirates near Kongyea for several days and killed 300 men and captured two guns. The French troops are in excellent health and spirits.

HOSTILITY TO ENGLAND.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—It is thought the appointment of Baron Ring, to succeed Marquis de Noailles, as French Ambassador to Turkey, indicates diplomatic hostilities at Constantinople against England.

BISMARCK AND FERRY.

BERLIN, Dec. 30.—Prince Bismarck is about to go to San Remo with his family for six weeks. Arrangements have been made for a private interview between Prince Bismarck and M. Ferry at San Remo.

MR. HEALY'S ADDRESS.

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Mr. Healy, M. P., in an address at Glasgow yesterday, denounced Mr. Campbell Bannerman, Chief Secretary for Ireland, who, he said, knew no more about Ireland than he (Mr. Healy) knew about Scotland. "How would Scotchmen," he said, "like me to rule Scotland through scoundrels, robbers, and men guilty of unspeakable offences?" Mr. Healy said he would rather accompany Joe. Brady to the gallows than sink into the prisoner's dock in company with Cornwall and French. Mr. Healy condemned the O'Donovan Rossa policy as criminal and stupid, but he said he understood it, because Rossa had been reared among Irish people and knew their wrongs.

Daily Evening Review

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1884.

THE OLD YEAR AND THE NEW.

As we write the old year is rapidly drawing to a close, and 1884 will soon be added to the domain of history. It is only natural then to take a retrospect of the past twelve months, and to dwell with feelings of regret or satisfaction upon the events that have marked that period. For the individual these reminiscences may be painful or joyous, according to the varied experience of human affairs—1884 may be a date to be remembered with pleasure or pain.

As a community we have reason to be satisfied. Our good town has continued to make its wonted progress. The opening of a new railway, connecting us directly with both the Dominion and Provincial capitals, and placing us upon both of our great trunk lines, has improved our means of communication and given a sensible impetus to our business. The introduction of electric lighting, following that of the telephone and of water works, has maintained our position as being at least as far advanced in the progress of civilization as our sister towns. New buildings or additions to old ones, some of a public and others of a private nature, have been constructed at a cost of nearly a quarter of a million, thus adding materially to the growth of our town. The establishment of a Board of Health, which has made at least a good beginning, is another evidence of enlightened progress. The business of our town, in its many various branches, has been in a flourishing condition, for which we may be the more thankful as we compare it with the less satisfactory reports from some quarters. The country also has fairly reason to be satisfied as well as the town, for if prices are not altogether what they might wish, a good harvest has placed our farmers in a not unenviable position. In short if there has been no very striking advance or unprecedented good fortune the past year has given our people good cause to congratulate themselves.

For ourselves we have striven successfully to keep pace with the progress around us. Following upon the formation of the Peterborough REVIEW Printing and Publishing Company (Limited) great improvements have been made in our office. New machinery has been added, included the largest and finest press in this district. The WEEKLY REVIEW has been increased in size till it is now the largest paper in Ontario, exceeding any of the Toronto papers. The DAILY REVIEW has also been materially enlarged to meet the growing demands upon our space. Other improvements and additions have been made in our staff, in our machinery, plant and stock in every department, so as to keep our establishment in its position in the van of the provincial printing offices and journals. These efforts on our part have been appreciated, as has been shown by a marked increase in our advertising patronage, in our subscription list, and in the business of our job office and our bindery. We have therefore every reason to be satisfied with the past year, and to be grateful to our friends and the public for their support.

Leaving local considerations and taking a more extended view, the people of Canada may well look back upon 1884 with content. Some slight depression there has undoubtedly been, but under the statesmanlike rule of the Macdonald Administration and its wise regard for the wants of the country, the depression has been less felt here than either in the mother country or the great republic to the south of us. Our great national highway is making unexampled progress, our vast territory is being settled, and its value is being demonstrated so fully as to counteract the falsehoods of factious detractors. From a party point of view we have the satisfaction of knowing that the Conservative administration with its enormous majority has rather gained than lost strength, thus reversing the almost invariable experience. We have seen our leader, the foremost statesman of Canada, receiving new honors from our sovereign, and accorded a welcome by both parties in the old country that gave him fresh opportunities of serving the Dominion. We have witnessed such a reception given to him at Toronto, in recognition of his 40 years service to Canada, as surpassed any previous demonstration in this country. And there too we beheld the leading men of the most important provinces of the Dominion, vying in love for our country, and in supporting its unity without the interference of petty sectional jealousies.

Looking still further afield over the glorious empire to which we are proud to belong, we have seen the Australian colonies taking fresh steps for following our example by confederating themselves. In the same waters we have witnessed a large part of the great island of New Guinea annexed to the empire. In the mother country they have had their warm political contests, but both parties agree at least in showing their increased appreciation of Canada. They have also had the usual "little wars," not immediately affecting Canada, but we are even by them reminded of our common flag, by the presence of a contingent in which Peterborough is represented among the forces of the Empire upon the historic Nile.

After a glance back over the past, it is equally natural at this epoch to look forward. We can do so with hope. The prospect is bright for our Dominion, for our Province, and for our own town and county. That the general prosperity which we may fairly anticipate will be the individual lot of our friends and readers is our cordial hope. We wish them one and all

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

A fine assortment of MEN'S UNDERCLOTHING, Socks, Scarfs and Ties, Kid Gloves and Mitts, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs. J. ERSKINE.

THE Toronto organ of the Reformers says that Mr. Chapleau "dared to talk independence" at the Toronto Conservative Convention. If the Globe means that Mr. Chapleau said anything in favor of severing our connection with the British Empire, it is mistaken, for he did not.

THE Globe announces dates on which several prominent Reformers will appear in Lennox. But it does not announce the time when the "mysterious stranger" may be expected, nor does it say whether he is now in the constituency. It was he who did the most to gain the Reform majority for the party at the previous election, and one would therefore think that his movements would be of more importance than those of the gentleman who are named. The organ will perhaps wait and, if he is successful this time, allow his doings to be chronicled, as before, in the Court reports.

NEW ORLEANS EXHIBITION.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—For the benefit of those who intend visiting the exposition from Peterborough and vicinity I lose no time in dropping you a line respecting its present state and probable progress towards completion. The formal opening which took place on the 16th of December should not be allowed to delude anyone into thinking that the exhibits are in place, or anything, even the buildings, completed, for such is not the case. On Tuesday last, my first visit, we found scarcely one exhibit on the whole ground complete, and hundreds not yet arrived or standing in cases on the floors of the various buildings unopened, and in many instances with no one at work on them.

The machinery department is especially behindhand. Only two engines were in motion in the main building, and the others were in various stages of erection, but all very far from completion. Thousands of feet of shafting have still to be erected, and the Hearns, E. P. Allis, and other saw mills, will require at least two months to get running. I would strongly advise anyone coming with only limited time at their disposal to wait until about the first of March, otherwise they will be grievously disappointed. There is an evident want of vim and energy in the management, which reflects itself in the motions of every darkie at work on the place, and the result is very slow progress. The best way for those coming here who have not friends to stay with is to go on arrival to the public information and accommodation bureau of the exposition at 164, Gravier street. It can be reached in a few minutes from the Jackson depot by street cars. There a list of respectable stopping places can be had free, where either lodgings or full board can be obtained at from $7 to $15 per week for a good furnished room, or from $1.50 to $3 per day for full board. The favorite plan with most visitors seems to be to take rooms and get meals at restaurants, of which there are great numbers. This is the most independent plan. Others have oil stoves and board themselves in their rooms. Several families are doing this in this house at present. The temperature here now is very like the month of May in Canada. Monday last was about 80°; since that it has been cooler, and to-day an overcoat is desirable.

Last evening was the most remarkable Christmas eve I ever spent. Everyone in the city seemed to be trying how much noise they could make. About 9 p.m. we went down to Canal street, the principal street in the city. There one would think the whole population had taken leave of their senses. There must have been at least ten thousand people on the street, which was brilliantly lighted by electric light. About every second one of these had a tin dinner horn, some of them so large that it took three to carry them, or a cow bell, or a drum, or a kazoo, and everyone was making all the noise they could with these instruments; men, women and children, all were going in for a grand row. This appears to be an annual occurrence, and is a mild outbreak of the Mardigras excitement which will be at its height in February. This noise continued all night, with fireworks blazing and bands playing, making it almost impossible for those inclined to be quiet to get any rest.

I shall go on to Jacksonville and Florida about the end of the week and will not return here before March 1st, and by that date the Exposition will be well worth coming to see. Should our trips be fruitful of incidents likely to interest Peterborough readers, I will write again. Wishing you and your readers a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year,

I remain yours very truly,
W. J. N.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25, 1884.

RATHER STARTLING.

A Prestidigitator's Ghostly Mechanical Scarf Pin.

A harmless yet ghastly scarf pin is a mechanical skull of enamelled gold, with a movable under jaw and with diamonds set back in its hollow sockets for eyes. Prof. J. A. Schultz, the prestidigitator, wore one on a recent visit to the city hall. The little ornament was a marvel of the jeweller's art. It was enamelled in perfect imitation of a bleached human skull, and a bright-colored gold jockey cap fixed to the top of it added to its ghastliness. A reporter for the Mail and Express had his eyes upon the skull while the professor was talking to an alderman, when suddenly the under jaw of the skull began to rattle and the diamonds in the eye sockets rolled and flashed. The chattering of the jaws could be plainly heard ten feet away and was calculated to draw attention. The alderman and the reporter observed the chattering about the same instant. It had a fascinating and awe-inspiring effect upon the city father who stood spell-bound for an instant and then acted as though he doubted his vision. The chattering and eyerolling would stop for a moment, as though the skull was tired by the exertion of rattling its tiny teeth together, only to be renewed the next moment with more vigor. Finally the reporter's professional instinct got the better of him and he sought the professor to tell him all about the arrangement. The latter complied with a hearty laugh over the effect of his little joke.

"In the first place," said he, "the skull is worked by a current of electricity generated by a little battery which I carry in my pocket, and transmitted over wires no heavier than strands of thread."

He illustrated the working of the ornament by pressing upon a button, which completed the electric circuit and caused the teeth to rattle.

"It was made in Paris," continued Mr. Schultz, "and is worth $100; at least that is what its duplicate will cost any person who wants one. Yes, the price is rather steep, but you must consider that the ornament has to be very carefully and nicely adjusted, and that it is made of platinum and the best of gold; besides, the diamonds alone are of some value. No. No cheap counterfeits have yet been made. The lowest priced one I ever saw was marked at $65.—New York Mail.

The Horseshoe's Luck.

Now that the horseshoe, as a pretty symbol of good luck, forms so much a part of household decoration, it may not be amiss to say a word about its signification in the olden times. The horseshoe was anciently believed to be an effectual protection against witchcraft and witches, who could no more overcome the sanctity of its semi circular form than they could the movement of a stream which even the most powerful could not cross, if in the shape of a running brook, as witness the race of Tam O'Shanter, who, pursued by them, passed the keystone of the bridge itself, while the tale of his good mare, on the wrong side thereof, became the prey of the pursuing warlocks. We have seen the horseshoe nailed to the lintel of barns and the masts of vessels, for a witch, mounted on her broomstick, might take it into her head to descend upon some unlucky croft, or she might call up the surging waves to engulf it, unless it were protected by this holy symbol. For a horse to cast a shoe was a bad omen when a gallant knight was about to start upon some expedition; hence, if a horse stumbled, which he would do if imperfectly shod, it was unlucky. We do not in our day beleive in witches or bad signs, but everybody is pleased with the good luck implied in the finding of a horseshoe. —Brooklyn Magazine.

TO THE ELECTORS of LAKEFIELD.

GENTLEMEN:—

Having received at your hands the position of Reeve, which I have held for the past five years, I again solicit your support. When I accepted the position I found the Municipality liable for a large amount. I to-day find you placed in the proud position of not owing a dollar, with a considerable surplus on hand, and a lower rate of taxation. As one of yourselves my earnest desire is the immediate progress of the village, so that at an early date it may become a town. If you consider my opponent a more progressive man, elect him. By doing so, if he is a more progressive man, you will help me, as I am the largest ratepayer, but I think you will agree with me that he is not, and will in the interests of the village, irrespective of party, which I never allowed to bias me in Municipal affairs, give me your hearty support.

EXPERIENCE.

"Calvert, Texas,
May 3, 1882.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

as a cough remedy.

"While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

"I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the PECTORAL constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases. J. W. WHITLEY."

Thousands of testimonials certify to the prompt cure of all bronchial and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

BADLY HURT.

How badly the Reformers were hurt by the Toronto convention is shown by the bad language they use in speaking of it. They have at the sense to hide their wounds.—Hamilton Spectator.

HOT HEADED REFORMERS.

Some of the hot heads of Manitoba are again talking rebellion and secession. One would think that the injury they did themselves last winter in passing the anti-emigration resolutions would act as a check to future mad freaks.—Port Arthur Herald (Indep. Ref.).

THE LIBERTY STATUE.

It does not say much for American patriotism that at this late day the Bartholdi Statue Committee should be asking for $3,500 subscriptions from the public—and $100,000 from the Government, to complete the pedestal. If "Liberty" cannot find a resting place for the sole of her foot in the United States of America without a Government subsidy she had better remain in France.—Montreal Star.

NOT A REFORM EXODUS.

Nearly eighty French-Canadian families have passed through the city on their way home from the United States. The commercial depression now being experienced in the New England States is the cause of this repatriation.—Montreal Times (Ref.)

POLITICAL FEELING IN MANITOBA.

Mr. Norquay may repeat as often as occasion requires, the assurance of support which Manitoba is at all times prepared to extend to the veteran statesman at the head of Federal affairs. He can rest assured that the electors of the Province will not only vote confidence in Sir John whenever called upon, but that the same confidence will be extended to himself as long as he persues his present course.—Winnipeg Times.

OUR LARGE DOMINION.

How many members, for instance, does our Imperial Parliament contain at this moment who have familiarised themselves with the prodigious thought that when an English traveller reaches one of the western-most towns of the Dominion of Canada—some fifteen hundred miles distant from the spot where, upon the eastern verge of the North American continent, his foot first touches British soil—a splendid expanse of land, two thousand miles broad, still intervenes before his eye will rest upon the Pacific Ocean? Again, how many school boys at Eton and Harrow, which seats of learning have begun at length to teach geography in earnest to their alumni, have mastered the astonishing fact that British North America, including the shores of the Polar Sea, and the young colony of British Columbia, comprises an area of little less than four million square miles, or nearly a ninth part of the whole terrestrial surface of the globe.—London (Eng.) Telegraph.

TOO STUPID.

Even from the narrow political standpoint the Grits, in trying to intensify the feeling of despression and destroy confidence in the future, are acting in a foolish and short-sited manner. There is nothing that has done more to discredit Gritism among men of liberal and progressive tendencies than the inveterate habit of its organs of always looking on the dark side and magnifying prevalent evils. But the Globe is too stupid to realize the harm that it is inflicting on its party by the mean and discreditable method of attacking its adversaries.—Toronto News (Indep.)

HEAD BIGGER THAN THE BODY.

Strange Malformation of a Tennesse Girl.

A remarkable case of hydrocephalus was discovered near Chicamauga, 12 miles from this city, says a Chattanoga despatch to the Kansas City Times. Nineteen years ago there was born to the wife of Armour Dibbens a lovely girl baby. When the child had reached the age of three months, an unnatural growth of head began to develop, which continued until the child was 2 years of age; when it had assumed alarming proportions. The general health of the child was good, though at the end of two years the growth ceased, having attained the remarkable dimensions of 31½ inches across the forehead and 27 inches across the crown of the head from ear to ear. The face of this remarkable being is no larger than that of an ordinary person, while the head looks as large as a water bucket. The length of the body, now, if straightened, would not be over three feet, and about the dimensions of a well-developed two-year-old child; the whole body is horribly deformed, the hips being drawn back until they nearly reach the shoulders, the bending of the spine drawing back the lower extremities. There is but little flesh on the legs, the thighs being not over three inches in circumference. The arms are but little larger than pipe-stems, and are also nearly devoid of flesh. The body will not weigh as much as the head, the whole weighing not over forty pounds. The features are frightful to look upon, being terribly out of shape, the teeth projecting far beyond the lips. The hair is flaxen, about two feet long, very coarse, and lies in wild profusion around the head of the unfortunate being. For 17 years since her present growth, the girl has never been able to move her body, but can move her hands and feet, having little strength, however, in those limbs. At times she shows some intelligence, and can make her wants known to her mother. At times she tries to talk, her voice resembling that of a parrot. One peculiarity is that, owing to the extraordinary protuberance of her eyes, she can follow the movements of any person in the room, being able to see all passing at the head of her bed. The girl's health is good, except that she is subject to occasional fits or spasms. She sleeps well, but her devoted mother remains constantly with her. Hydrocephalus is caused by an accumulation of water in the interstices of the brain and head. Many physicians here consider this the most remarkable case known to medical science. While the disease is common in medical practice cases are rarely cured except in infants. Death generally ensues in a few years at furthest. When this case began to develop the best medical talent of the vicinity was obtained, but nothing could be done, and the parents took the child to Fort Smith, Ark., physicians there stating that to tap and draw water from the head would cause instant death.

An Oyster Whips a Duck.

A rough and tumble combat between a wild duck and an oyster occurred here to-day. The duck was a large and full grown one that had recently come from the north to enjoy our winter climate. It was of the diving species, which inhabit the bays till the spring, when they return north. When the oyster feeds it opens its shell wide, till the full oyster is plainly visible. A sight of such a morsel was too much for the duck. He made a headlong plunge, inserted its bill between the oyster's open shell. Like a flash, and with the power of a vice, the shell closed on the duck's beak. Then came the struggle for life. The oyster, which was quite a large one, was dragged from its bed with three smaller ones clinging to it, the cluster being heavy enough to keep the duck's head under water. In this way the duck drowned. Its buoyancy was sufficient to float with the oysters, and thus drifted near the shore, where it was captured. When taken out of the water the animal warmth had not left the duck. The oyster still clung to the duck's beak.—Corpus Christi Call.

BLAIRTON.

A CHRISTMAS CONCERT.—A concert was held in the school-house on Christmas night in aid of the funds of the Methodist church. The attendance was large, and the entertainment was a superior one. The programme was a long one and each of those who took part did credit to themselves. Although all did well, it might be excusable to mention the admirable manner in which Miss Kelly and Miss Hetherington gave their recitings. The singing was also good.

NEW CHEESE FACTORY.—Mr. Potter proposes establishing a cheese factory at the village and has received such encouragement that its success is assured.

L. O. L.—The officers of Blairton L.O.L. for the year are:—John Bonar, W. M.; George Boyd, D. M.; Rev. I. W. Puffer, Chaplain; Robert Bonar, Secretary; W. J. Armstrong, Fin. Sec.; Norman Terrell, Treasurer; Wm. Eggleton, D. of C.

CRUEL PRACTICAL JOKING.

A Crank Believes He is to Be in President Cleveland's Cabinet.

Eugene C. Austin is a well-to-do farmer living near Attica, Wyoming county, N.Y. He is 40 years old and a man of fine personal appearance. While perfectly rational and capable in every other way, he believes that his genius as a politician has made him one of the most prominent figures in the country. His father, a wealthy farmer 80 years of age, shares in his belief, and during the past five years has spent thousands of dollars in furthering the political advancement of his son. This eccentricity of the two men has been encouraged by thoughtless persons, who find amusement in the extravagances into which the singular mania of the Austins lead them.

In 1879 the elder Austin assured the son that he could secure the Republican nomination for member of the Assembly. He furnished the money with which the canvass was to be made. He bought a tally-ho coach and engaged a brass band of ten pieces. For weeks the younger Austin drove the coach, four-in-hand, through the country, the band riding inside. Mock demonstrations in his behalf were held in many places, at which he made speeches. This freak cost several thousand dollars.

After the election of Garfield the elder Austin urged his son to go to Mentor and present and urge his claims to a foreign mission. The son did so, the old gentleman paying all the expenses of the trip. The failure to obtain the appointment was charged by both father and son to the treachery of trusted friends, and they renounced allegiance to the Republicans.

In 1883 a strange man and woman appeared at the Austin farm. They said they were man and wife, and had come from Canada as ambassadors from Lord Halford, who had been attracted to the younger Austin by the fame he had made in political circles in the States, and who desired to have him become the husband of his only daughter, the rich and beautiful Lady Anne. Old Mr. Austin furnished funds to these two strangers to return to Canada and arrange for the marriage, and subsequently sent them hundreds of dollars, which they said was necessary in the preliminary formalities of the proposed wedding. These two swindlers were evidently aided by parties in Attica, who shared in the money obtained from the credulous father and son; and when the story of their operations became known, friends of the Austins interfered and stopped the game.

CAMPBELLFORD.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Christmas night Mr. M. Galvin, of this village, and Miss Dalton were returning from Warkworth. The horse which Mr. Galvin drove ran away, and when near Mr. West's, a couple of miles from the village, the occupants of the vehicle were thrown out. They laid in the snow for some time, until a gentleman who was driving along the road saw them. He got assistance from Mr. West's and the two injured persons were cared for. Mr. Galvin's injuries did not prove to be of a serious nature, but Miss Dalton received a severe injury on the head by falling on something, and she remained unconscious for hours. The horse was found a short distance from where the accident occurred, and it was coated with ice, as the night was a cold one.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

An Illustrated Weekly.

The serial and short stories in Harper's Young People have all the dramatic interest that juvenile fiction can possess, while they are wholly free from what is pernicious or vulgarly sensational. The humorous stories and pictures are full of innocent fun, and the papers on natural history and science, travel, and the facts of life, are by writers whose names give the best assurance of accuracy and value. Illustrated papers on athletic sports, games, and pastimes give full information on these points. There is nothing cheap but its price.

New Year's Reception.

Young men are again reminded that they are invited to make one of their calls to-morrow at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms, where the lady friends and members of the Association will be receiving. For the evening an interesting programme of music, readings, &c., has been arranged. Among those to take part are the Misses Smith, Stephens and Ellsworth, and Messrs. Duff, Miller and Beattie. Mr. John Miller will give an exhibition of mind reading, if he has sufficiently recovered from his late illness. Visitors will be shown through the new rooms of the Association. The reception will be the formal opening of the parlor furnished by the ladies.

New Year's Presents.

SAILSBURY & BRO. have a large variety of elegant articles suitable for New Year's Presents.

Real Estate Sale.

On January 14th Mr. C. Stapleton will hold a large real estate sale for Mr. C. W. Sawers at the Canada Pacific Hotel. A large number of town lots will be offered for sale, consisting of fourteen parcels. This will be an important sale, and dealers in real estate should note the date of the sale in their diaries

Consecration Meeting.

All members of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the public generally, are invited to attend the consecration meeting to be held to-morrow morning at a quarter to ten o'clock. It will be conducted by the Rev. I. Tovell, and will probably be a profitable meeting. It is open to ladies, who will receive a cordial welcome.

Colder To-Morrow.

The weather probabilities for this district for the following twenty-four hours, counting from one o'clock this morning, as reported from the Toronto Observatory, are as follows:—South veering to south-west winds, increasing in force, cloudy, continued mild weather, with occasional rains, followed to-night or to-morrow by north and north-west gales and colder weather, with snow.

St. Andrew's Sunday School.

On Tuesday evening a Christmas tree festival was held in the Sunday School of St. Andrew's Church. The place was filled with scholars, teachers and friends. The school room had been very tastefully decorated by the young people belonging to the church, and it presented a very cheery appearance. The windows were fringed with evergreens; on the walls were hung at intervals bannerettes bearing appropriate mottos, while just below the platform stood those cone shaped articles which struck joy into the hearts of all the children—two Christmas trees. The room was illuminated by Chinese lanterns, while the trees blazed with myriads of wax candles, lighting up the numerous presents which hung from the limbs. A very good programme of music and recitation was carried out by members of the junior classes in a manner which reflected credit on all concerned. After the programme had been gone through, the children were wrought up to a high state of excitement; Santa Claus in person appeared on the scene, and helped to distribute the good things taken from the trees and given to the children.

A Successful Social.

On Tuesday evening a social was held in the Sunday School of the George Street Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. A tea was served from 5 30 p.m. until after 7 p.m. A large number of people patronized the tables, which were well laden with good things, and after a lull of a short time, which clearly showed that all were satisfied, preparations were made for the carrying out of an excellent programme. After the opening exercises the pastor of the church, the Rev. I. Tovell, delivered a short address. Miss May Davidson gave a pianoforte solo, and a recitation was given by Miss Mary Fife. A vocal solo by Miss Mary Ellsworth was the third number on the programme. Miss Rose Clarke recited "The Brakeman and the Church," and in response to an encore she recited another piece entitled "Annie's and Willie's Prayer." MRS. Duff and her two little children contributed a very interesting pianoforte trio. "Dora," a reading, was given by the Rev. T. Manning, after which Miss Stephens sang a solo. Miss Clarke rendered an instrumental solo, Mrs. Kendry gave a recitation, "Which Shall It Be," and the programme was ended by a solo from the President of the Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. T. Bradburn. The doxolygy was sung and the assemblage dispersed, much pleased with the way in which the evening had been spent.

THE BANQUET to Sir John was undoubtedly a grand affair, the only thing lacking was that the caterers did not use Hilliard's Blythe Mills Flours.

"Love and Matrimony."

On Tuesday evening a lecture on the above mentioned subject was delivered in Bradburn's Opera House by Prof. O. S. Fowler. The audience was small, but they seemed thoroughly to enjoy the interesting lecture. The Professor was listened to with attention, and he made his statements very clear to everyone. He maintained the quality of love had a powerful influence over all the functions of both mind and body, and clearly showed by numerous examples that such was the case. As the socket was made for the eye and the course for the river, so was the ordinance of marriage made as a channel in which pure love should flow, and in no other channel could it flow. The lecturer then dwelt at length on the way to select husbands and wives. If men were extreme in one quality they should marry a woman having qualities of the opposite character. A very tall man should marry a very short woman; a very coarse man should marry a very refined woman; a very combative man should marry a very mild woman; and a red-haired man should marry a jet black haired woman, thus would their progeny be brought back to a happy medium, and would have well balanced intellects. At the conclusion of the lecture the professor examined the head of our worthy townsman, M. C. W. Sawers. He stated that Mr. Sawers was inclined to writing and speaking; he was sufficiently combative, and he was a man who would doubtless rise in the world. The Professor even went so far as to give Mr. Sawers an accurate description of his wife.

An Old Friend Going.

At midnight, nearly one year ago, 1883 passed away, and as the railroad of time whirled 1883 away from us, it brought to us 1884. We have become so accustomed to reading and writing its name, on our letters, books, and other places, that it is now like an old friend. But it has been passing away from us all the time. As each day came, and as each month arrived, we were reminded that the time was drawing nearer when 1884 would also belong to the past and would live only in memory and history, on love letters, promissory notes, and such things. The end of a year is unquestionably a time for thought. It reminds us strongly that we are approaching nearer our end. Consequently it is a time, not only for "good resolutions," but for actual reform, and a large number of new leaves are turned over at such a time. Are you about to turn over a new leaf, dear sir? Then write upon it, in large letters and with indelible ink, "I will purchase my clothing from Andrew McNeil." Those who have been accustomed to paying too much for clothing, or to buying inferior articles, should now begin to purchase from ANDREW MCNEIL, and all will find it to their advantage to patronize Habiliment Hall.

Bass English Ale.

If you want a delicious glass of Bass' genuine English Ale (October brewing), the proper place to get it is at Chamberlain's Bodega and Restaurant. All our liquors are guaranteed pure and unadulterated. Choice imported and domestic cigars.

Park's pure Pork Sausages, Clark's Bolognas, Fearmon's Hams and Bacon, English and Canadian Stilton Cheeses, Corn, Peas, Tomatoes, Beans, Peaches, Strawberries, Pears, Cherries, Pine Apples, Salmon, Lobster, Haddie, Mackerel, &c., Jams and Jellies, Finnan Haddies, Smoked and Salted Mackerel, Bloaters, Herrings, Cod, &c., Fluid Beef by the tin or dozen. Canned Meats of all kinds. Green Vegetables, Game, and everything usually kept in places of this kind.

Reduction in Price of Photographs.

On and after Monday, the 21st December, 1884, and until further notice, the scale of prices in our establishments has been changed. Those now in force we hope will meet Toronto photographers or any one else, as we do not mean to allow our reputation to suffer. We invite the attention of cash customers to this change in prices, hoping to bear out our promises to give the best work at the lowest possible rates.

GEO. B. SPROULE.
MRS. H. ESTERBROOK.

Sweet Apple Cider.

We take pleasure in announcing to our numerous patrons and the public generally that we still hold the exclusive agency for the Belleville Cider Works. This Cider needs no comment from us, as the quantity we sold last year is sufficient proof of pureness and delicacy of flavour. CARTON, BROS., opposite Market Square.

SEND for some of Hilliard's Flour, and you will decide that you can get no better. W. J. Mason will transmit your orders.

A New Way to Pay Old Debts.

Shakespeare tells how this can be accomplished in one of his immortal plays; but debts to nature must be paid on demand unless days of grace be obtained through the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a "cure-all" but invaluable for sore throat, bronchits, asthma, catarrh, consumption, and all diseases of the pulmonary and other organs, caused by scrofula or "bad blood." Scrofulous ulcers, swellings and tumors are cured by its wonderful alterative action. By druggists.
